MAYOR FITZGERALD'S ADDRESS.

Tbe Mayor, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, tben delivered his address to tbe City Council, as follows:

Gentlemen of tbe City Council,—We do not meet in tbis room to-day as untried companions, embarking upon some novel adventure. The Council Cbamber itself, tbe inauguration ceremony, the forms of organization, the duties and problems to whicb all tbese are merely a preface and a setting, are familiar to most of us. The cbange tbat has occurred is tbe least that could possibly occur,—one new face among so many. Yet this occasion marks the close of an important period and coincides with tbe fresb start made annually in every city department. I am glad to avail myself of tbe opportunity it affords for expressions of mutual confidence and understanding, as well as for reviews, forecasts and comparisons in tbe public matters which have been entrusted to our care.

Financial Statement.

Precedent and custom require that on tbese occasions your chief magistrate sbould account to you, and tbrougb you to tbe citizens, for bis stewardship during the municipal year; sbould, in other words, present a succinct summary of tbe finances of tbe city. Not every citizen realizes bow limited a stewardship tbe mayor of Boston enjoys, bow far from absolute is bis control over a large share of the city's expenditures. Yet, even with state, metropolitan, county, police and school bills presented to us for payment witbout any effective power of supervision, we are able to report a progress seldom paralleled during tbe past fiscal year.

Tbe amount of tbe appropriations recommended by me at tbe beginning of tbe year, and voted by your bonorable body substantially as recommended, was a moderate one. Altbougb the law would bave permitted a total appropriation of $20,327,586.93, the amount allowed fell short of tbis by $1,141,469, a margin never equaled and seldom approacbed since a tax limit was prescribed by statute.

As a result of our prudence in tbe expenditure of the public money, tbe tax rate was reduced from $16.50 to $16.40 per tbousand. This is tbe lowest tax rate but one among tbe cities of tbe state and nearly $3 lower tban tbe average tax rate among tbe cities of tbe metropolitan district. But tbe real reduction was a mucb more considerable one. Last year, for tbe first time, tbe Scbool Committee voted to expend more tban balf a million, or 40 cents upon $1,000, from tbe tax levy for land and buildings for scbools. Had tbey followed tbe usual practice and contented tbemselves witb tbe loan funds allowed tbem by tbe Legislature tbe tax rate would bave been not $16.40 but $16. Tbe increase of 10 cents allowed them over 1909 migbt also be deducted, leaving tbe tax rate, on the 1909 basis, only $15.90.

Last year, moreover, some $350,000 was appropriated from taxes and revenue for construction, principally for improvements at tbe City Hospital, for tbe new ferryboat, and upon tbe repair of bridges. Under tbe financial metbods whicb were in vogue in former years the money for tbese items would bave been borrowed and an additional 25 cents would bave been subtracted from tbe tax rate, making it only $15.65 per tbousand.

Any citizen wbo is disposed to question my aritbmetic needs only to examine his tax bills for tbe last ten or twelve years. He will find printed upon tbe face of the bill for 1910 tbe following statement:

State tax	$2 40
County tax	1 10
City tax	12 90
Total	$16 40

Not since 1903 has the city tax been so low as $12.90 per tbousand.

Tbe large surplus left by my predecessor received much commendation. I trust tbat a similar disposition to give credit wbere credit is due will be displayed in the comments upon our own unexpended balance, which exceeds tbat of 1909 by over half a million dollars. At tbe close of Mayor Hibbard's administration tbere remained in the city treasury tbe sum of $955,388.68. The year 1911 will open most auspiciously with a balance of $1,486,805.83, tbe largest amount of casb on band at the close of any fiscal year since Boston became a city. Tbis was due in part to economies practiced in tbe city departments, from many of wbicb a considerable surplus was returned to tbe treasury; in part to increased collections due to tbe admirable work of tbe Collector's Department, and in part to receipts from tbe corporation and street railway taxes, as well as otber sources of revenue, beyond the amounts estimated at the beginning of tbe year.

Of the borrowing capacity, estimated at $3,774,045.71 on February 1, 1910, about $1,036,545.71 remained intact on January 1, 1911. The estimated borrowing capacity for the coming year will, in consequence, be larger than if the total for last year had been exhausted, and will amount to $3,780,983.47. But not a dollar of this sum can be considered superfluous. In fact, a large portion of it is virtually pledged in advance for the following items:

Separate system of drainage (now required by statute), about.....	$700,000 00
Ordinary loan for construction of sewers.....	300,000 00
Ordinary loan for construction of streets.....	300,000 00
Schoolhouse loan.....	500,000 00
High School of Commerce loan.....	250,000 00
Total.....	$2,050,000 00

Nor do these items complete the tally of our probable expenditures. The Chelsea North Bridge must be completed in 1911 at an estimated cost of $250,000, and the settlement of the claim of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad for damages sustained through the construction of Cove Street Bridge may impose another $750,000 upon us. If the system of high pressure service for fighting fires is adopted at an annual cost of not less than $150,000, a new contagious diseases ward building is constructed at a cost of $300,000, and a City Hall annex is erected on the site of the old Court House at an estimated cost of $1,100,000, it is obvious that even were there no other calls upon the treasury it would be necessary to go outside the debt limit to meet these legitimate and, as many believe, imperative demands.

But to deny that there are other demands no less legitimate is to fly in the face of common knowledge and of expert testimony. I have made an attempt, for example, by means of a petition and bill now before the General Court, to reduce to a maximum of $400,000 the total of the annual loan for a separate system of drainage, now amounting to about $700,000 and mandatory upon the city through a previous act of the Legislature. Our engineers do not believe that the full amount is necessary or can be advantageously expended. Yet, coupled with their protest against this unnecessary expenditure, is an urgent request for a loan of $500,000 instead of the usual $300,000 for ordinary sewer construction in different parts of the city. Similarly, the Street Commissioners report that, instead of $300,000 a year, the sum of $1,000,000 a year could be expended for the next ten years in the laying out and construction of highways, and every thinking citizen knows that if the funds were available there is no better use to which they could be put. Subways are demanded in every direction,— to South Boston and Dorchester, through the West End, along Boylston street, from Park street to the South Station, to say nothing of tunnels under the harbor; but for all these the credit of the city must be pledged, bonds must be sold and an increase, apparent at least, must be made in the total debt of the city. Whether this debt is incurred inside or outside of the debt limit makes no difference whatever after the obligation has been assumed.

Neither in the status of the city debt nor in the outlook for a moderate tax levy is there any encouragement to recklessness, though in both a candid student will discover, I think, some cause for satisfaction.

The Work of the Year.

A revised charter, which, while imposing many restrictions, some of them salutary, others questionable, upon the officers of the government, also opened new opportunities for constructive achievement, has given an impetus felt throughout every department, and evoked signs of activity and progress where in the past too often inertia has been an unwritten law. The creation of a new Department of Public Works, combining the former Engineering, Street and Water Departments, has met with almost unanimous approval. Town meetings, so called, have been held in the different sections of the city. Through these conferences the citizens and the government have been brought more closely together, and the interest of the Improvement Associations, both local and general, in public questions has been stimulated. Many of the criticisms and suggestions offered by these associations have been found to possess value and their co-operation should be welcomed by all city officials. Thus the movement for cleaner streets received a marked impetus from its enthusiastic advocacy by the Women's Municipal League, which has also interested itself in the question of refuse disposal. The Chamber of Commerce drafted and favored a measure before the Legislature last year designed to mitigate the smoke nuisance. The "Safer and Saner Fourth" was satisfactorily inaugurated in 1910 by the Boston-1915 organization. A bill for better sidewalks, now before the Legislature, is the result of an agitation maintained, if not initiated, by the United Improvement Association. The City Council has before it an ordinance codifying and amending the regulations as to shade trees, prepared by the Boston Society of Architects, and another, relating to the hours during which children may frequent certain sections of the city unaccompanied, submitted by the Home and School Association. Personally, I look upon this activity among the citizens' associations as a hopeful sign and believe it may be traced in part to the awakening caused by the tour of the city made by the Mayor and the City Council last spring.

Work of the City Departments.

Among the more important of the city departments there have been many evidences of activity. In the Park and Public Grounds Departments, for example, the income of the Parkman Fund has been devoted to the renovation of the soil of Boston Common, and to the creation of a zoological garden at Franklin Park and an aquarium at Marine Park. When these institutions are completed Boston will no longer be without these means of public recreation and instruction, one or both of which exist in practically every other leading American city. A large sum has been expended by the Park Department upon the improvement of playgrounds.

The Fire Department has built a new fireboat for service in the northern portion of the harbor; has arranged a system of inspection intended to prevent fires as well as to detect them in their early stages; has identified itself with the movement for metropolitan mutual aid, which seeks to unify the fire-fighting forces over the whole metropolitan district; and is now engaged in advocating measures of far-reaching importance before the Legislature,—bills for the regulation of garages, lumber wharves and explosives, and for the installation of a high pressure water service.

The Board of Health has adopted a system of dairy inspection by which its employees visit and inspect all dairies furnishing milk for consumption in Boston, traveling as far as New York and Canada in the performance of their duties. It has made a regulation abolishing the dip tank and requiring all milk to be sold in capped bottles. By the employment of special nurses it has established a closer surveillance over the isolation and care of cases of contagious diseases.

The Hospital Department has carried on the work of fireproofing its main buildings and engine room, a measure of safety which has been necessary for several years, and has acquired a site for the new building intended to care for cases of contagious diseases. In connection with the work of this department efforts have been made to secure from the trustees of the Robert B. Brigham and the Peter Brigham Hospitals statements of their plans, as it is obvious that the expenditures of the city for relief to the sick must be graduated according to the expenditures of the various private agencies. As yet these efforts have been unavailing, but there is reason to hope that through the investigation started by a committee of your honorable body and the publicity which has been given to the whole matter thereby, information will be forthcoming upon which the city may base its own policy in hospital appropriations.

The Consumptives' Hospital Department has completed a new ward building and a women's cottage building, both unexcelled in their appointments and their adaptation to the needs of this class of patients.

The Public Buildings Department has practically completed the new gymnasium, swimming pool and bath house on the site of Curtis Hall, and has plans for the reconstruction of the Blossom street wardroom as a gymnasium and bath house for the West End, as well as for municipal buildings in the different sections in which they are notoriously needed.

Through the Board of Street Commissioners the city has co-operated with the Copley Square Trust in securing the erection of a great new hotel on the site of the old Art Museum, and with the Park Square Real Estate Trust in its efforts to redeem from stagnation the territory formerly occupied by the Boston and Providence Railroad station and yard. The completion of this important work may involve changes in St. James avenue and Providence, Arlington, Ferdinand and Pleasant streets, and should lead to the opening up for business uses of the extensive area tributary to Park square. In connection with the construction of new streets an important amendment to the constitution was passed by the Legislature at its last session, and will come before it for a second vote at the present session before being submitted finally to the people for ratification or rejection. This amendment, which was proposed by me, provides that the Legislature may, by special acts, authorize the city to take more land than is needed for actual construction for the laying out, widening or relocating of highways, and will enable many necessary street improvements to be made, of which the cost would otherwise be prohibitive.

In the Bath Department the completion of the Paris Street Gymnasium, one of the finest of its kind in the world, is only one of several progressive achievements. Plans are now in hand which will make the L Street Bath House even more useful to its legion of patrons.

The annual report of the Children's Institutions Department for 1909 contained an opinion, submitted by a minority of the trustees, that the Suffolk School for Boys should be abandoned. Their recommendation was referred to the Finance Commission on September 24, 1910, and the commission has recently sent a report indorsing the attitude of the minority of the trustees, and even going much further in recommending a transfer of the functions of the Children's Institutions Department to the state. This question will undoubtedly come before your honorable body in one form or another during the coming year.

The Street Department has been especially active and in almost every division improved methods have been tested and adopted when found successful. Two sewer yards have been consolidated, and new apparatus has been installed at the Calf Pasture pumping station. Between eight and nine linear miles of cement sidewalks have been laid on newly constructed streets, and for the first time in recent years a new ferryboat has been built out of tax money.

All this has been accomplished without any great strain upon the financial resources of the city. The increase in the pay rolls for the fiscal year has been only $420,702.35, and of this total $225,108.93 is accounted for by the Police Department and the School Committee, over which the Mayor has little or no control. The net increase in departments under his control is only $195,593.42, which is less than half of the total increase and which barely keeps pace with the normal growth of the city in population and valuation and the constantly increasing demands made upon the various departments.

Work to be Accomplished.

Passing over the work of other departments no less worthy of mention, I take this opportunity to call attention to certain needs of the city not irrelevant to the activities of your honorable body. Foremost among these, in my opinion, is a pension system which will care for the aged employees in the city service, while permitting of their replacement by younger and more vigorous workers. The pressing problem of the rapid, yet economical installation of water meters, so that various classes of citizens may not pay at different rates for the same service and the same quantities of water, should be taken up at an early date. A new ordinance is required regulating the fees for bay windows, marquises, vaults and similar projections under and over the streets. I have recommended, and still believe, that the residence of the late George Francis Parkman should be acquired by the city and held as a memorial building, while at the same time serving as a headquarters for certain departments. Should the Department of Public Recreation be established, its office might appropriately be located in the home of Mr. Parkman, who left almost his entire fortune for the improvement of the city parks.

Upon the broader questions of dock and harbor development, railway service, transportation facilities, metropolitan activities and charges, the increased use of Charles River Basin, a federated Greater Boston, and the like, want of time forbids any extended presentation of views, yet I see no impropriety in reminding you that these are subjects of basic interest to the community which we represent, and, provided we do not neglect our prescribed functions, any criticism made upon us should be directed against a deficiency and not an excess of interest and of energy. The functions of government are expanding, and the official who performs them to the satisfaction of the people to-day will hardly be one who permits himself to be tied in the straight-jacket of routine.

Conclusion.

One of my first official acts, gentlemen, will be to submit to you the estimates of the city departments with the amounts recommended by me for each. Once the budget for the year is determined, it will be our duty to see that every dollar appropriated is so expended as to yield the maximum of return in conscientious and intelligent service. I do not myself doubt that such is generally the case. Possessing a wider and more intimate acquaintance with the heads of city departments and the men occupying responsible positions under them than some who have decried the value of their services, I do not hesitate to say that they are, as a class, underpaid. The clerks, laborers and other subordinates are, on the whole, faithful and honest, and those who are not will find no favor under this administration.

I trust, gentlemen, that Boston will have no need to be ashamed of our labors and that the judgment passed upon our record a twelvemonth hence will be a favorable one. Let us dedicate and rededicate our best efforts to the welfare of the city which has honored us. For it is surely no mean distinction to have been called to the public service of the City of Boston. (Applause.)

The order was passed.

A permit was granted on the usual conditions.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, I move a recess subject to the call of the Chair until later in the day.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, as we have elected a City Clerk, why would it not be well to elect the other officers aside from the president at this time, before we take a recess?

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, that is perfectly agreeable to me, if it is to the others, and I withdraw my motion so as to allow the other officers to be elected at this time.

ELECTION OF CLERK OF COMMITTEES.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That John F. Dever be employed as Clerk of Committees of the City Council until otherwise ordered, at a salary of $2,500 per annum, said salary to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

CITY HALL ANNEX.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 6, 1911.

To the City Council:

I desire to recommend, for passage by your honorable body, the accompanying order appropriating $800,000 from the cash surplus in the treasury for the erection of an annex to City Hall on the present site of the Old Court House.

The city now meets a large annual loss from the lack of proper and modern accommodations for the carrying on of its work. It now pays a yearly rental of $50,755 for leased quarters occupied by the various departments. A considerable yearly saving would be effected and there would be a decided gain in operating efficiency if all these scattered departments could be housed in one modern structure. To that end I have submitted for your consideration this proposition to apply $800,000 of the existing surplus to the erection of an eleven-story office building on a site immediately adjacent to the present City Hall. This site, which is now owned by the city, would furnish about 125,000 square feet of floor space, which is more than sufficient for all present needs, and its use for this purpose would permit the sale of the Probate Building on Tremont street and Court square, valued at from $400,000 to $450,000, and of the School Committee Building on Mason street, valued at $250,000. It has been roughly estimated that for the sum recommended an eleven-story modern office building, with an arcade connection with the present City Hall, could be erected. The present site of the Old Court House is valued at about $1,000,000. The total cost, therefore, of the investment to the city, including the value of the land and of the new buildings, would be about $1,800,000. The city would acquire about 125,000 square feet of office space, which is easily worth, at the present rate of rentals paid for offices in modern buildings, $1.50 a foot per year, making a total rental value of about $187,500, equivalent to 10.4 per cent gross return on the total investment.

The following figures show in detail the advantage to the city of the proposed new municipal office building. It will be observed that about 28,000 square feet of floor area, or more than one-fifth of the entire new building, will not be required for the departments now housed outside of City Hall, and may be used to relieve the congestion which exists in some of the larger and growing departments.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That from the cash surplus in the treasury there be appropriated the sum of eight hundred thousand dollars ($800,000), to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings for the erection of an annex to City Hall on the site of the present Old Court House.

Municipal Building.

Total space in new building (eleven stories high, to connect by arch with City Hall)		125,000 sq. ft.
Offices now leased by departments (including police and license board) which may and should be accommodated in new building	42,868 sq. ft.
Buildings occupied by departments which may be accommodated in new building, thus leaving the city free to sell or lease such buildings. (The School Committee, Mason street; Probate Building, Court square and Tremont street; and Wire Department building, Wareham street)	22,911 sq. ft.
Present occupants of Old Court House take	31,465 sq. ft.
Balance of space in new building, which may be used by several of the departments now in City Hall, such as Street Commissioners and Board of Public Works, etc.	27,756 sq. ft.
	125,000 sq. ft.

Rent now paid by city for above leased offices, including taxes assumed by Police Department,	$50,755 00
Taxes assumed by city on real estate occupied by Wire Department, School Committee and on Probate Building	10,319 00
Interest at 4½ per cent which city is losing on market value of above real estate	30,825 00
Annual cost to city under present arrangement	$91,899 00
To this should be added a charge for space used by present occupants of Old Court House who would be accommodated in new building (31,465 square feet at $1.50 a foot per year)	57,195 00
Value of surplus space in new building which could be occupied by departments now in City Hall (27,756 square feet at $1.50 a foot per year)	41,634 00
Total gross return to city on account of new building.	$190,728 00

Or 10.4 per cent on $1,800,000, an approximate value for land and new building.

LETTER FROM LAURENCE MINOT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 2, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to forward a letter from Laurence Minot, Esq., president of the Park Square Real Estate Trust, relating to the proposed extension of Arlington street from Boylston street to Providence street and thence to Columbus avenue, over land now owned completely, or almost completely, by the trust.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston, January 30, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In December, 1909, at a public hearing given by the Street Commissioners on the question of extending Arlington street from Boylston street to Castle square, I stated, on behalf of the trustees of the Park Square Real Estate Trust, that if the city deemed it desirable in the public interest that such an extension should be made, the trustees stood ready to co-operate with the city in every reasonable and proper way toward carrying out the improvement. While this extension seems to have met with general favor on the part of the public, no steps have been taken, so far as I am aware, by the city toward making it. Some time ago the trustees of the Park Square Real Estate Trust filed with the Street Commissioners a plan for the extension of Arlington street on their own land at their own expense from Columbus avenue to Providence street on lines which would permit of an ultimate extension from Boylston street to Castle square. The plans were approved by the Street Commissioners and yourself and the street has been built to rough grade and we expect to pave it during the coming summer.

The trustees of the Park Square Real Estate Trust recently purchased and now own the estates 314 and 318 Boylston street, which would necessarily be taken if Arlington street is extended further. The leases on the Boylston street property expire on the first of June next, and, in view of the fact that the city has taken no steps for extending Arlington street, I am having plans prepared for rebuilding on the Boylston street lots. It seems to me only proper that I should advise you of this action on our part and call your attention to the fact that the time is rapidly passing when this extension can be made. I assume from the fact that nothing has been done that you have come to the conclusion that public necessity does not require that the street should be extended and I am, therefore, proceeding with the development of the Park square property in accordance with existing conditions.

Yours respectfully,
LAURENCE MINOT.

Referred to the Executive Committee, when appointed.

PRECINCT LINES, WARD 20.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 4, 1911.

To the City Council:

The inclosed communication from the chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners informs me that, owing to an excess in the number of registered voters at the last annual city election above the maximum of 1,000, it becomes necessary for your honorable body to make a division of Precinct 6, Ward 20, into two or more voting precincts, or a new division of the entire ward, and is hereby transmitted for such action as may seem to be appropriate under the circumstances.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Board of Election Commissioners,
Old Court House, Court Square,
Boston, February 2, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor:

Dear Sir,—Section 191 of chapter 560 of the Acts of 1907 provides, in part: "If a voting precinct shall in any year, according to such registration, contain more than one thousand voters the aldermen shall in like manner either divide such precinct into two or more voting precincts, or shall make a new division of the ward into voting precincts, so that no precinct shall contain more than one thousand voters." The words "such registration" quoted above refer to the registration of voters at the preceding annual city election.

We respectfully call to your attention that according to the registration of voters at the preceding annual city election in Ward 20, Precinct 6, this precinct contains 1,024 registered voters.

It would be extremely inconvenient for the listing of male residents and the preparation of the voting lists if this division was not completed on or before March 1, 1911. We respectfully suggest, therefore, that the City Council take this matter up at once and this department will be glad to render any assistance in its power.

Respectfully,
BOARD OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS,
JOHN M. MINTON, Chairman.

Referred to the Executive Committee, when appointed.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the several committees of this City Council, when appointed, be authorized to resume consideration of the unfinished business referred from last year.

Passed.

MINORS' LICENSES.

The Chair submitted applications for minors' licenses from seventy-three newsboys, three bootblacks and three venders, and licenses were granted on the usual conditions.

POLE LOCATIONS.

Copies of orders were received from the Street Commissioners granting pole location on Pope's Hill street, Ward 24, to Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, and permission to place signal box on Main street, Charlestown, to Police Commissioner.

Placed on file.

CONSTRUCTION OF MARSH STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,
February 3, 1911.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Replying to your order of the 12th of December last, requesting an estimate of the cost of constructing Marsh street, Dorchester, from Granite avenue to Highland avenue, I am directed by the Board of Street Commissioners to submit the following:

Land and grade damages	$15,000
Construction	35,000
Total	$50,000

This estimate is exclusive of sewerage works. Marsh street is of varying width, approximating 40 feet. The plans provide for a street 50 feet wide and the figures are for a street of this width, including also its extension to Highland avenue.

Very truly yours,
J. J. O'CALLAGHAN, Secretary.

Referred to the Committee on Finance, when appointed.

TIME OF MEETING.

Coun. McDONALD offered an order—That, until otherwise ordered, Monday of each week, at three o'clock p. m., be the day and hour when regular meetings of this Council shall be held.

Passed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. HALE the Board refused a general reconsideration of all action taken to-day.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. KENNY, at 12.58 p. m., to meet on Monday, February 13, at 3 p. m., unless sooner called together by the Chair.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of City Council.

Monday, February 13, 1911.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at three o'clock p. m., Coun. BALLANTYNE, senior member, presiding. Absent—Coun. Curley.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. McDONALD, to dispense with the reading of the records of the last meeting.

CHAIRMAN OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, I move that a temporary chairman of the Executive Committee be appointed.

The motion was carried and the Chair appointed as temporary chairman Coun. Hale.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE MAYOR.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

Subject to confirmation by your honorable body, I appoint the following named persons to be Weighers of Coal for the term ending April 30, 1911:

William J. Doyle (Long Island, Boston Harbor), Everett S. Hamlin (105 Mountfort street, Ward 11), Daniel F. Hurley (Long Island, Boston Harbor) and George A. Whitten (Hotel Oxford, Huntington avenue).

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Laid over under the law.

SALE OF FIREBOAT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

The accompanying letter from the Fire Commissioner, requesting permission to sell the old fireboat, formerly known as Engine 31, for the sum of twenty-five hundred and fifty-five dollars ($2,555), to Thomas Butler & Co., the highest bidders for the purchase of said boat, is hereby approved, and I recommend the passage of the accompanying order authorizing this sale.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Headquarters Fire Department,
Boston, February 7, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Sir,— In accordance with section 14 of the Revised Ordinances of the City of Boston, I have the honor to request permission from the City Council to sell old Fireboat No. 31 for the sum of $2,555 to Thomas Butler & Co., the proceeds of this sale to be applied to the appropriation of the Fire Department.

Proposals for selling this boat, in whole or in part, were advertised for in the issues of the City Record of January 14, 21 and 28. I inclose a copy of the list of bids received.

I have had the boat appraised by Robert H. Fraser, consulting engineer and marine surveyor, and also by the Superintendent of Supplies of the City of Boston, in conjunction with Mr. Peterson, of Berthelson & Peterson, ship builders. They both agree that $2,555 is a fair price for the boat in its present dilapidated and worn-out condition.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES D. DALY,
Fire Commissioner.

City of Boston,
Headquarters Fire Commissioner,
February 7, 1911.

Bids for the purchase of hull, etc., of fireboat:

William S. Nolan	$866 98
James F. Nolan	1,315 00
Joseph L. Searfoss	1,925 00
Boston Contracting Company	1,965 00
Louis Miller Company, Inc	2,277 88
Thomas Butler & Co	2,555 00

Ordered, That the Fire Commissioner be, and hereby is, authorized to sell the old fireboat, formerly known as Engine 31, for the sum of twenty-five hundred and fifty-five dollars ($2,555) to Thomas Butler & Co., the highest bidders for the purchase of said boat.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

QUARTERS FOR FIREBOAT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I desire to recommend the passage of the accompanying loan order for five thousand dollars ($5,000) for the erection of quarters for Engine 31, the new fireboat. The letter of the Fire Commissioner, attached hereto, explains that the previous appropriation of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) is insufficient, as the lowest bids for the dock and the building exceed that sum by about two thousand dollars ($2,000), and certain other expenses remain unprovided for.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Headquarters Fire Department,
February 7, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Sir,— I desire to forward again a list of bids received for erecting quarters for Engine 31, the new fireboat of this department.

The appropriation for quarters, wharf, etc., for this boat amounts to $15,000. This department has already entered into a contract for preparing a dock for the boat for the sum of $6,300. The lowest bid for the building is $10,400. These two figures combined exceed the appropriation of $15,000 by about $2,000. In order, therefore, that we may proceed at once with this building, I request that the City Council appropriate $5,000 additional, to cover the necessary expenditures for the building and the architect's fees.

I beg to point out that the dredging and docking job was let at a figure under the City Engineer's estimate, and that the building is of a size sufficient to provide quarters for fifteen men.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES D. DALY,
Fire Commissioner.

City of Boston,
Headquarters Fire Department,
February 7, 1911.

Bids for quarters for Engine 31:

Christopher F. Brown	$10,400
C. S. Cunningham & Sons Construction Company	10,786
John J. Flynn	10,969
Thomas H. Hanlon	11,702
A. Varnerin Company	12,000
Ardoline & Pizzano	12,290
A. B. Carter	13,000
Ford & Denning	13,997

Ordered, That the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) additional be hereby appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the Fire Commissioner for new quarters for fireboat, Boston side, and that to meet such appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance, when appointed.

ABANDONMENT OF LANDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the Commissioner of Public Works, together with a notice to your honorable body and an order relating to the abandonment of a strip of land 6 feet in width, taken for sewerage purposes, between May street and the Arborway. The order has my approval and I respectfully recommend that it be passed by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Public Works Department.

To the Mayor:

Sir,—In accordance with chapter 25, section 50, of the Revised Laws of Massachusetts, I inclose herewith a notice to the City Council that land and easement taken for sewerage purposes by the Board of Street Commissioners on November 21, 1898, between May street and the Arborway, situated in that part of Boston formerly West Roxbury, and now in my charge, is, in my opinion, no longer required for public purposes.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Public Works Department.

To the City Council:

The Commissioner of Public Works, now having charge of an easement in a strip of land 6 feet in width, between May street and the Arborway, in that part of Boston formerly West Roxbury, taken for sewerage purposes by the Board of Street Commissioners on November 21, 1898, hereby notifies your honorable body that, in his opinion, said land and easement is no longer required for public purposes.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

City of Boston.
In City Council.

Whereas, the Board of Street Commissioners, by an order passed on November 21, 1898, took a strip of land 6 feet in width for sewerage purposes between May street and the Arborway, in that part of Boston formerly West Roxbury, from Theresa May; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Public Works, now having charge of said land and easement, has notified the City Council that the said land and easement so taken is no longer required for public purposes; it is hereby Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and he is hereby authorized in the name and behalf of the city and in accordance with the provisions of chapter 25, section 50, of the Revised Laws of Massachusetts, to declare the right and easement so taken to be abandoned, said declaration of abandonment to be made for a nominal consideration. Said strip of land being shown on a plan deposited in the office of the Public Works Department, Sewer and Water Division, Sewer Service, and marked "City of Boston, Plan No. 28, Sewerage Works, May street, West Roxbury, May 18, 1898, John E. Cheney, Acting City Engineer."

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands when appointed.

INVESTIGATION OF SUBJECTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

In the report of the Library Trustees for the year 1910 the following statement is made:

"In respect to the buildings used for branches, we are on the whole behind any other important city in the Union. We have no branch library building so constructed as to be furnished with the utmost efficiency and economy and with the best service for the public.

"We invite the attention of the City Council especially to the matter of better accommodations for some of our branch libraries and reading room stations, particularly at Charlestown, East Boston, Ward 6, and in the district served by the Broadway Extension Reading Room."

I find a general demand expressed at the district meetings not only for library branches and stations but for new playgrounds, municipal buildings, courthouses and police stations and other similar improvements, and would respectfully suggest that as soon as your honorable body has completed its organization special committees be appointed to consider the following subjects:

Branch Libraries.
District Municipal Buildings.
New Playgrounds.
New Courthouses and Police Stations.
The Need of New Streets.
Transportation Problems.
Public Health and Hospitals.
Convenience Stations.
Laws and Ordinances Relating to the Supervision of Minors.

Such committees would find a great deal to occupy them in the study of these problems, and the preliminary investigations which they would make would do much to clarify the various subjects and expedite such action as may be found to be necessary.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ABOLITION OF CONSUMPTIVES' HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I desire to recommend, for passage by your honorable body, the accompanying ordinance, abolishing the Consumptives' Hospital Department and transferring its powers and duties to the Board of Health. This is done in accordance with a recommendation made by the Trustees of the Consumptives' Hospital Department in a report to the Mayor under date of September 15, 1910, a copy of which is transmitted herewith.

The Consumptives' Hospital Department was created by the city government on my recommendation, and came into office on May 1, 1906. Since that time this department has been at work on the problem of fighting consumption and has made most commendable progress. At the present time there are accommodations in hospitals owned by the City of Boston at Mattapan for approximately 200 patients in the advanced or dying stage, besides day camp accommodations for 150 more, with 100 beds for advanced cases hired in private hospitals. The Dispensary at Burroughs place has examined to date upwards of 9,000 persons, and its staff of twenty-five nurses are visiting each year about 1,200 families in which tuberculosis exists.

The policy which these trustees have followed from the first was suggested by the best experts that could be consulted, and is probably setting the example for the rest of the world in this particular field. The trustees now find that they have made such progress that their work is impinging on that of the Board of Health, and, in the interest of economical and efficient administration, they believe that the Consumptives' Hospital Department should be under the control and management of that Board. Such a consolidation will in their opinion greatly increase the effectiveness of the work being done, not alone for consumption, but for the public health generally. The trustees feel that the extension of the work of the Consumptives' Hospital Department, under present conditions, would duplicate effort and expense. Inasmuch as this change must be made sometime, and the Consumptives' Hospital Department is now so organized that it can be transferred as a division of the Board of Health, I concur with the trustees in their opinion, and recommend that this ordinance be passed by your honorable body at the earliest moment.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston Consumptives' Hospital,
Trustees' Office, 926 Tremont Building,
September 15, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor of Boston,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—Sufficient time has now elapsed since the beginning of the work of the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees, in 1907, to enable the Board definitely to outline its plans for the future, and to advise the city government just what this work means and the financial burden it entails.

The work of constructing hospitals for the advanced cases should, in the opinion of the Board, proceed until there is provided at Mattapan a minimum total of 200 beds for consumptives in the advanced stage, i. e., those who are dying.

For less advanced patients for whom there is little if any hope of recovery, and for whom as a menace to the community its interests require that they should be treated away from their homes, there should be provided a minimum of 200 beds.

The dying cases require a hospital of the general type of the two concrete wards already completed, and having accommodations for about 120 patients. One more building of this type is needed at an approximate cost of $90,000.

The length of the stay in the hospital of these dying cases will not average more than four months each.

For the less advanced cases, buildings of the general type of the two cottage ward buildings already erected, which now have 50 beds, should be erected to accommodate a total of 200 patients. The erection of these additional buildings is estimated to cost approximately $75,000.

A pressing need are beds for cases in children who will not be permitted in the public schools. These wards should have at least 50 beds estimated to cost $50,000.

The necessary additions for administration building, admission building and nurses' quarters; the proper up-keep and maintenance of the farm to supply milk and vegetables to the patients and allow them such opportunity for labor as shall be directed by the physicians is included in the following table:

One more concrete building for dying cases, which when completed will give a total minimum bed capacity for cases of this type, of 200 cases	$90,000
For completion of accommodations for 150 more patients in the cottage ward type of hospital	75,000
To construct wards for care of 50 children,	50,000
Additions to domestic, administration and admission buildings, and nurses' quarters	100,000
For repairs on grounds, machinery, etc., and incidentals	50,000
	$365,000

During the next five years there will be required an average annual maintenance appropriation of at least $225,000. This estimate includes the care in private hosiptals of patients whom the city treated in these hospitals at a cost of $8 a week, under a law which allows the city to hire 100 beds in this manner, which permission expires in 1916.

These figures also contemplate the continuance of the Out-Patient Department at Burroughs place, on practically its present basis. The possible establishment of other dispensaries in various parts of the city similar to that of the Burroughs place Out-Patient Department, at which consumptives may come to be treated by physicians, and from which dispensaries the visiting nurses may go out to spread the doctrine of health education in the homes, where it is most needed, is a matter for future consideration. The educational work of the visiting nurse is most important. Latterly her province has been extended and strengthened, in making her a special agent of the Board of Health. In this capacity she visits all patients reported to the Board of Health and makes careful investigation of the home conditions. This co-operation with the Board of Health puts the sanitary inspection of the home of the consumptive on a firm basis.

The work outlined above, i. e., the care of the advanced cases and the Out-Patient Department for the education and supervision in the home by nurses and physicians, is that which all the authorities in this country and Europe are agreed is the most necessary work to do. It being true that the care of the advanced case is the necessary work to be done, it follows that it should be persisted in until it is reasonably accomplished. To digress into side paths of fragmentary effort is only to delay progress and to interfere with the job in hand.

In the hospital treatment of the advanced cases, the trustees are dealing with the effect of tuberculosis. In the Out-Patient Department we deal with cause as well as effect, but along scientific lines. If any substantial progress is to be made by the city in conquering tuberculosis, the whole question of cause must be gone into and considered from the standpoint of the annual loss to citizens involved, the amount of money already invested and the amount the city can afford to spend. In another year the City of Boston will have spent a million dollars in its tuberculosis work, which, under a strictly business organization, would be certainly under the control of the central health authority in the city—the Board of Health. The Consumptives' Hospital work has been established by an auxiliary health board for this special purpose, and otherwise would probably not have been begun, but the amount of money invested, and the annual maintenance required, demands in future a more business-like organization of all the health activities to co-ordinate effort and increase efficiency.

One of the great mysteries that must appeal to every person who studies health work in Boston is how the laxity in the enforcement of the general health laws of the state, and the twofold burden of expense in health matters which Boston has been compelled to bear, has been so long tolerated. As a result of a petition by the Mayor of Boston, this matter of reorganizing the health administration and of the strict and equal enforcement in Massachusetts of the laws of the state by the State Board of Health, especially in regard to tuberculosis, is now being investigated by a state commission appointed by act of the last Legislature. If this work is properly carried out and adequate recommendations made and adopted, it will mean a more vigorous enforcement of present laws generally throughout the state, and compel all cities and towns to do what Boston is practically alone in now attempting to do. The report of this commission should be watched carefully, and unless equal enforcement of the health laws and relief to Boston from its twofold burden of health expense is recommended, the city authorities should be ready to take the fight into the next Legislature and demand relief.

The central authority of the Health Board should be recognized, and it should be strengthened in power. While the city permits the sanitary and educational effort, which is essentially the duty of the Health Board, to remain unattended to or inefficiently performed, the money spent on tuberculosis is only an attempt to patch up a decrepid population upon whom disease and deterioration have already done their worst. As the situation stands to-day, the city is spending money lavishly on one hand caring for consumptives, while it is creating on the other, through neglect and incompetency, more than it is curing. To illustrate:

Consumption is transmitted through germs, which are contained in the sputum. There are estimated to be more than 12,000 persons in Boston to-day suffering from this disease, who are sources of danger to their fellow-beings. Every time one of these twelve thousand persons expectorates on a sidewalk or puhlic place there is danger that the germs are carried into homes on women's garments, on shoes, and in countless other ways. In the form of dust, these germs are blown on garments, on the hair and beard, and are breathed in through the mouth and nose. There are stringent ordinances against spitting on the sidewalks and on platforms and other public places, yet during the last year there were less than 100 arrests for violation of these ordinances by the police. One morning in July of this year, a month when people are least likely to be afflicted with colds, and spitting is at the minimum, while street traffic is at its lowest, the nurses from the Out-Patient Department at Burroughs place were instructed to report all the violations of the spitting laws which came under their notice.

While in pursuit of their daily duty, and without going out of their way, these nurses saw in a few hours, 300 violations of the law against spitting on sidewalks, railroad stations, etc. In view of this experience, the less than one hundred arrests during a whole year shows how pitifully lax is the attempt to protect the city in this important detail. The report on Tenement House Conditions, made recently by the Boston 1915, and the disregard of preventable measures generally discernible to the ordinary citizen are all indicative of the causes making not alone for tuherculosis, but for other diseases, and to correct which remedial measures by the municipality are demanded at once. This is not an attempt to supplant the Board of Health or in any way take from its authority. The business-like method of procedure is to add to its authority to discontinue the practice of giving separate functions to other boards, and to put the whole question of the city's health on a more practical and satisfactory basis.

The fight for the reduction of consumption is, strictly speaking, a personal one. It has been demonstrated that tuherculosis can be cured, or to use the technical term, can be "arrested," but for the patient to remain cured and be self-supporting is the great problem still unsolved. Under present conditions, the spending of money by the city in this consumptive work has resulted in taking persons who are in consumption, arresting the disease in them, and then send them out only to find that lacking the ability to continue the life which they had led in the sanatorium, they drop back into sickness again, forcing the city to spend more money in trying to cure them a second time, and eventually to have them die of the disease.

In the handling of tuberculosis, the greater the burden of responsibility put upon the individual the more certain will be the retaining of personal self-respect and capacity for self-support. The tendency towards indiscriminate giving, which is being encouraged, is inculcating the belief that the city should pay all the bills whether the individual can afford to do it personally or not, is breaking down self-respect and adding unnecessarily to the financial burdens of the community, without advancing the real object in view, that of wiping out the disease. The problem of what to do with the patient who having gone through the various sanatoria and comes back an "arrested" case, hut not able to do hard work, is a matter not for the city, but for private charity, which, if the facts are properly presented will no doubt respond. There is no question that the community is willing to provide the means for charity of this nature if its value can be demonstrated.

For such "arrested" cases there should be provided outdoor work on tracts of land purchased for improvement, where such patients selected as to their temperament, habits, etc., can be made self-supporting, while laying the foundation for a future healthy life. Such form of employment might include egg and chicken farms, vegetable farms for the production of vegetables that will be cooked before serving; squab farms and the reclamation of abandoned farms. As all consumptives cannot, however, go to the country or engage in farming, there are a great variety of outdoor city occupations suitable for the "arrested" consumptive, which will enable him to kcep his health. The providing of such employment for these cases is a work of the highest importance, which should be established without delay, because there are already a large number of "arrested" cases in Boston who are in need of such employment, and lacking which will fall back into the disease.

The fight for the final extinction of consumption as a scourge of mankind, depends largely on the treatment of the child. If the child in one generation can be prevented from becoming tuberculous, the problem will have been solved.

The Franklin Park School, no matter how well it is managed, and regardless how noble the motive and sincere the effort, is at best only a trimming off of the diseased leaves of a tree while the causes in the soil and at the root itself, which make for the disease, are left unnoticed and unattended. Because the problem of the future is the child, therefore the method of procedure will never be scientific until we find out exactly the physical condition of the children now in the public schools. For several years promises have been repeatedly made that children would be examined and their exact physical examination recorded at the beginning of the school year, and this examination has never been made. We recommend, therefore, that a scientific and thorough examination of all the children in the public schools be made under the direction of the School Committee or of the Board of Health, or of this department, or, if deemed wise, all working in conjunction, and that a sufficient amount of money be appropriated by the City Council for this end. When this examination, which can be done within a reasonable space of time, and for a comparatively small amount, is made, the city will know exactly how many children there are in Boston who are definitely tuberculous, who are afflicted with diseases which are making for tuberculous conditions, who are anæmic, etc., and how many who are well and require no treatment. At present the guess is that there are upwards of 5,000 children in Boston who are definitely tuberculous, and that in the second class, afflicted with various ailments which will probably finally make for tuberculosis, are 50,000 or upward. The number of anæmic or underfed children nobody knows, but if the city is to devote itself to this work of wiping out tuberculosis by beginning on the child, obviously the first step which would occur to any business man is that the exact situation be determined before any scheme of relief is inaugurated and made a fixed charge on the city.

If this examination is made, the following is suggested as the plan of action.

Children in the advanced stages should be treated in a hospital at Mattapan the same as advanced tuberculous adults are now being treated.

Anæmic and sickly children should be taught in open-air rooms established in every school building. The school authorities should be impressed with the fact that if opening the windows of a room and letting a child study with warm clothing will make a sick child well and improve its capacity for study, that this same treatment will also benefit the child who is well; and that the present system of depending wholly on artificial ventilation and keeping the windows closed may be profitable to manufacturers of ventilating apparatus and the coal dealers, but fresh air, as God makes it, cannot be improved by any architects' device. Under present conditions the janitor now objects to opening the windows because it will increase his coal bill, and it would be unfair unduly to blame him for this, because he depends on his job for a living, and must live within his appropriation; but the school committee should be impressed with the fact that the city is estimated now to be spending $100,000 a year for educating children who die of tuberculosis before they are twenty-one years old, and that it may be possible to so reconstruct the coal problem as not to menace the health of the children committed to their charge.

If, as a result of this examination of Boston school children, there is found a large number of children too definitely tuberculous to be permitted in the open-air rooms of various schools, yet not far enough advanced in the disease for hospital care, one or more day camps, where the physician and teacher may work together, may be established. Your trustees would not wilfully or for a selfish motive interfere in the work of any other department, but it has been impressed on us in so many ways how important an efficient corps of school physicians are in connection with our work, and how much the children have suffered under the present system, that we feel justified in expressing the hope that this department of health work may speedily be put on an efficient basis. Until the exact facts as to the physical condition of the school children are ascertained by such an expert examination as is proposed, and then only under such regulations as shall make the parents and the children understand that the responsibility to provide clothing and food for children is on the parents whenever possible, and not on the city, should any attempt be made to give food with teaching. Then the important thing is first to find the extent of the problem, and any attempt to solve it without suitable knowledge will be futile.

In connection with the general question of the free hospital treatment in Boston, whether it is one of the city hospitals for acute cases or in this Consumptives' Hospital, there is already too much abuse of medical charity. Thousands and thousands of dollars are lost every year in giving free treatment to patients who can well afford to pay, and the cost of this is coming out of the poor who, in additional taxes, must pay the bills. This matter is important enough to warrant the consideration of the City Council and the establishment of stringent rules whereby every patient receiving hospital treatment in any hospital for acute or chronic disease who is able to pay shall be forced to do so. When the city provides the place for this treatment, it has done all that it is called upon to do. The responsibility for paying for individual treatment is on the individual alone, and not on the city, only when repayment is not possible from private sources.

In addition to the matters previously set forth, arrangements should be made whereby there should be co-operation and affiliation with public and private charities and the proper health authorities, to the end of obtaining adequate, prompt and intelligent relief. The Elberfield system as it is practised in Germany is an excellent method to study in this connection.

The advanced cases of tuberculosis who are in tenements or other places where they are not properly cared for, and who are a menace to the community, should be removed by force by the Health Department, as is now by law permitted, but rarely enforced.

While the work of the Consumptives' Hospital Department was in its infancy, it was probably wise that it should be wholly free, and that the public might be educated as to the necessity for doing this work. It was also probably wise four years ago that this work should be done by an independent department; but the time has come now when the capital invested and the annual maintenance demanded, together with the general spread of knowledge of the people in regard to the dangers of tuberculosis and the ways of preventing it, make a situation where the matter should be faced squarely, and the future decided according to the interests of the city in this work and its capacity to pay the bills.

By order of the Board of Trustees,
EDWARD F. McSWEENEY,
Chairman.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances, when appointed.

The City Council, City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Gentlemen,—I have the honor to return herewith the papers in the case of Mrs. Needham, widow of the late Charles T. Needham, a former member of this department.

There appears to be no doubt that Engineer Needham died from a wound received while putting a wooden panel in the door of quarters of Engine Company 16. I have submitted the case to the Corporation Counsel for his opinion, and he has stated that the widow of Engineer Needham is not entitled to a pension under the act, as her husband did not die from injuries received in the performance of his duty in the sense in which the word is used in the act.

Therefore, in my opinion, any annuity for the benefit of Mrs. Needham should not be charged to the Fire Department appropriation.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES D. DALY,
Fire Commissioner.

SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

BUILDING OF DOCKS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered the following:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the City Council of Boston that immediate action should be taken by the state authorities relative to building of docks on the Boston water front, as we believe that the docks will be let on favorable terms before completion.

Ordered, That a copy of this resolve be forwarded to the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, the clerk of the Senate, and the clerk of the House.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs at the State House held a hearing on Friday last in reference to the harbor facilities of Boston. The Governor, Mr. Foss, called attention in his inaugural to the lack of proper facilities in the harbor of Boston. Under an Act of the Legislature of 1910, chapter 648, the Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners has the right to expend a sum of $3,000,000 for a term not exceeding forty years, with the approval of the Governor and Council, for the purpose of securing access to land and flats of the Commonwealth on the easterly side of Boston. As I understand, the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs is to consider, or is considering, not only the harbor facilities with reference to East Boston, but the harbor facilities in reference to South Boston. This resolution simply places the City Council on record as favoring, or, at least, as asserting that something should be done by the Legislature to improve the harbor facilities of Boston. And it is a well-known fact that at present we lack proper pier room, and that docks should be built, and this money that the Harbor and Land Commissioners are authorized to expend for the purpose of securing access to the lands and flats of the Commonwealth, should be used for South Boston, if necessary, for the building of docks, so that Boston would benefit by this great advantage.

The resolution and order were passed.

REDIVISION OF WARD 20.

Coun. COLLINS offered an order—That a special committee of three members of the City Council be appointed by the presiding officer to consider the subject of the redivision of Ward 20 by precincts, and report its findings to the Council.

Passed, and the Chair appointed as said committee, Coun. Collins, Kenny and Attridge.

SIDEWALK, SPENCER STREET.

Coun. COLLINS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested to construct sidewalks along both sides of Spencer street, between Athelwold street and Talbot avenue, Ward 20, in front of the estates bordering thereon; said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone with granite edgestone, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

PURE MILK.

Coun. BALLANTYNE offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston hereby indorses House Bill No. 1332, introduced by the Massachusetts Milk Consumers' Association, and requests the support of the senators and representatives from Boston on the measure.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

NECESSITY OF BRANCH LIBRARIES.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That a special committee of three be appointed by the President, when elected, to investigate and report on the necessity of branch libraries, and the needs of those now in existence, said committee to act in conjunction with the library trustees.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, this order is in line with the communication which we have received to-day from his Honor the Mayor in reference to special committees of the Council to be appointed to look into these various municipal matters which should come before the district meeting. The trustees of the library last year called attention in their fifty-eighth annual report to the need of co-operation on the part of the city, and the City Council with the trustees, to provide better accommodations in various sections of the city. And in the latest report, the fifty-ninth report of the trustees of the Public Library of the city they state,—"We now invite the attention of the City Council especially to the matter of better accommodations for some of our branch libraries and reading room stations, particularly at Charlestown and East Boston, in Ward 6 and in the district served by the Broadway Extension reading room. An examination of these branches and reading rooms, which we trust will be made, will show what they are more forcibly than any description we can give in this report."

The order was passed.

PAYMENT FOR EXTRA DUTY.

Coun. McDONALD offered an order—That there be allowed and paid to Edward McHugh and Patrick J. Lahey the sum of $200 each per annum as part compensation for extra services rendered at meetings of the City Council and committees thereof, such payments to continue until otherwise ordered by the City Council or until the services cease to be rendered, and to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

Passed.

PRINTING OF MUNICIPAL REGISTER.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the Statistics Department be authorized, under the direction of the Committee on Rules, when appointed, to prepare and have printed the Municipal Register for 1911, and that said committee be authorized to prepare and have printed a pocket edition of the organization of the city government, the expense thus incurred to be charged to the appropriation for City Documents.

KENNY offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to cause the bells to be rung at nine o'clock in the morning, at noon and at sunset on Lincoln's Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Evacuation Day, Patriot's Day, Seventeenth of June, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Thanksgiving Day, centenary anniversary of the birth of Wendell Phillips (November 29) and Christmas Day, the expense attending the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the several committees of the City Council be authorized to give hearings at their discretion on matters referred to them, the expense of the same and the expense of hearings which may be given by the City Council to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

September 17, Anniversary of the settlement of Boston.
October 12, Columbus Day.
November 29, Centenary birthday of Wendell Phillips, and whenever any of the above named days fall on Sunday, shall display the colors on the following day, the expense attending the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

Passed.

PRINTING OF DOCUMENTS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the expense of printing documents ordered printed by the City Council during the present financial year be charged to the appropriation for City Documents.

Passed.

EXPENSE OF HEARINGS.

Coun. BALLANTYNE offered an order—That, until otherwise ordered, the expense incurred for the advertising by the city of hearings before state officers and boards, for the advertising of elections and for the publication of ordinances and regulations, be charged to the appropriation for City Council, incidental expenses.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. HALE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

Report accepted; order passed.

BALLOTS FOR PRESIDENT.

On motion of Coun. KENNY the Council voted to proceed to ballot for president.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, having voted now to proceed to ballot, I desire to offer a few remarks. When this Council organized a year ago of course it was the first organization under the new charter. There were very many of the members who had more or less experience in public service, and they naturally were in a receptive state. As one who is not a candidate for the presidency of this Council at this time, I desire to say that I think we should lay down a rule for our future guidance in the selection of a president. It is the custom everywhere throughout the world, when a man has received the votes of his neighbors and the people who send him to fill an office, that if he performs his duties honestly, efficiently and satisfactorily, they shall indicate that he has done so, that they shall put the stamp of approval on those acts by re-electing him. In this body we have had a president of the Council who has discharged his duties for the past year with efficiency, integrity and ability. I think President Ballantyne's conduct from one end of the year to the other has been such as to reflect credit upon this Council and the manner and method in which we have performed the business of the city. It seems to me under the circumstances that the members owe it to the President, having served one year, to re-elect him to that office. I have the very highest personal regard for the gentlemen whose names have been mentioned here for this office. Both are personal friends of mine. But now we are here not as a political body. There is no party designation attached to the name of any man sitting in this body. We are here with one year's public service behind us, one year's experience, and it seems to me, as I said at the outset, that we could not do better for the city, that we could not do better for the integrity of this body, than to put the stamp of approval on the man who has acted as president for the past year. For that reason I shall vote for the present presiding officer when the time comes.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, do I understand that the motion that we proceed to ballot for a president has passed the Council?

Chairman BALLANTYNE—Yes.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I move a reconsideration of the vote whereby we voted to ballot for a president for the ensuing year. I do this being one of the minority of two who are members of this Council, the other member being unable to be here. He is as much a member of the Council as any member sitting here. He has just been elected to Congress by the people of his district. He is a truly representative man and has served the city in the Board of Aldermen longer than any man who has ever served in the upper branch of the city government. Therefore, gentlemen, I hope you will postpone electing a president until Mr. Curley returns here so that he can participate in the election. I appeal to your fair-mindedness and sense of justice to do that before proceeding to the election of a president.

Reconsideration was declared lost. Coun. BUCKLEY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

Reconsideration was lost, yea 1; nays 5:

Yea—Coun. Buckley—1.

Nays—Coun. Attridge, Hale, Kenny, McDonald, Smith—5.

The question came on electing a president, and the members voted, announcing their choice as their names were called, with the following result:

For Walter Ballantyne—Coun. Ballantyne, Kenny, Smith—3.

For John J. Attridge—Coun. Attridge, Hale, McDonald—3.

For Walter L. Collins—Coun. Buckley, Collins—2.

And there was no choice.

On motion of Coun. HALE the Council voted to proceed to ballot for president three successive times. The three ballots were taken, with the same result as on the first, there being no changes, and there was no choice for president of the Council.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. KENNY the Board refused a general reconsideration of all action taken to-day.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. KENNY, at 5.53 p. m., to meet on Monday, February 20, at 3 p. m., unless sooner called together by the Chair.

FOOTBRIDGE, NEW YORK, NEW HAVEN & HARTFORD RAILROAD.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a petition asking for a tunnel or footbridge within the city limits, at or near the Hyde Park line and over the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, together with a letter from the secretary of the Board of Street Commissioners, giving an estimate of the cost of this improvement.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

The petition was signed by Paul G. W. Anderson and very many others.

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,
City Hall, February 13, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor:

Dear Sir,—Complying with your suggestion of a few days ago the Board of Street Commissioners has made an examination of the territory between Hyde Park avenue and Clifford street, West Roxbury, close to the Hyde Park line, with a view to the erection of a footway over the railroad at this point.

The only desirable location for such a footway would be at a point about three hundred feet north of the Hyde Park line, wholly within Boston territory. A bridge would need to be erected, and because of the deep cut through which the railroad passes and the high embankments a span of one hundred and seventy-five feet would be necessary. Such a bridge would cost at least $10,000.

The Board does not think it advisable to build the bridge at this time. If it is to be built at all it should await the laying out and construction of Clifford street. The only approach to Clifford street at its southerly end is by way of Grew avenue, a private way. At this point Clifford street has a 20 per cent grade, an uninviting prospect for those who might want to use the footbridge.

To build the bridge now with its approach from Clifford street at its present grade would mean that when Clifford street shall have been laid out this work would all have to be torn away and a new approach made to meet the new grade at Clifford street, which would be eighteen feet lower than the present grade.

To make Clifford street a public way would cost about $20,000, which, with the $10,000 required for the bridge, would necessitate a total expenditure of $30,000. The developments within the territory which would be served by these two improvements does not warrant the expenditure.

Very truly yours,
J. J. O'CALLAGHAN, Secretary.

NEW BUILDING, CITY HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

House Bill No. 576, which proposed to authorize the city to expend outside of the debt limit a sum not exceeding three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) for the construction of a new building for the contagious department of the Boston City Hospital, has been withdrawn at my suggestion, there being no justification in the present state of the borrowing capacity of the city for a loan outside of the statutory limit of indebtedness. The original question, however, of the immediate need of a building for this purpose is still before the city authorities and is well set forth in the accompanying letter of the president of the Board of Hospital Trustees. I desire to recommend that your honorable body give careful consideration to his views and would suggest that you appoint a committee to investigate the subject with a view to determining the proper cost of an adequate structure. An order providing the necessary amount by a loan order within the debt limit would meet with my approval.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

The Boston City Hospital,
Boston, February 17, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In reply to your esteemed favor of the 16th inst., I beg to say, on behalf of the trustees, that they are in full accord in regard to the withdrawal of House Bill No. 576, inasmuch as the borrowing capacity of the city will enable the loan to be made within the statutory limit of indebtedness. They are much gratified that your Honor will recommend to the City Council a loan order for the necessary amount, and it was therefore voted to reiterate and repeat the vote relating thereto dated December 2, 1910, as follows:

Voted, That the president be authorized to request a loan appropriation of $297,800 for new buildings, changes and additions at the South Department, approximated as follows:

Changes in East Pavilion	$6,000
Changes in West Pavilion	6,000
Additional story to laundry building	14,800
New six-story ward building	196,000
Alterations to Paine buildings	33,000
Connecting corridors, pipes and tunnels	20,000
Yard wall	8,000
Contingent and administrative expenses	14,000
	$297,800

In order that the pressing necessity for enlarging the South Department may be better understood by the honorable Council, I herewith inclose a copy of my letter to your Honor dated December 2, 1910. The trustees desire also to have me call the attention of your Honor to the fact that no contracts can be made until the appropriation has been granted by the city government, and therefore it is urgent that the amount should be voted at the earliest possible moment, so that the trustees may proceed with their plans, specifications and contracts.

I have the honor to be, on behalf of the trustees,

Respectfully yours,
A. SHUMAN,
President Board of Trustees.

The Boston City Hospital,
Boston, December 2, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the Board of Trustees to-day the matter of an appropriation for the construction of buildings on the ground lately purchased from the Robert Treat Paine estate was considered.

The constant increase in the population of the City of Boston necessarily increases the number of infectious diseases. During the past three years the city has suffered so much from these vexatious diseases that the South Department has been overcrowded for a portion of each year. Its normal capacity is 250 patients, but the stress has been so great that at times this number has been increased to 400 to the detriment of the welfare of the patients. In addition to this the city has been obliged to board out a great many patients at the Haines Hospital and other institutions during the time mentioned, which is not only detrimental to the public health, but adds materially to the expense of caring for the patients over the cost to the hospital management within its sphere.

It is therefore of the utmost importance that adequate provision should be made for the treatment of this class of diseases and to properly take care of all applicants ill with diphtheria, scarlet fever and measles.

It is a source of satisfaction to the trustees that Boston was the first city to establish a separate hospital for infectious diseases. Your Honor may possibly remember that about three years ago, during your former administration, an appeal was made to you for a measles pavilion. You generously and with a full appreciation of the importance of this ward recommended the necessary sum for its erection. This Measles Pavilion has accomplished a great deal of good and has filled a long-felt want, for until its erection there was no place to send a patient ill with measles.

The trustees feel, therefore, that your Honor, as well as the honorable City Council, will recognize the importance of enlarging the accommodations at the South Department at the earliest possible moment. After carefully considering the matter, and going over several plans that have been submitted for their inspection, the trustees most respectfully ask your Honor to recommend a loan appropriation of $297,800 for new buildings, changes and additions at the South Department, approximately as follows:

Changes in East Pavilion	$6,000 00
Changes in West Pavilion	6,000 00
Additional story to laundry building	14,800 00
New six-story ward building	196,000 00
Alterations to Paine buildings	33,000 00
Connecting corridors and pipes and tunnels	20,000 00
Yard wall	8,000 00
Contingent and administrative expenses	14,000 00
	$297,800 00

The trustees, fully appreciating your Honor's great interest in the hospital and your co-operation for the welfare and alleviation of the sick, and especially for those unfortunately stricken with contagion, ask you kindly to recommend to the honorable Council the appropriation of the above mentioned sum.

I have the honor to remain, on behalf of the trustees,

Respectfully yours,
A. SHUMAN,
President Board of Trustees.

Referred to Committee on Finance, when appointed.

CHANGES, ELEVATED RAILWAY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith, in order that they may be placed in the files of the City Clerk, plans showing proposed modifications and changes in the elevated structure, platforms and station and approaches thereto, in Main, Beacham and Alford streets and Sullivan square, Charlestown, in order to adapt the same to the running of eight-car trains and to provide a connection for the proposed extension of the elevated railway to Malden.

I have approved these plans in writing as to architectural appearance and obstruction to light and air, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 500 of the Acts of 1897.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

(Annexed were plans referred to.)
Placed on file.

TRACK LOCATION, BEACON HILL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith, in order that it may be placed in the files of the City Clerk, a plan showing the form and method of construction proposed and the proposed location of the tracks and elevated structure from the westerly terminus of a tunnel from the Park Street Subway Station, under Beacon Hill, to a point near the intersection of Grove place and Grove street, Boston, through and over public streets and private ways and lands to Cambridge Bridge.

I have approved this plan in writing as to architectural appearance and obstruction to light and air, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 500 of the Acts of 1897 and chapter 520 of the Acts of 1906.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

(Annexed were plans referred to.)

EXPENSES OF ADVERTISING, ETC., VETO.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

I return herewith, without my approval, an order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of February 13, 1911, providing that the expenses incurred for the advertising by the city of hearings before the state officers and boards, for the advertising of elections and for the publication of ordinances and regulations, be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses. These expenses have until recently been charged to the City Clerk's office and, in my opinion, properly belong in that department. I shall recommend, therefore, that an appropriation be made for the City Clerk this year adequate to provide for expenses under this general head.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Placed on file.

DEPARTMENT CONSOLIDATION, VETO.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 14, 1911.

To the City Council:

I return herewith, without my approval, an ordinance passed by your honorable body at its meeting of February 4, abolishing the Bath, Music and Public Grounds Departments and transferring their duties to the Park Department. My objection is not so much to the substance of the ordinance as to its form. Apparently the City Council has done no more than absorb the Bath, Music and Public Grounds Departments into the existing Park Department with its present board of commissioners, modified only by the awarding of a salary of $5,000 per annum to the chairman. What I had hoped, in recommending in a communication of an earlier date the general subject to your consideration, was the framing of an ordinance which should not merely consolidate but reorganize the entire recreation service of the city.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Placed on file.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

In reply to the order of the City Council, passed at its meeting of February 4, 1911, "that his Honor the Mayor be requested to investigate the published statement that the Art Museum property was purchased by the Copley Square Trust in 1902, and that said trust evaded paying taxes on said property for a number of years, and if said statement is found to be true that his Honor the Mayor take the necessary legal steps to collect all taxes owed on said property," I beg to transmit a report from the secretary of the Board of Assessors, which gives a history of the case as complete as the facts in the possession of the Assessing Department will permit. I am informed that the taxes for 1909, referred to in the report, amounting to $25,792.80, were paid under protest on November 2, 1909.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Assessing Department,

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Sir,—In the matter of the order of the City Council, passed February 4, 1911, in regard to the taxation of the Art Museum property and referred to this department, we respectfully submit a brief statement of the material facts as follows:

The Museum of Fine Arts, which is a corporation entitled to an exemption under the third clause of section 5, part 1 of chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909, having determined to remove from its present location in Copley Square to its present site in the Fenway, in 1902 entered into an agreement with the Copley Square Trust, in which it was agreed to convey the Copley Square property to the trust, for which the trust agreed to pay the sum of one million eight hundred thousand dollars ($1,800,000), of which five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) was to be paid upon the date of agreement, five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) in June, 1904, five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000) in June, 1905, and the balance, three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000), in 1907, 1908 or 1909, at the option of the museum.

In pursuance of agreement the museum executed a deed of the Copley Square property, under date of June 20, 1902, to the trust, which deed was placed in the hands of the Old Colony Trust Company, in escrow, to be delivered to the trust when the price was fully paid.

Upon the sums advanced by the trust the museum agreed to pay interest at the rate of 3½ per cent per annum.

The money was advanced as agreed and the museum continued to occupy the property until June, 1909, when the final payment was made and the deed was delivered to the trust and placed upon record at the Registry of Deeds.

When the above facts came to the knowledge of this department they were submitted to the Law Department, and we were advised by that department that the title to the Copley Square property did not pass until the delivery of the deed, to wit, on or about June 19, 1909, and that on May 1, 1909, the property, being owned and occupied by the museum, was exempt from taxation for that year. We were also advised that, while the question was possibly not free from doubt, it was the opinion of the department that the trust was taxable upon the amount advanced to the museum and upon which interest was being paid as personal property subject to taxation under the second clause of section 4 of said chapter 490, and this Board placed a personal tax upon said trust of $1,563,200. Of this amount one million five hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000) was on account of the money paid as above stated.

We would also say that in October, 1909, the matter was taken up by the District Attorney, who investigated and reported that there was no basis for any action by him.

Respectfully,
BOARD OF ASSESSORS,
by CHARLES E. FOLSOM,
Secretary.

TRANSFER OF BALANCE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

In compliance with the request of the president of the Board of Hospital Trustees, contained in the accompanying letters, I desire to recommend the passage of an order transferring two small balances from the loans for equipment of the East Boston Relief Station and equipment of the Measles Ward, respectively, to the appropriation for Hospital Buildings Improvements. An order which will effect this transfer is submitted herewith and I would respectfully urge its passage at an early session of your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Equipment, East Boston Relief Station,	$1,314 43

Boston City Hospital,
Boston, February 10, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In reply to your communication of February 6, in which you ask for what purpose the money that is to be transferred to the Hospital Buildings, improvements, appropriation is to be used, I have to say that this money will be used for changes in the entrance office, and for certain other permanent improvements. This change in the entrance office is imperative, in order to improve the service and facilitate the transaction of business. There is a certain amount of money at the present time in the Hospital Buildings, improvements, appropriation. The City Auditor, however, says that this money must not be used for any purpose until the settlement of the claim of S. Brennan. This claim has been in litigation since September 19, 1896.

I have the honor to remain, on behalf of the trustees,

Respectfully yours,
A. SHUMAN,
President Board of Trustees.

Ordered, That the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer a balance of $1,314.43 remaining from the appropriation for equipment of the East Boston Relief Station, and a balance of $378.72 remaining from the appropriation for equipment of Measles Ward to the appropriation for Hospital Buildings, Improvements.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

USE OF GOVERNOR'S ISLAND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 16, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit for the information of your honorable body a letter from the Major-General Commanding, Department of the East, relating to the opportunity to make use of Governor's Island in Boston Harbor which was afforded the authorities of this city by the joint resolutions of Congress, approved June 5, 1902. This privilege has not been accepted by the city government of Boston and Major-General Grant writes to inquire whether it is the intention of the authorities to take advantage of the permission given to develop the island.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Inspector General's Office,
Governor's Island, New York City,
February 8, 1911.

The Honorable the Mayor of Boston,
Boston, Massachusetts:

Sir,—I have the honor to quote for the information of the authorities of the City of Boston the following extract from a report of an inspection of Fort Winthrop, Governor's Island, Boston Harbor, Mass., made November 1, 1910, by Major Gordon G. Heiner, Coast Artillery Corps, Acting Inspector General, with extracts from an indorsement by the Chief of Engineers, United States Army, on the said report, and an inclosure thereto.

Extract from Report.

"The reservation, which includes the entire island, about 72 acres, is without caretaker, watchman or other representative of the United States, State of Massachusetts, or City of Boston. The latter has a right to the land as soon as it complies with the Fortification Act of June 5, 1902, but, it is stated that, so far, no action has been taken by the city with a view to compliance with that act."

Extract from Indorsement.

"2. By joint resolution approved June 5, 1902 (32 Stats., 743), copy herewith, the Secretary of War was authorized to permit the City of Boston to make certain improvements on Governor's Island, the site of Fort Winthrop, upon plans, however, to be previously approved by the Secretary of War. No such plans have ever been submitted by the City of Boston, although, under the act, the city retains the right to the use of the reservation upon the submission and approval by the War Department of plans for its improvement. The conditions described within have existed for some years. The island lies in the upper part of Boston Harbor and within easy access by water of East Boston. It is frequented, particularly in pleasant weather and on holidays, by people in such numbers that they can be controlled only by a police or military guard sufficient primarily to prevent landing on the island, and, secondarily, to eject those who do land, and who belong largely to the class that becomes disorderly in every sense unless restrained by the presence of sufficient force." . . .

"In March, 1905, the ordnance sergeant, who had found it almost impossible to maintain order and decency on the island by himself, was relieved and since that date the reservation has had to take care of itself." . . .

"It does not appear that any improvement in present conditions can be effected, unless the guarding and policing of the reservation be assumed by the City of Boston under the provisions of the joint resolution above referred to."

Inclosure.

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the Secretary of War is hereby authorized to permit the city of Boston, in the State of Massachusetts, to improve and beautify Governor's Island, or a portion thereof, situated in said city and belonging to the United States, in connection with mooring berths to be built adjoining said island, and to make such excavations and fillings and erect and maintain such structures as may be considered proper for the purpose; all upon plans to be previously approved by the Secretary of War: Provided, that the permission given pursuant to this resolution shall not pass any right or title in said island, but shall be revocable at will by the Secretary of War, and the ownership of said island shall remain entirely in the United States, and it shall be subject to such uses for military or other purposes as the Secretary of War may at any time direct. Approved, June 5, 1902."

In view of the prevailing condition, information is requested as to whether or not the City of Boston intends to take advantage of the permission given in the joint resolution above quoted, to improve and beautify Governor's Island, Boston Harbor, in connection with other works therein authorized.

Very respectfully,
F. D. GRANT,
Major-General Commanding.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPROPRIATION BILL.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

In accordance with section 3 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, I transmit herewith the estimates of the several departments for the financial year 1911–1912, together with a list of the appropriations which I recommend. I also transmit for your information the basis of estimate prepared by the City Auditor, which includes the amount which can be raised within the tax limit for the current expenditures of the city and an estimate of the income for the present year.

The sum total of all the estimates submitted by the heads of city departments, with an allowance of $250,000 for the Reserve Fund, is $13,277,805.48. The total of the estimates submitted by heads of county departments is $1,407,839.21. The city and county debt requirements, embracing interest, sinking funds and installments upon serial bonds, total $5,412,040.29. The sum of these various items, $20,097,684.98, is $1,390,609.78 less than the amount available under the law for current expenditures.

I recommend a reduction of $849,311.53 in the city and county estimates, making a total appropriation of $19,248,373.45. This includes an increase of $184,456.45 in the debt requirements, over which the Mayor and the City Council have no control, and an increase of $306,551 over the original appropriations of the city and county departments for the fiscal year 1910–1911. The amount available but not appropriated is $2,239,921.31—a figure wholly unprecedented in the financial history of the city. Should the $800,000 recommended by me for the erection of an annex to City Hall be appropriated by your honorable body, this margin would, of course, be reduced by a corresponding sum.

The increase in the amounts recommended is due almost wholly to increased demands upon the various city departments.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Appropriation and Tax Orders for the Financial Year 1911–1912.

Ordered, That to meet the current expenses payable during the financial year beginning with the first day of February, 1911, of performing the duties and exercising the powers devolved by statute or ordinance, or by vote of the City Council during the year, upon the City of Boston, or the County of Suffolk, or the departments or officers thereof, and to meet their respective obligations for interest on debt, sinking fund requirements and maturing debt not provided for by sinking fund, the respective sums of money hereinafter specified be, and the same are, hereby appropriated for the several departments, and for the objects and purposes hereinafter stated.

Ordered, That the appropriations for Water Department, current expenses, and the payments to the state under the provisions of chapter 488 of the Acts of 1895 and acts in addition or amendment thereto, and for the interest requirement for loans issued for water purposes, be met by the income from said works and any excess over income from taxes; that the other appropriations hereinafter specified be met out of the money remaining in the treasury at the close of business on January 31, 1911, exclusive of the money raised by loan or needed to carry out the requirements of any statute, gift, trust, or special appropriation, and by the income of the financial year, beginning February 1, 1911, and by taxes to the amount of $14,515,467.62, and that said amount be raised by taxation on the polls and estates taxable in the City of Boston.

Ordered, That all sums of money which form no part of the income of the city, but shall be paid for services rendered or work done by any department or division for any other department or division, or for any person or corporation other than the City of Boston, be paid into the general treasury and then credited to the appropriation of the department or division rendering such service or doing such work, and that all contributions made to any appropriation be expended for the objects and purposes directed by the several contributors thereof.

Ordered, That to provide temporarily money to meet the appropriations aforesaid, the City Treasurer issue and sell, at such times and in such amounts as he may deem best, notes or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston, not exceeding nine million dollars in the total, in anticipation of the taxes of the current municipal year; that all such notes or certificates of indebtedness be dated the day the money for the same is received, be made payable with the interest thereon at the office of the City Treasurer within the current financial year, from the taxes of said year, and bear interest, from their date until the same are made payable at such rate as said treasurer shall deem proper.

Ordered, That all taxes raised to meet the appropriations of the City Council, and all taxes assessed for meeting the city's proportion of the state tax of the year 1911, or of any other taxes or assessments payable to the Commonwealth, be due and payable on the first day of October, 1911; that all such taxes paid after the first day of November, 1911, bear interest from and including said day until paid, at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, except the taxes assessed upon shares of stock of national banks shall bear interest at the rate of 12 per cent per annum from and including said first day of November until paid; and that all interest which shall have become due on taxes shall be added to and be a part of such taxes.

FINANCE COMMISSION REPORT ON CONSUMPTIVES' HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the Boston Finance Commission, under date of February 16, concerning the Consumptives' Hospital Department.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston, February 16, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Sir,—On September 17, 1910, your Honor requested the Finance Commission to investigate and report upon the economic and social problems referred to in a letter from the chairman of the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees, which had been sent to your Honor on September 15, 1910, and a copy of which was sent to the commission.

The problems thus referred to the Finance Commission for investigation are as follows:

1. Whether the financial relations of the Commonwealth and the City of Boston, arising out of their efforts to prevent the spread of tuberculosis, should be readjusted.
2. Whether the officials of the City of Boston have neglected to employ existing means of preventing the spread of tuberculosis.
3. Whether the Boston Consumptives' Hospital should be under the control of the Boston Board of Health.
4. Whether a means can be provided for preventing the abuse of medical charity in Boston.
5. Whether the existing laws relating to the preservation of the public from the dangers of tuberculosis should be amended and new means of preventing the spread of the disease be provided.

Most of the questions involved in the last of these problems have been referred to the state commission appointed under chapter 76 of the Resolves of 1910, as appears from the following extract from the resolve:

"Resolved: That a commission, consisting of the chairman of the state board of health and six others to be appointed by the governor, two each from the state board of health, the state board of charity, and the state commissioner on consumptive hospitals, is hereby instructed to investigate the means and methods employed by the state and by local communities in caring for tubercular patients in hospitals, sanatoriums and dispensaries and, if it be found advisable, to report a plan which, by correlating the said means and methods, will prevent duplication and waste of effort. Said commission shall investigate and report particularly as to the relationship between this state and its municipalities in the care for tubercular patients, both in respect to the classes of cases cared for and to the apportionment of the financial burden caused thereby;

"As to the proper use, so far as the care of tuberculosis is concerned, of the state institutions at Rutland, North Reading, Lakeville, Westfield and Tewksbury;

"As to the relation which such state institutions should bear to hospitals for tubercular patients maintained by cities and towns;

"As to the power of the state board of health to require cities and towns to establish such hospitals;

"As to the advisability of modifying or repealing the settlement laws so far as the same apply to diseases dangerous to the public health;

"As to the advisability of supplying tubercular patients with food at their homes, and the best means of doing so, if to do so he deemed advisable;

"As to the advisability of establishing dispensaries for the discovery, supervision and treatment of cases of tuberculosis by the agency of local boards of health."

The state commission has made the investigation, and under date of November 1, 1910, submitted an elaborate report to the Governor of the Commonwealth, copies of which have been furnished to the members of the present Legislature.

The Finance Commission was established for the purpose of investigating and publishing the financial and departmental methods of the City of Boston and the county of Suffolk; and while all the problems referred to the commission have some relation to the city's finances the character of some of them is chiefly medical and only incidentally financial, and they are, therefore, more appropriate subjects for investigation by medical experts than by a nonmedical board like the Finance Commission. The Finance Commission concluded that it need not attempt an investigation of the prohlems involved in the last question referred and consequently has confined its inquiry to the other four questions.

I. The Readjustment of the Financial Relations of the Commonwealth and the City of Boston.

1. Boston's Excessive Burden.—This question has been referred to the Finance Commission hy your Honor as a result of the claim made hy the chairman of the Boston Consumptives' Hospital Trustees that the city is bearing more than its share of the general burden of providing care and treatment of persons afflicted with pulmonary tuberculosis, or consumption, and of checking the spread of this disease.

This claim is founded upon the fact that Boston has maintained its own consumptives' hospital at great expense while paying, through the state tax, ahout one-third of the cost of similar hospitals maintained by the state, whereas few of the other municipalities in the state maintain consumptives' hospitals, preferring, for reasons of economy, to send their patients to the state institutions. Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, Fall River, Lawrence, New Bedford and Salem have established local hospitals for consumptives. But other municipalities, including such large cities as Worcester, Lowell, Lynn, Springfield, Somerville, Holyoke and Brockton, have failed to establish consumptives' hospitals.

During the time that the state institutions at Rutland, North Reading, Lakeville and Westfield have heen in existence Boston has furnished on an average much less than one-third of the patients therein treated, hut it has paid more than one-third of the state tax for the support of such institutions. This, in itself, would probably not be considered a just cause for complaint. But having estahlished its own local hospital Boston may justly demand either that the cost of the state institutions he diminished hereafter through a reduction in the number of patients sent from other cities and towns, such reduction to he effected by the estahlishment of local hospitals in such cities and towns, or that the state make special provision for compensating Boston for the extraordinary expenses it has already incurred in the establishment and maintenance of its consumptives' hospital, and the expense it will be obliged to incur in the future.

The expense incurred for Boston's Consumptives' Hospital Department, up to Fehruary 1, 1911, as shown by the City Auditor's reports, is $823,668.32, of which $361,924.84 was expended from borrowed money. The total amount borrowed was $457,000 and of this only $95,075.16 is left. The chairman of the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees estimates that $365,000 will be needed to furnish additional accommodations, as follows:

For Construction.

One more concrete huilding for dying cases, which when completed will give a total minimum bed capacity for cases of this type, of 200 cases	$90,000
For completion of accommodations for 150 more patients in the cottage ward type of hospital	75,000
To construct wards for care of 50 children,	$50,000
Additions to domestic, administration and admission huildings and nurses' quarters	100,000
For repairs on grounds, machinery, etc., and incidentals	50,000
	$365,000

If this plan is carried out the city will probably be obliged to spend the $95,000 of unexpended loan money and to borrow $270,000 more, thus making the total loans for its Consumptives' Hospital Department $727,000. He also estimates that the annual maintenance appropriation required will be $225,000. In addition it should be noted that the city's Health Department also makes large expenditures for the hoard of consumptives at the state institutions. Excluding payments through the state tax, Boston, with ahout one-third of the population of the cities of the state, has contrihuted at least five times as much as all other cities in the state comhined towards the antituberculosis campaign. This shows clearly that Boston's share of the general burden has heen far greater than it should have heen upon the basis of either population or valuation, and that it is justified in asking for a readjustment of the existing financial arrangements hetween the state and the cities and towns therein.

2. Suggestions for Removing this Inequality.—Various plans have been suggested for relieving Boston of similar burdens in the future. The Mayor of the City of Boston has introduced a bill (Senate No. 82) which provides for the transfer to the Commonwealth after the first day of January, 1912, of "the care and control and treatment of all persons afflicted with tuherculosis or consumption who are now cared for hy the City of Boston or hy any board or officers thereof." It is further provided that the City of Boston shall not hereafter establish any hospital, sanatorium or other institution for the care of said patients, or after said date maintain any such institution or he liahle for the board, care or treatment of any such person. It is further provided that the Boston Consumptives' Hospital shall, after said date, be governed hy a Board of Trustees appointed hy the Governor with the advice and consent of the Council; and that the state shall take the lands and buildings of the Boston Consumptives' Hospital and pay the city for the same.

The purchase by the state of the Boston Consumptives' Hospital, thus recommended hy the Mayor, is urged on the ground that it is in line with the precedent estahlished hy the state's purchase of the Boston Insane Hospital, as recommended by the former Finance Commission. The two cases are not alike, however. The City of Boston, unlike all other municipalities in the state, maintained at its own expense an insane hospital, the state also maintaining hospitals for insane patients. When the state took over the Boston Insane Hospital it was not asked to establish local hospitals in other municipalities for the care of the insane in such municipalities. But the purchase by the state of the local consumptives' hospital already established hy Boston and of similar hospitals estahlished in other cities, would inevitably lead to demands from all other municipalities that the state erect and maintain local hospitals for them. These demands would he strongly urged on the ground that consumptives in the advanced stages of the disease can he induced to enter a local hospital where their friends may visit them, but cannot he persuaded to go far away from home, and consequently would remain in their homes, thus endangering all about them, unless a local hospital were availahle.

It should also he noted that the action of the City of Boston in estahlishing and maintaining its consumptives' hospital was entirely voluntary. While the law requiring the establishment hy cities of isolation hospitals for dangerous diseases was passed in 1901 (Acts of 1901, chapter 171), tuherculosis was not included in the list of diseases dangerous to the puhlic health until August 1, 1907. There was not, prior to the latter date, any requirement of law for the estahlishment hy a city of a hospital for pulmonary tuherculosis or tuherculosis in any form. The idea of estahlishing a consumptives' hospital in Boston was conceived six years before the State Board of Health declared tuherculosis to be a disease dangerous to the public health. On July 3, 1901, the Mayor and City Council authorized a loan of $150,000 to provide land and buildings for a consumptives' hospital. The loan was not issued, however, until 1906. In that year, one year prior to the action of the State Board of Health, the land was acquired for a site and $66,896.18 was expended on the project. Boston, therefore, incurred this expense by its voluntary action and not because of any mandate of the state.

Before Boston incurred this expense it had as now equal rights with all other cities and towns in the Commonwealth to send its consumptives to the State Sanatorium at Rutland, which was established in 1898, rights of which it availed itself both before and after the establishment of its own hospital. It also has had and still has equal rights with all other cities and towns in the hospitals later established by the state at North Reading, Lakeville, Westfield and Tewksbury. It does not seem to the Finance Commission that Boston's demand that the state shall reimburse it for the cost of its hospital at Mattapan will receive favorable consideration from the Legislature, as it would logically lead to the purchase of the local hospitals established by Brookline, Cambridge, Fall River, Lawrence, New Bedford and Salem. The cost of the purchase and maintenance of these hospitals, added to the cost of erecting and maintaining local hospitals in other communities, would be tremendous.

3. The State Commission's Plan.—The state commission suggests a means of relieving Boston and other cities which have established their own consumptives' hospitals of a portion of the expense. It urges the need of local consumptives' hospitals for the treatment of advanced cases, meanwhile recommending the encouragement of private enterprise and philanthropy in the same field. On page 15 of its report it says: "It is the general belief that the tuberculosis problem in its entirety is too great for private enterprise. The time is come for the community and the boards of health to shoulder the responsibility that rightfully belongs to them. The community should enter this field because in the long run its work is more uniform, more lasting and more thorough. In the problem of tuberculosis the municipal authority has legal power to remedy many of the attendant and contributing evils of tuberculosis." The Finance Commission believes that this policy should be definitely established and maintained. The state may well be asked to compel all cities and the more populous towns to provide such hospitals at their own expense. Until they are so provided the municipalities which have already established such hospitals at their own expense should be given adequate compensation in some form for the extraordinary burdens which they have assumed. As already stated, however, the Finance Commission believes that this compensation should not include the purchase by the state of such local hospitals, but that it should be confined to relieving such municipalities of a share of the cost of maintenance.

The state commission also suggests that all cities and towns which maintain their local hospitals be paid by the state $5 a week, or approximately one-half the expense of maintenance of all nonpaying patients in the local hospitals; and it is also suggested that all cities and towns in the Commonwealth pay to the state $5 a week, or approximately one-half the cost of maintenance of all nonpaying patients in the state hospitals who have a legal settlement in such cities and towns. This plan would be an improvement upon the existing arrangement, for while it would increase the payments by municipalities from $4 to $5 a week for patients at Rutland, North Reading, Lakeville and Westfield, it would give to the cities and towns which maintain their local hospitals $5 a week for nonpaying patients, whereas they receive nothing from the state now. In the opinion of the Finance Commission the proposed remedy, however, is not adequate, as it still discriminates against the cities and towns which maintain their local hospitals and in favor of the municipalities which neglect to perform that duty, inasmuch as it does not take into account the capital investment of cities and towns in their local hospitals. The Finance Commission believes that it is equitable to require all cities and towns which send patients to the state hospitals to pay one-half the cost of their care; but it also believes that the cities and towns which maintain their local hospitals should receive some payment in addition to the $5 per week for each patient therein treated.

II. Alleged Neglect of the City Authorities.

The letter of the chairman of the Boston Consumptives' Hospital Trustees states: "While the city permits the sanitary and educational effort, which is essentially the duty of the Health Board, to remain unattended to or inefficiently performed, the money spent on tuberculosis is only an attempt to patch up a decrepit population upon whom disease and deterioration have already done their worst. As the situation stands to-day, the city is spending money lavishly on one hand caring for consumptives, while it is creating on the other hand, through neglect and incompetency, more than it is curing."

The particulars of the alleged neglect are as follows:

1. The alleged failure to enforce the law against expectoration in public places.
2. The alleged failure to improve tenement house conditions so as to prevent the rise and spread of consumption.
3. The alleged failure to provide proper ventilation in the public schools and to provide a sufficient number of "open-air" rooms in the schools.
4. The alleged failure to make the physical examination of school children required by chapter 502 of the Acts of 1906, to determine whether they are suffering from any disability or defect tending to prevent them from receiving the full benefit of the school work.

1. Expectoration in Public Places.—It is said that many consumptives expectorate in public places and thus violate the law (1906, chapter 165; 1907, chapter 410; 1908, chapter 150), but that comparatively few offenders are prosecuted. The Finance Commission recognizes the danger of transmission of germs from the sputum of consumptives, but it has no means of enforcing the law against expectoration in public places. If the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees deem strict enforcement possible, or that stricter enforcement than is now given is necessary, it can request the co-operation of police officials with more assurance of success than a nonmedical body like the Finance Commission. If more stringent laws are needed the Mayor might be asked by the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees to file the necessary petition with the Legislature.

2. Tenement House Conditions.—The commission believes that there has been a failure to improve tenement house conditions to the extent required in the interests of public health. The obvious remedies are better tenement house laws and strict enforcement of them. The former is a proper subject of study by a special commission; the latter is the immediate concern of the Board of Health. No evidence of neglect to enforce existing tenement house laws has been presented to the Finance Commission. If the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees have such evidence, it should be presented to the Mayor, who should demand strict enforcement in the interests of the entire community.

3. Ventilation of School Buildings; Open-Air Classes.—The Finance Commission, as a result of its own observation and the statements of others, believes that there is improper ventilation in some of the schools. In some cases it is due to inadequate facilities, in others to the fear of fresh air. The commission also believes that the "open-air" schoolroom has been a successful experiment, and that more of such rooms should continue to be provided by the School Committee.

4. Physical Examination of School Children.—No complaint is made as to the manner in which tests of the sight and hearing of school children have been made, under section 5, chapter 502, of the Acts of 1906; but it is contended that a physical examination sufficiently thorough to determine whether children are tuberculous has not been made. The commission believes the statute in question is broad enough to require such an examination. The Board of Health admits, however, that such examinations have not been made up to last month. Various reasons were given by the Board of Health for the four years' delay to comply with the statute, but in the opinion of the commission none of the reasons are adequate. It is probable, however, that the necessity of such an examination as a means of preserving the public health has been exaggerated. The chairman of the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees estimates that 5,000, or approximately 5 per cent, of the public school children of Boston are "definitely tuberculous," and that 50,000, or about one-half of all the school children, have ailments "that will probably finally make for tuberculosis." But a recent examination of 2,602 of Boston's public school children, between the ages of fourteen and sixteen, has been made under another statute (1910, chapter 257), and it showed only fifteen cases, or slightly above one-half of one per cent of the whole number, in which "suspicious symptoms of present or impending tuberculosis were found." The examination was made in each of the last six months and the results are stated in a letter of the chairman of the Board of Health, a copy of which is hereto annexed. The physical examination of school children required by the law of 1906 will soon be made by the Board of Health, according to the statement of its members. When the number of children who are tuberculous is thus ascertained the means of providing for the care and education of such children should be carefully studied by the city's health authorities and the School Committee.

III. The Transfer of the Care of Boston's Consumptives' Hospital from the Board of Consumptives' Hospital Trustees.

Various suggestions have been made for transferring the jurisdiction over the city's consumptives' hospital from the present board to the state or city Board of Health or to the City Hospital Trustees. The Finance Commission believes that the city should retain jurisdiction of its consumptives' hospital, but that it should be under the supervision of the State Board of Health. It also believes that nothing would be gained by transferring the control of the hospital from the present Board to the City Hospital Trustees; nor is it prepared to recommend a transfer to the city Board of Health. It may be urged that the city Board of Health, which is the local central health authority, should have the management of all hospitals within the city. The Finance Commission believes, however, that the time for considering this transfer has not arrived. The subject may well be considered at a later period, when it is hoped the city Board of Health will be strengthened. The Finance Commission has frequently urged the appointment, as a third member of the Board, of a person qualified by education, training and experience for the performance of his duties, but so far without success.

IV. The Abuse of Public Charity.

The Consumptives' Hospital Trustees represented to the Finance Commission that many persons are admitted free to the various hospitals maintained by the city who are able to pay for treatment, and suggested that the Finance Commission investigate this question. The Finance Commission believes that it would be a profitable subject of investigation, but suggests that it would be made better by the trustees of the various hospitals themselves, as they have far more intimate knowledge of the facts than the Finance Commission could possibly acquire even after a long investigation.

The commission believes that chapter 4 of the City Ordinances of 1909 should be repealed, so that only inhabitants of Boston for at least two years be given admission to the Consumptives' Hospital, instead of leaving it open, as now, to any person from other parts of New England, or even from Canada, who may wish to take a residence in Boston for a period long enough to obtain free treatment, and perhaps for that purpose only.

The commission recommends:

1. That the Mayor urge the Legislature to adopt a plan for relieving Boston that is more equitable than the subsidy plan proposed by the state commission.

2. That the examination of school children for the purpose of ascertaining the existence of tuberculosis be made by the city Board of Health as speedily as possible.

3. That the School Committee take further steps to provide better ventilation in the public schools; and that the policy of establishing open-air rooms for sickly children be continued and extended.

4. That the city retain its consumptives' hospital at Mattapan, under the control of the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees, subject to the supervision of the State Board of Health.

5. That the Mayor request the trustees of the various city hospitals to make a thorough investigstion of the extent to which the city's hospitals are used by people who can afford to but do not pay for treatment.

6. That chapter 4 of the Ordinances of 1909 be repealed.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,

Chairman.

Health Department, Old Court House,
Boston, February 7, 1911.

Hon. John A. Sullivan,
Chairman Finance Commission,
Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—In compliance with your request I beg leave to make the following statement:

Under chapter 502, Acts of 1906, as amended by chapter 257, Acts of 1910, a physician appointed by the Board of Health is required to examine such children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years as have secured from the School Committee an employment ticket. This requirement of the Legislature went into effect August 1, 1910. The examinations for the first six months ending January 31, 1911, were as follows:

August	391	November	327
September	768	December	351
October	411	January	354
			2,602

These have been general physical examinations, and as to the finding of evidences of tuberculosis it may be said that there were found in cases in which suspicious symptoms of present or impending tuberculosis were found, and although insufficient to warrant a positive diagnosis, were cases calling for further examinations and proper surveillance.

August	1	November	3
September	3	December	1
October	3	January	4

Yours very truly,
S. H. DURGIN, Chairman.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

FINANCE COMMISSION REPORT—CITY DEBT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the Boston Finance Commission, under date of February 18, addressed to the honorable the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, relating to the city debt, with particular reference to pending legislation.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston Finance Commission,
410–413 Tremont Building,
February 18, 1911.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled:

In the annual report to the Legislature made by the Finance Commission under date of January 20, 1911, the commission stated that the subject of the city's debt would be treated in a later communication after the close of the city's financial year when the complete figures had become available; and the commission herewith submits a report upon the same.

The net debt of the city up to the close of its financial year, January 31, 1911, has been ascertained; but the city's share of the state and metropolitan district debts has not been ascertained beyond November 30, 1910, the close of the state's financial year, as the figures for the period beyond the latter date are not yet available. The city's debt, including its share of the state and metropolitan district debts, has, therefore, been computed as of November 30, 1910.

1. Increase in the Total Net Indebtedness of the City.

The city's share of the net state and metropolitan district debts on November 30, 1910, was $6,936,130.48 and $36,125,161.49 respectively, a total of $43,061,291.97. Between January 31, 1910, and

November 30, 1910, the city's share of the metropolitan district debt has been reduced from $36,427,575.11 to $36,125,161.49, a reduction of $302,413.62; in the same period the city's share of the state debt has increased from $6,721,727.10 to $6,936,130.48, an increase of $214,403.38. The city's share of both classes of debts has, therefore, been reduced in this period $88,010.24.

The net city and county debt increased in the same period from $71,345,972.58 to $73,198,701.40, an increase of $1,852,728.82.

The total net indebtedness of the city, including its share of the state and metropolitan district debts, was $116,259,993.37 on November 30, 1910, as compared with $114,495,274.79 on January 31, 1910, an increase of $1,764,718.58. A table showing the debt at the two periods in question divided into the various classes is hereto annexed and marked "Appendix A."*

* These figures do not include the city's share of the debt incurred for the Charles River Basin improvements, as the expense has not yet been apportioned.

2. Increase in Net City and County Debt.

The increase in the net indebtedness of the city and county for the entire fiscal year 1910–11 was $1,582,677.93, it having risen from $71,345,972.58 on January 31, 1910, to $72,928,650.51 on January 31, 1911. Exclusive of the net debt incurred for rapid transit purposes the net city debt at the beginning of the year was $56,777,630.06, and at its close $57,668,427.93, an increase of $890,797.87. This increase has not been due to lack of care on the part of the city government in the authorization of loans during the last year. On the contrary, as the commission has already stated in its annual report to the Legislature, the loan bills of this year have been given most careful consideration, and no general loan bill has been passed. The refusal of the City Council to pass a general loan bill is regarded by the Finance Commission as the most important reform of the past year. Such loan bills have been passed in former years by logrolling practices and by promises of patronage, practices which resulted in largely and unnecessarily increasing the city's debt. Each loan passed in the last year, however, has been separately considered on its merits, and many loan items which were either unnecessary or, though possessing some merit, could not be justified in the existing state of the city's finances, were rejected. The result of these improved methods respecting loans is that on December 31, 1910, there was left within the borrowing capacity $1,036,545.71, most of which would have been borrowed if the former careless methods which characterized the authorization of loans had prevailed.

A comparison of the amounts left unborrowed on December 31 of each of the last ten years shows that in only five of these years an amount was left unborrowed equal to the amount which the City Auditor and the Finance Commission believe should be retained as a reserve to meet emergencies, viz., $500,000. In 1901, 1903, 1904, 1906 and 1910 the amounts left unborrowed were as follows:

December 31.
1901	$1,490,346 01
1903	1,100,640 33
1904	682,400 00
1906	915,019 60
1910	1,036,545 71

In other years the amounts left unborrowed were as follows:

December 31.
1902	$367,167 74
1905	37,518 74
1907	52,657 17
1908	372,438 17
1909	301,146 53

In making this comparison December 31 has been chosen, as prior to the adoption of the charter amendments of 1909 the terms of the Mayor and members of the City Council ended on the first Monday in January.

The total amount of loans authorized by the Mayor and City Council in the past year is $2,767,500, as shown in a table hereto annexed and marked "Appendix B."

As the total amount of loans issued in the year 1910–11 was $4,615,500, and the loans authorized during the year amounted to only $2,767,500, it is apparent that the increase in the net city debt was not due to the loans authorized in the past year, but was rather due to loans issued last year which had been authorized in preceding years. Of the $4,615,500 borrowed last year, $1,000,000 was for rapid transit purposes, $1,000,000 for land and buildings for schools, $300,000 for sewerage works, $674,000 for separate systems of drainage and $1,641,500 for various municipal improvements, all as shown in Appendix C hereto annexed. For the rapid transit, school and separate systems of drainage loans the City Council is not responsible, as these loans are required by statute. An analysis showing the loans to which the last year's increase in debt is due would be long and not proportionately valuable. In general terms it may be stated that the increase was inevitable, due chiefly to a combination of several items, inherited from past years, which were actually issued this year; and that it is not an indication of a return to the alarming condition of growing debt which formerly prevailed.

3. Legislative Authority for Additional Loans.

The foregoing review shows that despite the care exercised by the present city government there has been an actual increase of nearly $900,000 in the net debt of the city, exclusive of the state, metropolitan district and rapid transit debts. This fact indicates that even greater care must be taken hereafter in order that the present heavy indebtedness of the city may be reduced. The Legislature should co-operate with the city to this end.

It has been charged frequently that the Legislature has forced the city to borrow money and that a large part of the heavy indebtedness of the city is due to such action. The commission believes that comparatively few of the loans authorized by the Legislature in the past have been forced upon the city, but that the greater part of them have been authorized as a result of petitions filed either by the Mayor of the city for the time being, or by its representatives in the Legislature. Notwithstanding the fact that most of the Legislative acts affecting the city's debt have been permissive rather than mandatory, the fact that they were permissive has often been forgotten at a later period, and officials of the city have taken advantage of this situation by stating that the city's heavy debt is due largely to loan acts thrust upon the city by the state.

The commission believes that the Legislature should, as far as possible, avoid even the appearance of compelling the city to increase its indebtedness, and suggests, as a means of accomplishing this purpose, that all future bills in the Legislature providing for the issuing of loans by the City of Boston be passed subject to acceptance by the Mayor and City Council. The question whether the city's financial condition warrants any particular loan can better be decided by the Mayor and City Council than by a committee of the Legislature, or by the Legislature itself. The commission believes that if future bills are passed subject to acceptance by the Mayor and City Council the responsibility will be more definitely fixed, fewer loans will be issued and the city's financial interests will be better protected.

In this connection the commission respectfully calls the attention of the Legislature to the fact that there are several bills now pending which, if passed, would operate to increase the city's debt and thereby add to the burdens of its tax payers. The list on page 28 shows the numbers of these various bills, the amounts which they authorize, the purposes for which the loans are sought, and whether they are inside or outside the statutory limit of indebtedness.

The amounts stated in these various bills aggregate $3,560,000, a sum which would be substantially increased if House Bills 811 and 812, in which the amount is not stated, should pass. The seven bills which name amounts provide for the borrowing of $1,100,000 inside and $2,460,000 outside the debt limit.

Loans Outside the Debt Limit.

Both the former and the present Finance Commissions have repeatedly urged that the policy of borrowing money outside the debt limit be discontinued, and the Legislature itself, by chapter 313 of the Acts of 1909, revoke all authority previously given under any special statute to borrow outside the debt limit, except so far as the issuance of such loans might be necessary to pay amounts due on contracts made prior to June 1, 1909, or to Number.	Amount.	Purpose.	Debt Limit.

			Inside.	Outside.
House 1003	$60,000 00	Playground at Governor's Island		Outside.
House 576	300,000 00	Addition to City Hospital		Outside.
House 446	1,100,000 00	City Hall Annex		Outside.
Senate 295	1,000,000 00	High pressure water service	Inside.
House 400	Amount not stated.	Widening Pleasant street to Tremont street.	Inside.
House 720	900,000 00	Widening Pleasant street to Park square.		Outside.
House 811	Amount not stated.	Street connecting Huntington avenue with Audubon road.	Inside.
House 812	Amount not stated.	Extension of Boylston street across Back Bay Fens.	Inside.

Senate 196	100,000 00	Bath house and gymnasium at Tenean brook.	Inside.

pay executions of court on suits brought under the acts authorizing said loans prior to said date; and also except for rapid transit purposes. As a result of this act the former practice of borrowing outside the debt limit has been discontinued, greatly to the advantage of the city. To authorize loans outside the debt limit now would be to reverse the policy established by the Legislature of 1909 and to impose additional burdens upon the taxpayers of the city. It may be necessary for the Legislature, in exceptional cases, to authorize loans outside the debt limit, but in such cases the legislative acts should be subject to the acceptance of the Mayor and City Council, whom the people of the city hold responsible for its financial condition.

The commission believes, therefore, that House Bills 1003, 576, 720 and 1207 should be rejected by the Legislature. House Bill 446 might well be rejected on the same ground, but the commission believes that it provides for an object which fairly constitutes an exception to the rule that the city should not be authorized to borrow outside the debt limit. This bill provides for an addition to City Hall and calls for an expenditure of $1,100,000. It is probable that the money could not be provided inside the debt limit without making it difficult to provide other necessary municipal improvements. It may be that the erection of an addition to the City Hall will save the city money, as large amounts are now spent for the rental of quarters outside City Hall. The commission does not pass upon the necessity for the addition to City Hall. The commission believes, however, that the question whether an addition to the City Hall should be provided at all, as well as the question whether if provided it should be by loans inside or outside the debt limit, should be determined finally by the Mayor and City Council. The commission, therefore, respectfully suggests that this bill, if passed, be made to take effect only upon acceptance by the Mayor and City Council.

Loans Inside the Debt Limit.

The commission also calls attention to the fact that the city has the right, under existing statutes, to borrow within the debt limit for such objects as are provided for by Senate Bill 196 and House Bills 400, 811 and 812, viz., for street widenings, street construction and bath houses and gymnasiums. Therefore, as no further legislative authority is needed, these bills should be rejected.

On the same ground Senate Bill 295, providing $1,000,000 for a high pressure water service, could be rejected, but as the bill seeks to establish definitely the policy of the city by providing that loans shall be passed in each year until the total amount authorized has been issued, thus insuring the completion of the work, an exception may well be made in this case. Moreover, this bill, unlike the others under consideration, provides that the act shall not take effect until it has been accepted by the Mayor and City Council.

There may be other bills now pending in the Legislature, besides those already enumerated, which are obnoxious to the principles herein defined, and the commission respectfully requests that such bills be considered in the light of the recommendations herein made.

The commission recommends:

1. That all bills now pending providing for loans for bath house, playgrounds, hospital, street construction and street widening be rejected, viz., Senate 196, House 1003, 1207, 576, 811, 812, 400, 720.
2. That House Bill 446, providing for an addition to the City Hall, be amended so that the act shall take effect only upon its acceptance by the Mayor and City Council.

Respectfully submitted,

The Finance Commission,
by John A. Sullivan,
Chairman.

Thomas M. Babson, Esq.,
Corporation Counsel:

Dear Sir,—The Wigglesworth house on Park street is being torn down. The rear wall of ell of this house is on the Granary Burying Ground. At direction of Chairman Mr. Phipps of this department, I requested the Engineering Department to take the matter of lines up before any work of rebuilding is commenced. They advise that it would be more advisable to have your department called into the case at once, as there are some complications, and it may be all a question of law. Will you please give this your attention.

Yours truly,
JOHN FRANK KEATING, Secretary.

City of Boston,
Law Department, March 5, 1909.

Board of Trustees, Cemetery Department,
City Hall, Boston:

Gentlemen,—My engagements before the Legislature is my excuse for not answering the letter sent me by your secretary before this time. Replying to your inquiries, I would say first, in regard to the Wigglesworth estate, this lot bounds at the rear on the cemetery, the line therefore is an uncertain one. As far as I can ascertain there has been a brick wall marking the division line between this estate and the cemetery for a great many years, and the Wigglesworth estate undoubtedly owns to the line of that wall.

(Remainder of letter refers to other matters.)

Yours truly,
THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

City of Boston,
Cemetery Department, May 7, 1909.

Thomas M. Babson, Esq.,
Corporation Counsel:

Dear Sir,—Referring to your favor of March 5 in re Wigglesworth estate encroachment on Granary Burying Ground. Chairman Mr. Phipps and Mr. Grew, representing this estate, viewed the premises on the 6th inst., and it was concluded that the matter should go to you on question of the estate holding the cemetery land on account of occupancy. The measurements and photos of the Engineering Department seem to show that this estate built on the rear walls of the tombs adjacent. They recently tore down their ell which rested on this wall to the ground, and without permission of this department and against our remonstrance, placed a concrete base on the wall. They claim the land covered by this concrete base.

Similar occupancy of the rear wall of the tombs has been taken by the abutters to the corner of Park and Beacon streets. The house at the corner of Park and Beacon streets and the house adjoining on Beacon street have gone even at greater length, without permission of this department, by placing fire escapes at the rear of the buildings, which run close to the burying ground level and extend out several feet even beyond the rear tomb walls. This is not old construction. Whether they will eventually endeavor to make claim to the land we do not know, but you can undoubtedly determine what rights, if any, the fire escapes may give to the land beneath in course of time.

The record of the selectmen of Boston, April 13, 1721, bears upon this matter particularly, as it gives the origin of the brick wall which extended above ground and rested on the tomb walls from the corner of Park and Beacon streets to Tremont street.

The Engineering Department has made actual measurements and taken photos during and before the work at the Wigglesworth estate, and this department is ready to determine, if necessary, the actual location of the rear wall of the tombs. In nearly every case the abutters tore the wall down which extended above ground when they constructed the additions. If the city can claim that the abutters own to the wall of the tombs, or to the cemetery line, as their deeds read (and these lines seem to be identical), the trustees beg to be advised what action can be taken. Does the tearing down of the ell at the Wigglesworth estate make void any claim which they might have held on account of occupancy.

Yours truly,
CHARLES E. PHIPPS,
Chairman of the Board of Trustees
of the Cemetery Department.

City of Boston,
Cemetery Department, June 9, 1909.

Thomas M. Babson, Esq.,
Corporation Counsel:

Dear Sir,—The Trustees of this department expect to meet on Monday next, and ask if you can reply by that time to their letter of May 7 respecting encroachments on Granary Burying Ground on Park street side.

Based upon careful estimates, the value of the land encroached upon is about $8,000, and members of the Board have been informed, unofficially, by legal opinion that the courts will not sanction such encroachments.

Yours truly,
JOHN FRANK KEATING, Secretary.

City of Boston,
Law Department, June 11, 1909.

To the Cemetery Trustees,
Room 76, City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sirs,—The letter of your secretary of the 9th inst. was received. In reply I would say that not understanding your letter of May 7, I referred it to the Conveyancing Department of my office, and not having heard from them I have not replied.

As far as the inquiry is made concerning certain fire escapes I would say that if the Cemetery Trustees object to these fire escapes I am of the opinion that if a bill in equity were brought against the owners of these estates their removal could be compelled. As the fire escapes have been put up under direction of and with the approval of the Building Department I do not think that the owners of the real estate can acquire any rights by maintaining their fire escapes over a portion of the cemetery. As a measure of precaution your Board might get from the owners of these buildings an acknowledgment that these fire escapes are maintained with the permission of the Cemetery Trustees, or if requested by your Board I will have a bill in equity brought to compel their removal.

Now as to the alleged encroachment. As I wrote in my letter of March 5, there are no boundaries fixed for either the cemetery or for this Wigglesworth estate by deed or record. I am informed that the Wigglesworth estate has maintained a wall on the present line of their fence for more than fifty years. If that is true, then they have a right to maintain their present fence on the line of the old one. If your Board has any evidence that the line of the present fence is beyond the line of the old fence and will communicate that evidence to me with directions to bring suit, I will bring one. I do not think it makes any difference as to whether there was or was not a piece of a tomb projecting under that fence line. Instead of assuming as you do in your letter that there is an encroachment I think it would be better to give me the facts on which you base that claim.

Yours truly,
THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

P. S. As the City of Boston in 1721 owned the land between the cemetery and what is now Park street, which was occupied hy the almshouse and other town buildings, I cannot see what the records of the selectmen of 1721 have to do with this matter, but you might forward me a copy.

City of Boston,
Cemetery Department, January 26, 1911.
Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—Herewith is returned City Council order of January 16, 1911:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to direct the proper authorities to make a careful investigation into the matter of the present boundary lines of the South Burial Ground on Washington street and of the Granary Burial Ground on Tremont street, with a view to determining hy accurate and official surveys whether any part of those burial grounds have heen taken and are used for private purposes.

Respecting Granary Burying Ground.

The Selectmen's Records of April 13, 1721, show that this ground was enlarged on the south side and a line of tomhs was authorized to he huilt on this south linc "on condition they (the tomh owners) would carry up and maintain a brick wall on said line at the end of their tomhs." These are the tombs which now exist and are in the rear of estates on Park street from Tremont to Beacon street. There is also evidence to-day that said wall or a portion of it still remains. While it has been stated that the city prohihited any building erected on Park street to extend to a point less than fifteen feet from the hurying ground wall, we have thus far heen unable to find any record of such prohihition. But it is a fact that for many years there was a space hetween the rear of buildings fronting on Park street and the hurying ground wall, and a view of the premises will show that some of these extensions towards the cemetery are of fairly recent construction, but before this department was organized in 1897, with exception given below. When these extensions were made the wall of the cemetery was used as the lower rear wall of the extension or the cemetery wall was demolished and a new wall built for the extension on the site of the old wall.

On Decemher 31, 1908, and a few days later the Engineering and Law Departments were asked to determine the boundary line hetween the cemetery and the estate No. 1 Park street, as the building at that place was heing demolished. Notwithstanding the protest of this department the new huilding was constructed and the rear line extends even a little beyond the boundary of the old line. On June 11, 1909, the Law Department made a reply as per copy attached. Since that time this Board has not taken action. The facts are that these estates have utilized the rear wall of the tomhs or the site of said wall for their purposes, and this Board has presented all the facts in their possession to the Law Department.

Respecting South End South Burying Ground.

On November 15, 1910, this Board appointed a committee to investigate the houndaries of the South End South Ground upon its own initiative, as a matter of department information. This investigation is now proceeding, and it can hc said that we are not as yet aware of any encroachment since the organization of the department in 1897. Subject to any further findings, it can he said now that this hurying ground remained intact from its estahlishment in 1810 until 1865, when the city permitted George H. Davis to purchase a portion of the ground on the northerly side,—said portion being twenty-six feet wide and extending the entire depth of the ground from Washington to James street,—a space ten feet wide heing reserved for a passageway out of the twenty-six feet. Later the city sold more of the ground on the northerly side, and a reference to city documents of 1883 and 1884 will give very complete accounts of the sales and attempted sales. Until our investigation is completed we will not he in a position to give a detailed story of the numerous transactions.

While we are anxious to obtain for our own information all the facts ohtainable concerning transactions in and adjoining thc cemeteries under our control, it is only fair to state that we are not in a position to determine the legality of the transactions or even to say that our researches are absolutely complete. But such information as we can gather from various sources may he referred to and aid the departments who may he in a position to pass upon any questions involved.

Yours respectfully,
CHARLES E. PHIPPS,
Chairman of the Board of Trustees
of the Cemetery Department.

Thomas M. Babson, Esq.,
Corporation Counsel,
Tremont Building, Boston:

Dear Sir,—His Honor Mayor Fitzgerald has directed me to refer to you a communication from the chairman of the Trustees of the Cemetery Department, relating to an order of the City Council which requests an investigation into the boundary lines of the South and Granary Burial Grounds. Mr. Phipps refers in his statement to an opinion of the Law Department which seems to imply that the facts as presented to the Corporation Counsel did not, in his judgment, warrant any legal challenge of the position of the owners of adjoining estates. His Honor would he pleased to receive any information that you can give him that would tend to throw light upon a situation which is now somewhat ohscure.

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM A. LEAHY, Secretary.

William A. Leahy, Esq., Secretary,
Mayor's Office, City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—I can see nothing in my letter to the Cemetery Trustees of June 11, 1909, which seems to imply that the facts as presented to me would not in my judgment warrant any legal challenge of the position of the owners of the adjoining estates.

In my letter I say that if they object to these fire escapes I will if requested by the Cemetery Trustees hring a hill in equity to compel their removal.

In reference to the alleged encroachment I say that there was no boundary fixed by deed or record for either the cemetery or for the Wigglesworth estate: that I am informed that the Wigglesworth estate has maintained a wall on the present line of their fence for more than fifty years. I then go on to say: "If your Board has any evidence that the line of the present fence is heyond the line of the old fence and will communicate that evidence to me with directions to hring suit, I will hring one."

I never received a request from the Cemetery Trustees to bring a suit and have never heen informed by them of their having any evidence in their possession that the present fence or wall is beyond the line of the old fence or wall. If the Cemetery Trustees have any person or persons who will testify as to any encroachment I will bring proceedings.

From the fact that the trustees never replied to my letter I supposed they had no such evidence.

Yours truly,
THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

P. S. Mr. Owen of the conveyancer's department has the abstract of these titles. The town of Boston once owned these Park street lots. It sold them along in 1801 and the deeds give the rear line as the cemetery. As there are no depths given, the question is, where was the cemetery line in 1801,—where was it when this Wigglesworth estate built out the new wall?

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,
City Hall, February 27, 1911.
Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor:

Dear Sir,—In accordance with your suggestion the Board of Street Commissioners has had a careful examination made of the boundary lines of the South Burial Ground on Washington street and the Granary Burial Ground on Tremont street, with a view of determining whether or not any part of these hurial grounds have heen taken and are being used for private purposes. The examination was made under the direction of Mr. F. O. Whitney, chief engineer of the department, who reports as follows:

"In regard to the South Burial Ground on Washington street, I find that no part of the same is being used for private purposes. I do find, however, that the hodies have not all been removed from the portion transferred to the New England Conservatory of Music.

"In regard to the Granary Burial Ground on Tremont street, I find that in the rear of No. 1 Park street, the Wigglesworth Real Estate Trust has erected a fence on top of the old burial ground wall, which encroaches about four inches at the easterly end heyond the main wall of a huilding recently removed from the Wigglesworth estate.

"A fire escape has been placed upon the Park Street Churcb by agreement with the City of Boston.

"The following projections bave been constructed and maintained above ground, overhanging the burial ground, and, as far as I have been ahle to ascertain, without authority from tbe City of Boston, except as far as the Building Commissioner may bave ordered fire escapes or approved the plans and construction of such projections as are for safety or architectural effect:

"On the rear of No. 6 Park street, on the building owned by Alfred Bowditch et al., trustees, a fire escape attached to the main building.

"On the property owned by the Union Club a halcony projects, overhanging the burial ground about fiye feet ahove the surface.

"On the estate of the heirs of Susan W. Farwell a halcony projects from the second floor.

"From the building owned hy the American Congregational Society, balconies overhang from the second and fourth floors. The coping of the building also projects over the burial ground.

"On the Tremont Building the copings overhang.

"I have not made definite plans of these details, hut will hold myself in readiness to do so should the occasion warrant."

Very truly yours,
J. J. O'Callaghan, Secretary.

PRECINCT REDIVISION, WARD 20.

Coun. COLLINS, for the Special Committee on Redivision of Precincts, Ward 20, submitted a report recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That a new division be made of that portion of Ward 20 heretofore included in Precincts 4, 6, 14 of said ward into four precincts, to be known as precincts 4, 6, 14, 16, and said precincts are constituted as follows:

Ward 20. Precinct 4.

All that part of said ward lying within the following described line: Beginning at the intersection of tbe centre lines of Stoughton street and Columbia road; tbence through tbe centre lines of Stoughton and Salcombe streets, Cushing and Sawyer avenues, Pleasant, Hancock, Higb and Church streets, the portion of Bowdoin street south of Eaton square, Bowdoin, Quincy, Bellevue, Trull and Hancock streets and Columbia road to the point of beginning. 681 voters.

Ward 20. Precinct 6.

All tbat part of said ward lying within tbe following described line: Beginning at the intersection of tbe centre lines of Adams street and Dorcbester avenue; thence through the centre lines of Dorchester avenue to the centre line of location of the Shawmut branch of tbe New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad; thence through the centre line of location of said railroad to the centre line of Geneva avenue; thence througb the centre lines of Geneva avenue and Homes avenue and Adams street to tbe point of beginning. 677 voters.

Ward 20. Precinct 14.

All that part of said ward lying witbin tbe following described line: Beginning at tbe intersection of the centre lines of Draper street and Homes avenue; tbence througb tbe centre lines of Homes and Geneva avenues to the centre line of location of the Midland Division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad; tbence througb the centre line of location of said railroad to tbe centre line of Columbia road; thence through the centre lines of Columbia road, Ricbfield, Barry, Clarkson, Hamilton, Bowdoin and Draper streets to tbe point of beginning. 741 voters.

Ward 20. Precinct 16.

All tbat part of said ward lying within the following described line: Beginning at the intersection of tbe centre lines of Columbia road and Hancock street; thence througb tbe centre lines of Hancock, Trull, Bellevue, Quincy, Bowdoin, Hamilton, Clarkson, Barry and Richfield streets and Columbia road to the point of beginning. 733 voters.

The question came on accepting the report and passing the order.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. Chairman, an order was presented by me two weeks ago asking that tbere be a redivision of the precincts of Ward 20. It seems tbat there is one precinct, Precinct 6, whicb has a number of voters exceeding one thousand, and under the statute it is mandatory for the city to change tbe precinct lines wben that takes place. Accordingly you appointed a committee of three, of which I am chairman. We waited on the Election Commissioners, and this is the report. As a matter of fairness to both parties in the district, I notified, through the Election Commissioners, tbe chairmen of the Democratic and Republican ward committees. They both came, I understand, to the Election Commissioners and signified tbeir approval of this proposition. Accordingly, since tbe police listing takes place witbin a few weeks, I now offer tbis order, trusting it will pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

HALF HOLIDAYS, CEMETERY EMPLOYEES.

Coun. McDONALD offered an order—That under the provisions of chapter 587 of tbe Acts of 1908 the Cemetery Trustees be hereby autborized to allow half holidays on Saturdays to all employees of the Cemetery Department, without loss of pay, during the present financial year.

Referred to tbe Executive Committee.

WIDENING OF NORFOLK STREET.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit to the City Council an estimate of the cost of widening Norfolk street, Dorchester, from Codman square to Blue Hill avenue, to a widtb of 60 feet.

Passed.

RECREATION DEPARTMENT DISCUSSION.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer tbe following order whicb I will read:

Ordered, Tbat tbe Corporation Counsel be requested to confer with his Honor the Mayor with a view to framing a new draft of ordinance abolishing tbe Bath, Music and Public Grounds Departments and transferring their duties to the Park Department, so as to put into force a consolidation of tbe entire recreation service of the city, and thereafter to submit to the City Council sucb draft of ordinance.

And in this connection be it further ordered that tbe City Clerk send to tbe Corporation Counsel copies of the following papers: Communication of his Honor the Mayor to the City Council, dated October 17, 1910, printed on page 324 of 1910 proceedings of City Council relating to this subject; communication from the Finance Commission to the Mayor and City Council, dated December 5, 1910, and printed on page 362 of 1910 proceedings of City Council relating to tbis subject; ordinance passed by the City Council at its meeting February 4, 1911, abolisbing tbe Bath, Music and Public Grounds Departments and transferring their duties to the Park Department; communication from bis Honor the Mayor to tbe City Council, dated February 14, 1911, printed on page 19 of 1911 proceedings of City Council relating to this subject.

Mr. Chairman, in presenting this order I desire to say that this is not a new subject for the consideration of the Council. Last October his Honor the Mayor submitted a communication in whicb be recommended the carrying into effect of this proposition. From time to time things have appeared in the Press that have suggested that tbere may be some outside influence being brought to bear to carry this proposition through the Council. As one who has been more or less active in the prosecution or presentation of this subject I desire to say that, so far as I am personally concerned, I know of no outside influence which has interested itself in this matter. Certainly no sucb influence has presented itself before me. Indeed, last November, in the early part of the month, I had in mind myself the suggestion to the Council of such an ordinance, and I had gone so far as to draft an ordinance in which I had not only included these departments but two other departments, before I learned that the Mayor had already submitted this very proposition in October to tbe Council. I had overlooked that fact. I had been away the first of October and for tbe two or tbree meetings which followed this recommendation by tbe Mayor, which is dated October 17, and which came in, I believe, October 24; but in order to show that this is not a matter whicb has been brought about or urged by any outside influence I wisb to say to tbe Council that I bad it in mind myself, and that I now have in my desk two or tbree drafts of ordinances looking to tbis consolidation. Subsequent to tbe Mayor's recommendation the Finance Commission took the matter up at the suggestion, I believe, of the Mayor, or, if my recollection serves me, the Mayor sent to tbe Finance Commission a copy of the same communication wbich he had sent to this Board, and on December 5 the Finance Commission, in a communication addressed to tbe Mayor and City Council, recommended that we adopt tbe suggestion contained in the Mayor's communication. Some time in December, having in mind, subsequent to the filing of that report by both tbe Mayor and the Finance Commission, that this was a very important matter, and wisbing to proceed carefully, I took the precaution to present to the Council an order asking the Law Department to prepare an ordinance, in order tbat we might have before us something about the legality of which tbere could be no question. Tbat order passed tbe Council and tbe Law Department submitted to the City Council a draft of an ordinance. I fear that that has not been clearly understood. I fear that a great many people bave been proceeding on the theory, or have been inclined to do so, that our action was taken very hastily. The recommendation came from the Mayor on the 17th of October; we did not pass the ordinance until the very last day of the old year. We could not have postponed it to a later period and still bave acted during the Council year of 1910.

Therefore, I fail to see wherein there can be any fair criticism that we acted in a hasty manner. We could not have taken more time and have complied with the recommendation of his Honor the Mayor. I am just as firmly of the opinion as ever that this is a very proper ordinance, that it should be taken up and that action should be taken by the Council. The draft which we had before us was the work of our Law Department, a department which is costing the City of Boston $50,000 a year to maintain, and it seems to me that the work of the department has not met with the respect and the reception it should have met at the hands of some officials of the City of Boston. I hope we can overcome whatever objections there may be to this ordinance on the part of his Honor the Mayor. I want to meet him half way; I want to co-operate with him as I think this Council does. He sent in here a veto of that ordinance. He gave no reasons, logical reasons, why it should not be adopted, but he does say that he is still in favor of such a consolidation brought about in a manner that will meet with his approval. I want the Corporation Counsel to get together with the Mayor and to give us the result of their joint conference, submitting to this Board something which the Mayor can sign and let us then see if we can adopt it. At that time, of course, it will be a proper subject for discussion, and if we see fit to amend it we can do so. But I think this is the proper time for action. Let the Corporation Counsel and the Mayor get together and do something.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I move reference to the Executive Committee. My reason for the motion is not that I object to what is proposed, because I am heartily in favor of something of the kind, but I think likely we may thus be able to show the Corporation Counsel which way our minds trend upon this question. As far as I can make out, there are three alternatives,—first, an unpaid Board; second, a Board with a paid head, and with two others unpaid; and, finally, a single expert head. I think we ought to discuss those alternatives and suggest to the Corporation Counsel which of the three we approve of. I have very strong opinions personally, and I would not like to have the things come up before us in a form of which I did not approve.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, that is the very thing I wish to bring about, but I think the time to do it is now and here, in open session of the Council. This order does not commit the Council to any special form of ordinance. We have already attempted to meet the demands which are before us in this respect by passing an ordinance. The Mayor has vetoed it. It was really an ordinance prepared by the Law Department which he vetoed, with one or two amendments that the Council made. Now, why is it not better to allow the Mayor and the Corporation Counsel to sit down and talk this matter over, and say what they want? We can then determine afterwards what we want. Why can't we make better progress in that manner? It seems to me we should not refer this to the Executive Committee. We cannot do a thing there this afternoon that we cannot do here in open session. If the matter is to be discussed let us discuss it now. I hope my friend's suggestion will not be acted on, and I hope he will not insist on it. I think if the matter is allowed to proceed in the manner outlined in the order, we can get at it much more quickly and in a better way.

Coun. HALE—Mr. Chairman, I do not like to enter into debate on this subject when both the councilor and I agree on the ultimate purpose to be attained. Perhaps it may be just as well to discuss the matter now, but I think if we do that it would really be better for the Council to prepare an ordinance at this time, and then put it up to the Mayor. We can then consult with the Mayor, get his ideas, and incorporate them if deemed advisable, and get the Corporation Counsel's ideas. But the last time the experiment was tried the order came from the Mayor first, and we thought he approved of it. Afterwards, however, he vetoed it; so that method did not seem to work. I do not believe we can get the same results in the way suggested by the councilor that we would if we sat down and carefully prepared an ordinance along the lines we believe in. As I have said before I have very strong ideas on the question of paid and unpaid boards. I think this reorganized department should be under a single head, and that he should be paid a large enough amount to enable us to get just the single head we want. I don't care how much we pay him if we get the right man to look after the job. Then there might be two other members of the Board unpaid, with advisory powers, or with the power of veto, or they might simply give advice from time to time. That might be a good plan to consider. But I do feel sure that we want to have a paid head at the top, having all the responsibility center in him. I do not see why we cannot assume the responsibility of drafting a proper ordinance. We can have the Mayor at our conferences at times and ask him what he thinks of the various propositions. But I think we should assume the responsibility of getting an ordinance that we believe in That is the reason why I should rather have it stay in the hands of the Council than in the hands of the Mayor.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I don't know as it will do any good for me to talk on this matter to-day, but, like Coun. Hale and Kenny, I also have strong ideas on this subject. It seems to me that the matter was thoroughly threshed out at the meeting on February 4. At that time the ordinance that was passed here without my vote did not meet with the approval of the Mayor. No matter what ordinance we may pass in the future he can also veto that. So it seems to me, if anything in this line is to come up in the future, the initiative should be taken by his Honor the Mayor. Coun. Kenny said he believed exactly as his Honor the Mayor did on the consolidation principle; but I want to say now that I do not believe as his Honor the Mayor does on the consolidation principle, or as he professes to believe. I am absolutely opposed to it. I believe thoroughly that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and I think we ought to stop right here and now and kill the order—not letting it go to the Executive Committee, but killing it here in the open session. I believe in having paid heads of all departments, even if we have to go to Texas or even to South America to get them, no matter where they may come from. But I believe we should stop this consolidation business right here and now and get down to a really practical way of running the City of Boston. If we keep on we shall be the laughing stock of the entire country. If we consolidate here and consolidate there, by the time we get through we will have one man running the City of Boston. I hope this year's City Council—even with the respect I have for my friend from South Boston—will kill this proposition right here and now.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like to read what the Mayor said on this subject in his communication dated February 14:

"I return herewith, without my approval, an ordinance passed by your honorable body at its meeting of February 4, abolishing the Bath, Music and Public Grounds Departments and transferring their duties to the Park Department. My objection is not so much to the substance of the ordinance as to its form."

I call attention to those words, Mr, President,—"my objection is not so much to the substance of the ordinance as to its form."

"Apparently the City Council has done no more than absorb the Bath, Music and Public Grounds Departments into the existing Park Department, with its present board of commissioners, modified only by the awarding of a salary of $5,000 per annum to the chairman. What I had hoped, in recommending in a communication of an earlier date the general subject to your consideration, was the framing of an ordinance which should not merely consolidate but reorganize the entire recreation service of the city."

Mr. President, I think it will be a mistake if this Council refers this matter to the Executive Committee for the purpose of further discussion among ourselves and without knowing just what the Mayor would like to have done. It merely means delay, at the very best. It seems to me if the Council is desirous of bringing this matter to a head, to a speedy determination, we ought to consult the Mayor and the Mayor ought to be allowed to consult with his Corporation Counsel. I do not see how any good can possibly come out of referring this matter to the Executive Committee. You are simply going to tie it up. It seems to me that if we allow the Mayor and Corporation Counsel to confer and give us the results of their judgment we will come much nearer reaching a conclusion ourselves. It does not bind us. We can adopt the suggestions of my friend Coun. Hale, if we see fit, after we have a report from the Law Department. But this is a very important matter. It is a technical matter, and that is one of the reasons for the existence of our Law Department, to prepare drafts of ordinances for us. It is a very proper request for us to make, and I can see no possible objection to adopting my order now without referring it to the Executive Committee. All the rights of the Council are preserved. When the matter comes back to us we can thresh it out and send for the Mayor. Perhaps then we can have a union of minds on the matter. The Mayor may come to our opinion or we may come to his. But I think this is the proper way to proceed, and I hope this will not be referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, it seems to me on a matter of this size no harm can come from having this referred to the Executive Committee, provided the Executive Committee acts on it to-day. There are members of the Council here who perhaps have not gone over this correspondence as minutely as some other members, and in a matter of this consequence, in which so much is at stake, it seems to me we should proceed with due haste but at the same time deliberately. Since this is a matter concerning thousands of people in the City of Boston and also concerning the revenue and the resources of the city, in so far as these departments are concerned, it seems to me wise that the matter should be referred to the Executive Committee—not, however, incorporating Mr. Hale's ideas, but acting on it forthwith to-day.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, if the matter can be acted on to-day I have no objection to its being referred to the Executive Committee,—none at all, with that understanding.

Coun. HALE—Before I vote on the reference, what does the councilor mean by acting on it to-day.

Coun. KENNY—That we shall report back from the Executive Committee to this Board this afternoon.

Coun. HALE—That, of course, is entirely satisfactory to me.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, before that is put to a vote I would like to know what additional information we can get in Executive Committee that we cannot get here in open session? If the committee is going to report back this afternoon I do not think it can give the weighty consideration to the problem that it would like to have the public think that it gives to these matters. We tell the public that we are going to consider these matters, to give weighty consideration to them, and then we simply sit down for a few minutes and say, "What do you think?" "What do you think?" "What do you think?"—and that is all there is to it. We might just as well have it out here now, if the committee is going to report back to-day; so I hope it will not be referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I am perfectly willing to withdraw my motion to refer to the Executive Committee if I can have an amendment adopted by which the Corporation Counsel will be requested to draft an ordinance which will provide for a single paid head at the head of this new department. I think, for instance, that it would be foolish to have the Corporation Counsel prepare a careful ordinance based on lines that we disagree with, and unless we go at this in a proper way it simply means duplicating the work of the Law Department and duplicating our own work. I would like very much to find how the Council feels about having a paid head. I know one question raised in connection with a paid head is the question of land-takings. It seems to me that can be obviated very easily by having additional advisory members, such as I referred to, perhaps having the veto power on that one thing. The land-taking power of the Park Department would be a comparatively small part of its duties, and I think perhaps in land-takings it would be just as well to have an advisory committee or members who would have a veto power in regard to land-taking. That would in no way lesson the responsibility of the head of the department for the administration of this huge department. I can see no reason why the Council cannot go on record here now on the question of whether it favors an unpaid Board, a paid head with unpaid associates, or a single paid head upon whom the whole department rests. I would like to offer such an amendment, and if I may do so I would be willing to withdraw my motion to refer.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—The Chair will rule that Coun. Hale's motion to refer takes precedence, unless Coun. Kenny is willing that this amendment by Coun. Hale shall be added to his motion. In that event the motion as amended might take precedence of the original motion.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, with all due respect to my friend Hale I shall be very glad indeed to join with him in any scheme or plan he may have in regard to the perfection of the ordinance. But I cannot agree to his latest suggestion. I should like to have this go to the Law Department or his Honor the Mayor unencumbered; I should like to have them take it up de novo. We have already passed an ordinance which we thought was a proper ordinance. I still think so. I have no doubt my friend on the other side of the Chamber still thinks so. Now, why hamper the Corporation Counsel with any conditions? Why not have him with the Mayor prepare an ordinance such as the Mayor desires and then let the Council take up the questions that are suggested here by Coun. Hale? We can then, if it is deemed advisable, conform to the suggestions proposed, inserting something in the ordinance if it does not as presented to us meet with our wishes. It may come back to us in such a form that we can all agree to it, with the possible exception of my friend from Charlestown. Therefore, I cannot accept the suggestion of Coun. Hale, but must ask that the matter be passed upon now, and in view of the suggestions by Coun. Buckley, and also in view of what has been said here by others, I am going to vote against reference to the committee.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I cannot see why, this being an important matter, it should not be referred to the Executive Committee. As I have listened to the order as read by Coun. Kenny, it means just the same as the ordinance we passed here the fourth of February. The Mayor's objection to the ordinance at that time was that it abolished the Bath, Public Grounds and Music Departments and consolidated them with the Park Department. This order reads in the same way. I think this is an important matter; I think the amendments suggested by Mr. Hale are important and I don't think we should be asked to vote on the matter without thorough consideration. If we are not going to refer this to the Executive Committee I move that it be postponed to the next meeting, so that the members may have a chance to consider the proposed amendment and the order as introduced before being asked to vote upon it. We should not act upon this matter hastily. I hope it will be referred or postponed.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—Does the gentleman move postponement to one week from to-day?

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. Chairman, in case it is not referred to the Executive Committee I shall make that motion.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it seems to me that this matter has taken rather a chaotic turn. I see no occasion for these declarations of what we want or don't want at this time. We will have time by and by to consider what we desire and what we will vote for. That is not the point at all now. We have already passed an ordinance that did not meet with the approval of the Mayor. I am now trying to bring about an ordinance that will meet with the approval of the Mayor.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, possibly all the members who voted for that ordinance February 4, are of the opinion of Coun. Kenny. But his order as introduced to-day distinctly says, unless I misunderstood the order as read, that the Public Grounds, Music and Bath Departments be abolished and consolidated with the Park Department. The Mayor says he objects to any sort of consolidation. If we are proposing to pass an order instructing the Mayor as to what he is to do when he confers with the Corporation Counsel and he already has said that he objects to such a consolidation, what is the use of sending the order to him? Why not draw it up properly and send it to him in proper form? Let the Mayor and Corporation Counsel draw up an ordinance and send it to us and if we think proper we can amend it or pass it. But the order introduced here specifically instructs the Mayor and Corporation Counsel what to do, to abolish three departments and consolidate them with the Park Department. The Mayor objects to that and so stated in his veto.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it must be very evident here that the gentleman from Charlestown is mistaken. He has stated almost exactly what I have already said as to what I wish here. The Mayor and the Corporation Counsel have no right to pass an ordinance; they have no right even to frame an ordinance. We are to pass the ordinance. The Mayor has not said he does not believe in the consolidation; on the contrary, he has said that he does. Now, I will take the very words of my friend from Charlestown and incorporate them in my statement. That is what I want to do, to have submitted to this body an ordinance that we can consider, not necessarily that we shall pass.

The question came on reference to the Executive Committee.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I would like to amend the motion by moving that we give a hearing to the heads of each of the departments interested, and then report back to the City Council after having that hearing.

Chairman BALLANTYNE—The Chair does not quite understand the motion.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, my idea is that the committee shall not report back to-day, but shall summon the Park Commissioners, the Bath Trustees, the Trustees of the Music Department and the Superintendent of Public Grounds Department, all the departments supposed to come under this consolidation, and after hearing what they have to say, report back to the City Council.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I trust that that amendment will not prevail. It seems to me that we are putting the cart before the horse here. All that can come later. When we have the ordinance back we will know what the Mayor is willing to sign, and then we can consult, if we wish, with the heads of the departments. We are not going to pass an ordinance to-day or next Monday. I shall be perfectly willing to have the heads of departments come before us and to give them a full hearing on the matter. I simply wish to proceed in an orderly manner and with expedition. We can pass the order I have offered this afternoon. The Mayor and Corporation Counsel can prepare a draft of an ordinance and submit it to us. Then, before taking our position on the matter, we can, if we wish, having found out what kind of an ordinance the Mayor is willing to sign, have him come before us and state his views, and we can state our views. We can also have the heads of the departments come before us and talk the matter over with us. In that way we can probably arrive at a conclusion that will be satisfactory.

Coun. BUCKLEY—What is the use of summoning in those department heads when you have already agreed what you are going to do? It is just the same as going into court knowing that the case has already been decided and still expecting to get justice. In my opinion this is the proper time to summon those people in. I do not believe in putting the proposition up to his Honor the Mayor for the purpose of putting him in a hole, until we are absolutely certain that we want something of this kind. We may not want consolidation, may not want to pass such an ordinance, and I believe that the men conversant with the affairs of those respective departments should be allowed to say what they believe in before we pass it. We already thought and were informed during the consolidation proceedings before that the Park Commissioners were absolutely willing to take over the work of the other departments, but it turned out that they were not willing; and how do we know now that it is not a bad plan to consolidate those departments? Why should we take the initiative? Why should not his Honor the Mayor take the initiative? I saw in a newspaper within three or four days that he was going to present such an ordinance or order to the Council. Why not let him do it? Why should the City Council take the initiative? Let him do so, and then, if we do not believe in his ordinance, let us turn it down. But I notice that most of you believe in every order he sends in, or almost every order, and that you vote for it. Personally I do not believe in an ordinance or order of that sort. I hope my amendment will prevail, and that the committee be instructed to have this hearing, before we take any action in the matter. I think myself that the Mayor should take the initiative.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I must explicitly disclaim any purpose of putting the Mayor in a hole. On the contrary, I wish to pull him out of a hole. I think he is in a hole now. It is the duty of the City Council to pass ordinances. It is not the Mayor's duty. He may submit them to the Council, but it is just as much the duty of the City Council to prepare and pass ordinances as it is the duty of the Mayor to submit them to us. Let us do our duty. Are we to sit here from Monday to Monday waiting for the Mayor to send in orders or ordinances to us and then holding up our hands like schoolboys, saying yes when the Mayor says one thing and no when he says something else? We are not here for that purpose. We are a constructive body. We should take the lead. We have already gone ahead and passed an ordinance, and the Mayor has vetoed it. The Mayor has put himself in a hole, and if I can get him out of it I shall do so, gladly. I hope no other references of that character will be made during the debate. They are unworthy of this body. We are discussing an economic question here and let us do what we consider our duty, as representatives of the City Council, without regard to whether the Mayor is in or out of a hole.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I hope Coun. Kenny's motion will go through, for this reason. The Board of last year passed a consolidation ordinance here by a vote of six to two. That was a consolidation the body of which was submitted by the Mayor. It is evident that the majority of this Council and the Mayor agree in principle. The question is simply what form the consolidation shall take. The Council has shown the form it desired. It seems to me it would be a good plan for us to now learn what the Mayor desires. If we don't do this, it will only delay matters. For that reason and that reason alone, regardless of what may be said to the contrary,—simply to expedite matters and to learn what the Mayor desires in this matter,—I hope Coun. Kenny's order will go through and that we will simply ask the Mayor, as I understand the order, with the aid of Mr. Babson, to draft a measure which is satisfactory to him.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I hate to take up any more of your time, but it seems to me the difference between Coun. Kenny and myself on this question is more one of procedure than otherwise. There are two parties who have to agree before such an ordinance can go through—the Mayor and the City Council. Coun. Kenny's principal purpose is to find out what the Mayor wants and I think it is a very good plan to find out what the Mayor wants. My object has been to find out what the Council wants on this particular point. It is not a question of the form of the ordinance or anything else. We have all, according to the arguments we used in the closing session of last year, considered this ordinance very carefully. We have considered this question of consolidation. We ought to be prepared now to get this preliminary question out of the way. I don't see why it is not just as important to find out what the Council wants now as to find out what the Mayor wants. It will simply be cleaning up so much preliminary work. Then we can go ahead on the line we want. I cannot see the point in putting it up to the Mayor, when there is simply one of two alternatives. Either we are or are not in favor of a paid head. Let us assume that we are. If the majority of the members are in favor of a paid head, we might just as well ask for a paid head. If, on the other hand, we do take the initial action and it comes back from the Mayor without provision for a paid head, assuming that the Board is in favor of a paid head, we will not accept the Mayor's proposition. I don't see why, if we leave it in the first place with the Mayor and Corporation Counsel, we shall be any better off. We will then have to begin the thing all over again. I think we might just as well declare ourselves now as to whether we are in favor of a paid head or not. I shall move the amendment I have suggested, if my motion to refer to the Executive Committee is beaten, but if the matter is to be referred to the Executive Committee I shall be glad to withdraw the amendment at this time. We have threshed this out thoroughly, and all I want is to get that preliminary question in regard to a paid head out of the way. I believe there should be a paid head, personally, and there is then, of course, the question of whether there shall be a single paid head or a paid head with unpaid advisers.

Coun. KENNY—Why not make your motion now and have it out right here?

Coun. HALE—I had already asked the councillor to give way, with the idea of doing that, but he was not willing to do so.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I was about to suggest that it is now after four o'clock. We have asked people to appear here at four o'clock for a hearing. In order to save the time of the Board I would be willing to vote to send this to the Executive Committee, if the matter can be reported back to-day.

Coun. Buckley's amendment was declared lost. Coun. BUCKLEY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The amendment was lost, yea 1, nays 7, Coun. BUCKLEY voting yea.

Coun. Hale's motion to refer to the Executive Committee was carried.

THE GARBAGE SITUATION.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I move tbat Commissioner Rourke be requested to come before us a week from to-day, or if possible to-day, and state to the Council in executive session or in open session what has heen done with regard to the question of garbage disposal. I think we should take this question right up and get it started. I know that tbe commissioner has a great deal of information that he can give us, and I would like to bave that information submitted to tbe body.

Coun. Hale's motion was carried.

NEW QUARTERS, FIREBOAT.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, some two weeks ago, I helieve, there was an order submitted by the Mayor requesting a loan of $5,000, supplementary to a loan of $15,000 whicb was made for the Fire Department. The $5,000 was for the completion of the work on the dock, in connection with the fireboat, which had already been started. I understand from the Fire Commissioner that there is very great need for speedy action upon the matter. Work is being held up awaiting the action of the Council on that proposition of the Mayor. The loan order was referred to the Finance Commission, when appointed. In order that that matter may come in this afternoon and be considered hy this Board, I move that it be recalled from the files of the Committee on Finance and referred to the Executive Committee so that we may consider it when we go outside.

The papers were taken from the files as follows:

Message of Mayor, communication and order (referred February 13) for loan of $5,000 for new quarters for fireboat.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I would like to ask Coun. Kenny, through you, as he seems to have tbe information, if the Fire Commissioner got any otber loans on this particular proposition?

Coun. KENNY—I heg your pardon. I didn't quite get your question.

Coun. BUCKLEY—If he has put in an estimate, and he finds that he wants $5,000 more than his first estimate, that the cost of doing this work exceeds his original appropriation?

Coun. KENNY—That is all the subject of correspondence whicb appears in the record files. I understand it is filed.

The CHAIRMAN—The Chair understands it is to fit up quarters for the crew of this hoat.

Coun. KENNY—Yes.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

Coun. KENNY—I move that the Council resolve itself into a committee of the whole for the purpose of considering from time to time the appropriation. The annual bill was presented last Monday hy the Mayor and the statute is now running against it. We only have sixty days within which to act. If action is not taken by the Council, it hecomes operative within sixty days. It seems to me it is the most important matter of the entire year, and in order that there may not he any further delay I make this motion. Of course when the Committee on Appropriations has this matter before it, it is hefore every member of the Council, and this really results in the same method of procedure. If we resolve ourselves into a committee of the whole, we can then take up the appropriation bill from time to time and not lose any further opportunity to consider it.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I have no decided opinion against this, except as I think we ought to get down to husiness and elect a president. For three weeks we have heen here beating on and off the subject, with only one vote—and when I say only one vote, I mean we have only taken the presidency up one afternoon and had four consecutive votes on it. It seems to me that it is time that we fulfilled our duty and attended to the city's business, instead of talking ahout this minor honor which is to hc bestowed on one of our numher, and for that reason I hope Coun. Kenny's motion will not prevail. It seems to me, after the hearing which we had on for this afternoon, we ought to first elect a president. All this is husiness that the Council is supposed to do, and after three weeks of nonaction we ought to he in a position to take that matter up. I think that our position hefore the city is ridiculous. I think we are making ourselves a laughing stock in not being able to select one of our number to lead us, and for that reason—and for that reason only—I oppose Coun. Kenny's motion to hecome a committee of the whole on appropriation.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I think I can set the matter right, perhaps. I was mistaken in my suggestion tbat the statute was running on the appropriation. The statute only runs on loans and ordinances, and therefore the statute is not running and no especial harm has been tbus far entailed hecause of our not proceeding. So therefore I will withdraw my motion.

The CHAIRMAN—If there is no objection, Coun. Kenny will be allowed to withdraw his motion. There is no objection.

EXAMINATION OF APPROPRIATION BILL.

Coun. HALE offered an order—Tbat the Finance Commission he requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to examine the appropriation hill as suhmitted to the City Council and report its findings forthwith; also that the Finance Commission he requested to have one of its representatives present at the meetings of the Committee on Appropriations, when appointed, to discuss the various items in the bill as suhmitted.

Coun. HALE—Last year and year before we really lost a good deal of efficiency by not having some expert with us at the time of our consideration of the appropriation bill. We asked the Finance Commission last year to send somebody down, hut we really did not give them time enough heforehand to be ready. Now, one of the principal reasons that the Bureau of Municipal Research was put in was for this very ohject, to enable us to have an expert with us when we are considering these detailed figures, and my purpose in putting this in now abead of time is so that they can he preparing and getting ready, and when asked can have somehody come down to make suggestions to us and help us and advise us, hecause I do not myself, and I do not helieve any of the other memhers of the Council feel that they ever bave been able to thoroughly understand, the way a statistician or mathematician or expert would, these figures on the appropriation hill, and I think an expert would he of very great assistance to us.

The order was passed.

MONEY EXPENDED ON CHARLESBANK.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That the Park Commissioners be requested, through bis Honor the Mayor, to suhmit to the City Council a detailed statement as to money spent on the Charlesbank from the Parkman Fund, under the order of the City Council of 1910 appropriating $20,000 for that purpose.

Passed.

VALUE OF CITY PROPERTY.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That the Statistics Department he requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to suhmit to the City Council a report as to the real estate and buildings owned hy the City of Boston, also the value of said property at the time of purchase or construction and the value of said property at the present time.

Coun. HALE—This is similar to an order that I put in last year, and on which I never received any information. It is in my opinion a popular fallacy, which has spread especially among many thinking men, that in considering the city's finances we should only look at tbe deht side. We have had voluminous reports as to the increase of the city debt. Now, I have never felt that the increase in the city debt alone was the fundamental thing. If the permanent improvement of real estate and otber things which we get for our money increases at a more rapid rate than our deht, I cannot see why the same does not apply to a city as to an individual. In other words, I think that the important thing is to get your money's worth for the money you spend. I do not helieve that any city can advance without spending a great deal of money. You have got to spend more and more as the city grows. I have thought about this ever since I have been in the city government, and I have come to believe in it very strongly, that the policy of inaction and refusing to pass loans is not farsighted. The real thing is to find out what loans are really needed and then to make sure that we get our money's worth when we borrow money. For instance, take the example that Coun. Buckley brings up from time to time. We did not appropriate money for the playground in Charlestown last year. Now, if Charlestown needs a playground,—I personally have no question but what it does in that particular place,—assuming that it does, were we really economical in refusing to borrow that money last year, when we had the borrowing capacity to do it? Supposing we put it off ten years, what we could have bought this year for $100,000 we may have to pay $200,000 for ten years from now. That is particularly true of Coun. Collins's district in West Roxbury and all those places. If we now have to borrow the money, even if we do increase the city's debt, we are getting something for a great deal less than we get it five years from now or ten years from now. I have recently seen in the State of Washington that they passed a law that all new cities have to devote a certain amount of their space, whenever they expand, to playgrounds. That is a farsighted policy, but of course it costs them money. They have to borrow to get that land or else they have to fail to utilize the land that they have got, which is the reverse of the same proposition. I have a strong feeling that it is better economy to spend money from time to time on things that are needed rather than simply to put it off and present a better showing in figures, and then when the congestion comes in those districts have to pay about five times as much as they would have to now. My purpose therefore in putting in this order is to try to find out how the assets, the things, property, buildings and other things for which we have used the money which we have borrowed, have been getting on, whether they have or have not been increasing in value, and how they compare with the debt.

The order was passed.

DISPOSAL OF GARBAGE.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That the Executive Committee give public hearings in regard to the disposal of garbage, the expense attending the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like to have that order read again, please.

(The order was again read by the Clerk.)

Coun. HALE—I move that it be referred to the Executive Committee.

The motion was carried.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION.

Coun. COLLINS—I rise for a question of information. Do I understand a hearing has been scheduled at four o'clock to-day for some members of the public?

Coun. HALE—The City Messenger has some information in regard to that subject which he just gave me.

The CHAIRMAN—We are to have Mr. O'Rourke with us, and it will not take him very long to say what he has got to say.

Coun. COLLINS—My only point is this: If we agree with certain members of the public to have a hearing at a certain appointed hour, we ought to do our part. For that reason at about four o'clock I moved a recess. I didn't think at that time there would be a flood of orders coming in ad infinitum.

The CHAIRMAN—The Chair will state that Mr. O'Rourke is willing to come in at a later session.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 4.30 p. m., on motion of Coun. COLLINS, to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The members of the Council reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by the Chair at 6.37 p. m.

BALLOT FOR PRESIDENT.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I move that we do now ballot for president ten successive times.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I amend the motion that we ballot for president once.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, before that motion is put I wish to say that I ought to be in school by quarter past seven and there are various other things that I should attend to. I have stayed here all the afternoon, and it seems to me that we ought to get an expression of the general opinion as well by one ballot as by ten. It seems to me if a man starts voting one way he is not apt to change simply because we vote ten different times. Once should be sufficient as showing the preferences of the members.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I think there may be a good deal in what Coun. Buckley has said, but I want to speak for myself in that regard. At the first meeting of the Board I urged upon the Board immediate action as to the presidency. I was absolutely sincere in that. I outlined the fact that the honor was empty. The Mayor is always the Mayor, no matter what part of the country he is in, as Mr. Babson has said. The power is small, as most of the committees are committees of the whole. I urged the Board then to act immediately, and I have been consistent in that stand ever since. I think it is only fair to say that if I had not asked for the one ballot we have taken, that of two weeks ago, there would have been no ballot then. I, for one, am perfectly willing to vote for almost anybody who will get four votes two successive times. That is why I am in favor of Mr. Hale's motion that there be ten successive ballots. If any member of this Board can show four votes for president two successive times I shall give him my vote right away. I wish to show my good faith in the matter by this statement. Therefore, what Mr. Buckley has said does not apply to me. My vote may easily change on the third or fourth ballot. For that reason I hope Mr. Hale's motion will prevail. I sincerely hope the Board will get down to business. We have been elected to transact the business of the city and not to squabble for an empty honor, or what seems to me an empty honor, for one of our number. I sincerely hope Coun. Hale's motion will go through.

Coun. Hale's motion was put, and the Chair being in doubt a rising vote was ordered. Before the doubt was settled Coun. KENNY said:

Mr. President, I would like to say a word before the vote is taken. I have an engagement which I must keep this evening, and I can stay here but a very short time, long enough to take one or two ballots. I do not want to spend the evening here balloting, because I must go.

The motion to take ten successive ballots was declared lost on a rising vote, 2 to 5.

Coun. McDONALD'S motion to take a ballot was carried. The roll was called and the members announced their choice of president with the following result:

For John J. Attridge—Coun. Attridge, Hale, McDonald—3.

For Walter C. Ballantyne—Coun. Ballantyne, Kenny, Smith—3.

For Walter F. Collins—Coun. Buckley, Collins—2.

And there was no choice.

EXECUTIVE REPORTS.

Coun. HALE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

(1) Report on petition of Harriett Brackett (referred to-day) for permit for children under fifteen years of age to appear at Seaman's Friend Hall on March 28—that a permit be granted.

Report accepted; permit granted on usual conditions.

(2) Report on message of Mayor, communication from Fire Commissioner and order (taken from files to-day) for loan for new quarters for fireboat—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) additional be hereby appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the Fire Commissioner, for new quarters for fireboat, Boston side, and that to meet such appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, on request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston to said amount.

Report accepted; and the order took its first reading, yeas 8, nays 0.

(3) Report on order (referred to-day) that the Cemetery Trustees grant a Saturday half holiday to all employees in their department during the present financial year—recommending reference to the Cemetery Trustees for their report and recommendations.

Report accepted; said reference ordered.

(4) Report on order (referred to-day) that the Corporation Counsel and Mayor confer together with a view of framing a new draft of ordinance abolishing the Bath, Music and Public Grounds Departments and transferring their duties to the Park Department—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. SMITH, at 6.44 p. m., to meet on Wednesday, March 1, at four o'clock p. m.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of City Council.

Wednesday, March 1, 1911.

Adjourned meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at four o'clock p. m., Coun. BALLANTYNE, senior member, in the chair. Absent—Coun. Curley.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I move that we now take ten successive ballots for President.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I move to amend the motion by adding the words "unless elected sooner."

Coun. HALE—I accept the amendment.

The motion as amended was carried and the Council proceeded to ballot for a President, with the following result:

For Walter Ballantyne—Coun. Ballantyne, Hale, Kenny, Smith—4.

For Walter L. Collins—Coun. Attridge, Buckley, Collins, McDonald—4.

And there was no choice.

The Council proceeded to another ballot, as follows:

For Walter Ballantyne—Coun. Ballantyne, Hale, Kenny—3.

For Walter L. Collins—Coun. Attridge, Buckley, Collins, McDonald, Smith—5.

And Coun. Collins was declared elected President for the municipal year 1911.

The Chair appointed Coun. Kenny and Attridge to escort the President-elect to the chair.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I congratulate you and I trust that the duties of the office will be as pleasant for you as they were for me, and that you will be tendered the same kindness and courtesy by the members.

Coun. COLLINS—Retiring President and fellow members of the City Council: Words are absolutely too crude and inadequate to express my real appreciation of the honor which you have this day given me. It seems to me not meet at this time to make any speech, but simply to say that while I am in this office I shall try to do my duty fairly and well, and I hope at the close of this year it will be said that I have done my duty to the best of my ability. After all is said and done that is the most priceless heritage that I can have at the close of the year,—the feeling that I have tried to do my duty by all the members of the City Council and therefore by the people of the City of Boston.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

President COLLINS—Coun. Attridge has the floor.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I have been one of the candidates for the office of President of this body. Personally I have made no great effort to secure votes. I believe that it is an honor to be elected President of this body. It is a position of responsibility. It is an honor to be elected to this Council by the people of Boston, and the office of President is one of responsibility and honor because of the probabilities and possibilities attached to it. The charter makes certain specific provisions in reference to the office of Mayor and as to who shall hold that office in case of death of the Mayor, in case of sickness or in case of absence of the Mayor from the city. This office of President of the city government has in the past been an important one and it is an honorable one for any member of the city government to hold, irrespective of what may be said about "empty honor." I had three votes, the votes of two members besides my own. I have tried to be honorable throughout the entire matter. I was guided somewhat in my actions by reason of a statement that was made by our friend and my friend, Mr. Ballantyne. I believed that he was sincere when he made the statement. Of course, conditions were such that although he stated he was not a candidate the fact that he voted for himself with two other men in this small body, even though he were not a candidate, helped in a way to make it impossible for this Council to organize. I quite agree with Coun. Smith and Kenny that we should get down to business, that our own personal ambitions, whatever they may be, should be secondary to the interests of the city. Nearly a month has elapsed since this new Council was inaugurated, and I felt after the conference this afternoon, when I found that no one else was willing to give way, that I was not so ambitious, so zealous for the position, that I could not give way. Rather than delay the organization of the city government, rather than delay the business of the city and its work, I felt that I at least ought to withdraw. I was guided also in my actions by what Mr. Smith had said. He had said that if any man received four votes on two consecutive ballots he would vote for him, and I took him at his word as a man. I find that he is a manly, upright man; I find him true to his word. One newspaper in Boston to-day criticised the Council of 1910; it also in a way criticised the Council of 1911, this present body. I think that this body will measure up to the standard of last year's body. I think that all the men here are honest men, working in the interests of the city. Of course, human nature is such that all men do not agree at all times upon all propositions; but I think that this city government for this year will prove that it is an honest city government, that it is a progressive city government, and that it will give the City of Boston a businesslike administration.

COMMITTEE ON RULES.

Coun. BALLANTYNE offered an order—That a special committee of three members of the City Council be appointed to prepare and report a draft of the rules for the government of the Council for the present year, and to consider and report on such matters as may hereafter be referred to them.

Passed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. McDONALD general reconsideration of all action taken to-day was refused.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, may I suggest that we take a recess in order to give the Chair an opportunity to appoint that committee, because time is running and if the committee is appointed now we will save some time by it. I move that we take a recess of fifteen minutes, if that is agreeable.

President COLLINS—The Chair will state to the councilor that five minutes will give the Chair ample time.

The Council voted at 5.10 p. m. to take a recess of five minutes. At 5.18 p. m. President COLLINS called the Council to order and announced as the Committee on Rules Coun. Ballantyne, Attridge and Collins.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, at 5.19 p. m., to meet on Monday, March 6, at 3 p. m.

CITY BUILDING EXHIBITION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.

To the City Council:

A Greater Boston Real Estate and Ideal Homes Exposition will be held in Horticultural Hall from April 3 to 15, inclusive, under the patronage of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Board. The purpose of this exposition is to illustrate and stimulate real estate development throughout the city and the metropolitan district. It has been suggested that the municipality ought to be represented by views of public buildings or civic centers, which certainly contribute largely to the development of the city as a whole. In my judgment such an exhibition, on a modest scale, would be extremely desirable and I recommend the passage of the accompanying order, appropriating the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250), to be expended under the direction of the Mayor for a display of views of the proposed City Hall Annex and other public buildings at this exposition.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) be, and hereby is, appropriated to be expended under the direction of the Mayor for an exhibit of views of public buildings at the Greater Boston Real Estate and Ideal Homes Exposition.

The order was passed, yeas 7, nays 0.

Isabel Florence, for children to appear at Huntington Chambers Hall, March 29.

A. M. Gardner, for children to appear at Mechanics Building, April 22 to May 20.

Reports severally accepted; permits granted on the usual conditions.

(2) Report on order (referred to-day) that there be allowed and paid to W. E. Swan, clerk in Sewer and Water Division, Public Works Department, the sum of $500 for payment of incidental bills—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

(3) Report on resolve and order (referred to-day) that the Committee on Legislative Matters of the City Council appear before the Legislature to oppose any change in city charter—that the resolve and order ought to pass.

(Coun. BUCKLEY dissents.)

The question came on the adoption of the report.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I do not propose to talk all the afternoon on this, because it is getting late, hut I do wish to enter my protest against the adoption of that order. I don't think it is right and I don't think that the Council is acting fairly in passing the order. It seems to me we ought not to interfere with the business of the Legislature in that respect; we ought to let the members of the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs hear the people who go up there and argue for and against the proposed revision, and report as they see fit. There are enough men from Boston representing the city in the Legislature who know the sentiment of the people of Boston just as well as we do. We all know that in justice to the entire citizenship of Boston, the present charter is not fair. The proper method would be to have a representative in the City Council from each ward with the exception of Wards 20 and 24, which on account of their size should have two men each, and then, if necessary, elect men at large besides. The men elected at large would be a sufficient handicap, we might say, on the other men, because they would keep them within bounds. The men elected at large representing the entire city and the men elected from wards representing the particular sections that sent them. I hope that the Council will reject this order. I know that you have the votes to pass it, but I appeal to you now to reconsider what you did in Executive Committee and not pass the order. The charter has had a fair and square trial the past year, and we know that it is not fair to the entire citizenship of Boston. The claim has been made that we represent the entire city. Of course, we represent the entire city, but even though we go around to the different sections, it is not fair to say that we each know what those different sections really want. We went around last year with the Mayor to the so-called town meetings, and we heard the complaints from the people in the different sections. We heard what they asked for, and what did we give them during the past year? We did not know by reason of our visits to the different sections what they really wanted. We paid great attention to what they said; hut if they had one representative on the floor of the City Council, who could always keep in our minds what they really did want, we would know what to do in an intelligent way. The claim was made that I did not go around with the Committee on Finance during the summer or the early spring, after the so-called town meetings; but after all the time that was spent in going around to those different sections, looking at different places and asking them what improvements were wanted, what percentage of those improvements that they asked for did we give? After all, was it not a waste of time to go around when we did not seriously propose to give them what they asked? We simply went around and bluffed them, to use the common expression. We went around and listened to them, hrought ourselves before the puhlic, so that they would know us by our names and all that, but what did we give them? Ahsolutely nothing. And if we went around in that same way this year, what would we give them? I hope the City Council this year will at least be better than last year in the way of improvements for the different sections of the city and will treat each section fairly, as it should be treated. I hope, in closing, that my friend from South Boston will agree to withdraw the resolutions. I ask him to do so, and I hope they will not pass the Council.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I am afraid that the member from Charlestown is hardly serious.

Coun. BUCKLEY—I am serious, Mr. President.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I, as the author of those resolutions, desire again to ask the Council to pass them. The matter has already heen discussed at considerable length this afternoon in Executive Committee, and I don't feel it necessary now to review what has taken place. I merely wish to say by way of reply to the gentleman that the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs is, of course, sitting for the purpose of hearing hoth sides. There will he advocates of changes in the charter, and those appearing against changes in the charter. We merely offer this as a contribution from this Council by way of assistance to that committee. It is properly a matter that we should pass upon ourselves. We are the representatives of the people of the city, sitting as the City Council. We have heen here one year. In our opinion the charter has not had a fair trial, and there should certainly be no effort made to tinker with it at this time. We think the charter is working well, that it has meant a great improvement in the government of this city, that we are at the present time experiencing a very great benefit from the charter, that the conditions in Boston to-day are much superior to what they were in years past, and that that is all due to the present charter. Now, if it is doing these things for us, why should we interfere with it at the present time? It may be in the course of time, as different conditions present themselves, that some changes may seem advisable and may become desirable. When that time comes of course the Legislature in its wisdom will make the changes. But I think, speaking as a member of the Council and speaking conservatively, that all conservative men will agree that at the present time there ought not to be any tinkering with the charter. It should be allowed to run for another year at least, before further amendments are considered. I sincerely hope the resolutions will be adopted by the Council. I don't think it is necessary to go into what my friend has said about the visits to different sections—which he, by the way, did not make, but which other members did make. I can say, as one member of the Council, that I experienced very much assistance and help from going ahout the city as we did last year, and studying the conditions. I feel that I am much better prepared to-day to deal with the questions as they arise than I was a year ago, owing to my experience and owing to the time I gave to the examinations and inspections we made a year ago. I do not desire to take the time of the Council further in this matter, other than to say again that I hope the resolution and order will be adopted.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. Chairman, I shall speak but a minute at this time. I would like to ask the gentleman one or two questions. One is this,—if he feels so much hetter ahle to deal with the questions which will come up before the body, why was he not willing the past year to take up these questions of local improvements in the different sections of the city, which he opposed at all times during the year?

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, if the gentleman had studied into the financial questions and conditions of this city he would not ask that question. He would know why this city has not heen ahle in the past year to make appropriations. He would know that the borrowing capacity of the city from time to time was in such a condition that there might be heavy drafts made upon it for the purpose of making general improvements. He would know that the government at Washington held a mandate over the City Council for the construction of bridges across the Mystic river. He would know that, in accordance with a custom that has always been in vogue and that I hope always will he in vogue, there was a half million dollars held in reserve to provide against conflagrations or any emergencies in the way of epidemics or otherwise that might arisc. He would know, if he had studied the question, that we did not have the money last year. I am perfectly willing, when we can properly do so, to spend the money of the city fairly, properly and equitably, having in view the interests of the entire city. I hold myself to be a servant of the entire city and not of any section of it, and when I see that we have the money and can spend it, I shall he very glad indeed to take up the question of local improvements that the gentleman is now talking about.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I have always studied the financial condition of the city and I know all ahout the national government at Washington and what it proposed to do throughout the year. But, in view of what Mr. Kenny has said, it seems strange that Mr. Hale should at the last meeting of the Council have presented orders to look into the buying of playgrounds and to consider other improvements in different sections of the city, raising the question whether it was really wise for the city to have this money on hand and not buy different properties it needs which it can now obtain at a reasonable figure. When even a member of the gentleman's own party—if I may designate Coun. Hale in that way—sees the light, and sees it in such a nice way, I hope Mr. Kenny will soon comc around to the same way of thinking and will try to see to it that we can get those pieces of property, particularly in the Dorchester and West Roxhury districts, while the valuation, which is increasing each year, is still at a reasonable figure.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. Chairman, I shall be very glad indeed to take up the suhject of the ahility of the city to spend money with the gentleman later, and, I think, to his satisfaction. But the hour is now late. I think I can show him that he is entirely wrong in his suggestions in regard to spending money. Why, if the gentleman had his way, he would want the resources of the whole national treasury at his command and the city would be bankrupt in a short time. He reminds me a good deal of the man who went out to buy a hat and liked it so well that he bought six of them.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I can say now that, even if I would want the whole national treasury and the city would be bankrupt if I had my way, I am not yet bankrupt myself.

Coun. KENNY—And neither am I bankrupt, Mr. President. I don't quite understand what the gentleman means by that. I desire to ask if he makes a personal allusion. I trust that he is not doing anything so entirely improper. I ask what he means by that remark.

Coun. BUCKLEY—I have nothing more to say, Mr. President.

Coun. KENNY—I desire to say, then, that the gentleman ought to be a little more courteous to the members of this Board and not throw out insinuations. I am sure I don't know what he means by that statement, and I think he owes it now to us, to me, to explain by it. He says he is not bankrupt. Who is?

Coun. BUCKLEY—Oh, I will say that I don't mean that Coun. Kenny is bankrupt, but I mean simply this, that I know how to handle my own money personally so that I am not bankrupt, and I am not casting insinuations on any other member of the Council to the effect that he does not know how to handle his own money. I mean simply to say that a man who knows how to handle his own money can certainly be trusted to handle the affairs of other people.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I certainly hope that we can come to a vote on this question. I have listened to discussion at great length by Coun. Buckley this afternoon on this resolution, and I have heard only one reason advanced why we should not pass it—and that is because he does not think the present City Council represents the City of Boston. He thinks we represent our individual sections of the city. That is his private opinion, but that is no reason for his going into personalities. He descended into personalities in executive committee by saying that my opinion on the subway was a dishonest opinion, that I expressed it dishonestly. I am perfectly willing to pass that over, I raised no question upon it at the time. It seems to me, however, that most of us here intend to represent the City of Boston as a whole. We have shown our good faith by going around to the town meetings—not only the meetings at the time of the campaign, but the meetings since—and listening to the wants of the different sections of the city. I, for one, am honestly trying to represent this whole city. I do not object to Coun. Buckley's speaking for himself, but he must realize that he is only speaking for himself and not expressing the views of the Council as a body. He says we all know that the charter has been a failure in this respect. We certainly do not all know that. He is speaking for himself there. I certainly hope that we will come to a vote without going into personalities.

The resolve and order were declared adopted. Coun. BUCKLEY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The resolve and order were adopted, yeas 6, nay 1, Coun. BUCKLEY voting nay.

(4) Report on petition of East Boston Improvement Association and other citizens, also resolve, for indorsement of bill now before the Legislature for construction of tunnel between East Boston and city proper—recommending passage in following new draft:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the City Council of Boston that the interests of Boston require that a tunnel for teaming and foot passengers should be constructed between East Boston and the city proper, if such tunnel is feasible.

MINUTEMEN'S FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit the accompanying letter from the commander of the Massachusetts Association Minutemen of '61, requesting an appropriation of five hundred dollars ($500) for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Minutemen of Massachusetts. The survivors of this immortal band, who responded to the first call of President Lincoln and rushed to the defence of the capital of the country, richly deserve that their petition should be favorably heard and I trust that there will be no hesitation on the part of your honorable body in granting them the moderate sum for which they ask. I inclose a draft of an order which I trust will be passed by your honorable body without delay.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The undersigned respectfully petition for an appropriation of $500 for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Minutemen of Massachusetts, troops who responded to the first call of President Abraham Lincoln in defence of the capital of the United States, April 15, 1861.

Yours respectfully,
MASSACHUSETTS ASSOCIATION OF MINUTEMEN '61,
by JOHN H. NORTON, Commander.

Ordered, That to meet the expense of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Minutemen of Massaehusetts on April 15, 1911, the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) be appropriated, to be added to the appropriation for Mayor's Office, Public Celebrations, when made.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

CARE OF PUBLIC RECORDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Commissioner of Public Records of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, pointing out the insufficient protection afforded in the present City Hall and other buildings owned or occupied by city departments for certain valuable public records. It seems to me that the danger which the commissioner points out to exist offers an additional reason for action by your honorable body upon the order recommended by me at your meeting of February 4, 1911, appropriating the sum of eight hundred thousand dollars ($800,000) for the erection of an annex to City Hall on the present site of the Old Court House. The plans of the proposed building could be so prepared as to include ample vaults or storage rooms for the records of the various departments designated in the commissioner's letter.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

March 10, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In view of the action which your Honor is taking to get a modern, fireproof building for offices and the valuable public records of the City of Boston, I have, in company with the Superintendent of Public Buildings, made a complete investigation regarding all such records in the various city departments. It is my duty, under section 3 of chapter 35, Revised Laws, to call the attention of the honorable City Council, through your Honor, to sections 5, 18 and 19 of that chapter, and to the following conditions which are in violation thereof, pointing out that section 22 provides a maximum penalty of five hundred dollars for each violation, and a further penalty of twenty dollars upon each member of the honorable Council for each month of refusal or neglect to comply with the statutes, which I am obliged to take the necessary measures to enforce.

CITY HALL.

ASSESSING.
No protection for current books and records except a closet with lining and door of asbestos.

AUDITING.
Many records are in a room furnished and fitted with combustible materials. The basement vault has no double doors to protect it.

CITY CLERK.
A brick closet with but a single iron door and combustible fittings, for early records, and all other records and files are in thin metal cases in combustible rooms.

CLERK OF COMMITTEES.
A brick closet fitted with combustible shelves, and but a single iron door, for all records.

COLLECTING.
Many records not protected against fire. One vault in the basement has some combustible fittings and a window without fire shutters, and another vault there has combustible fittings and no double doors.

PUBLIC WORKS.
No fireproof protection whatever for any records or plans of any of the divisions.

TREASURY.
The office vault has combustible fittings, and the upper vault also has combustible fittings and no double doors.

OLD COURT HOUSE.

BUILDING.
A storage room in the basement, fitted with combustible materials, for some plans, but there is no protection for any other plans and the record books.

ELECTION.
Many records are in combustible rooms without protection. The basement vault has combustible fittings, and the two-story vault has combustible floor and some combustible fittings.

HEALTH.
No fireproof protection for any records in the office, or at the Bacteriological or Milk Inspection laboratories.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.
No fireproof protection for any records or plans in the office, and the storeroom for early plans has combustible door and fittings.

REGISTRY.
The office records are in wooden cases in a combustible room. The storage room has a window without fire shutters, and is fitted with combustible materials, and the vault and basement closet also are fitted with combustible materials.

STREET LAYING-OUT.
No fireproof protection for any records or plans in the various offices, and the two safes at City Hall would probably not stand much fire.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.
No fireproof protection for any records.

OLD PROBATE BUILDING.

BOSTON INFIRMARY.
The old safe is probably not fireproof, and other records are not protected against fire.

CHILDREN'S INSTITUTIONS.
The safe is too small for anything except current financial records, and early financial and all other records are without protection.

INSTITUTIONS REGISTRATION.
No fireproof protection for any records.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS.
The two safes are not sufficient for all records and many are not protected.

OUTLYING OFFICES.

ART. (Tremont Building.)
A metal lined closet, not fireproof, for all records, drawings, etc.

BOSTON TRANSIT COMMISSION. (Beacon Street.)
One vault has fittings of combustible materials.

CEMETERY. (Tremont Building.)
Many records not protected against fire.

FIRE. (Bristol Street.)
All returns and record books of fires not in fireproof protection.

HOSPITAL. (City Hospital.)
No fireproof protection for the current records of the trustees or for any of the financial or clinical records. The vault for early records of patients, in the basement, is fitted with combustible materials. The clinical records at the South Department, and at the Haymarket square and East Boston stations, are not protected against fire.

LICENSING BOARD. (Pemberton Square.)
The two vaults are fitted with combustible materials, and there are many records in wooden and thin metal cases in combustible rooms.

OVERSEEING OF POOR. (Hawkins Street.)
The vault in the general office is fitted with combustible materials, and the large vault in the basement has a window and ventilator without fire shutters to them. The old safe at Chardon Street Home is not fireproof, and many records of the home are not protected against fire.

PARK. (Jamaica Plain.)
The vault is fitted with combustible materials, as is also the vault at the Franklin Park office, which is too small to hold all the plans there.

POLICE. (Pemberton Square.)
The five vaults are fitted with combustible materials, and many records are kept in wooden cases in a combustible room.

PRINTING. (Causeway Street.)
A large closet with wooden partitions, fittings and door; has some older records stored in it.

PUBLIC GROUNDS. (Dorchester.)
The safe is not sufficient to hold all the records, and another safe is needed.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE. (Mason Street.)
The two old safes are not fireproof, and many records are not in any kind of protection.

SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSION. (Walker Building.)
The vault is only large enough for the later records and plans, and all the earlier records and plans have no protection against fire.

SOLDIERS' RELIEF. (Hawkins Street.)
The small safe contains only a few records, and most of the records are not protected against fire.

VESSELS AND BALLAST. (Commercial Street.)
No safe provided for any records. The records of previous weighers are missing.

WIRE. (Wareham Street.)
No protection for any records, which are all kept in combustible quarters.

It is estimated that the expense of reproducing such record books and plans as would be possible and necessary, in case of loss by fire, in merely the four departments of Assessing, Building, Public Works and Street Laying-Out would aggregate considerably over a million of dollars, and the probable expense of the litigation which would follow such loss would be beyond estimate.

Trusting that the honorable City Council will forthwith take action in the matter, as required by law, I am,

Very truly yours,
HENRY E. WOONS,
Commissioner.

Placed on file.

RELEASE OF PARK RESTRICTIONS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners, under date of February 15, 1911, together with an order drafted by that Board. The proposed order, if passed, would permit the erection on a lot of land at the corner of South street and Arborway of apartment houses to cost not less than $3,000 per suite of apartments, with store privileges on the South street front. The present minimum cost of these houses per suite, I am informed, is $4,000, and the proposed order would alter to this extent the character of the neighborhood.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
February 15, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Board has voted to amend the restrictions on the lot of land at the corner of South street and Arborway, belonging to Bartholomew H. Couig, so as to permit the erection on this lot of apartment houses to cost not less than $3,000 per suite of apartments, with store privileges on the South street front.

In order to make this change it is necessary that an order be passed by the City Council, and we inclose a copy of the order that we submitted to you for this purpose in 1906.

Yours respectfully,
ROBERT S. PEABODY, Chairman.

Ordered, That the Board of Park Commissioners, with the approval of the Mayor, and by an instrument or instruments satisfactory to the Law Department, may, in the name and behalf of the city, alter and amend the restrictions contained in deeds heretofore given to the city by Henry F. Naphen and James A. Page, trustees, and Samuel Bradstreet and Augustus B. Bradstreet of lots on either side of South street, bordering the Arborway, so as to permit of the erection on these lots of apartment houses to cost not less than $3,000 per suite of apartments, with store privileges on the South street front.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Later in the session the Council voted, on motion of Coun. McDONALD, to reconsider the reference to the Committee on Public Lands.

The message, communication and order were referred to the Executive Committee, on motion of Coun. McDONALD.

EXAMINATION OF APPROPRIATION BILL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I am returning herewith an order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of February 27, "that the Finance Commission be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to examine the appropriation bill as submitted to the City Council and report its findings forthwith; also that the Finance Commission be requested to have one of its representatives present at the meetings of the Committee on Appropriations, when appointed, to discuss the various items in the bill as submitted."

This legislation seems to me entirely unnecessary as the Finance Commission, under section 18 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, has the right "to investigate any and all matters relating to appropriations, loans, expenditures, accounts and methods of administration for the City of Boston, or the County of Suffolk, or any department thereof that may appear to the commission to require investigation, and to report thereon from time to time to the Mayor, the City Council, the Governor, or the General Court." Should the Committee on Appropriations, when appointed, desire the presence of a representative of the Finance Commission it would seem to be entirely proper to send an invitation directly to that body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Placed on file.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it occurs to me that that communication should be referred to the Committee on Appropriations. I move reconsideration of the vote placing the same on file.

The Council voted to reconsider.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations, on motion of Coun. KENNY.

SEWERAGE WORKS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, providing that the sum of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) be appropriated for the construction of sewerage works.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of three hundred thousand dollars be appropriated for the construction of sewerage works, under the provisions of chapter 426 of the Acts of 1897 and chapter 204 of the Acts of 1908, and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance,

APPROPRIATION FOR HIGHWAYS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a draft of an order making an appropriation for highways, making of, which I recommend for passage by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) be appropriated for highways, making of, under the provisions of chapter 393 of the Acts of 1906, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

FEES FOR PERMITS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

In a letter addressed to your honorable body under date of November 6, 1910, I suggested that in my opinion the adoption of a reasonable schedule of fees for permits for the construction or use of coal holes, vaults, bay windows and marquises in, under, or over the public ways was urgently required for the convenience of the public. This question has been before the City Council for more than a year and while two schedules have been submitted none has been adopted. The fact that the Finance Commission has had the problem under consideration since November 29, 1910, taken together with the failure of your body to arrive at any decision, seems to show that there are intrinsic difficulties in framing a measure which shall be fair to property owners while assuring a reasonable return to the city, but the difficulties are certainly not insurmountable and the present unsatisfactory status should not be allowed to continue indefinitely. I venture to recommend that the Committee on Ordinances address itself at an early date to this problem.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

HALF HOLIDAYS, CEMETERY EMPLOYEES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to return an order of the City Council relating to half holidays for employees of the Cemetery Department, referred by your honorable body to the Board of Cemetery Trustees for their report and recommendation, together with a letter from the chairman of that Board, expressing the inability of the Cemetery Trustees to comply literally with the terms of this order as far as it relates to all employees of the department and their intention to put it into effect at once for certain employees, if passed by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
John F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Cemetery Department, March 13, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of the following order of the City Council, referred to this Board of Trustees for report and recommendation:

February 27, 1911.

Ordered, That, under the provisions of chapter 587 of the Acts of 1908, the Cemetery Trustees be hereby authorized to allow half holidays on Saturdays to all employees of the Cemetery Department, without loss of pay, during the present financial year.

On account of necessary work which must be performed every day in the year in the cemeteries it would be impossible to comply with the order to grant all employees a Saturday half holiday. You are hereby advised that upon receipt of such an order the trustees of this department can put the same into effect at once, with the understanding that it shall apply to employees whose services can be dispensed with.

Yours respectfully,
CHARLES E. PHIPPS,
Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Cemetery Department.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

EXHIBIT AT EXPOSITION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 10, 1911.

To the City Council:

I return herewith, without my signature, an order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of March 6, 1911, appropriating the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) for an exhibit of views of public buildings at the Greater Boston Real Estate and Ideal Homes Exposition. Some technical objection has been raised to the form of this order and it seems to me desirable that it should not only be correct in form but that the amount should be slightly increased, as I am informed that the sum appropriated provides only for the rental of the booth and there will be additional expenses incurred in the preparation of the exhibit.

I recommend, therefore, the passage of the accompanying order in place of the order returned herewith.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That to meet the expenses of a special exhibition of views of public buildings at the Greater Boston Real Estate and Ideal Homes Exposition, the sum of four hundred dollars ($400) be, and hereby is, authorized to be expended under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Buildings for said exhibition and to be charged to the appropriation for Reserve Fund, when made.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

MONEY SPENT ON CHARLESBANK.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 10, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a statement from the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners, in reply to your order passed at the meeting of February 27, requesting the said Board "to submit to the City Council a detailed statement as to the money spent on the Charlesbank from the Parkman Fund, under the order of the City Council of 1910 appropriating $20,000 for that purpose."

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
March 7, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—Inclosed herewith is the copy of the order of the City Council of February 27 relating to Charlesbank, referred to our office by your office. This order reads as follows:

"Ordered, That the Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit to the City Council a detailed statement as to money spent on the Charlesbank from the Parkman Fund, under the order of the City Council of 1910 appropriating $20,000 for that purpose."

In answer thereto I would say that there has been expended to date:

For the installation of the irrigation plant,	$799 39
For two fountains	254 00
	$1,053 39

In addition to this, the material for a line of seats along the whole length of the promenade and returning on both sides of the crosswalks to Charles street have been got ready for setting up in the spring.

A contract is about to be made for a fence on Charles street, which with the setting up will cost $2,500.

A contract was made last fall for a granolithic pavement for the promenade on the Charles street side, at a cost of $6,912. It heing late in the season hefore the contract was made, the construction was deferred until spring. The work will he commenced about the middle of April.

A contract for repairing the brick sidewalk on Charles street was also made at the same time on the same terms, to he commenced in the spring, for $756, making a total for contracts made, work to be entered upon in the spring, of $10,168. We expended last year for fountains and irrigation $1,053, a total of $11,221.

Yours truly,
ROBERT S PEABODY, Chairman.

APPROPRIATION FOR INFIRMARY BOAT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 10, 1911.

To the City Council:

In a message to your honorable body, dated Septemher 12, 1910, I recommended a transfer of the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500) from the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Boston Infirmary Department, New Boat, in order that the fire extinguishing apparatus upon the steamer "George A. Hihhard" might he made more perfect. The accompanying order was referred to the Executive Committee, which, on January 2, 1911, reported that no action was necessary. The report of the committee was accepted hy your honorahle hody, hut the chairman of the Board of Infirmary Trustees now reports, in a letter appended hereto, that the need still exists for this additional appropriation. I recommend that in the appropriation hill a sum of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500) be added to the special appropriation for Boston Infirmary Department, New Boat.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Dear Sir,—Inclosed please find copy of our letter of August 29 last, together with copy of your letter of August 31 in response to same, in regard to an additional appropriation for the new hoat for this department, made necessary hy a change in the type of fire pump.

The amount requested, $2,500, has not as yet been appropriated, the order having heen referred to the Executive Committee of the City Council on Septemher 12. As I wrote you on Fehruary 7, the money is ahsolutely necessary, and I would respectfully request that the matter he given attention at the earliest possihle moment.

Very respectfully,
E. M. GALLAGHER, Chairman.

City of Boston,
Boston Infirmary Department,
August 29, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—The Boston Infirmary Trustees would respectfully request that an additional appropriation in the sum of $2,500 he allowed this department for the new hoat now being huilt hy the George Lawley & Son Corporation, increasing the amount of same from $35,000 to $37,500.

The huilders have recommended a different type of fire pump with 50 per cent greater capacity—a 750 gallon turbine-driven centrifugal pump—in place of the duplex pump named in the specifications. This suggestion meets with the approval of Mr. Carl H. Clark, engineer on the work, and of Mr. Louis K. Rourke, Acting City Engineer, both of whom recommend the change.

The exact amount of the increase in cost has not as yet heen determined, hut the amount requested, $2,500, will be sufficient to meet the expense with a small margin for any unforeseen expenditure that may be necessary, additional fire hose, etc.

Trusting that this request may meet with your favorahle consideration.

Very respectfully,
E. M. GALLAGHER, Chairman.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, August 31, 1910.

Mr. Edward M. Gallagher,
Chairman Boston Infirmary Department,

Dear Sir,—Your communication of August 29, requesting that an additional appropriation of $2,500 he allowed the Boston Infirmary Department for the new hoat, which is now in process of construction hy the George Lawley & Son Corporation, is herehy acknowledged, and I beg to inform you that I will recommend the transfer of this amount from the Reserve Fund at the next meeting of the City Council.

Yours very truly,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

EXTENSION OF ARLINGTON STREET.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Boston Finance Commission be requested to make an investigation and report to the City Council on the advisability of the extension of Arlington street, from Boylston street to Providence street, at an estimated cost of $800,000.

The order was declared referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I move reconsideration of that reference. I introduced the order simply that we might have the benefit of the advice of the Finance Commission on the matter so that when we came to vote on it we might vote in an intelligent way. They are a part of the city government of Boston and it seems to me that no harm can be done by their investigation. Therefore, I move reconsideration of the reference and hope the Council will pass the order now. I don't see what harm can be done by that action and we can thereby get the benefit of their investigation.

Reconsideration of the reference prevailed, and the order was passed.

ROPING OFF OF STREETS, ETC.

RETIREMENT OF CITY LABORERS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered the following:

Whereas, A bill is now before the Massachusetts Legislature "Relative to the Retirement Fund for Laborers Employed by the City of Boston,"

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the City Council of Boston that an act providing for the retirement of aged and infirm city laborers, who shall receive an annual pension, should be placed upon the statute books of the Commonwealth.

Ordered, That a copy of this preamble and resolve be sent by the City Clerk to the Committee on Cities.

The question came on the adoption of the preamble, resolution and order.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I desire at this time to say a few words in reference to this particular order. His Honor the Mayor called attention in his inaugural address last year to the need of a pension system for the city. At a meeting of the heads of departments, the Mayor and City Council, on December 5 of last year, he again called attention to the need of a pension system in our city departments. He said:

"Mr. Rourke has wrestled with the problem of inefficient service in his department, and it is a problem which has faced the Water Department. Every one of us knows that there are some hundreds of men in the employ of the City of Boston who do not give adequate service, yet nobody feels like discharging them, because it means leaving them without any income and helpless."

Again this year his Honor the Mayor called the attention of the City Council to the need of a pension system, and said that something should be done. Coun. Kenny on January 30 of this year made a statement in the City Council, with which I quite agree, stating the need of a pension system for a certain class of employees of the city, that is, the laboring class. He said, and he said it so well that I will repeat his words:

"I am heartily in favor of any legislation which provides for a pension for the laboring man. I am quite willing, as a member of this Council, to vote to further the adoption of a law which will provide a pension for the laboring man, and I trust that the Legislature will in its wisdom prepare such a bill this year."

Further he said:

"It seems to me that where a man has been earning only a living wage for a great number of years and reaches that point in life when he is unable to labor further, when he is in his declining years and the eve of his life is approaching, it is very proper that the City of Boston should consider his past faithful and loyal service because of the fact that he has been receiving only a living wage."

Coun. Kenny stated the case, and stated it well, and I agree with the sentiment that he expressed at the meeting of the Council when this Council discussed the civil pension act which was rejected in January of this year. I have reference to chapter 619 of the Acts of 1910. The Finance Commission, in a communication to the City Council in relation to the rejection of that act, under date of December 10, said:

"To the Honorable the City Council:

"Gentlemen,—There is now pending before your honorable body for acceptance or rejection an act authorizing the establishment of a retirement system for public employees, namely, chapter 619 of the Acts of 1910. The Finance Commission respectfully submits the following reasons why the act should not be accepted," and this is the statement to which I desire to call especial attention: "The Commission believes that the only retirement system which can be justified on grounds of economy is one which would relieve the city of the loss caused by the retention of day laborers who, by reason of age, have become so infirm as to be incapable of rendering in service a full equivalent for the wages they receive."

That act was rejected by the City Council of Boston, and up to January 28 of this year no city in the Commonwealth had accepted the act, and of the 321 towns in the state 304 reported that they had not accepted it. It was said when we discussed that act that the act was faulty; that it was an unworkable act; that it was not fair because of the fact that it would provide a pension for men who received more than the living wage. And I feel that that act, if amended and again presented to the City Council, will not be accepted this year. I believe the public feels that all laboring men in the employ of the cities, if they have served the city faithfully and well and have grown old in the service, should receive a pension. When the pension act of last year was under discussion and consideration in this City Council I tried to get the consensus of the popular opinion of the ordinary man in the city—the citizen and taxpayer—and public opinion as expressed to me was that the public would favor an act which would provide for the laboring man, who has served the city and served it well, a fair, just, honorable, equitable pension. This is not a matter of politics; it is a matter of municipal economy. A man who is an eminent engineer stated to me a few days ago that two years ago the City of Boston expended $35,000 for men who worked in the Sanitary Department who were not giving the city any return whatever for the money which was paid. He stated that if the City of Boston should give those men any sum less than the $2.25 a day which they were receiving as pay the city would save money—that it would be a gain to the city. Of course, these old men should not be discharged from the service of the city with nothing to keep them in their old age, their declining years. Personally I believe, as one member of the Council, that the city should be honorable enough to grant these men some sort of a yearly pension. There is at present before the Committee on Cities House Bill No. 802. I do not ask the members of this Council to subscribe to that particular bill; I only ask that the members of the Council go on record, as representatives of the people of the city, that it is the opinion of this Council, which rejected that civil pension act, that an act should be upon the statute books providing for the retirement of aged and infirm laborers who should receive an annual pension The act which was considered by the Committee on Cities is an act to which I subscribe as one member of the City Council. It states in the first section that "there shall be a retirement board for the laborers employed by the City of Boston, consisting of the Mayor, the Auditor and the Treasurer of the city, who shall discharge the duties hereby imposed upon them without additional compensation." In this particular act the membership of the retirement board is certain, which it was not under the civil pension act which was rejected. The duties of the retirement board are imposed upon three men and there is no expense of administration. The duties which are imposed under this act are to be discharged by them without any additional compensation. Under the civil pension act it was stated that at least $25,000 would be the expense of the administration of that act for the first year. In section 2 of House Bill 802 it states that "any laborer employed by the City of Boston who has reached the age of sixty years and who has been in the service of the city for a period of not less than twenty-five years shall at his request and with the approval of the retirement board above provided for, be retired from service, and shall receive for the remainder of his life an annual pension equal to one-half of the compensation which he received during the last year of his service for the city. It shall be the duty of the said board so to retire any laborer in the service of the city who has reached the age of seventy years and has served the city for a period of not less than twenty-five years." That is, there is voluntary retirement under this act when a man reaches the age of sixty years, and he is forced to retire when he has reached the age of seventy years. Under this act he would receive an annual pension equal to one-half the compensation which he received during the last year of his service for the city. That is the least, in my opinion, which the city should give to the old, faithful laborer who has worked hard in the early days in the ditch, who has helped to make our city what it is by building its streets and sewers, laying its water mains, removing the garbage and ashes of the city. Under this act the day laborer does not have to contribute; under the civil pension act he was supposed to contribute 1 per cent or 5 per cent, as laid down by the retirement board. Many of the old laborers could not spare under that act 1 per cent of their wages or 5 per cent of their wages. Under this act they are to contribute nothing, and I believe that is fair to them. Most of the pension legislation on the statute books to-day, for the firemen, police and the teachers, is noncontributory pension legislation. That is, they pay nothing. The city has been generous with them and the city, in my opinion, should be generous with these men, who need generosity in their old age. This bill, if it would become a law, would, in my opinion, retire the superannuated employees. In the Street Department, to-day the Department of Public Works, there are at present 282 men who have served the city for twenty-five years and who are over the age of sixty. Between the ages of sixty and seventy there are 203 men who have served the city for twenty-five years. Over seventy years of age there are seventy-nine men who have served the city for twenty-five years. The city pays these men on an average $704 per year, when steadily employed. The wages which are paid to the 282 employees are $198,000. If the city could get along after these men were retired on a pension without putting other men in their places, this would be a distinct gain to the city. As I have stated in regard to the Sanitary Department, the city two years ago was spending there $35,000 a year in the employment of men from which the city was getting no return whatever; and if these men over seventy years of age were pensioned the chances are that there would be a saving of at least $27,000 a year on those few men, and at the same time the city would be fair to them and the men would not have to go to the poorhouse. I think an effort will be made this year to amend that civil pension act which was rejected by the Council of last year. In my opinion the members of this Council do not care to adopt that civil pension act. They once rejected it, and if it is amended by the Legislature this year, if I know the temper of the members of this Council, in my opinion they will not accept it. I think the opinion of the members of the Council here is that a laboring man who has reached the age of sixty or seventy years and who has served the city faithfully for twenty-five years should receive an adequate pension. If there is no objection, I move reference of the resolution to the Executive Committee.

The preamble, resolution and order were referred to the Executive Committee.

FLAG FOR CORONATION DAY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

The accompanying letter from Mr. W. Jessop, honorable secretary of the Boston Old Brigade of Boston, England, suggests that the City of Boston, Mass., send the members of the brigade a Union Jack, to be carried on Coronation Day. It seems to me a very happy thought, and this emblem might well serve as a link between the two cities of similar name and of close historical connection. The addition of a handsome American flag might render the gift even more appropriate.

I beg to inform your honorable body that an order requesting an appropriation for the purchase of one or both of these flags would meet with my approval and I should be willing to recommend the amount which you should consider necessary for this purpose.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

24 South Street, Boston, England.

To His Worship the Mayor,
Boston, America:

Dear Sir,—I hope you will pardon the liberty I take in writing to you. I ask you on behalf of the Boston Old Brigade whether you could buy us a Union Jack to carry in front of our brigade on Coronation Day (assisted by the members of your corporation). Our funds are very low through assisting so many of our old soldiers and navy men. We cannot afford to buy one ourselves. It would show a good feeling between the two countries and I am sure old Boston would be proud of it. If you do so we shall carry the Stars and Stripes at the same time. Inclosed you will find a leaf from the "Boston Red Book" showing what the Old Brigade is formed for, also a small photo of myself. Wishing your great country and yourself and the members of your corporation every success, I remain,

Yours faithfully,
W. JESSOP,
Honorable Secretary Boston Old Brigade.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

CITY PLANNING EXHIBIT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20. 1911.

To the City Council:

In transmitting the accompanying letter from W. Templeton Johnson, Esq., assistant secretary to his Honor Mayor John E. Reyburn of Philadelphia, I beg to call your attention to my previous communications upon the same subject, under date of January 11 and January 23, and to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, appropriating one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) for the expenses of an exhibit at the Philadelphia City Planning Exhibition.

As noted in my previous communications, the city of Philadelphia will pay for the transportation, care and return of the exhibit, and will provide attendants. The exhibit will be displayed in the City Hall of Philadelphia for three weeks or more following the Third National Conference on City Planning, which is expected to occupy three days. As the date of the exhibition is from May 15 to June 15, immediate action is required in order that the exhibit of the City of Boston may be properly prepared.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALN, Mayor.

First Municipal City Planning
Exhibition in America,
Philadelphia, Penn., March 15, 1911.

Mr. William A. Leahy,
Mayor's Office, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of your letter of March 13, and note that the City Council at its meeting on March 6 took no action toward the making of an appropriation for the preparation of an exhibit to be sent to Philadelphia.

Almost every day we are receiving enthusiastic letters from municipalities all over the country who are hard at work preparing comprehensive exhibits for their cities, and it would be very regrettable if a city of the size and influence of Boston should not be represented.

I hope that Mayor Fitzgerald will put this matter again before the committee at his earliest opportunity.

Yours very truly,
W. TEMPLETON JOHNSON,
Assistant Secretary.

Ordered, That to meet the expenses of an exhibit at the Philadelphia City Planning Exhibition the sum of one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) be, and hereby is, appropriated to be expended by the Art Commission, under the direction of the Mayor, and to be charged to the appropriation for Reserve Fund, when made.

Referred to the Executive Committee. (See Executive Reports.)

FOOTBRIDGE, DOVER STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to forward a number of petitions signed by residents of South Boston and vicinity requesting that a footbridge be constructed adjoining the Dover Street Bridge during the closing of the latter structure to public travel. The opinion of the Commissioner of Public Works upon this request, appended hereto, is unfavorable to the desires of the petitioners, but if your honorable body should express the view that the detour of sixteen hundred feet via Broadway is more than the people of this district should be asked to make, and should favor an increase of the appropriation of his department by three thousand dollars ($3,000), which is his estimate of the cost of the proposed footbridge, I should be willing to recommend this increase.

Accompanying the letter of the Commissioner of Public Works and the petitions is a communication from the division engineer of the Bridge and Ferry Divisions.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

(Annexed were the petitions referred to.)

Public Works Department,
City Hall, Boston, March 11, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

Re inclosed petition for temporary footbridge, pending repairs to Dover Street Bridge, I hereby concur in the attached opinion of Division Engineer Fay that such a footbridge, which would cost $3,000, is not needed in view of the fact that Dover Street Bridge will be closed for only a period of four weeks, and that the distance via Broadway is only 1,600 feet longer.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Public Works Department,
March 10, 1911.

Mr. L. K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,—The City Council last year made an appropriation for painting and repairing Dover Street Bridge. The painting of the fixed spans has been completed. The repairing of the draw span has been held up pending the completion of the work on Broadway and Dorchester Avenue Bridges, and we are now ready to proceed with that work. To repair the draw span it will be necessary to close the bridge to travel for a period of about four weeks. Petitions have been presented to the Mayor requesting that a footbridge be constructed to accommodate foot travel during the period of the repairs on the draw span. The appropriation already made for the work is insufficient to cover the cost of a footbridge, and if the footbridge is to be constructed it will be necessary to add the sum of $3,000 to the appropriation for this bridge. If the footbridge is not constructed the foot travel would have to cross Broadway Bridge, and from the corner of Dorchester avenue and West Fourth street in South Boston to the corner of Albany street and Dover street in the city proper the distance is approximately 1,600 feet longer by way of Broadway Bridge than the direct route by way of Dover Street Bridge.

In my opinion the temporary footbridge costing $3,000 is not needed, but if you think otherwise I would suggest you request the Mayor to ask the City Council for an increase of $3,000 in the appropriation for the repairs on Dover Street Bridge.

Yours respectfully,
FRENERIC H. FAY,
Division Engineer.

SUBSOIL IRRIGATION, BOSTON COMMON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 18, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a copy of a letter from the Superintendent of Public Grounds regarding the need of an additional appropriation of about seventy-five thousand dollars ($75,000), in order to complete the work of subsoil irrigation begun on Boston Common last year. The superintendent suggests that this further appropriation, like that which has already been made for this purpose, might be taken from the income of the Parkman Fund.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Public Grounds Department,
March 7, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I wish to bring to your attention our experiment in the work of irrigation on Boston Common and our advancement in the resoiling of about eight acres with the installation of an irrigation system.

We have now available but $31,000, approximately, and as it has been arranged to proceed with the work in the early spring (weather permitting) and there remains about twenty-three acres to be done in addition to the eight already covered, I would recommend an immediate appropriation from the Parkman Fund to continue the work of irrigation the coming spring, summer and fall.

To proceed with the work we should have at least an additional appropriation of $75,000. Based on our work of the past year this amount would be absolutely necessary. The experiment has proved highly satisfactory and should continue.

Respectfully submitted,
D. H. SULLIVAN, Superintendent.

Referred to the Committee on Parkman Fund.

REMOVAL OF MOTH NESTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the Executive Secretary of the United Improvement Association, calling attention to the necessity for immediate work by the City of Boston in removing gypsy and brown-tail moth nests from trees and foliage. A communication from the Superintendent of Public Grounds, in reply thereto, expressing the opinion that an appropriation of eighty-five thousand dollars ($85,000) is required for this work, is attached hereto for your information.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

United Improvement Association,
Boston, March 15, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—In accordance with a vote of the Executive Committee, I am instructed to bring to your attention the necessity for immediate work by the City of Boston in cleaning trees and foliage of gypsy and brown-tail moth nests.

From the Public Grounds Department the committee learns that about sixty men are at work, now in the West Roxbury district, in cleaning nests from the trees.

At the present rate at least a month will be consumed before the entire city is covered and by that time the gypsy and brown-tail moths will be alive, with the result that large numbers of trees will be ruined and the general public put to great inconvenience.

The committee hopes that you will give this important matter your immediate attention.

Very truly yours,
M. C. BERKOWITZ,
Executive Secretary.

Public Grounds Department,
March 17, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,— In reply to the inclosed communication of the 15th inst. from Mr. Mortimer L. Berkowitz, Executive Secretary for the United Improvement Association, concerning the suppression of the gypsy and brown-tail moths throughout the city, I would say that it is impossible to cover the entire city on destruction work in one season with the limited appropriation allowed for the work.

We are guided in doing the destruction work by the state inspectors, who direct the moth men to the districts where the infestations are greatest, and other districts not covered by destruction work will be subjected to the spraying treatment which is also very effective, during the spring and early summer.

In order to cover the entire city on destruction work and follow it by spraying it would require a force of 150 men and an appropriation of $85,000, whereas the amount allowed this year for the purpose is only $40,000.

For the last two years I have endeavored to get property owners to co-operate with the city and state officials by caring for their trees on destruction work and have succeeded to a limited extent. It has occurred to me that this might be a good field in which the United Improvement Association could help along the work by influencing the members of their numerous associations to recommend this means to their friends, for which I would be extremely grateful.

Respectfully,
D. H. SULLIVAN, Superintendent.

REOPENING OF CHARLESTOWN SEWER YARD.

YACHT RACE TROPHY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council;

I beg to transmit a letter from Mr. Hollis Burgess, notifying me that the Boston Yacht Cluh will conduct an ocean yacht race next summer from Boston to Bermuda, and requesting that the city offer a trophy for the winner of this contest. In my opinion the suggestion is an admirahle one and I recommend the passage of tbe accompanying order, appropriating the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) for such a trophy.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Hollis Burgess Yacht Agency,
15 Exchange Street,
Boston, March 18, 1911.

Hon. Jobn F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—In confirmation of my conversation with you at your office, I beg to say that the Boston Yacht Cluh is going to conduct an ocean yacht race next summer from Boston to Bermuda, and that it is to he hoped that the City of Boston will offer a trophy for the winner of this contest.

This race, for sailing yachts only, is to start Saturday, June 3, at twelve o'clock, off the Marine Pier, South Boston, and finish off St. David's Head, Bermuda. I inclose two clippings from the Royal Gazette, Bermuda, of January 17 and 19, which will show the great interest taken in Bermuda in the coming event.

The city of Philadelphia last year offered a $1,000 silver trophy to the winner of the Philadelphia-Havana motor boat race, and as the Boston-Bermuda race will he of the greatest interest and importance, it is hoped that the City of Boston will offer a suitable prize of a value of $500 or $1,000.

The City of Boston in the past has always encouraged in every way the sport of yachting, and as this is the first time that Boston has been the starting point for the Bermuda race, a municipal prize would be bighly appreciated by yachtsmen.

Bermuda is growing very rapidly as a winter and summer resort for Americans, and it is helieved that this Boston-Bermuda race should eventually lead to the establishment of a steamship line between Boston and Bermuda, particularly if the City of Boston will assist in the development of trade and travel hetween the two places by officially recognizing this great race.

Entries already received for the contest are:

Schooner "Vagrant," Harold S. Vanderhilt owner; Schooner "Shiyessa," J. V. Morrell owner; Schooner "Seneca," Demerest Lloyd owner; Schooner "Margaret," George S. Runk owner.

Other entries are certain to come in soon, particularly if the City of Boston will show its interest in the event by offering a trophy.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely,
HOLLIS BURGESS.

Ordered, That to meet tbe expense of a suitable trophy to be awarded to the winner of an ocean yacht race to be sailed next summer from Boston to Bermuda, under the auspices of the Boston Yacht Cluh, the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) he, and hereby is, appropriated to he added to the appropriation for Mayor, Office Expenses, etc., when made.

EXPENDITURES FOR "ZOO," ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 16, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit the accompanying letter from tbe United Improvement Association, incorporating a recent resolution to the effect that not more than 50 per cent of the income of the Parkman Fund should be expended in any one year for the purpose of a zoological garden in Franklin Park, and an aquarium in Marine Park.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

United Improvement Association,
Boston, March 11, 1911.

Hon. Jobn F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City of Boston, City Hall. Boston:

Dear Sir,—The delegates representing the Citizens and Improvement Associations, affiliated in the United Improvement Association, upon recommendation of the Committee on Parks and Playgrounds, at their meeting on March 1, voted to send to you the following resolution adopted at that time:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the United Improvement Association that a wise and safe plan for the expenditure of the income of the Parkman Fund would be that not over 50 per cent of the income be expended in any one year for the purpose of a zoological garden in Franklin Park and an aquarium in Marine Park for these reasons:

"That a most cursory study of the situation as regards the condition of local parks shows that large and immediate expenditures are necessary for their improvement and hringing up to tbe proper standard."

The Committee on Parks and Playgrounds based its conclusions upon a general knowledge of the condition of local parks and playgrounds, which might be benefited hy the income of the Parkman Fund.

The committee would especially call to your attention a letter under date of March 7, from Mr. D. Henry Sullivan, Superintendent of the Puhlic Grounds Department, a copy of wbicb was forwarded to this office, which contains recommendations for needed improvements in the local parks, amounting to $82,175, and to another letter under date of March 7, requesting that $75,000 be appropriated for additional work in resoiling Boston Common.

The committee and tbe association believe, in view of these facts and figures, that at least one-half tbe income each year should he appropriated from the Parkman Fund for the henefit of local parks and playgrounds which were in existence in 1887.

Very truly yours,
M. L. BERKOWITZ.

DISPOSAL OF CITY REFUSE.

To the City Council:

I heg to transmit a letter from the Commissioner of Puhlic Works, announcing a proposal from the Boston Disposal Company for disposing of the refuse of the City of Boston, with the exception of the West Roxbury and East Boston districts, for the ten years heginning January 1, 1912. The letter of the Commissioner of Puhlic Works is accompanied by a communication from the president of the Boston Disposal Company, a copy of the charter of that company, a copy of the contract which tbe company stands ready to sign, and the plans of the proposed stations and terminals.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
Marcb 13, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

Inclosed find proposal of Boston Disposal Company for disposing of the refuse of the City of Boston, with the exceptions of the West Roxbury and East Boston districts, for the ten years beginning January 1, 1912.

I consider that this proposal offers a scientific solution of the problem at a reasonable figure, and would respectfully request that it he forwarded to tbe bonorable the City Council for action, as per section 6 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909.

Also, find sketch plans of the proposed stations and terminals. There is a loan of $50,275.85 available now for the construction of the Freeport street terminal, and in addition to this it is estimated that $100,000 will be necessary to build all the terminals and stations. Therefore, if this proposal is approved by the City Council, the only immediate investment on the part of the city will be about $150,000 for the construction of these stations, of which $50,275.85 is available.

Very respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Boston Disposal Company,
No. 511 Ford Building,
Boston, March 9, 1911.

Louis K. Rourke, Esq.,
Commissioner of Public Works,
Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—Answering your letter of March 7, 1911, I would say the Boston Disposal Company is organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the date of its charter being February 9, 1911.

The following are its officials:
Frederick H. Payne, President.
William J. Carlin, Vice President.
Edward R. Hastings, Treasurer.
J. Steuart Rusk, Clerk.
Lawrence M. Stockton, Counsel.

The above, with Albion F. Bemis, Theodore G. Bremer and John H. Gibbs are the board of directors.

It may be of interest to you to know the business standing of these men:

Mr. Payne is vice president of the Federal Trust Company, Boston.

Mr. Carlin is treasurer of the Coffin Valve Company and a heating and ventilating contractor.

Mr. Bremer is of the firm of Parker, Wilder & Co.

Mr. Bemis is a director of the Federal Trust Company and a former member of the Governor's Council.

Mr. Rusk is a patent attorney, and is retained by the American Pneumatic Service Company, and also has a private practice.

Mr. Stockton is a member of the firm of Stimson, Stockton, Livermore & Forbes, attorneys at law.

Mr. Gibbs is president of Winch Brothers' Company.

Mr. Hastings is of the firm of Devens, Lyman & Company, brokers.

The present office of the company is at 511 Ford Building, Ashburton place, Boston.

We propose to acquire from Mr. Willis C. Merrill, who is a stockholder and director in the New England Sanitary Product Company, the right to use certain of his patents, which represent the most modern and effective methods of treating refuse, and he will thereupon become one of our stockholders. Mr. Rusk, one of our directors, is also a stockholder and director in the New England Sanitary Product Company. No other person interested in the New England Sanitary Product Company is, or will be, connected with the Boston Disposal Company.

The only interest the Boston Disposal Company has in the affairs of the New England Sanitary Product Company is to acquire by purchase, on as favorable terms as possible, its plant and location. The Boston Disposal Company will have no relations with the New England Sanitary Product Company. On our purchase of the property the New England Sanitary Product Company will retire from business and have no part in our management or operation.

All of the directors and parties connected with the Boston Disposal Company are Boston business men and interested in the development of the city and have financial interests at stake.

The company is prepared to qualify in the usual bonds, which are required by a contract of this character.

It is the intention of this company to build and equip the most modern plant for the disposal of city wastes that has ever been built at the admirable location which it will occupy.

The enterprise will add a new industry to the business of Boston, and give employment to many men.

In the preparation of our proposition to the city the situation has been carefully considered with reference to the sanitary development and economical disposition of the waste material to be handled, and it calls for a type of advanced sanitary engineering, which can only be comprehended by a thorough understanding of the diverse conditions presented by the problem.

Our method embodies reduction and incineration of the highest form, and includes a modern high temperature destructor of the Heenan & Froude type.

In view of misleading public criticism we would ask you to call attention to the fact that the first offer made in reply to the invitations for proposals was figured by the city at $362,195 per year. This was on the understanding that the company was to build and maintain all the stations. On a subsequent request for modifications of the bid for disposal of the refuse of the whole city the price given by the company was $270,000 for the first year, with an increase of 2.6 per cent in each succeeding year over the previous year, the city to build and maintain stations.

After further conferences and discussions the city decided to leave out of the operation of the contract, at least for the time being, the East Boston and West Roxbury districts. The company therefore reduced its price for the first year, figuring on a population basis, to $234,940, the present price. The company further, on account of reduced plant capacity required by the modified conditions, reduced its yearly increase of price from 2.6 per cent to 2.1 per cent, the present figure. On this basis our total price for ten (10) years is $2,584,348.

It should be further noted that we have offered to reduce our price to the extent of $25,000 a year, should the city elect to do all the teaming within the city; that is to say, the transportation of refuse from the inland stations to the waterfront stations will, under the contract, be performed by us, although forming no part of final disposition. Should the city decide to undertake the transportation as above, the net total cost to the city during the ten years of the contract will be $2,334,348. We respectfully request a comparison of these figures with the cost to the city during the ten years of our proposed contract on any reasonable estimates.

In fairness to this company the city should remember that by letter to you, dated October 17, 1910, which accompanied the original bid, the whole plan of the company was submitted, so far as it could be without the actual organization of a corporation, and far from wishing to conceal the names of those interested, we have been, and are, anxious that the city and public shall have all the facts in regard thereto.

The present capital paid in is $5,000, which is sufficient for present needs, and in case the company enters into the contract all capital necessary to carry it out will be forthcoming.

Our operating staff includes men of experience and high technical skill, and assures the fulfillment of the contract with the greatest possible efficiency.

Our charter is herewith submitted for your inspection.

In case you or any member of the City Council desire a personal interview with the gentlemen associated together in this enterprise, we shall be pleased to make an appointment to suit your convenience, and go into the matter more in detail.

Respectfully yours,
FREDERICK H. PAYNE, President.

DEVELOPMENT OF CITY OF BOSTON.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That the Finance Commission he requested to prepare and suhmit to the present City Council a plan for the development and advancement of the City of Boston from this date to January 1, 1920; such plan to he made along the following lines:

1. A determination of the permanent improvements which should he made on or before January 1, 1920, in order that the city may keep up with the progress of the nation and of other cities.
2. A determination of the approximate cost of each of such permanent improvements.
3. A determination of the approximate amount of money which can he borrowed each year down to 1920 inside of the deht limit.
4. A determination of the amount of money inside the deht limit which should not he considered in this plan, but should be left as a reserve to meet emergencies or unexpected needs of the city.
5. A determination as to which if any of these permanent improvements should he properly made outside the deht limit.
6. Arrangement of the improvements determined under paragraph 1, at the costs determined under paragraph 2, into a tentative hudget divided between the years 1911–1919, inclusive, in accordance with the figures returned under paragraphs 3, 4 and 5.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, this order, which I have worked over for some time, incorporates two principles which I helieve in very strongly and which I am inclined to think that the City Council as a whole helieves in. The first one is that it is really not economy to save money hut to spend money wisely. I don't believe any city can advance without spending a great deal of money. I think the thing we want to avoid is the spending of money for purposes that are not wise or necessary, and that we should try to get our money's worth for the money we spend; but I am sure that the memhers will agree with me that we cannot have any real advance in the City of Boston unless we spend money. Every European city is willing to spend a large amount of money, and so are all our Western cities, and if Boston is going to advance we must get over this theory that the greatest economy is the saving of money. This attitude, of course, I can see is perfectly natural, hecausc in the past the City Council has wasted tremendous sums of money on unnecessary things, and has not insisted on getting a dollar's worth for every dollar spent. But that is no reason why we should go to the opposite extreme and congratulate ourselves simply hecause we issue no loans in a year. As I said at the last meeting, I don't think we are to hc congratulated hecause we do not spend money for a playground, for instance, when the fact that we do not do so this year involves our paying a much larger amount for the same thing five years from now. The second principle involved is that in spending money we have got to look at the matter as a whole. There has heen a tendency, I think last year especially, to congratulate ourselves upon not having a loan bill. While of course it sounds very fine, and some of us feel that we ought to feel proud that there was not a loan hill, what does it mean? What it means is this, that we have taken up separate items and considered them on their merits, hut separately. I say that the merits of any particular loan really have very little to do with the question. Of course, we assume that the things for which we give money will he meritorious, all of them. That is preliminary, hut that is the whole matter. The important thing is to find out which are the most important things each year — not whether a particular playground is good or had, or whether we ought to have it or not, hut whether it fits in with the general scheme of improving the city; not whether a particular playground is good, hut whether it is the best thing, or whether the expenditure for some other improvement that is good for the whole city is more important. I think if the Finance Commission can work out this problem it will he of a great deal of assistance to us, hecause we have to have some experts do this sort of thing. None of us here have the time to fulfill the requirements of that order. Then we will know what are the most important things upon which to spend money in Boston, and we will have a plan which will advance Boston and not simply let it stand still. I hope very much that this order will go through and that we will get a reply soon, so that we can have some sort of program in mind.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

BUNKER HILL DAY.

Coun. McDONALD offered an order—That the President of the City Council appoint a special committee of five memhers of the Council to prepare a program for the celehration of Bunker Hill Day, June 17.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Superintendent of Puhlic Buildings, with the approval of the Art Commission, transfer the portrait of Maj. Rohert Anderson from the Committee Room, City Hall, to Faneuil Hall, or such suitahle place as the Art Commission shall designate.

PAYMENT TO MRS. DUFFY.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That under authority granted hy chapter 92, Acts of 1911, the sum of three hundred and fifty dollars he paid to Mrs. Catherine Duffy, widow of Charles Duffy, who died from injuries received while in performance of his duty as an employee of the City of Boston.

The order was read a second time, and the question came on its passage.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I simply present this order as chairman of the Committee on Claims, which committee heard the matter last year. It has heen heard hefore previous committees, hut the evidence was not always what it should have heen, was not always ahsolutely fair to the deceased; the result was that his widow never got this money. Last year the Committee on Claims, of which you yourself were a member, heard this claim, and we thought it a most meritorious one. But the Law Department would not approve of it at that time. Then Representative O'Donnell of Ward 6 had this bill presented to the Legislature, and it was passed. Now all we have to do is to adopt it to make this legal. I hope the order will be passed.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I desire to ask Coun. Buckley, through you, if that has heen before the Committee on Claims this year?

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, it has not been before the Committee on Claims this year. I do not imagine that it is necessary that it should go hefore the committee this year. All we want to do now is to have the act of the Legislature accepted by the City Council of Boston, and then it hecomes legal, as I understand it. The facts of the matter are these, as I remember them. The deceased was an employee of the Sanitary Division, and one day in Decemher, 1908, was driving his wagon down by St. Mary's Church, in the North End, and the wagon heing pretty full he had to step on the shaft of the wagon. The horse stumhled and he was thrown to the ground and struck on the curhstone, the fall resulting in his death. He was a good, faithful employee of the city, always gave the hest that was in him to the city. We have passed orders like this before, the precedent has heen estahlished, and it seems hut fair that Mrs. Duffy should get this $350. We have been in the hahit of giving $1,000 in similar cases.

The order was passed.

RETIREMENT OF A. S. BUSWELL.

Coun. CURLEY, for the Committee on County Accounts, suhmitted the following:

REMOVAL OF STORE DIRT.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—Section 1, Chapter 9, of the Revised Ordinances of the City of Boston, is herehy amended by inserting after the word "suhstances" in the seventeenth line the words "store dirt, paper, and comhustihle refuse from mercantile and manufacturing estahlishments." (See Document 167, 1910.)

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Chairman, in relation to this particular order I wish to point out the fact that the custom has ohtained in this city since the city was chartered of removing from the stores and from the mercantile estahlishments the comhustihle waste, such as paper, excelsior and material of that character; that the purpose of government is to provide for the convenience, wellbeing and welfare of the puhlic generally: that there is no provision for the welfare or wellheing of the public generally in the position that is taken hy the Commissioner of Puhlic Works at the present time. That is so for this reason, that Boston has grown within the last twenty-five years, and to-day there are hut two or three so-called inland dumps where comhustible or waste material may be dumped; that those dumps are in control of certain individuals who have been able to exact a fairly respectahle amount for materials deposited there from the City of Boston or from private persons who may have a desire to dispose of any waste material. As the numher of dumping privileges has become less the price for the privilege of dumping has become greater, so that to-day, practically enjoying a monopoly, the New Haven road, controlling the only available dumping privilege where material of this character may be disposed of, exacts a trihute of 25 cents per douhle load and 15 cents for a single load, and will shortly he in a position, when the two remaining dumps are closed, to exact whatever charges it sees fit. It strikes me that the enforcement of the present provision by the Department of Public Works is for the benefit of those persons who are interested in the so-called garbage contract that is at present under consideration. I don't know how it is under consideration, and I don't know how anybody can enlighten me as to how it is under consideration, because the proposition at present being considered by the commissioner and other individuals is a proposition that was never received in response to a competitive bid, and a contract involving an expenditure of more than $2,000,000 is of sufficient importance to warrant competition of the widest character. There might be some excuse for the enforcement of the provision if the city maintained at its own expense an incinerating plant where it would be possible for these storekeepers and mercantile establishments to send their combustible waste, but as matters stand at the present time they are confined to one inland dump, or have the privilege of buying a scow, if they see fit, and sending the refuse down the harbor. If they desire to burn stuff on a vacant lot, it is necessary to get a permit from the Board of Health, and undoubtedly abutting owners of property, neighbors, would speedily object to any amount of incineration on adjacent property without adequate protection. I believe in the enforcement of the law if it is going to be a benefit to the city, and if there were some place where the material might be destroyed, or where, until such time as the city maintains an incinerator, it would be possible to assess a fair charge for the destruction of the material, tbat would be one thing. But under the circumstances I believe we should continue the old custom. As I understand it, the city is committed, as most progressive cities are, to the policy of incineration of its combustible waste and to the use of its ashes for the reclaiming of land. But until such time as the city is in a position to meet the just requirements of the men who do business in the city, I believe we should amend the ordinance and permit the custom that has obtained in the past to continue to obtain. The contract at present existing between the City of Boston and the graft combination known as the New England Sanitary Product Company will in all probability continue in force until January, 1912. If the smooth gentlemen who are engaged in the proposition to milk the city better than it ever has been milked in its history succeed in getting through the proposition they are interested in at the present time they will be benefited by the enforcement of this provision, and they alone will be benefited, because then they will not have to handle combustible waste, the reclaiming value of which is somewhat questionable. They will be permitted to handle what, Mr. President? They will be permitted to handle garbage and they will be permitted to handle ashes. The ashes that they receive through the enforcement of this law will be free from combustible waste. Those ashes can be speedily sifted and the residue can be incinerated and it will make the best filling in the world. If it is to be used for other commercial purposes, it will be possible to do it. On the garbage itself it has been stated many times that under the present contract this company is clearing a profit of more than $100,000 a year, and, singular to relate, while this great big proposition, affecting vitally the welfare of the entire City of Boston, is being seriously considered in certain quarters where they have always been successful in carrying through any proposition in which they were interested, the Press of Boston with one notable exception—the Boston Journal—are very silent upon the matter. I want to say that I tip my hat to the representative of the Boston Journal in this City Hall. There is no man in this establishment who is more familiar with the inside of this or any other municipal proposition than that particular individual, and I believe if he were given free rein he could write an extremely interesting story of developments even up to the present time. I have no idea that this present proposition will be consummated while the membership of this Board continues of the high intellectual order that is represented here to-day, but I insist that on this proposition we have a duty to the public. It is all very well to assist the garbage promoters, who are out for the money, and who have always been successful in getting it in this town. I believe a former representative of my Congressional district referred to Boston as a piker town; somebody else has referred to it as an easy town. From the standpoint of the garbage people it has been the easiest town in the United States to milk. I don't think they will have as easy a row to hoe this year as in the past, but it behooves the members of this body and the Press of Boston to have an eye upon this particular proposition. It is not a question of saving a few dollars in the removal of combustible material that prompts the enforcement of this particular plan, but it has an eye to tbe future welfare of the garbage proposition. I sincerely trust that the Committee on Ordinances will see the light as it presents itself and will act for the best interests of the public generally.

President COLLINS—The Chair wishes to advise the members of the Council that, in view of the fact that a public hearing is to be given on this subject on Wednesday next, the Chair will depart from the usual rule and will refer this communica tion to the Executive Committee.

Coun. CURLEY—I am agreeable to that, Mr. President.

PROTECTION OF PAINTINGS.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Public Buildings, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to take the necessary steps to provide proper protection for paintings now hung at Faneuil Hall.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would say in relation to this order that a similar order was introduced last year, but no action was taken upon it. The painting of Webster in Faneuil Hall, the painting of Washington, and the other paintings that are hung in that historic edifice, are priceless. It would be impossible to replace them. It is impossible to touch them up and restore them to their original colorings at any time. It is customary to hold conventions in Faneuil Hall, or allow the use of the hall for various public purposes. The smoke from cigars has a tendency to create a gas, perhaps, that has a tendency to destroy the colorings of those paintings. It strikes me, where they are of such tremendous value, and where it would be impossible to replace them were they destroyed, the city should undertake, at a reasonable and legitimate expense, the proper protection of those paintings. I believe it might be possible to inclose them in glass cases at no great outlay of money and preserve them for all time. I believe something should be done, and I trust that the Superintendent of Public Buildings will request the Committee on Appropriations to allow him sufficient money to provide adequate protection for those paintings.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I heartily agree with Coun. Curley as far as the desirability of preserving the paintings in Faneuil Hall is concerned, but the question suggests itself to my mind, how are you going to protect them? Coun. Curley has mentioned the picture of Webster and has suggested that that might be inclosed in a glass case. I suppose Coun. Curley is familiar with the size of that picture. I cannot see how it would be possible to get a sheet of glass into Faneuil Hall large enough to cover the face of that picture. It would be an utter impossibility. There is no opening, either door or window, that would admit of a sheet of glass large enough to cover that picture, and I don't think it could be covered in any other way than by one sheet of glass. If the councilor has any plan in mind for protecting those pictures, I shall be glad to co-operate with him; but I cannot see how the suggestion of covering them with glass can be applied to such large pictures as that of Webster.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I do not desire to offer any suggestions. I merely say in order that I desire to have proper protection provided. As far as the question of covering the picture with glass is concerned, I suppose glass could be used to cover some of the smaller pictures in the building. I do not believe it would be possible to get a sheet of glass in Faneuil Hall large enough to cover the Webster painting, but it strikes me that some sort of isinglass of sufficient size might be provided to cover that, such as is used on the fronts of automobiles at the present time to take the place of glass shields. I am in favor of any proper protection that might be provided to cover the paintings themselves, and if that is not practicable, issue an order that there shall be no smoking allowed in the hall. I believe those paintings are worthy of protection. They are a natural source of interest to any person who has occasion to visit Boston from another city. In addition to that, there is the historic value and the associations that go with the pictures, and the value of the hall itself would be to a great extent destroyed or reduced if the paintings were obliterated. I believe some method can be devised to preserve and to protect them, and I sincerely hope that some method will be devised before it is too late.

The order was passed.

PROTEST AGAINST RAILWAY FREIGHT CARS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the secretary of the South Boston Citizens Association relating to the service of the Boston Elevated Railway in South Boston, and opposing the granting of the privilege of adding freight and express cars to this service until needed changes are made in caring for passengers.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

South Boston Citizens Association,
South Boston, March 20, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the South Boston Citizens Association held the 16th inst., the following resolutions were adopted, viz.:

Resolved, That the service of the Boston Elevated Railway, so far as South Boston is concerned, is less efficient than ever; the sidetracking of cars at Dorchester street has become a public nuisance.

The cars now running into the subway from here are of very little accommodation to the residents, the Huntington avenue or Back Bay line, no better.

We are opposed to granting the privilege of adding freight and express cars to this poor service until needed changes are made in caring for passengers, and would again recommend the immediate improvements in this direction which we have so many times called to the attention of the president and other officials; that all cars running to and from South Boston start from City Point and return there; that the Field's Corner and Meeting House Hill lines start from Dorchester street and return there, and not to cross Broadway; that suitable shelters be provided for waiting patrons; that time tables be provided and put in conspicuous places that people can see and read them; more frequent trips on all lines.

We respectfully urge his Honor the Mayor and City Council not to grant the permission to allow the carrying of freight and express packages at all until these much needed and absolutely necessary changes are made.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his Honor Mayor Fitzgerald and the honorable City Council and the president and directors of the Boston Elevated Railway.

Yours truly,
HENRY J. D. SMALL, Secretary.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PLANS FOR NEW CITY HALL.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from George H. Ingraham, Esq., relating to a plan which he has made for building a new City Hall on property occupied by the Natural History Building and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston, Mass., March 20, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I have a matter which I should like to bring to your attention, and which I discussed with your secretary, and at his suggestion I am putting the information in writing. I left with him a scheme for building a new City Hall on the property occupied by the Natural History Building and the Institute of Technology. You are aware that the Institute of Technology is interested to sell its present property and move to a new site, but one of the restrictions on the present property on Boylston street is that the abutters have certain legal rights so that the property cannot be built except on one-third of the area. This, of course, hampers the sale of the property for business purposes. In building a building of the character of a City Hall it would, of course, be necessary to have some grounds around the building to set it off. If this property was taken by the city, the city would benefit the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in disposing of its site. As other cities have been endeavoring to take away from Boston the Institute of Technology, it seems to me that the City of Boston should make every effort to retain the institute in our city. It, therefore, seems to me that the site occupied by Technology and the Natural History Building is an admirable location for a new City Hall in view of the fact that the business of Boston is gradually extending into this section; also, there is a possibility of the Boylston Street Subway being built, enabling a City Hall station to be made in connection with the new building, and the new building would also be very near the geographical center of real Boston. I left a suggestive sketch with your secretary, showing the size of the building which could be built on one-third the area of this property; also, in connection therewith, the area of the present City Hall, and an elevation of the City Hall from Boylston street. These are mere suggestions, and if the building was built on this property, further studies of plans, details and elevations would be necessary. I might also add that the tower contemplated on this new building would be in such a position to be almost directly on the axis of Huntington avenue, so that one could obtain a vista down Huntington avenue from this tower.

In regard to the expense of this proposition, I have worked this out on the assessed values of the new site, and the present property occupied by the city in and about City Hall, which I have figured out on the inclosed sheet, showing an extra cost to the city for the new building of $454,600, taking the proposed improvements on the present old Court House Building as $800,000.

I simply submit this for your consideration as a possible solution of the question of the City Hall for the City of Boston, and a benefit also to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and not with any idea of trying to secure the commission for the building, although if the project was considered favorably by the city, I should expect to be shown the proper courtesy for the suggestion.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE HUNT INGRAHAM.

RETURN OF PAPERS, DISPOSAL OF REFUSE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1911.

To the City Council:

In compliance with the recommendation of the Executive Committee accepted by your honorable body at its meeting of March 20, I have returned the papers relating to a proposition of the Boston Disposal Company to the Commissioner of Public Works and communicated to him your request that he advertise in "at least the ten largest cities in the United States so as to invite bids from all sections."

The commissioner has prepared a statement calling attention to certain legal aspects of the recommendations accepted by you, which is transmitted herewith, together with the original papers.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Public Works Department,
March 27, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In connection with the attached communication from the Executive Committee of the honorable City Council, I beg to say that I am rather surprised that a matter of such vital importance as the disposal of the city refuse was not given more consideration. The problem of the disposal of city refuse strikes me as the most important problem which this administration has to settle. This is a matter which vitally affects the health and comfort of the inhabitants of Boston.

I would respectfully call your attention to section 6 of "An Act Relating to the Administration of the City of Boston and to amend the Charter of the Said City," passed in 1909. Said section provides that "no contract . . . for the collection, removal or disposal of refuse, extending over a period of more than one year from the date thereof, shall be valid without the approval of the mayor and the city council after a public hearing held by the city council, of which at least seven days' notice shall have been given in the City Record." It would certainly seem to me that the proposal of the Boston Disposal Company was serious enough to warrant the honorable City Council in complying with section 6 of said act and giving a public hearing on the matter before rejecting the proposal of said company. Further, in connection with the recommendation of the Executive Committee, said committee recommends that the Commissioner of Public Works "be requested to advertise in at least the ten largest cities in the United States, so as to invite bids from all sections, and that contractors be invited in said advertisements to submit definite propositions for the disposal of garbage, refuse and combustible waste, by reduction, incineration or otherwise." In connection with this recommendation, I would respectfully call the attention of the honorable City Council to section 29 of said act, which provides that all advertising in connection with contracts for work, etc., shall be done exclusively in the City Record.

Respectfully yours,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

DESTRUCTION OF MOTHS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1911.

To the City Council:

Owing to the demands that have been made by citizens' associations and others for a more effective treatment of the gypsy and brown-tail moth problem, I desire to recommend that the sum of fifteen thousand two hundred dollars ($15,200) be added to the appropriation for the Public Grounds Department. A letter of the Superintendent of Public Grounds, appended hereto, gives this figure as his estimate of the cost of purchase, equipment and maintenance of five spraying machines.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Public Grounds Department,
March 27, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In compliance with your suggestion to submit an estimate of the cost for additional equipments for effectually suppressing the gypsy and brown-tail moths, I beg to say that the purchase of five new high power spraying machines, fully equipped, horses, labor, spraying material, etc., will require fifteen thousand two hundred dollars ($15,200).

Respectfully submitted,
D. H. SULLIVAN, Superintendent.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1911.

To the City Council:

The recent payment of a check for nearly a half a million dollars into the city treasury by the executors of the late Quincy A. Shaw estate leads me to suggest that the time is ripe for a broad general plan of improvements to meet the urgent demands in the different sections of the city. In my opinion the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000) might be profitably spent in this manner.

I would emphasize particularly the need of playgrounds, civic centers, convenience stations and drinking fountains in the following list, which I submit for your consideration.

East Boston:
- Branch library.
- Public landing.
- Courthouse and police station.

Charlestown:
- Branch library.
- Courthouse and police station.
- Playground, Ward 5.
- Indoor bath house, Ward 3.

North and West Ends:
- Branch library, Ward 6.
- Convenience stations and drinking fountains, Ward 8.

South End:
- Playground and civic center, Wards 7 and 9.
- Convenience station and drinking fountain, Washington and Dover streets.

South Boston:
- Municipal building.
- Sanitary and locker building, Strandway Playground.

Roxbury:
- Municipal building near Dudley Street Terminal.
- Convenience station near Vine Street Church.
- Enlargement of Orchard Park.
- Playground on Parker Hill.
- Fire protection for Parker Hill.
- Drinking fountains in congested districts.

Dorchester:
- Playground on Meeting House Hill.
- Open-air gymnasium on Franklin Field.
- Police station.
- Convenience stations at Upham's Corner and Field's Corner.

West Roxbury:
- Remodeling of Curtis Hall.
- Playground, Jamaica Plain.
- Playground, Forest Hills,
- Civic center, West Roxbury.

Brighton:
- Fire station, Oak square.
- Civic center.

For some of these items appropriations already exist, namely:

East Boston:
- Courthouse and police station.

Charlestown:
- Branch library.
- Bath house.

Roxbury:
- Playground on Parker Hill.

West Roxbury:
- Remodeling of Curtis Hall.

Transfers might also be made from the two loan appropriations for Bathing Establishment, Ward 15, and Land and Buildings, Sanitary and Street Cleaning Division, Dorchester, as these two appropriations have lain dormant for many years. By drawing upon the borrowing capacity of the city to the amount of about four hundred thousand dollars ($400,000), and using the income received from the Quincy A. Shaw estate, a round million would be available for the carrying out of this program. Estimates could readily be obtained from the departments affected and the items for different sections might be so correlated as to blend into a harmonious scheme.

Should your honorable body see fit to adopt this suggestion and through its committees to prepare such a careful report as the importance of the subject demands, I shall be glad to make the necessary recommendations for appropriation orders, when I have been favored with a statement of your views.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I was going to suggest in this connection that it might be a good idea to consider the advisability of erecting an annex to City Hall that might be used for an office building, and, if a name is necessary to apply to it, that it might be called the "Shaw Memorial," or the "Conscience Fund Office Building," or something of that nature. In connection with this recommendation, which bears practically upon the return of some four hundred odd thousand dollars by the executors of the Shaw estate, I desire to say just a word, which I believe might be considered seriously by the members of this body. The executors of the estate of the late Quincy A. Shaw—Messrs. Francis C. Welch, Quincy A. Shaw, Jr., and Robert F. Herrick—have been guilty, upon their own voluntary admission, of the concealment of the assets of the said estate, for the purpose of defrauding the City of Boston of just and rightful taxes. Compare the position of these eminent gentlemen with the debtors marshaled in the United States Bankruptcy Court, charged with a similar offence. I beg to quote from section 29 of the United States Bankruptcy Law:

"A person shall be punished by imprisonment for a term of two years, upon conviction of the offence of having knowingly and fraudulently concealed, while a bankrupt, or after his discharge, from his trustee, any of the property belonging to his estate in bankruptcy, or of having made a false oath or account in relation to any proceeding in bankruptcy," while "a trustee in bankruptcy is equally liable to the same punishment for having received any material amount of property from a bankrupt, after filing of the petition, with intent to defeat this act."

Gentlemen, I beg you to note the parallel between the return of this money by the Shaw estate and the system with relation to bankrupts in the United States Courts. I should like to ask by what right and under what authority do the Finance Commission and its acrobatic chairman assume the position of self appointed confessors for erring millionaires who have defrauded the city and then subsequently assume the position of agents in making restitution to the City of Boston? The concealment of assets of the estate of the late Quincy A. Shaw by the executors, for the purpose of defrauding the city of just and rightful taxes, having been clearly proven, the Finance Commission files a report filled with legal verbiage and the flimsy claims enumerated by the executors, but has not one slightest word to urge in the way of securing the punishment of the said executors for such defrauding of the city—although in previous cases, for small embezzlements, it had shown a very marked persistency in aiding in securing convictions. The report of the Finance Commission declares: "They (the executors) also desired to furnish the assessors no more information than they were obliged to give." By what moral or legal right did the executors assume a position which would defraud the city of its just taxes? Quincy A. Shaw, who died at the age of 83, had for many years been a notorious tax dodger, and had defrauded the City of Boston of thousands of dollars. It is not an unfair presumption to assume that for many years he had been guilty of practicing frauds, under oath that robbed the City of Boston of $250,000 annually, while standing as a philanthropist and man of great honor and probity in the community. If John A. Sullivan stated to the City Treasury Department of the City of Boston that the payment of the sum of $492,020, in behalf of the executors of the late Quincy A. Shaw, was to be presumed as closing the transaction, there is evidence at hand of the compounding of a felony; and every official or employee of the City Treasury Department to whom such statement, or any part thereof, was made should be summoned before the Grand Jury of Suffolk County and upon oath be examined as to the same. There is the establishment of a very dangerous precedent in the assumption by the Finance Commission of the position of agents to make restitution to the City of Boston of that of which it has been defrauded. There is no warrant under law for such assumption, and the Finance Commission was appointed for no such purpose. There appears to be no question of fact whatever in relation to this defrauding of the city. The executors by their false inventory were knowingly practicing a deliberate fraud upon the city, which deserves the most searching investigation by the District Attorney of Suffolk County, and that the collusion, if proven, to the grand jurors may be adequately punished. A collusion for the concealment of property has been clearly proven by voluntary acts. A very dangerous precedent has been established, and the fullest investigation is merited by the District Attorney of Suffolk County that the evasion of the law may be suitably punished. I believe that his Honor John F. Fitzgerald is deserving of great credit for the return of this $400,000. He has performed a great public service, one that merits the commendation and the good will of every man. I believe that if the Shaw Memorial Building were constructed on the site of the old courthouse it would stand as a fitting monument of civic honor and civic virtue and to the return of stolen property.

ADDITIONAL FIRE PROTECTION.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
410–416 Tremont Building,
Boston, March 22, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council:

Gentlemen,—On August 17, 1910, shortly after the fire on Albany street, in the lumber district so called, the Mayor requested the Finance Commission to consider and report upon the following questions relating to the protection against fire in the City of Boston.

1. The establishment in the business district of a high pressure water service.
2. The strengthening of the laws relating to building construction.
3. The establishment of another fire signal station, to be used if fire should impair or destroy the efficiency of the present station.
4. Whether it is necessary to appoint one hundred more firemen.

The commission submits herewith its report upon these subjects.

1. High Pressure Water Service.

The City of Boston is in some respects well protected against fire losses. The fire department force is a good one, the buildings in the city are low as compared with buildings in other large cities in the United States, notably New York, and the water supply is ample. There is now for the protection of a portion of the business district a high pressure service, supplied from salt water mains, operated with the aid of fireboats. These salt water mains extend from Central Wharf through Central street, Exchange place, Post Office square and Congress street to Congress Street Bridge. Moreover, Boston is surrounded with cities and towns which in the past have furnished valuable aid in extinguishing fires in Boston, and the future co-operation of such municipalities should be taken into account in considering any addition to Boston's fire-fighting equipment.

On the other hand, many dangers exist. Many of Boston's streets are narrow, particularly in the business district; there are many old structures in this district that are not of fireproof material; there are many danger spots along the water front; and there are great areas in the residential sections filled with tenements and apartment houses that have been constructed with little regard to the possibilities of destruction by fire.

The cost of providing a high pressure service for parts of the city outside the business district would be so great that it ought not to be considered. The fact that the city's net indebtedness, including its share of the state and metropolitan district debts, was $116,259,993.37 on November 30, 1910, practically prohibits the borrowing of the additional millions that such an undertaking would require. Moreover, the improvement of the building laws in the residential sections, together with the provision of additional ordinary fire apparatus, may solve the problem of fire protection in these sections without recourse to the costlier plan of furnishing a high pressure water service.

The commission believes that the city's financial condition does permit present consideration of the far less expensive establishment of a high pressure water service in the business district. In considering the need of this service the commission has had the benefit of the opinions of several engineers, including Frank A. McInnes of the Department of Public Works, Guy C. Emerson, engineer for the commission, formerly Superintendent of Streets, and George W. Booth, an engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters; of F. E. Cabot, the secretary of the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters; of Benjamin W. Wells and Samuel D. Parker, former Fire Commissioners; and of Charles D. Daly, the present Fire Commissioner; and it has concluded that such service should be provided.

In reaching this conclusion the commission has considered the many elements of danger in the business district, such as the narrow streets, the few open areas, the close formation of the lines of buildings on the various streets, the presence of many nonfireproof buildings and the faulty construction of many buildings and wharves from the standpoint of fire risks; and also the great value of the buildings in the district, the immense amount of business transacted there, the great direct loss that would result from a conflagration and the even greater loss to capital and labor that would follow upon the temporary suspension of business in this center of commercial and industrial activity. The commission has also considered the additional taxable values that would result from the improved system of fire protection and the prospect of increased revenue for the city as a substantial offset to its expenditure for the benefits conferred upon the property owners in the district.

The bill introduced by the Mayor, and now pending in the Legislature (Senate 295), seems well adapted to secure the proper establishment of the service in question. Though it does not, in terms, limit the service to any particular section of the city, it is intended to apply only to the business district, and the total amount of the loans authorized in the bill, $1,000,000, practically confines the service to that district. The bill also insures continuous construction until the work is completed, as consecutive annual loans are provided for; and the total cost of the work may be kept within proper limits by the award of contracts after public competition for 85 per cent of the cost of construction as the bill requires. The bill also provides that the act shall not take effect until it is accepted by the Mayor and City Council, a provision not only desirable from the standpoint of the city's interests but also necessary in order to fix definitely upon the city government the responsibility for the debt which the execution of the work entails.

If the act is passed by the Legislature and accepted by the Mayor and City Council the plan prepared by the late City Engineer, William Jackson, and the less expensive plan suggested by former Fire Commissioner Benjamin W. Wells should be considered before the contracts for the work are awarded, and the less expensive plan adopted if it seems to afford adequate protection. The Finance Commission does not pass upon the respective merits of the two plans but simply suggests their careful study in the interest of economy.

The routes covered by these plans, the estimates of cost, with the comments of the Finance Commission's engineer, appear in an appendix hereto annexed.

2. Strengthening the Building Laws.

This question is one which should be studied by experts in the building trades, architects, real estate owners and insurance men, aided by a competent lawyer familiar with the building laws. Since the Finance Commission was requested by the Mayor to examine this question, he has appointed a special commission to study the question. This special commission has undertaken the work and has prepared a bill which has been submitted to the Legislature, and is now under consideration. The Finance Commission, therefore, feels that it has been relieved of this task, one which it could not have performed without the aid of persons having special knowledge of the problems involved, such as the Mayor has appointed as members of the special commission.

3. Auxiliary Fire Signal Station.

The present Fire Commissioner stated to the Finance Commission that in his opinion the present station will be safe hereafter, as the fire hazard caused by the proximity of the old Fire Department repair shop has been eliminated by the destruction of that building, in place of which a new fireproof building is being constructed. In this opinion representatives of both the Boston and the National Board of Fire Underwriters concurred. The Finance Commission believes, therefore, that an auxiliary fire signal station will not be necessary.

4. The Appointment of 100 more Firemen.

The present Fire Commissioner believes fifty instead of 100 more firemen will be sufficient, and in this opinion the Finance Commission concurs.

The commission recommends:

1. That the Mayor's bill pending in the Legislature, providing for a high pressure water service (Senate 295), be passed in its present form.
2. That upon enactment it be accepted by the Mayor and City Council.
3. That the plan of the late City Engineer and that of the former Fire Commissioner be studied, and the better one adopted before the contracts for the work are awarded.
4. That no auxiliary fire signal station be provided.
5. That not exceeding fifty additional firemen be appointed.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

APPENDIX.

The Finance Commission:

Gentlemen,— According to your instructions I submit herewith estimated cost of installing high pressure systems for fire protection in the congested business district of the city, according to the two plans so far outlined, namely, the plan developed by former City Engineer, William Jackson, and the plan outlined hy former Fire Commissioner, Benjamin W. Wells.

The plan of Mr. Jackson contemplates the laying of pipe for fire service in practically all of the main streets in the area hetween Beach street and Hanover street, and between Tremont street and Atlantic avenue, with a small additional area in the West End. This plan contemplates a pumping station situated near the Boston end of Camhridge Bridge, taking water from the Charles River Basin. A total length of 62,440 feet of pipe will be needed, with 340 hydrants. The estimate of the Division Engineer of the Department of Puhlic Works for the cost of the system is $1,000,000. This estimate seems to me to allow an unnecessarily large amount for contingencies, and, in my opinion, the work outlined should be done for not exceeding $850,000.

The plan of Mr. Wells contemplates the location of a pumping station on the Charles River Basin near Mt. Vernon street, a pipe leading across the Common, along Tremont street, down Winter and Summer streets, through High street, connecting with the present auxiliary fire main in Congress street. In addition to the route outlined, pipes are contemplated in Boylston, Mason, West, Temple place, Bromfield and School streets, hetween Tremont and Washington street; also a pipe through Bedford street, hetween Washington street and Summer street. This plan would furnish a line of fire protection across the city, and would give additional protection to the retail shopping district. A total length of approximately 15,000 linear feet of pipe, with seventy hydrants, will be needed, and the estimated cost by Mr. Wells is $365,000. My own estimate practically confirms Mr. Wells's figures, heing $355,000. It will be noted that the comparative cost of the two plans is not in direct proportion to the number of linear feet of pipe contemplated, the larger cost per linear foot of the Wells plan being on account of the large cost of pumping stations which are common to each plan, and on account of the greater percentage of large sized pipe in the Wells plan.

The plan, as outlined hy Mr. Wells, seems to me defective in crossing the common. It would be hetter to go around the Public Garden, through Arlington street, as contemplated in Mr. Jackson's plan, as a considerable area along Boylston street and about Park square will be furnished with fire protection, and the cost would not be greatly larger than by the route proposed.

The plan of Mr. Jackson shows a considerable length of large sized pipe in Camhridge and Green streets which does not seem to be absolutely necessary at the present time. The object of this pipe is probably to furnish a circulation of water in hoth directions from the pumping station and possibly to allow the laying of smaller pipes than would otherwise be used. I am of the opinion that a large portion of this pipe could be safely omitted from the plan and the present station at Central Wharf utilized to furnish additional pressure, if hy any chance the pumping station should not be ablc to do so through one line of pipe.

Respectfully submitted,
GUY C. EMERSON,
Consulting Engineer.

HALF HOLIDAYS, PUBLIC WORKS EMPLOYEES.

Coun. BUCKLEY for Coun. Curley offered an order—That under the provisions of chapter 587 of the Acts of 1908 the Puhlic Works Commissioner be authorized to allow half holidays on Saturdays to all employees whose services can he dispensed with, without loss of pay, during the present financial year.

CURTIS HALL OPENING.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Puhlic Buildings be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to inform this Council, at his earliest convenience, as to when Curtis Hall is to he opened to the puhlic for use as municipal building, lihrary, etc.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, last July the Council authorized a loan of $60,000, if I remember correctly, for the completion of Curtis Hall. At that time the architect having the huilding in charge urged speedy action and stated as his reasons that if the money was appropriated they would be enahled to go forward with the work and construct a heating plant outside of the main huilding which would enahle them to open the lihrary, which was then finished, in the fall. I went out yesterday afternoon and looked over the Curtis Hall grounds, and I was amazed to find things in the condition in which they are. The lihrary has not yet heen opened. Although that money was authorized last July on the theory that speedy action was called for so that they might have the lihrary opened in the fall, the lihrary is still closed and the whole thing out there is chaos. It seems to me it is time for the Council to know definitely from the Building Department what is going on out there and when the hall will be finished.

The order was passed.

VISIT TO NORFOLK STREET.

President COLLINS offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor and the Executive Committee of the City Council visit Norfolk street, Dorchester, when looking over the various streets for widening, improvement, etc.

CLOSING OF STREETS.

HALE offered an order—That the Police Commissioner be hereby authorized to close to travel by vehicles, except fire, police, hospital and mail wagons, on Wednesday, April 19, such streets as may be necessary for the Marathon races on said day, and the City Messenger is hereby authorized to rope off such streets as the Police Commissioner may require in connection with such races, the expense to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Police Commissioner be hereby authorized to close to travel by vehicles, except fire, police, hospital and mail wagons, on Saturday, April 8, 1911, between the hours of 3 and 5 p. m., such streets as may be necessary in the vicinity of Union Park street and Harrison avenue, for the ten-mile race on said day under the auspices of the Catherdal Catholic Young Men's Association, and the City Messenger is hereby authorized to rope off such streets as the Police Commissioner may require in connection with said race, the expense attending same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

Passed.

PROPOSITIONS CONCERNING GARBAGE DISPOSAL.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That the Mayor, the Finance Commission and the City Council consider the advisability of incorporating in any contract made by the city with a private company, for the disposal of the city waste, the following propositions:

"The company shall (1) furnish the entire plant; (2) agree to dispose of the garbage and other waste in a sanitary manner, substantially as set out in the recent proposal of the Boston Disposal Company; (3) allow its books to be examined by the city; (4) allow its plant to be inspected by the city, so that unnecessary depreciation may be prevented; (5) turn over the entire plant to the city at the end of the contract.

"The city shall (1) pay to the company the fair value of the entire plant, such value to be fixed at the beginning of the contract by expert accountants, payments to be made by the city in annual instalments, in accordance with compound interest tables; (2) pay to the company annually 6 per cent on the above value; (3) pay to the company annually the annual deficit of the company, not to exceed a certain fixed maximum, such deficit being the difference between the operating expenses of the company, and the profits made from the sales of the waste or its products. The maximum defeit in the beginning can be ascertained by estimates and possibly by a six months' trial. Provision for the increased operating expenses due to the growth of the city can be made by having the maximum deficit increased a certain fixed amount for every additional ton of waste disposed of; (4) pay each year to the company one-half of any reduction made in the year in the annual deficit, the other half to go to the city."

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPROPRIATION BILL.

Coun. BALLANTYNE, for the Committee on Appropriations, submitted a partial report on the message of the Mayor, recommendations and annual estimates (referred February 20), recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That to meet the following expenses during the financial year, beginning with the first day of February, 1911, the respective sums of money hereinafter specified be, and the same are, hereby appropriated for the purposes stated, and that the said amounts be raised by taxation upon the polls and estates taxable in the City of Boston.

City Council, forty-eight thousand five hundred dollars:

Sinking funds	$1,462,998 00

Sinking fund and principal	$76,875 67
Interest	140,213 78
		217,188 45
		$5,572,936 45

The report was accepted and the question came on the adoption of the order.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I should like to ask one question upon that before the vote is taken, and that is in regard to public celebrations. I was not able to be present at the meeting where the matter was discussed. Will one of the members who was there briefly outline what that $40,000 is for?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I suppose Coun. Hale knows that the Council is not in receipt of the information he would probably desire as to what that amount of money is going to be expended upon. The appropriation is made in accordance with the expenditures of last year.

Coun. HALE—That is what we spent last year, is it?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—We spent last year forty-two thousand eight hundred and some odd dollars. This is two or three thousand dollars less than the amount expended last year. The first appropriation last year was $35,000, and then on account of extra holidays and some extra expenses on account of the 4th of July, the Mayor requested more money which brought the entire appropriation up to between $42,000 and $43,000. Forty thousand dollars is the amount that the Mayor has asked this year, and we have made an appropriation giving him the amount requested.

The order was passed, yeas 7, nays 0.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. BALLANTYNE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

(1) Reports on petitions (severally referred to-day) for permits for children under fifteen years of age to appear at various places of amusement—that permits be granted, viz.:

Ernst F. Kimstler, for children to appear at Jordan Hall on May 1.

Charles N. Woodbury; for children to appear at Appleton M. E. Church on March 28.

Horace M. Farrow, for children to appear at Bethel M. E. Church on evening of March 30.

Fred Thompson Bridge, for children to appear at Jordan Hall on May 12.

Reports severally accepted; permits granted on the usual conditions.

(2) Reports on order (referred to-day) that the Commissioner of Public Works be authorized to allow half holidays on Saturdays to all employees whose services can he dispensed with, without loss of pay, during the present financial year—that the order ought to pass.

The question came on accepting the report and passing the order.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, as I understand it, after listening to Mr. Babson, we should grant the authority provided for in this order to Commissioner Rourke to give this half holiday. I think it is made necessary by the fact that some departments have had half holidays and some have not. We passed a resolution or order some time ago granting to the Cemetery Department this authority, and I also understand that the clerks in City Hall in the different departments do not work Saturday afternoons. So it would seem only fair and just to standardize this half holiday business, making it apply not only to one department hut to all, in a wholesale manner. Personally, I have always stood for the standardization of wages throughout all the city departments. Men doing similar work in similar hours should get the same pay. So I think in the matter of half holidays all the departments of the city should be treated alike. If the employees of the Cemetery Department get a half holiday and if the clerks in City Hall are given a half holiday, others should not be made the exceptions. So I hope an amendment which I shall offer will he accepted hy the Council, providing that the order shall read, instead of "the Commissioner of Public Works," "the heads of all departments." That would simply mean that the order shall apply to all departments, instead of to one. I think that is only fair to the body of employees throughout the city. We should not single out one department and treat it in preference to others. So I should like to offer this amendment.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I have no desire to question the sincerity that prompts the presentation of this amendment by the distinguished councilor on the other side of the Chamber, but it is so utterly at variance with the position he assumed in executive session that it appears on the surface of it to he the flimsiest of pretexts for the defeat of the order now heing considered. It was pointed out in executive session that all of the high salaried officials in City Hall at the present time have a Saturday half holiday; that the Cemetery Department men now enjoy a Saturday half holiday; that those whose services can be dispensed with in the Puhlic Grounds and the Park Departments now enjoy a half holiday and that the same is the case with the men in the Water Department, in the Collecting Department, the Treasury Department, the Assessing Department, and in fact every department and hranch of the city's service with the exception of this particular department. This is not an innovation; it has been in general practice in this city for a great many years. It is recognized as a broad, progressive, human proposition. It is so recognized in Europe, where it has been in operation a quarter of a century, notably in England, where it has heen in operation for a much longer period. It is in general practice in all the large manufacturing and mercantile estahlishments in our cities, in the large stores. Take concerns of the size of Jordan Marsh or R. H. White, and the closing of their stores on a Saturday afternoon probably represents a loss to them in trade that will run into the thousands, yet they recognize the fairness of a proposition of this character and put it into operation. I can conceive of no good reason why the amendment should he adopted, hecause its purpose is the defeat of the original order. If it is the desire of the memhers to kill the original order, the proper and manly position to take is to vote against the original order, instead of loading it down with an amendment of this kind.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it has heen a matter of regret to me since I have come into this Board that we have done so much in executive session, and I am especially reminded of this hy the remarks of the councilor who has just preceded me. He states my position in executive session, and I heg to tell him that he states it absolutely wrongly. I never made any remark as to the justice of this half holiday. I distinctly said that I did not offer any opinion on that subject. I distinctly said that I recognized the fact that a half holiday was given in the large stores of this city and throughout most of the business and mercantile life of the city. I did say, however, that I thought such a request should come from all sources, and not from one, and for that reason I say here that I hope this amendment will be adopted. I do not offer it as a pretext for killing the measure. I shall vote for the amendment and I shall vote for the order as amended; and because we may see fit to give the councilor a whole loaf instead of a half, it seems a poor excuse for him to put into my mouth sentiments I never uttered. I hope the amendment will pass, as I have suggested, and I shall certainly vote for the order as amended.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I desire to say that I am perfectly agreeahle to accepting the apology offered hy Coun. Smith.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I offered no apology. If the councilor on the other side desires to offer an apology, I shall be most glad to accept it, either now or afterwards.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I think the remarks of the member of Ward 17 (Coun. Curley) are most extraordinary. He rises here to argue against a proposition that is entirely in line with what he had previously stated. It looks to me like politics, if I may be permitted to use the word. Gentlemen, let us have general legislation, not special legislation. This is special legislation. He singles out one department, hecause the employees of that department came to him and requested him to do it, and therehy he is rendering an exclusive privilege to that department.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask Coun. Kenny if he knows of any department where this particular half holdiay is not in operation at the present time, with the exception of the Street Department.

Coun. KENNY—I do not, no; hut I say on general principles that this is a general proposition affecting all departments. There is, therefore, so much the more reason for having it general. If every other department is already benefited to this extent, why not make it general, so that there may he no claim or charge here of special legislation for any one department? Why not have it for all departments, as my friend on the left (Coun. Smith) has already suggested? I hope the amendment will be adopted.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I do not feel that it is necessary to say anything further on this proposition. Coun. Kenny has really said what I might say if I were to say anything in favor of the proposition; he has answered my question, he says he knows of no other department. In substance, that is what he says, so it is not a case of special legislation; it is a case of doing justice to the one department that is denied justice at the present time. In other words, there is no necessity for a general act. All of the departments, with the exception of one particular department, enjoy the privilege to-day and there is no argument that can be advanced why the recognition of that department would work to the exclusion of other departments who already enjoy the privilege.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, may I interrupt for a moment?

Coun. CURLEY—I am perfectly willing to yield for a question.

Coun. SMITH—May I ask the councilor under what authority these other departments grant the half holiday?

Coun. CURLEY—I should say that, so far as I am aware, an order passed by the City Council some years ago providing for the closing of City Hall at one o'clock on Saturday was sufficient to take care of most of the departments. It has heen the general practice. I don't know that they operate under any particular law, except common usage, which really hecomes a law. As a matter of fact, the usage applies to all of the other departments.

Coun. SMITH—Well, would you objcct to making authoritative what may not he done authoritatively at the present time?

Coun. CURLEY—Why, I should say that it would he a case of opening up the entire question to the disadvantage of those who at present enjoy this privilege.

Coun. SMITH—It is closing the entire question.

President COLLINS—The Chair would suggest that the gentleman address the Chair.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would ask the memher from Ward 17 if it is not a fact that the Bath Department, the Public Grounds Department and the Park Department are not affected hy your special order?

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would say in answer to that that there are some of the employees of the Public Grounds Department who live in Ward 17. Two of them came to my residence Saturday afternoon, very well dressed, and trimmed some of the trees and bushes there. They were enjoying their Saturday afternoon doing a little outside husiness. It is the case in the Park and Public Grounds Departments that they have Saturday half holidays. That is also true in the Bath Department, outside of the Dover Street Bath—places like that, where there is a necessity for the Bath Department to keep the places open the greater part of the time during the year. Where there is no real necessity for those in the Bath Department to work on Saturday afternoons they do not do so. I suppose if the opinion of Brother Smith or of some memher of the Finance Commission were consulted they would express the opinion that those men should not get off. Nevertheless they enjoy a half holiday. The Park Department employecs cnjoy a half holiday whcre their services can he dispensed with, hut in the summer time, when there is a necessity for sprinkling a little water on shruhs, trees, plants and grass, they are compelled to work. Of course, those not required are allowed their half holiday. So the half holiday rule applies suhstantially to every department at the present time except to the men in charge of the Commissioner of Public Works. In view of that fact I see no occasion for legislation which might apply to those departments that already enjoy it.

Coun. Smith's amendment to strike out "Commissioner of Public Works" and inscrt in place thereof "heads of all departments" was declared carried on a rising vote, 5 to 2, and the question came on the passage of the order as amended.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, hefore that is put to a vote I will say that I would rather see the order defeated and have this brought up anew, because, as Coun. Curley says, this amendment opens up another matter and there is a danger that the half holiday will he taken away from men in the employ of the other departments. It is a good deal better to have half a loaf than nothing. I don't want to see the men now getting the Saturday half holiday deprived of it. I was rather sorry to hear my friend from South Boston claim to-day that Mr. Curley was playing politics. I am sorry that he uses that argument. He has used it with me time and again. I do not like to enter into personalities with him, hut I don't like to hear this cry of "politics" every time any matter comes up on which he disagrees with another memher. If anyone wants to play politics now it is the gentleman from South Boston (Coun. Kenny). Coun. Curley does not need to, and I do not. I do not like to hear it. Argue on the merits of a question if you want to do so; deal with a proposition right in the open, but don't indulge in this continuous talk ahout playing politics. I don't like these personalities. So far as I am concerned I do not propose to hring personalities into the debates here, and I will ask Mr. Kenny now if he will not kindly omit his reference to politics on every question that comes up after this.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I cannot see why if we adopt this general order the purpose of the original order, as introduced, will he defeated. That is not so. We are told that all the men in the different departments are enjoying the Saturday half holiday except those in the Public Works Department. That is not so, and hoth councilors know that it is not so. Over in my district there are some sanitary men who now get the Saturday half holiday, but the regular extra men do not get it in any of the departments. I think everyhody should get it, and I don't want anyhody to tell me hecause I am voting for a general order authorizing the heads of departments to grant all the employees of the different departments Saturday half holidays that I am trying to take it away from some of those who are now enjoying them. It is not so. I say that everyhody should enjoy them, whether the clerks or other members of the different departments; and when we are told that if we pass a general order we will take away perhaps this privilege from employees of the city who now enjoy it, I don't think that statement is so. I do not want to he accused of taking the Saturday half holiday away from anyhody who now enjoys it. I think a general order should he passed compelling the giving of the half holiday to all employees, if necessary. Let us authorize the heads of departments to grant the Saturday half holiday to all the employees who do not now enjoy it. I don't care whether they work in the Sanitary, Street Cleaning, Park, Puhlic Grounds, Bath or any other department, they should enjoy a Saturday half holiday, and I hope the order will pass authorizing all the heads of departments to grant the Saturday half holiday to anybody who does not now enjoy it.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I did not intend to rise again, but I cannot resist the opportunity of saying one or two words in reply to the gentleman from Charlestown. At the time of my remarks the gentleman from Charlestown, Mr. Buckley, had not voted; therefore I was not applying my remarks to him. I don't know why he took them to himself, unless it is a case of the cap fitting, in which case I suppose he is entitled to wear it. If any one man has indulged in personalities since he has heen here it is the gentleman from Charlestown, and he has heen the great author of these orders—the most generous individual in the Council Chamber, as a memher of the Council. From the day when he came in here a year ago hardly a meeting has passed that he has not introduced orders giving vacations and throwing away money generously, just like a Vanderhilt or a Gould. I think he is the last one to complain about memhers getting up here and indulging in personalities. To my mind he is the one member of the Council who has fathered these orders, and this means, to my mind, that they have not been thought out. I think the Council intends to do exact justice to all departments, to the laboring men especially, hut I think these orders have heen introduced as a matter of politics; and when the gentleman says that he does not wish to have me refer again to the fact that memhers are playing politics here I simply reply that I shall always do my duty in that respect and shall so characterize orders introduced and remarks made here when I think the characterization is just—even although the gentleman warns me that I must not do it.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I have no desire to discuss the proposition further, hut simply to say this, that I realize the purpose of the amendment. In all prohahility when this reaches the fountain head a list will he made up of the number of men affected, the wages they receive at the present time, and the amount of money that the city will pay out for services not rendered, and it will he such a colossal sum that in all prohahility the desired ohject will he accomplished. In other words, the Saturday half holiday will be discontinued. These who are employed as teachers in our public schools enjoy the entire day on Saturday and get ten weeks' vacation in the summer time. They are paid pretty liberally, have a pension system and do not perform over eight hours a day actual lahor. Yet there is no question of economy in that direction. The only logical conclusion to draw from the condemnation that Brother Buckley receives here this afternoon hecause of the interest he manifests in the men who labor and the liheral spirit exhibited by the heroes who have voted in favor of the general order brings all the more forcibly to my mind the fact that the real purpose of the amendment will be served. In other words, we will receive a flood of statistics with comparison of conditions in all portions of the civilized world and the amount of money that the city will be compelled to pay for services not rendered, and the consequences will be that those who enjoy a half holiday will be deprived of it, but the School Department will go on as it does at the present time. As the Scriptures say, "To him that hath much more will be given; from him that hath not, that same will be taken away."

The order as amended was passed by a rising vote, 5 to 2.

(5) Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred March 20) authorizing sale of horses in Public Works Department—recommending passage of order in the following new draft:

COUNTY ACCOUNTS.

Coun. CURLEY, for the Committee on County Accounts, submitted a report on the pay roll of the Registrar of Deeds (referred to-day) — that the same be approved to the amount of $4,043.30.

Report accepted; pay roll approved and ordered paid.

DISPOSAL OF STORE REFUSE, ETC.

Coun. McDONALD, for the Committee on Ordinances, submitted a report on the message of Mayor and ordinance (referred to-day) amending section 1 of chapter 9 of the Ordinances of 1910, recommending the passage of said ordinance with the following amendments: In line three strike out the word "may" and insert the word "shall"; in line twenty-one strike out the word "may" and insert the word "shall."

Coun. CURLEY offered the following substitute:

Section 1, chapter 9, of the Ordinances of 1910, is hereby amended by inserting after the word "substances" in the seventeenth line the words "store dirt, paper, and combustible refuse from mercantile and manufacturing establishments." (See Document 167, 1910.)

The report was accepted, and the question came on the adoption of the substitute offered by Coun. Curley.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I have just one word to say on this proposition, and that is this, that the system of removal without charge has been in operation for a great number of years. The change from the system is extremely revolutionary in character, and, in view of the fact that the city maintains no incinerator of its own at the present time, it seems to me that the conditions recommended by the Commissioner of Public Works impose an unwarranted burden and hardship not only upon the large storekeepers but upon the small storekeepers. I feel that until such time as the city establishes an incinerating plant of its own, the system in vogue for so many years should be continued, that is to say, that the city should remove the ashes, store dirt and combustible materials without cost. My substitute order provides simply for that and I hope that it will be adopted.

The substitute was declared rejected by a rising vote, 2 to 5. Coun. Buckley doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays, and the substitute was rejected, yeas 2, nays 6, Coun. Buckley and Curley voting yea.

The question came on the passage of the order as reported.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I hope this order will he put through at this meeting for this reason. The order of Commissioner Rourke that the department no longer collect store dirt has caused inconvenience and hardship to a great many of the small storekeepers in this city and a great many of the large ones have also been affected, although to a less extent. Any delay, even for a week, will cause greater inconvenience to the storekeepers and will cause a nuisance. The reason why I personally favor the passage of this order is that the householders of this community are to-day paying, through their taxes, for the collection of waste from large department stores, factories and other business enterprises, and when those same establishments are made to pay a small amount per barrel the pressure will he removed from the tax levy and will not be placed upon the householder in the residential districts. For that reason I hope this order will go through, and I trust that it will be passed to-day.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I also desire to express myself along those lines. I think there will be a very serious hardship entailed upon these storekeepers if action upon this matter is postponed. I think there is a general desire throughout the city for action this afternoon. The stores are being cluttered up with this waste material. The city at the present time has facilities for handling it, and if it is allowed to accumulate for a week or ten days, we don't know what the result may be. I think it would be a very great mistake to postpone action on the matter, and I hope we will pass the order this afternoon.

The amendments were adopted and the ordinance as amended was passed.

SIDEWALK, HALL STREET, WARD 23.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Hall street, between South and Call streets, Ward 23, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of gravel with granite edgestone, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

EXPENSE OF HEARINGS.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the President of the City Council be and hereby is authorized to approve the bills incurred by the City Council in connection with hearings held in the following-named high school halls, being each for five dollars ($5), the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses:

East Boston High School, February 6, 1911; Brighton High School, February 10, 1911; Dorchester High School, February 13, 1911; Charlestown High School, February 14, 1911; South Boston High School, February 15, 1911; West Roxbury High School, February 16, 1911.

Passed.

GREATER BOSTON.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:

Resolved, That the Boston City Council favors the passage of House Bill No. 715, entitled "An Act Creating a Federation of Metropolitan Boston, etc."

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I hesitate to bring this resolution up for immediate action at the present time, because I understand that the general custom in regard to such resolutions is to allow one week for the Council to consider them. At the same time this resolution should be passed to-day or not at all. The hearing on the bill began to-day and will be continued to-morrow, and it seems to me the City Council should take some action on the matter. The bill as you know does not call for annexation or consolidation in any way. It simply calls for an advisory body composed of the mayors and selectmen in the different cities and towns in the metropolitan district, which body shall pass upon matters which affect the whole district, such as metropolitan parks, sewers, water, health, building regulations, fire regulations, and the like. It seems to me that this is a step in the right direction. While we may all differ as to the details of the bill, it seems to me we should have some advisory body on these large metropolitan questions, and I believe that the opinion of the City Council given to the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs at the State House would receive great weight. It is a common report that the committee has often desired the opinions of the different cities and municipalities affected in the metropolitan district, and this would give them a chance to find out the opinion of those different communities. I hope the resolution can be passed to-day, not because I want it rushed through, but simply because of the hearing coming to-morrow.

The resolution was adopted.

HIGH PRESSURE SERVICE.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors the passage of the bill now before the Committee on Cities enabling the City of Boston to appropriate and spend money for a higher pressure fire service.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, as I understand this bill it is one that the Mayor has introduced for high pressure water protection to the city, especially in the downtown district. Coming on top of the disaster in New York, it seems to me we ought to give weight to this bill, give it immediate attention. It has been passed upon by various Fire Commissioners and ex-Fire Commissioners, and I offer the resolution to-day, not in order that we may form a quick judgment on the bill, but simply to bring it before the body. I would ask to have it referred to the next meeting of the Council, simply to give the Council time to look into the matter.

The resolution was assigned to the next meeting of the Council.

RESOLVE CONCERNING PORT OF BOSTON.

Coun. CURLEY offered the following:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the Boston City Council the advancement of the commercial interests of the port of Boston require that the restrictions upon the loan of $3,000,000, authorized by the Legislature, for the development of land owned by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts at East Boston, be removed, as recommended in the inaugural of his Excellency Governor Eugene N. Foss.

The question came on the adoption of the resolution.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, in connection with this resolution I desire to call the attention of the Council to chapter 648 of the Acts of 1910, section 5, which places so many restrictions upon the expenditure by the state of this $3,000,000 that was authorized that in all probability the development of the East Boston water front will be delayed for a great many years, unless the recommendation of his Excellency is adopted. In this connection I would say that the act as drawn provides that "Said Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners, with the approval of the Governor and Council, is also authorized to fill portions of the flats of the Commonwealth and to build one or more piers or wharves on the easterly side of East Boston, on the lands, flats or rights therein now owned or hereafter acquired by the Commonwealth, and to do such dredging as may be necessary to secure suitable access to such piers or wharves, whenever satisfactory contracts are made with the Commonwealth for the use of such railroad right of way, filled flats or pier or wharf at a rental, for a term and upon provisions, restrictions and obligations which are deemed reasonable and in the public interest by said Board, and approved by the Governor and Council, or when a satisfactory and reasonable contract as aforesaid is made for the use of such rights of way, lands or flats without such grading, surfacing, filling or building."

The imposing of those restrictions retards the development of the port of Boston, and particular attention is paid to it in this pamphlet issued by the Chamber of Commerce entitled "Advance New England." Speaking on the question of East Boston development it goes on to say:

"East Boston is already started on its career as the great transatlantic terminal of the city. The new harbor line established on the recommendation of the Chamber makes possible the construction of large piers and leaves room behind for great warehouses and even for factories. The area is 50 per cent larger than that now occupied by the Bush Terminal property in New York. The district is in close proximity to the East Boston labor market, etc."

In this connection his Excellency made the following recommendation, on page 11 of his inaugural:

"In the last session of the General Court an expenditure of $3,000,000 was authorized to provide for new piers, with the condition that they should be leased before construction. I respectfully urge that this act be amended so that work may begin immediately, believing as I do that if, when the piers are completed, they are not quickly brought into useful and profitable service by our dominant railroad corporations, then the state can take and ought to take immediate steps to secure some other tenant."

In a recent publication of the Boston American an article of much interest appears, by Mr. Henry C. Long, of the Chamber of Commerce, with relation to Boston's neglected opportunities, and in that connection we find a comparative list of the leading cities of the United States with respect to imports and exports. Upon investigation of that list we find that, while Boston is second as an import city, as an export city it ranks fifth at the present time, leading Philadelphia for sixth place by something like $3,000,000. If this development took place in East Boston, it is my firm opinion, Mr. President, that instead of being fifth as an export city Boston would rank speedily as the second export city; and in this connection I want to point out a certain occurence that took place in this building some five years ago. I was instrumental with other members of the Board in securing the passage of an order giving rights to the National Dock Company to occupy portions of certain streets in East Boston and at that time every man who voted in favor of the proposition was not only charged with being a grafter but was publicly charged with being bought. They were all summoned before the grand jury and they received a clean bill of health. I wrote a letter the other day to the concern that had charge of that proposition and asked them what was the result of the action of the Board with relation to the development of their property. I have here a communication that I should like to read—because, after all, that was really the only big proposition affecting the export and import trade of Boston that was consummated by the city government during the last ten years. It was to my mind the chief piece of constructive legislation enacted by this body in the last ten years for the development of the port of Boston. I have this reply, from Burroughs & Dehlois, dated March 25, 1911:

"In regard to the inquiry you made of DeBlois last night about the increase of steamship business at the National Docks since tracks were put in, I think the following will answer your inquiry.

"Previous to 1905 there were practically no South American steamers coming to this port. They all went to New York. Once in a while one did come and docked usually at Mystic Wharf, but they were very irregular in coming in, probably two or three a year only. As soon as we got hold of the National Dock property in 1905 we began to work for this South American freight business, and the number of steamers have steadily increased, until now our one good dock is being used to its maximum capacity; that is to say, we have had to refuse in the last year a large number of South American steamers. They have docked at the Grand Junction Wharves in East Boston instead.

"Owing to the large quantity of cargo discharged from a vessel and the long time it takes to clear the sheds of same after the steamer has discharged its cargo, it is impossible for us to take more than about four or five vessels a month at one dock, and in the season which is just about now ending we have sometimes had opportunities of handling three or four in one week, which we could not do.

"The season for these vessels is hind end to, for they do their business when it is summer in South America; therefore they begin to come about November and generally quit about May, although they slack up considerably just about this season of the year. From now on there are only about three or four a month.

"We are contemplating fixing up our south dock to handle the additional steamers which we cannot take at the north dock, but as it costs such a lot of money to do so we have hesitated about doing that work. We estimate that the increase in our storage business, owing to having these South American steamers dock at our wharves, is equivalent to an increase over the business conducted previous to 1906 of at least 100 per cent. In other words, these steamers have doubled our storage business.

"The cargoes on these steamers are just what our warehouses need, as a very large proportion of the cargoes goes into the storage warehouses, the rest of it being shipped out over the rails to the original destination, and if we did not have the tracks which enable us to thus ship out this through freight we would not be able to take the steamers, on account of the additional expense of handling the goods from the vessel to the cars which are now handled directly through the shed.

"On the other hand, we would not want these vessels unless for the storage contained in their cargoes, for the reason that there is no money in docking vessels, and the only reason that anyone wants to have an ocean steamer dock at their wharf is to provide income in some other manner.

"For instance, the railroads wish to have the steamers dock at their wharves so as to have the goods for freight. We wish to have the steamers dock at our wharves so as to get the storage, but if there was not something else to earn the money on they would not want to have a steamer dock at their wharf, for if they did they would lose money. Now the reason why they would lose money is that no ocean steamship from any foreign port expects ever to pay one cent for dockage charges for their vessel in the City of Boston, and likewise the owner of the goods would not pay any wharfage charges for any of their goods going out over the railroad. The only wharfage charges that are collectible are charges on such goods as are unloaded onto the wharves and taken away from the wharf by the consignee. This delivery to consignees on the wharf comprises on an average of probably not over 10 per cent of the vessel's cargo, as very little of the cargo is used for local consumption. It either all goes through to some western point direct or goes into the warehouses.

"The above point, namely, that neither the vessel nor the cargo are willing to pay for the services of the wharf, is the main contributing cause to the lack of ocean steamship wharves in Boston, except wharves owned by the railroads which furnish the wharves free for the sake of the freight and wharves owned by warehouses who furnish their wharves free for the sake of the storage. If you will think of it you will see that no ocean steamship docks in Boston at any wharf except where they are owned by a railroad or a storage warehouse. New York is very different. The vessels pay a rental for every wharf they use, and goods are also subject to wharfage charges, and therein lies the meat in the cocoanut. If the steamship companies and the owners of the cargoes would pay anybody for the use of their wharf there would be plenty of wharves built in this city, but as neither the steamship company nor the cargo will pay anything there are no wharves built except by the people who get money from freight or storage.

"If the Commonwealth builds some new wharves somewhere and attempts to charge the vessel or cargo anything for their use they will not have any steamer or cargo use their wharf, and they will remain idle forever and ever, amen. If they construct a wharf and get a railroad to hire same, the railroad would expect to earn its rent for the wharf out of the additional freight and not out of the dockage or wharfage derived from the vessel or cargo, and if the state did not have a railroad on its wharf, if they offered the use of the wharf free no ocean steamship would ever discharge a single cargo on that wharf, on account of the expense of getting the freight going through to points west over to some railroad.

Yours very truly,

GEORGE BURROUGHS."

In other words, the import and export business between Boston and South America and Australia, in wool, hides, extracts, wheat, formerly transacted between New York and South America and Australia, and now diverted to the port of Boston, amounts annually to between fifty and sixty million dollars, one small proposition to consider in connection with this matter. It is now contemplated by the New Haven road to construct a tunnel running under the harbor and passing by the property now owned by the state known as the Commonwealth flats at East Boston. If the state constructs the dock and does its portion of the development there, with real connections, instead of being fifth as an export city, if we do only about twice the amount of business that the National Dock Trust Company does,— and that is a small proposition, perhaps representing a capitalization of half a million or a million dollars,— we would have an export business of $169,000,000 instead of $69,000,000, and would rank third, leaving New Orleans behind by about $14,000,000 and being second to Galveston by only about $32,000,000. I voted for the proposition presented by Coun. Smith this afternoon for a loose federation. I would be perfectly willing to vote for a Greater Boston and take chances on the political features of it. It would be immaterial whether the Democratic Party or the Republican Party were in control in Greater Boston. There is this much to be said in favor of any proposition looking to a Greater Boston, that if we had a larger city we could more successfully invite business to Boston. When Boston ranks prominently as an export and import city, when it ranks prominently as a large center, when it ranks high with relation to population, with relation to finances, and with relation to wealth, it will advance much more rapidly in every direction, I sincerely trust that eventually we will have a Greater Boston regardless of the political complexion of the men in charge. We want to do some constructive work for the best interests of Massachusetts, and the best way for us to do it is to take an interest in the commercial development of the city, to take an interest in anything that will tend to increase, to enlarge the city. I sincerely trust that the Legislature will see the wisdom of acting upon the recommendation of his Excellency the Governor, and I am confident if they do, with the tremendous amount of money already being expended by the various railroads in the development of Boston and in the suburbs of Boston and with the building of these piers, we can become the second export city in the United States, and perhaps may not fall greatly behind New York in the matter of imports. That is not an unreasonable assumption. We have been told a great deal about the prodigality of the Tammany organization in New York. They had a test of what reform meant in New York under the Low administration. Elected as a reform mayor, after four years Mayor Low said:

"My chief regret is that I have not been able to make good. I always condemned Tammany for its prodigal expenditures, but it was Tammany which gave us Central Park, which gave us Fifth avenue and Madison avenue, our connecting arms with Brooklyn, that gave us our subway system and our elevated system. Gentlemen, I must make a confession, and open confession is good for the soul. The only thing I can point to as the result of my four years of reform administration is an increased debt and an increased tax rate." That was the open confession of an honest man. Allowing that the expenses of the city are increased by general improvements, so long as those improvements advance the public interests and add to the wealth, health and prosperity of the community, we should consider those features of the situation as well as a low city debt and a low tax rate. They are equally important. The same thing that applies to the case of merchants doing business applies to cities. Two men are engaged in business on opposite corners of the same street. One spends a little more than he is taking in for a time to make his place attractive. The other permits his place to run down. It is only a question of time when the one who makes his place attractive and inviting will have all the business and the other will be driven out of business. These considerations should be borne in mind by members of this Council. I sincerely trust that the Legislature will see the wisdom of acting on the suggestion or recommendation of his Excellency and will remove the restrictions on the use of this money for the development of the port of Boston, thereby doing—as was done in what was commonly known as the notorious National Dock Trust case—some kind of constructive work for the development of Boston. I and nine other members of the Board of Aldermen were charged with being grafters and crooks in that case and were haled before the grand jury for putting the thing through; but in consequence of the action then taken a large number of steamers that plied between New York and South America and Australia have been diverted to the port of Boston, from fifty to sixty million dollars of exports and imports have been added to the port of Boston, and there is being paid out in salaries $50,000 to $60,000 annually, and in teaming expenditures between $12,000 and $18,000. It is about time that we ceased taking the Dame Partington view of these matters, but took the broad view, not only in the city but in the state as well.

The resolution was passed.

Office of the Mayor, March 31, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend that the following sums be appropriated by your honorable body, in addition to those allowed in my original message, recommending appropriations and tax orders for 1911–12.

BUILDINGS, STRANDWAY PLAYGROUND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 31, 1911.

To the City Council:

Permit me to call your attention to a loan appropriation amounting to fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) for Bathing Establishment, Ward 15, which has long lain dormant. In the meantime the Strandway Playground, which is in the same ward, has been developed and is more and more frequented each year. The need of a locker and sanitary building on that playground has been felt for some time, and I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, transferring the sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) from this appropriation to an appropriation for Locker and Sanitary Building, Strandway Playground.

Letters from the secretary of the South Boston Citizens Association, the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners and the secretary of said Board, favoring this transfer and giving estimates and comparative figures, are attached hereto.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

South Boston Citizens Association,
February 18, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—At the last meeting of the South Boston Citizens Association vote was passed favoring the division of the $50,000 Ward 15 bathhouse fund, and favoring the expending $25,000 for a building to contain lockers, shower baths and sanitary arrangements on McNary Park and the remainder to form a nucleus for a municipal building in South Boston.

Yours truly,
HENRY J. D. SMALL, Secretary.

Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
March 22, 1911.

Mr. William A. Leahy, Secretary,
Mayor's Office, City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—In answer to your inquiry about the cost of sanitary buildings, the Franklin Field Building has cost $39,629.87; Columbus Avenue Playground Sanitary and Locker Building, $12,-212.77; William Eustis Sanitary Building will cost about $14,000.

Yours truly,
GEORGE F. CLARKE, Secretary.

Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
March 18, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—Your message making inquiries regarding a locker building at the Strandway Playground, made through Mr. Clarke, our secretary, has been received.

In reply I would say that our letter in the summer of 1909 to Mayor Hibbard and the Board of Aldermen discussed the subject of a locker building for that playground, and it was then proposed to include in it a gymnasium and bath and apply to it a fund of $50,000, which had been appropriated by the city for a municipal gymnasium and bath in Ward 15, but which sum was inadequate to build such a building and buy a lot. By placing it on the Strandway Playground the latter expense was to be avoided.

In the spring of 1910 the matter was again brought up in the City Council, and the Park Commission urged very strongly that a sanitary and locker building on the Strandway Playground was very much needed, and it was then thought that a portion of such a building as would be ultimately needed might be then built for perhaps $14,000, and we again suggested that the money already appropriated for the bath house in Ward 15 might be used here and all these utilities thus be housed on the Strandway Playground, and we had some correspondence with you on this general subject in April, 1910.

There can be no question but that there is need of a locker and sanitary building on the Strandway Playground, which is already large and much used and which eventually is to be a very important playground. It would be possible to build a part of a future building, as has been heretofore suggested, but it doubtless would be better, if the money can be had, to build a reasonably large building which would serve the increasing needs for some time to come. We should suggest that the most appropriate thing to do would be to build a building somewhere in cost between that just completing on the William Eustis Playground and the larger building that is at Franklin Field. The sum of $25,000 would do this satisfactorily, and if you find it possible to transfer also the Ward 15 appropriation for bath house, so that it could be built at the same time and in the same character of design, so as to form one group of buildings, we think the whole would form a very useful structure.

Yours truly,
ROBERT S. PEABODY, Chairman.

Ordered, That the sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) be transferred from the appropriation for Bathing Establishment, Ward 15, to an appropriation for Locker and Sanitary Building, Strandway Playground, said appropriation to be expended under the direction of the Board of Park Commissioners.

Referred to the Executive Committee, on motion of Coun. KENNY.

PLANS FOR ZOO, ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 29, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit for your consideration a letter from the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners, inclosing a passage from the annual report of that Board for the year 1910, together with certain plans. In this passage the Board suggests that it might be possible for the City Council to arrange so that the additional sum of two hundred and thirty thousand dollars ($230,000), which is needed to complete the plans for the Aquarium at Marine Park and the Zoological Garden at Franklin Park, should be provided before June 1, 1912, the date on which the Board hopes to open the latter institution to the public.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
March 22, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—At the end of our annual report recently handed to you the plans we have in mind for the establishing of the Aquarium and Zoological Garden are described. We inclose herewith a copy of this portion of our report and respectfully ask you to hand it to the Committee on the Parkman Fund of the City Council so that they may consider it and tell us as early as possible whether we can follow the program there described. We need this information because we can very shortly begin construction work on plans now being well advanced.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT S. PEABODY, Chairman.

In our last report we suggested various methods of creating attractions in Franklin Park. Very soon thereafter the opportunity presented itself for establishing the Zoological Garden at Franklin Park and the Aquarium at South Boston to be paid for from the Parkman Fund, and we made a report to you and the City Council some months since regarding the designs for these. Since then we have carefully studied in greater detail the aquarium building. Our advisers have visited New York, Washington and Detroit and have consulted with the authorities there, and we have engaged Dr. Bean of Albany to review our drawings and advise with us regarding them. We hope to start on building the aquarium as soon as the season opens. We have also worked over in detail the general plan for the Zoological Garden in Franklin Park and the more detailed designs for winter bird house; the summer outdoor flying cage or aviary; the duck pond; the bear den and also dens for various other animals. Mr. Hornaday, the director of the Bronx Zoological Gardens, has at our request been a second time to Boston, reviewed all our work and advised with us professionally and to our great advantage. We offer the following program as what we should like to do as regards the Zoological Garden.

We desire to open the Zoological Garden on June 1, 1912. In that event we should not accept any animals before April 1, 1912. The whole of 1911 and the entire spring of 1912 would be required for preparations. On June 1, 1912, we should like to have two good buildings ready, namely, the bird house and the building that would finally be the deer house but which temporarily would contain any animals requiring indoor care. The accompanying plan will show where after mature study we now plan to place these different buildings and dens, etc., with which to start the Zoological Park. The estimate for all this preparation would be as follows:

Camels, camelopard and musk ox	$8,000 00
Carnivorous group	24,000 00
Deer house and yards (to be temporarily used for all indoor animals)	55,000 00
Deer corrals and sheds	12,000 00
Bird house	75,000 00
Flying cage	12,000 00
Wild fowl pond and fences	5,000 00
Continuation of herbaceous garden with water ponds for water plants, etc.	9,000 00
Total		$200,000 00
Animals for the above	$25,000 00
Aquarium at South Boston	100,000 00
Sewer, fences, superintendent's salary, survey and drawings	25,000 00
		150,000 00
Total		$350,000 00
Of this needed amount there has already been placed at our disposal about		120,000 00
Additional sum needed before June 1, 1912		$230,000 00

We ask whether it will not be possible for you and the Parkman Fund Committee to arrange for us to have this amount of money before June 1, 1912, to be expended in this manner as a whole on the items above named but not necessarily in the proportions allotted above to each individual item.

Yours truly,
ROBERT S. PEABODY,
DANIEL H. COAKLEY,
JAMES M. PRENDERGAST,
Board of Park Commissioners.

Referred to the Committee on Parkman Fund, when appointed.

SALE OF VOTING BOOTHS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 30, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order authorizing the Board of Election Commissioners to sell certain iron voting booths which are no longer required for the purposes of the Election Department.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Board of Election Commissioners be, and hereby are, authorized to sell at public auction or private sale certain iron voting booths, which are no longer required for the purposes of the Election Department.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING PLANT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 1, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the secretary of the Boston Central Labor Union proposing a plan for the ownership and operation of a municipal lighting plant, by which in his opinion the city could save about two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) in the course of ten years.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston Central Labor Union,
Boston, March 23, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—We herewith inclose a copy of a plan and schedule for ownership and operation of a municipal lighting plant for the City of Boston, a copy of same is now in the hands of the Commissioner of Public Works, Hon. Louis K. Rourke, for his consideration and action.

In view of the fact that the schedule is based on actual prices and consumption of supplies and shows that its adoption by the city means a saving to the public funds of nearly two hundred thousand dollars of the taxpayers' money over the lowest bid submitted to the city, and in view of the fact that with the saving of nearly two hundred thousand dollars of the taxpayers' money the citizens will receive a superior lighting of the streets and the lamplighters a fair wage for work performed, we ask your Honor to indorse this plan and schedule for the ownership and operation of a municipal lighting plant, as a measure based on sound business principles; an economic administration of the public funds; an improved public service; and fair treatment to the public employee.

Prior to the present contract, lamplighters received $2.25 per diem; when prices were lowered their wage was cut to $2 per day.

If lower prices prevail, a similar reduction will take place. It will be an actual profit to the city, save money, and bring wages to $2.25, besides a guarantee of better lighting, and have it under city control.

Very respectfully,
HENRY ABRAHAMS, Secretary.

Mr. Louis K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works,
City of Boston:

Cost of ownership and operation (including charges for purchase, interest, maintenance and depreciation) of a municipal lighting plant:

Labor (on a basis of $2.25 per day, 90 lamps to route), per lamp per year	$9 13

Chimneys (72 cents per dozen), two and one-half, per lamp per year	15
Ventilators (26 at 85 cents each), per lamp per year	02
Mantels ($90 per thousand), four and one-half, per lamp per year	40
Burners (245 at $225 per hundred), per lamp per year	05
Maintenance of repair shop $6,000 per year, per lamp per year	54
Cost of operation and maintenance of lamps, per lamp per year	$19 94

Purchase for plant of 11,000 lamps at $11.50 each, installed, $126,500.

Interest on purchase of bonds at 4 per cent ($5,060), per lamp per year	$0 46
Depreciation of plant, $2,000 per year, per lamp per year	18
Total cost of ownership, maintenance, operation and depreciation, per lamp per year	20 58
Lowest bid submitted to city for street lighting, per lamp per year	22 30
Saving to the city by establishment of municipal lighting plant, per lamp per year	1 72
Saving to city in one year by establishing municipal lighting plant	18,920 00
Saving to city in ten years, the life of proposed contract, by establishing a municipal lighting plant	189,200 00
Deducting cost of plant	126,500 00
Leaving to the city at end of contract term a complete lighting plant free from all debt, and a surplus of cash amounting to	62,700 00

The lighting plant, as suggested above, will permit of the attachment of an automatic lighting machine whenever in the judgment of the city officials such attachment would be for the interests of the city.

PLAYGROUND, ROXBURY CROSSING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 1, 1911.

To the City Council:

As a result of a public hearing given in Tremont Hall last Thursday evening upon the need of playground accommodations in the district about Roxbury Crossing, I have come to the conclusion that the appropriation already made for this purpose will not be sufficient. In my opinion the district is so congested and the population is so lacking in opportunities for recreation that a second playground should be provided, in addition to the one for which an appropriation has already been made.

I would ask your honorable body to consider this subject and desire to assure you that I shall be heartily in favor of the expenditure of any reasonable sum which will be required for this purpose.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

AMENDMENT TO ORDINANCES.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit an important communication from the Fire Commissioner, inclosing a copy of a proposed amendment to the city ordinances.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Fire Department, March 28, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor:

Sir,—This department has made a careful study of the fire limits of the City of Boston. We find a concurrence of opinion on all sides that now is the right time to materially extend the area inside of which only buildings of first or second class construction are permissible.

This matter has been given the careful consideration of the engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, who recently investigated the Fire Department condition in this city; and it has also had the consideration of the secretary of the local Board of Fire Underwriters.

I inclose herewith a copy of the proposed amendment to the city ordinances.

This amendment extends the fire limits to include all of Charlestown and a large part of the old portions of South Boston and East Boston. It also extends the present fire limits of the city from a line running through the center of Ruggles street to a line running through the center of Dudley street.

This department requests that this matter be brought to the attention of the City Council for their careful consideration.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES D. DALY,
Fire Commissioner.

The Public Library,
Boston, March 21, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor:

My dear Mr. Mayor,—I am sending with this a communication from the Library Trustees with regard to the establishment of a branch library in Ward 6. I hoped to be able to bring it to you personally, so that I might state to you by word of mouth how strongly the trustees feel in favor of doing what they recommend in this communication. I have no doubt, however, it will appeal to you as it does to them, and I therefore send this letter rather than wait for a personal interview, which, owing to your engagements and mine, I am unable to obtain to-day.

I should be glad, however, to call on you for a few minutes with regard to the matter at any time when you can make an appointment to-morrow.

Mr. Kenney, Mr. Carr and Mr. Boyle have all personally examined into this matter, and are very much in favor of acquiring the property and making a branch library at the North End. Either of them would be glad to call upon you with reference to the matter at any time you may desire to see them, I have no doubt. I remain,

Yours sincerely,
J. H. BENTON.

The Public Library,
Boston, March 17, 1911.

To His Honor John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Sir,— The Trustees of the Public Library of the City of Boston have the honor to submit this communication with reference to the need of further library accommodations for that part of the city known as the North End, substantially within the limits of Ward 6.

The trustees have maintained a reading room in the building occupied by the North Bennet Street Industrial School at 39 North Bennet street, which was opened November 3, 1899. It has never been satisfactory for library purposes, but was the best that could be obtained with the means at the disposal of the trustees. In their fifty-eighth annual report, for the year 1909–10, they stated that "these rooms are wholly inadequate for library purposes."

They have also maintained since June 9, 1903, a reading room on the ground floor of the building at 207 North street, which was adequate for its purpose although inconvenient and not suitable in many respects for proper library service. This building, however, has been sold and the tenancy of the library terminated by the new owner. All the library accommodations for this part of the city are now necessarily supplied at the North Bennet street reading room, where some additional room has been obtained, but only for temporary purposes. It will be seen, therefore, that the provision for library service for the people of the North End of the city is wholly inadequate, and there is imperative need that something should be done without delay to provide that part of the city with such library service as the people obviously have a right to expect. It was the opinion of the trustees, as expressed in their fifty-eighth annual report, transmitted to your Honor in February, 1910, that "there should be a building for a new branch at the North End at an early date," and they are of the same opinion now, the need for such accommodations being even more imperative than at the time this report was made. The situation is so fully set forth in the report of the examining committee, appended to the report of the trustees recently transmitted to your Honor, that we beg leave to refer to that as a fair statement of the situation. We quote from the report of the subcommittee, who made careful personal examination of the situation and whose report was adopted by the full committee. They say:

"Ward 6 is set off by itself, at a considerable distance from any other station of the library. Even the West End Branch is more than a mile away through the crowded, busy streets, where children could not be safely sent even in daylight; and the Central Library in Copley square is inaccessible for either children or adults without the payment of two car fares.

"In the industrial school at 39 North Bennet street there have been two small rooms given to the use of the libarry from 4 till 10 p. m. The rooms are respectively 24 feet by 25 and 24 feet by 26.5. A record is kept of the number of persons who come to the place for reading and of those who come to take or return books. The rooms are so small and so crowded that scarcely any effort has been or should have been made to increase the use of them. Nevertheless, the custodian reports the following remarkable figures for the months of November and December, 1910:

	Attendance.		Borrowers.
	November.	December.	November.	December.
Smallest daily number	114	199	75	61
Largest daily number	412	453	249	266
Average daily number	287	323	160	176
Average weekly number	1,790	1,753	1,035	1,056
Total for month	7,190	6,699	4,142	4,573

"About one-fifth of the number of borrowers is included also in the recorded attendance. Eliminating this duplication the number of applicants served at this station of the library during the two months of November and December, 1910, is thus shown to be 20,861. The deposit of books at North Bennet street has been a very small one because of scanty room, and the demands of the readers have been filled chiefly by books ordered from the Central Library. Every morning a long list of these orders was sent out, and the following tables show the number of books distributed during the months of November and December, 1910, from the Central Library:

Distribution of books from the Central Library at North Bennet street:

	November.	December.
Smallest daily number	23	17
Largest daily number	78	73
Average daily number	49	48
Average weekly number	294	288
Total for month	1,176	1,248

"The books delivered from the Central Library to this reading room during the two months of November and December, 1910, numbered 2,424. Thus here children have been obliged to order books largely from the Central Library, without the opportunity of looking over the books — a marked contrast with the opportunities for children at the Central Library and some branches.

"The most striking proof, however, of the book hunger of the children of Ward 6 cannot be put into figures. It is to be seen by anyone who will go to the reading rooms in the afternoon of any winter day. Let any warm-hearted student of social conditions go to the North Bennet street reading room at the hour when the boxes of books come in from the Central Library. Let the visitor stand for a half hour at the delivery desk, and watch the eager faces and the outstretched hands of the children. The bright-eyed Italian boy, the keen-faced Jewish girl, the Greek or Portuguese is often ragged and ill-fed, and bears the marks of the home where severe poverty cramps and dwarfs the life; but if the boxes contained sweetmeats or toys, they would hardly be more joyously greeted than are these piles of rusty books. Among the children whom we call happier than those who fill North Bennet street there are too many who must be coaxed or driven to taste the joy of reading. But in North Bennet street the worn, shabby book is the key to a palace of delight, and the crowded rooms are positively ablaze with the sheer happiness which radiates from the faces of the scores of reading boys and girls. There is surely no part of our city where the hunger for books is so keen and so universal as among the crowded tenements of the North End, where the children of twenty different nations are being made — well made or ill made — into American men and women.

"So much for the nature of the need for books and for a place to read them. Now we must pass to some consideration of the extent of that need. Let us set down a few figures, representing actual conditions in Ward 6. The population of Ward 6, according to the census of 1910, is 35,758. This has not yet been classified as to place of birth, but by applying the percentages obtained from the state census of 1905, it is possible to reach a result which shall be substantially correct. We may say, accordingly, that the Italians comprise 67 per cent (23,957), the Hebrews 18 per cent (6,436), the Irish 7 per cent (2,503) and that the remaining 8 per cent is distributed among several different nationalities. About one-sixth of the population (in round numbers, 6,000) consists of children between the ages of five and fifteen. There are eighteen public school buildings in the ward, at which 7,361 pupils are in attendance. Some of these, of course, live outside the ward boundaries, but would naturally use the library agencies, as they use the schools within the ward.

"The congestion of population in this quarter of the city is very great. Ward 6 contains one and nineteen hundredths per cent of the land area of the city, and five and thirty-three hundredths per cent of the city's population is found in it. The number of dwelling houses (exclusive of hotels) is 1,513, and allowing for the nine unoccupied houses the resident population approximates twenty-four to each house. The average in the city at large is a little less than ten persons in a house. About one-third of the families in the ward are living in tenements of two rooms each, and about one-third in tenements of three rooms each. This congestion is increasing rather than diminishing. Conditions as to sanitation may have improved slightly in ten years, but the increase in population during the last five years is nearly twenty per cent, while the gain in the city at large has been but twelve per cent. Five years ago the population in Ward 6 numbered about 102 to the acre. To-day it averages 122 persons to the acre as against 27 per acre in the city at large. This acreage includes, of course, the streets and all open spaces, but even so it will be seen that Ward 6 has an extraordinary congestion.

"Anyone familiar with the city knows that there has been no increase of living space in the North End in the last five years, or, indeed, in the last decade. The land was all built over many years ago, and the tenements were full to overflowing when the state census was taken in 1905. Yet since that time more than five thousand persons have been added to that teeming population.

"The committee finds, then, in Ward 6 a large and increasing population, made up chiefly of foreign-born elements, having a large number of children, and these children notable among the city's girls and boys as having eager, acquisitive and ambitious minds. Their longing for books amounts to a passion. They find in reading all the romance and imaginative experience for which childhood so ardently seeks. Moreover, the use of books by these children must in most cases be confined to the rooms provided by the city. Reading at home is impossible for a twelve-year-old boy when his five younger brothers and sisters are crowded into a two-roomed tenement, in which all the domestic work of the household is conducted, and where the short winter days are lengthened only by the light of one kerosene lamp.

"Under all these circumstances, the cry for better library facilities for the North End of Boston should not go another year unheeded. Your committee feels thrust upon them the solemn responsibility of speaking for those who cannot speak for themselves. No child of the thousands who play on the streets of that part of the city should ask the City of Boston for a book and be sent empty-handed away.

"It is difficult to state the conditions, the need, the opportunity, too strongly. The chairman of this subcommittee will not soon forget a single incident which she witnessed in the squalid North street reading room. The books were being distributed from the big wooden chest, while the children crowded about as at the unearthing of hid treasure. One little chap on crutches waited impatiently in the background. It seemed as if the last book had been taken out when his thin voice cried, 'Oh, teacher, aint my Brownie book come?' There was a whole world of bitter disappointment in his tone. Then from the very bottom of the box his Brownie book was brought forth, he snatched it, tucked it under his arm, swung bravely off on his crutches to a corner of a table, seated himself, buttressed his elbows on the table and his head on his hands, and in two minutes had left behind him lameness and poverty and ignorance, and had become one who might well be the envy of a king.

"The demand of these children is not only for fairy stories and for all the mass of imaginative material in the general class of 'juvenile literature,' but also for the books which open the world of nature and of art to their minds. 'A book all about moths,' 'a book where I can learn how to call the stars,' 'a book with pictures of the North Pole,' these are the sort of requests which pour into the ears of the attendants in the children's room in the North End. Surely if the city has any duty, she has a duty to the children of these newcomers who have yielded to her dangerous lure; and a first step in that duty is the satisfaction of their voracious hunger for books."

In this urgent state of affairs the trustees have deemed it their duty to ascertain whether some method could not be devised for providing the North End with suitable library accommodations, and to bring the same to your Honor's attention. They have therefore fully investigated the matter of obtaining land and building for a branch library at the North End. They find that the city can purchase an estate now occupied by the Church of St. John Baptist, on North Bennet street, comprising 4,980 feet of land with a substantial building thereon, for the assessed valuation of $38,000, and they have taken an option to the city to purchase the estate at any time within ninety days from March 15, 1911, at that price, which they believe to be reasonable. This estate is, in the judgment of the trustees, properly located to serve library purposes in Ward 6. It is near the main avenues of travel but sufficiently removed therefrom to avoid noise of street cars and teams. It is nearly opposite the open grounds connected with the municipal gymnasium, and in the vicinity of several large schools which would be served by the library station. The building is approximately 56 feet by 71 feet in size.

The trustees have had the building carefully examined by Messrs. Maginnis & Walsh, architects, who report to them that the walls and foundation are in good condition and of adequate thickness to permit remodeling for library purposes, and also that it is feasible to make such changes and reconstruction of the building as will provide two stories, each with a floor area of approximately 3,500 square feet, and a flat roof. Such reconstruction would give an adequate room for adults and a small hall seating about 325 persons on the first floor; and on the second floor good reading and reference rooms for children, with excellent top lighting. Provision can also be made if desired, for an open-air reading room upon the roof for summer use. New heating apparatus could be placed in the basement, which would also amply provide for storage and work rooms. The character of the building as thus remodeled is shown by a sketch of the front, provided by the architects, which is herewith transmitted. Rough plans of the interior as remodeled are in preparation but they are of substantially such changes as have been above indicated. The cost of making these changes in the building has been estimated by the architects at $38,000 for second-class construction, which in this case would, as we understand, be permitted, or $42,000 for first-class fireproof construction. The difference is so slight that we are of the opinion it would be better economy in the long run to adopt the fireproof method of construction. We append a copy of the estimate.

In conclusion we beg to say that in making this recommendation as to the needs of the North End we are not unmindful of the needs of various other parts of the city for improved library service, notably East Boston, the district served by the Broadway extension reading room, and Charlestown. But it is impossible that all these needs should be met at once, and we are of the opinion that the improvement which we suggest at the North End should be undertaken and carried out now, to the end that thereafter improvements of a similar character may be made in other parts of the city which may be found to require them and where they can be provided within the means at the command of the city.

We earnestly request, therefore, that an appropriation be made sufficient to enable the trustees to purchase the land at the price of $38,000, and to remodel the building at an expense of $42,000, making $80,000. In addition to this the appropriation should include $5,000 for the expense of fittings for the building for library use, making a total of $85,000, to accomplish the purpose the trustees deem desirable.

Respectfully,
J. H. BENTON, President.

(Inclosures.)

Estimate.

March 10, 1911.

Dear Sir,—We estimate the cost of remodeling the building on North Bennet street, in accordance with the sketches which we have made on the basis of the scheme suggested by you, at approximately $38,000 for second-class construction and $42,000 for first-class construction.

We ought to add that the building law will sanction second-class construction in this particular case. The difference in cost, however, is so slight that you may be disposed to accept our recommendation in favor of the fireproof method.

Very truly yours,
MAGINNIS & WALSH.

PLAYGROUND, JAMAICA PLAIN DISTRICT.

Coun. ATTRIDGE presented a petition signed by Thomas Sherwin and twenty-nine others, asking for a hearing in relation to the need for a playground in the Jamaica Plain district.
Referred to the Committee on Finance.

CITY HALL ANNEX.

Coun. KENNY called up No. 4, unfinished business, viz.:
4. Report of Committee on Finance recommending the passage of the following:
Ordered, That from the cash surplus in the treasury there be appropriated the sum of $800,000, to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings, after plans and specifications shall have been approved by the City Council, and the contract for the same shall have been approved by the Finance Commission, for the erection of an annex to City Hall on the site of the present Old Court House.
Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, this is a matter of so large a financial character and so much concern to the business interests of the entire city that I move, before taking final action to-day or hereafter, that this proposed construction of a City Hall annex on the site of the Old Court House be referred to the Finance Commission for investigation and report, with an expression of the hope that we will have a report by next Monday.
Coun. Kenny's motion was carried.

CONNECTION OF RAILWAY TRACKS.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the Boston Elevated Railway Company be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to connect tracks on Talbot avenue with tracks on Dorchester avenue, so as to provide for the cars which are now left standing on Talbot avenue.
Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, in regard to this matter I would like to say that usually there are two or three cars standing on the Talbot avenue line where they come to a dead end, near Dorchester avenue. This is a hindrance not only to traffic but a fire menace to the district, because the fire engine on Dorchester avenue is directly opposite where these cars are left standing, and an engine coming out of the house in answer to a fire call in that end of the town would be obliged to pass around these cars. Because of that and because of the fact that the cars could be better taken care of in the car barns near the Milton line it has seemed to me wise to put in this order. I hope it will go through believing that it will not only prove a help in protecting the locality against fire but will be of help to the citizens using that line of cars. The track necessary is only about 100 feet, to the bridge that they were waiting to have finished before they made this improvement. That has now been built, so there is now no valid objection to connecting the tracks.

The order was passed.

MAINTENANCE OF CEMETERIES.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the Cemetery Trustees be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit a report to the City Council showing just what charge should be made on each lot for the permanent maintenance of the buildings, drives, grounds, etc.; also to state in what way money collected for the above purpose should be handled.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, this order is one that was brought to our attention during the consideration of the budget. It is a matter that should have been dealt with some time ago. Cemetery lots at present are sold and no stipulation is made for the upkeep of the grounds. There is a certain amount deducted for the upkeep of the lot itself, but no sum is taken for the maintenance of the cemetery buildings, the permanent drives, the open spaces, care of the seats and such other items as are permanent items. Sooner or later this will result in a severe burden upon the city, and it seems to me that at this time we should ask the Cemetery Trustees to take some action on the matter in order that we of the city government can pass upon it. It is virtually wasting away the cemetery lands without any provision for the future upkeep of the permanent improvements.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.34 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. KENNY, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the Chamber at 4.44 o'clock p. m. and were called to order by the President.

HEARING AT FOUR O'CLOCK.

5. On petition of the Old Colony Railroad Company, asking that the limits be prescribed within which land at Neponset may be taken for the purpose of making and securing its railroad and for depot and station purposes.

No objection. Referred to the Executive Committee.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 4.47 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. ATTRIDGE, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the Chamber at 6.24 o'clock p. m. and were called to order by the President.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

TAXATION OF TRUST SAVINGS.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:

Resolved, That the Boston City Council approves the immediate passage of House Bill 774 for taxing deposits in the savings banks departments of trust companies.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, the reason why I bring this up now is because, as we all know, the recent action of the Legislature in postponing action upon this bill has deprived the City of Boston of an immense amount of taxes for the current year. Last year the same matter was under consideration and the City of Boston lost taxes on several million dollars placed in these departments of trust companies. Under the law those deposits were taxed last year at the rate of $\frac{1}{8}$ of 1 per cent instead of at the rate of the local tax. That is, they were taxed at $1.25 a thousand instead of at our local tax rate here in Boston. This year, there being a sliding scale, those same deposits are taxed only $2.50, or $\frac{1}{4}$ of 1 per cent, instead of at the rate of our local tax. To anybody who has watched the operations of the savings banks departments of the trust companies it is pretty obvious, as brought out in discussion of the measure before the Legislature, that that department is taken advantage of by men who wish to avoid a large part of their tax. Money lying in a national bank, when the first of April approaches, is transferred to the savings bank department of a trust company, and that tax largely avoided. The recent action or inaction of the Legislature permits of the same thing being done this year, and the net result to the City of Boston is an absolute loss of thousands of dollars. In so far as members of the Legislature from the City of Boston voted in favor of that inaction, they deserve our disapprobation, they deserve almost our censure. They by their action assisted in depriving the City of Boston of a considerable amount of taxes. In order not to have this occur a third year, it seems to me advisable to pass this resolution, to show the people at the State House that the City of Boston, if no other municipality, is alive to the fact that it is losing taxes in large amounts through such a bill as House Bill No. 774 not being passed. It seems to me we should take this matter seriously, that we should impress upon the Legislature the necessity for action. It is important to our city in dollars and cents, and we must impress upon the representatives, at least those from Boston, the necessity of acting upon this matter, so that a third year will not go by and we will not for a third time lose money that should come to us. I hope, therefore, we will take immediate action in favor of that bill.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I would like to ask Coun. Smith, through you, if that bill went through immediately, whether the City of Boston would get its taxes on those deposits for this year?

Coun. SMITH—No, it would not. I meant to make that plain. The tax is assessed as of April 1, and April 1 has passed; but it would operate for the coming year, and, while we may think the bill is sure to go through another year and this thing is not apt to happen again, nevertheless we thought that last year and were disappointed. It seems to me time to act upon this now, while the matter is before the Legislature, not waiting for the bill to be introduced a third time next year.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I am heartily in favor of doing anything that will bring to Boston the taxes it ought to have. At the same time I am not so much in favor of taxing the deposits of poor people in savings bank institutions, people who are already bearing more than their share of the burdens of the community. It seems to me, however, that the Council has no right to interfere with legislative matters, that it has no right even to censure the members of the Legislature from Boston, no matter what their attitude has been. They are answerable to their constituents, just as we are answerable to ours. While it may be well sometimes to pass resolutions and send them to the Legislature, I do not believe that is what we were elected for by the citizens of Boston. I wanted to talk this way when other resolutions were introduced but because of certain things I kept my mouth closed and did not do so. But it seems to me we ought to get down to the business of the city and not interfere with the business of the Legislature. We are going a little too far. Let us get down to the real solid business of the city, for which we were sent here. I am in favor of passing this resolution to-day, or of anything that will bring to Boston that which it ought to have. But here we are just a shade too late. Why were these resolutions not introduced last week, when they might have been of some advantage to us if we could have hurried the Legislature up to pass the measure so that the City of Boston could have reaped the benefit this year.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, as long as Coun. Buckley says he is in favor of these resolutions I don't suppose there is really any need for further argument in favor of them, but I should like to offer an amendment if agreeable to Coun. Smith. That is, I would like to have the City Council instruct or request the members of the General Court who reside in the City of Boston to vote for this bill. I should like to offer that as an amendment.

The resolution was amended by adding the words "and requests the representatives in the General Court from Boston to vote in favor of said bill."

The question came on adopting the resolution as amended.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I don't want any misunderstanding about this. Of course, it does not in any way affect savings banks, and in practice it does not affect small depositors. It relates only to the savings banks departments of trust companies, and if last year is any criterion of this year, amounts of money in very large volume, running up to $50,000 and $100,000, are deposited in such savings banks departments, being drawn from the national banks. So I don't think it is possible to construe the bill referred to as doing any injustice to poor and small depositors.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, as I said before, I am in favor of any resolutions which will bring to the City of Boston the money to which it is entitled. At the same time I wonder if we will not be a sort of a joke when we pass this resolve as it is amended. When we request our senators and representatives to vote for this measure, aren't they up there to do as they think is right and aren't they answerable to the public, just as we are, for their votes? It seems to me it is a pretty serious thing for us to say to the senators and representatives, "You vote this way," or even to ask them to do so. What would we say if they should come down here with resolutions from the State House asking or requesting us to vote a certain way? It is a pretty serious proposition, and I don't think we have any right to ask our senators and representatives to vote a certain way. I am in favor of the resolutions without the amendment, but with the amendment I am not.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it seems to me we have the greatest right to ask them to vote in favor of the bill, because this is a dollar and cents matter with the City of Boston. We are vitally affected. We are more affected than any other city in the state and it is a part of our tax question, an important part of our tax question. That being so, it seems to me we have a right to request their votes in favor of the bill which will give us the greatest amount of taxes, taxes in proportion to those borne by other personal property in this community, from the amounts now deposited in the savings banks departments of these trust companies.

The resolution as amended was adopted.

HIGHER PRESSURE SERVICE.

Coun. SMITH called up unfinished business, No. 3, viz.:

3. Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors the passage of the bill now before the Committee on Cities enabling the City of Boston to appropriate and spend money for a higher pressure fire service.

The resolution was adopted.

Appended to his communication is a copy of a letter from the A. Varnerin Company, who are the contractors for the reconstruction of the building.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Office of Puhlic Buildings Department,
April 5, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—Regarding the inclosed order of the City Council requesting information as to when Curtis Hall will be opened to the public for use as a municipal building, library, etc., I wish to advise you that I anticipate that the said huilding will he completed ahout August 1 and send you inclosed herewith a copy of a communication which I have received from the A. Varnerin Company, who are the contractors for the reconstruction of the huilding, in which they specify the same date for completion.

Before the huilding can be occupied it will be necessary to provide the sum of fourteen thousand dollars ($14,000) for the maintenance of same during the last six months of this financial year.

The building to be occupied as a branch lihrary is a new building located on the same lot with the Curtis Hall huilding. It is now very nearly completed, hut not as yet accepted by me.

I have contracted for practically all of the furniture and furnishings, most of which is of special design, as approved by the librarian of the Boston Public Lihrary.

It will require six to eight weeks to finish the building.

Yours respectfully,
M. J. FISH,
Superintendent of Puhlic Buildings.

A. Varnerin Company,
General Building Contractors,
10 Tremont Street,
Boston, Mass., April 3, 1911.

Mr. Fish,
Superintendent of Public Buildings,
City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In response to your conversation with our Mr. Varnerin a few days ago ahout delays at Curtis Hall we will say, on Septemher 2, 1910, his Honor the Mayor of Boston approved the contract with our company. The work was started immediately after his approval. You will, of course, understand that the difficulties of putting in new foundations under the rear part of the building were such that it had to he handled very carefully; this we done. There were some delays caused by the necessity of shoring, which had to he done before any work could he started. When we did have a fair start the cold weather overtook us, which you know has been such that very little could he accomplished on the exterior of the building. However, the interior, to our mind, has progressed as well as could he expected with the difficulties we had to overcome.

The huilding at present is practically ready for plastering, and now that the cold weather has passed it will be a very short time hefore the grounds and exterior work is cleaned up.

Thc entire building will be ready for occupancy not later than August 1, 1911. This would make eleven months from the date of signing, which we consider is little enough time to complete a huilding of this kind, with the amount of work that had to be accomplished, as you know a reconstruction job is a different proposition than new work.

Hoping this explanation will he satisfactory to you and waiting further instructions, we remain,

A. Varnerin Company,
by Antony Varnerin,
Treasurer.

Referred to Executive Committee.

Boston, April 1, 1911.

His Honor John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

My dear Sir,— One of the greatest questions before the community is the question of municipal ownership, and we have had the matter of the Lamplighters' Union presented at the meeting of our executive hoard hy a committee from said organization, and a plan which they suhmitted to the Commissioner of Puhlic Works, as well as your Honor, which we helieve would be a great benefit to the community, if adopted.

At a meeting of the executive board held on March 29, it was unanimously voted to indorse the same. We have learned that each memher of the city government received a copy of the proposition suhmitted to the Commissioner of Public Works. We trust that the City Council will adopt it.

Trusting that it will meet with your favorable support, believe me to be

Respectfully yours,

LIGHTING CONTRACT, ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

I heg to transmit a letter from the Commissioner of Puhlic Works, accompanying a contract signed by him with the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company for the lighting of certain streets, tracts and areas in the city with approximately eleven thousand (11,000) gas lamps. In addition to this contract the commissioner has suhmitted for transmission to your honorable hody three bids for equipment from the Pressure Lighting Company, the Automatic Gas Lighting and Equipment Company and William A. Rumpf and Leo Rohinson, together with communications from the Lamplighters' Union and the Pressure Lighting Company, which were received after the hids were opcned, and a statement from the supervisor of street lighting, bearing upon the letters from Mr. R. Momand of the Pressure Lighting Company.

Respectfully,
John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
City Hall, April 6, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

On Fehruary 11, 1911, the Commissioner of Puhlic Works advertised for hids for lighting certain streets, parks and alleys with approximately 11,000 gas lamps. At the same time the department also advertised for bids for furnishing the equipment, with a view to the city's doing its own lighting. On March 4, 1911, the hids were opened. The only bid received for furnishing, maintaining and operating approximately 11,000 gas lamps was from the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company, which hid, with my approval, I suhmit herewith for the consideration of the City Council and yourself. The Rising Sun Street Lighting Company now has the contract for lighting these lamps, and the proposal which is hefore you is a substantial reduction from the present price.

In connection with hids for equipment were received three proposals, which I also send for your information.

If the City Council should decide that it is for the hest interests of the city to purchase the equipment and do its own lighting, I will say that the cost of operation is prohlematical; and in this connection, I suhmit communications from the Lamplighters' Union and the Pressure Lighting Company, which were received after the hids were opened.

Very respectfully,
L. K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Puhlic Works.

(Anncxed were communications referred to and the contract, all said papers, with accompanying message, heing ordered printed as a puhlic document later in the meeting.)

Referred to the Executive Committee.

The loam for the Fens and the planting of Commonwealth avenue appeared in the list which we presented to you when asking for appropriations for maintenance, but as the amount we requested was not authorized by you and as the amount you did approve will not cover our full list of proposed work, we add these on this list.

In explanation of the above list we add the following notes:

1. On Medford street is an entirely unused and undeveloped lot in the control of the Park Department. We desire to plant it and grade it and make it an agreeable children's playground.

2. By building a two-storied shelter building across the whole width of the upper part of Copp's Hill Playground, with necessary toilets at the end of each story, a very large area would be given on which little children could play and their mothers could sit and sew and enjoy the extremely agreeable view and the fresh air. It seems to us that this would be equivalent to adding at very small cost a considerable playground in this neighborhood.

3. We desire to make these improvements on the locker building by way of making its finish worthy of the surroundings.

4. We desire to place two gateways in the fencing of this playground to add a certain value and dignity to the city property which lately has been, as you know, greatly improved but lacks this finish.

5. Tennis courts in Franklin Park are grass courts, and it is not possible to put up surrounding nets without marring the landscape. Although they are much enjoyed, they are not suited to vigorous or advanced tennis playing, and we desire to build on Franklin Field some courts where more advanced playing can be carried on. At present those seeking this convenience have to go to Wood Island Park.

6. This refers to improving the piece of land purchased by the Park Commission about four years ago and yet undeveloped.

7. The seats and fence at these heights, the construction of which was charged to maintenance and of a temporary character, are now in poor condition and it is necessary that they be renewed in a substantial manner.

8. There still remains a little grading to be done at this playground.

9. The improvements here suggested are desirable at this playground.

10. The improvements here suggested are very necessary at this playground.

11. The improvements here suggested are very necessary at this playground.

12. From time to time grading has been in progress as opportunity offered, with a view to bringing the field to final finished condition. We should like to continue this work, especially as it furnishes work for our men in winter which can be done economically at that time.

13. This building would be a desirable addition to the shops we now have at Franklin Park, especially as a safeguard against fire.

14. Nothing has been done in the way of planting at Castle Island. It is a very beautiful place and we should like to start the planting of trees and shrubs and have it done so as to gradually lead towards the original plan designed by Mr. Olmsted.

15. This is a very necessary repair and until it is made the playground cannot be put in proper order.

16. These improvements would add to the conveniences at Olmsted Park.

17. You will remember that we did not have enough last year to finish the work laid out for this playground, and this appropriation will take the place of a transfer of funds which was proposed at the end of the last financial year.

18. These improvements are much to be desired at this playground. The sanitary building is especially needed.

19. This playground is much used and very attractive, but towards the street the wall is unfinished and unsightly.

20. This park has been very carefully planted and put in excellent order except that it needs more loam and stone steps for the steep paths.

21. We have been offered a portion of beach without the land behind it and we think it would be very desirable for the city to thus extend the beach.

22. This building is very much needed indeed. The playground is very largely used and there are no conveniences there. The amount named, however, will only provide a sanitary building The amount should be larger, say $20,000, if lockers and spray baths are to be provided.

23. A good deal of land has been filled to add to the extent of the Strandway Playground, but we have no money with which to grade it.

24. As you know, a shelter has been built here, but we had no money with which to build a sanitary.

25. As you know, a shelter has been built here, but we had no money with which to build a sanitary.

26. The grade of the Fens has been, as you know, raised without any material expense to the city, but we haven't any money with which to cover it with loam. The pumping plant has been suggested in previous communications with you and we believe that it is very important to have it. Our suggestion that the water be led in from Charles river through the Fens and out from the marginal conduit does not meet with favor because we are told the water cannot be spared from the basin, but the pumping plant proposed herewith will create a circulation through the Fens. Unless something of this sort is done we believe that it is only a question of time when the water in the Fens may give serious trouble.

27. This is an item which has repeatedly come before you. The extension of Commonwealth avenue should be planted with trees. We never have enough money with which to do this.

Yours truly,
ROBERT S. PEABODY,
Chairman.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

CITY HALL ANNEX.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
410–416 Tremont Building,
Boston, April 10, 1911.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Finance Commission received from the Assistant City Clerk on April 4, 1911, the following communication:

April 4, 1911.

Boston Finance Commission:

Gentlemen,—The City Council has under consideration the following order:

Ordered, That from the cash surplus in the treasury there he appropriated the sum of $800,000 to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings, after plans and specifications shall have been approved by the City Council, and the contract for the same shall have been approved by the Finance Commission, for the erection of an annex to City Hall on the site of the present Old Court House.

The City Council voted at its meeting on April 3, 1911, to request the Finance Commission to submit a report on or before the next meeting of the City Council, April 10, 1911, as to the advisability of adopting the said order.

Respectfully yours,
W. J. Doyle,
Assistant City Clerk.

The commission respectfully suggests that the order, in its present form, be not passed.

The order is ohviously designed to protect the city against loss resulting from the erection of the huilding under defective plans and specifications, or under a contract either defective in form or objectionahle because of circumstances connected with its award. To safeguard against such loss, the order in effect provides that no part of the money appropriated shall he spent until the plans and specifications have heen approved hy the City Council, and the contract has been approved by the Finance Commission.

In the opinion of the Finance Commission, the charter provisions impose limits upon the powers of the City Council and the Finance Commission respectively, which the order in question exceeds. The City Council has the power to vote appropriations, but in the opinion of the commission it has no power to compel the executive department to postpone the expenditure of the money thus appropriated until conditions annexed to the grant of money have been complied with. The Finance Commission possesses supervisory powers only under the charter, and cannot by vote of the City Council be authorized to exercise executive functions such as the order under consideration seems to require. The approval of the plans and specifications by the City Council, and of the contract by the Finance Commission, as conditions precedent to the expenditure of the money by the executive department would constitute participation in the executive business of the city and would therefore be contrary to existing law.

It would seem to follow, therefore, that if the appropriation were made under such an order as the one in question, the money would become availahle for the use of the executive department in the construction of the huilding, hut the conditions annexed to the appropriation could he disregarded. In other words, the executive department could adopt plans and specifications and make a contract for the erection of the building without submitting the plans and specifications to the City Council or the contract to the Finance Commission.

The City Council can, if it chooses, withhold the appropriation until plans and specifications are drawn which meet its approval, and until the form of contract meets the approval of the Finance Commission. The executive department, however, would not be required to submit the plans and specifications to the City Council or the form of contract to the Finance Commission, and if it should choose not to do so and the Council should thereupon decline to appropriate the necessary money, the erection of the annex would be indefinitely postponed.

The Finance Commission believes that the erection of an annex to City Hall upon the site of the Old Court House would he a practical solution of the problem of providing the additional accommodations needed, and would avoid the disadvantages resulting from the erection of a new City Hall at a distance from the present site, which would render it inconvenient to the general public in the transaction of its business with the various city departments. A modern office huilding on the Old Court House site, with a bridge across Court square, connecting the new huilding with City Hall, would facilitate the transaction of the administrative business of the city by bringing the various departments into closer relation, and would make a reduction in expenditures possihle, because of these improved facilities and the saving of rentals which would otherwise be necessary for outside accommodations.

The commission believes, however, that the City Council should request the executive department to furnish full information as to the plans for the new huilding, the probable cost, and the method which is likely to be employed in the selection of an architect and the award of the contract for the erection of the building. The commission suggests that the information should cover the following matters:

1. A statement showing the width of the streets surrounding the Old Court House site and the average width of the same.
2. An opinion from the Corporation Counsel as to the height to which the huilding could be erected under the provisions of section 18 of chapter 550 of the Acts of 1907; and also as to the legal right of the city to construct a bridge over the street, between City Hall and the proposed annex, if such a hridge should seem to be necessary.
3. A statement showing the dates of the expiration of the leases of various hired quarters occupied by city departments.
4. A careful estimate of the cost made by the Building Commissioner.

The commission suggests that after the douhts as to the legal right of the city to erect a huilding of the proposed height (125 feet), and to build the bridge aforesaid, have been cleared up, and after the City Council has received full information as to the plans and specifications, the form of contract, the estimates of cost, and other information which has previously been suggested herein as important, the appropriation should he made. The commission also suggests that the appropriation he accompanied by a resolution of the Council, expressing the opinion that the architect should bc selected after puhlic competition, in order to insure competent service at reasonable rates.

Respectfully submitted,
The Finance Commission,
by John A. Sullivan,
Chairman.

Referred to the Executive Committee which later in the session submitted a report recommending that the communication be placed on file.

Report accepted, communication placed on file.

BUILDINGS FOR WARD 23 PLAYGROUND.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

INVESTIGATION OF WARDROOM RECONSTRUCTION.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That a committee of three members of the City Council investigate the bids submitted for the reconstruction of the wardroom on Blossom street, Ward 8, into public baths, with special reference to the bids for plumbing.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, the reason why I bring this up is because we have had within a short time the change from the Public Buildings Department to the Bath Department of the construction of this building. It has been called to my attention that there are two separate sets of bids of general contractors on that building. The first one was advertised for in the City Record, and subsequently bids for special work to be done on plumbing, ventilating, etc., were asked for. Mr. Babson passed upon this as being against the law; therefore a second general bid was asked for. In the interim between those two the specifications were changed so that, instead of asking for shower baths of the type called "Webco," or shower baths equal thereto, the phrase in regard to having them equal thereto was stricken out, so that the specifications merely called for "Webco" shower baths. It is a curious coincidence that the "Webco" showers are made for, not by, the firm of F. W. Webb on Elm street, and that that firm also employs as its salesman Mr. Joseph Maynard, president of the Democratic City Committee. It is also a coincidence that Mr. McGrath, the head of the Bath Department, like Mr. Maynard, is a precinct captain in Ward 8, although neither of them live in the ward. While I am a very good friend of both of these gentlemen and wish to imply nothing whatever against them, or any irregularity in this contract, I think it was most unwise for Mr. Maynard, through his firm, F. W. Webb, to have insisted upon specifications in the contract for the Ward 8 bath house calling only for Webco shower baths. I think it is a matter for this Council to investigate—not only for our own satisfaction, not only to see that the money of the city is spent properly, but to clear Mr. Maynard and Mr. McGrath of any possible imputation against their action. This matter has come to me from several sources, and undoubtedly will cause comment about town unless it is taken up; and for their sakes, as much as for our own and the city treasury, I think it should be investigated by this body. I wish to make myself perfectly clear that I do not wish to impute anything against these gentlemen. I wish simply to say it is a fact that the specifications were changed and that all shower bath apparatus except "Webco" is now barred out. Of course I do not pretend to be an expert on these matters, but I am told also that there are other shower baths equally good, and that when the first bid was in there were estimates made for other apparatus, said to be equally good, at a reduction of $600 to $1,200 below the present bid. That is, I am told that $600 to $1,200 would be saved the city if we could get other apparatus besides "Webco" and that this other apparatus is said to be equally good. Therefore, it seems to me we ought to investigate this matter.

On motion of Coun. HALE the matter was referred to the Executive Committee. (See later in meeting.)

INVESTIGATION OF SOMERS TAX SYSTEM.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the Finance Commission be requested to investigate the so-called Somers System of tax assessment on real estate, now in use throughout the city of Cleveland, Ohio, and in partial use in many other cities; said report to be made with an idea of substituting the Somers System for the methods now used by the Assessing Department of Boston.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, we have heard a great deal through the papers and elsewhere in criticism of the Assessing Department of the City of Boston. That criticism, as far as I can make out, is based upon the fact that certain buildings are assessed for less than they seem to be worth. That is a criticism of the intelligence, ability and good faith of our public officials; it is not a criticism as to the system under which they are assessing our real estate. Any criticism of independent judgment is perfectly valid; but criticism if it ends there, is doing the city absolutely no good. Boston is reputed to be filled with men who are giving adverse criticism to our local institutions and with men who are doing the city no good by such criticism, because such criticism is not constructive. It seems useless to engage in that criticism year in and year out, to make political capital out of it, unless we substitute for it something that we think is better. I do not pretend to be an expert on the assessment of real estate, but there are methods other than those used by our Assessing Department. I have been at a little pains to look up one of these methods, which it seems to me is good enough to at least be investigated by our Finance Commission. If they report favorably upon it, I hope our body can adopt it. It is the so-called Somers system, used in Cleveland, Ohio. It differs radically from our present system, in that it is a more mathematical system than ours. Everything within the same block is taxed at the same rate. There can be under that system no criticism that one man is taxed more than his neighbor. It is a mathematical system and as such it would do away with all the adverse criticism now running through our newspapers and through political discussions in this community. If for no other reason, if it would do away with adverse criticism by one man against his neighbor, it seems to me it might be a good system to adopt. I will not go into the details of this system. They are rather intricate. But I certainly hope the order will be passed and that the matter will go to the Finance Commission, and I trust that they will make a speedy investigation and report.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I am heartily in favor of that order or anything that will bring a fair assessment on the real estate in Boston, but I take exceptions to some of the statements made by the gentleman from the Back Bay, when he says that the criticisms of different public officials are not constructive. I believe that every criticism which tends to the best interests of the city is constructive, and if the assessors have been negligent in their duty, if they have undervalued any property in this city, it seems to me that they ought to be criticised. They are public officials, and they are there to bring to the City of Boston the most money that it can possibly get, by giving a fair valuation to all the property in the city. If they have undervalued any pieces of property they ought to be criticised and criticised justly; and a criticism which does good for the city, in so far as it does that good, certainly is a constructive criticism.

The order was passed.

PRINTING OF DOCUMENTS.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Eleven.

An Ordinance to amend Chapter 31 of the Revised Ordinances of 1898.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1. Section two of chapter thirty-one of the Revised Ordinances of 1898 is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "Said superintendent shall number and print five hundred and fifty copies of the mayor's inaugural address and of each of the annual and other reports made by the several departments to the mayor; and shall number and print four hundred copies of each of the other city documents; shall, from the said copies, as soon as printed, deliver to the city messenger for distribution, three hundred copies of the said address, of each of said annual reports, and of each of the other city documents; shall, as soon as practicable, from the said copies, bind and deliver to the mayor twenty-five sets of volumes, two volumes to each set, each set containing one copy of said address and one copy of each of said annual reports, and each volume entitled "Annual Report of the Executive Departments of the City of Boston for the year (naming the preceding year)"; and bind and deliver to the statistics trustees one hundred and twenty-five sets, and to the city messenger for distribution one hundred sets of volumes, each set containing one copy of each of the city documents of the preceding municipal year, numerically arranged; every volume so bound shall contain an alphabetical list of the documents therein. The preceding provisions shall not, unless specially provided, apply to any documents issued by special order of the city council nor to the volumes which the city registrar may deem proper to print, but said superintendent shall number and print, as a city document, sixteen hundred copies of each of said volumes of the city registrar, fifteen hundred of which he shall deliver to said registrar for distribution, and one hundred of which he shall bind with the one hundred sets of volumes to be delivered to the city messenger for distribution. He shall also print as a city document without any number three hundred copies of a volume to be prepared by the corporation counsel at the end of each session of the legislature, containing all special laws passed at such session relating to the city of Boston, and such others as he shall deem will assist the city council, or any department or officer, in the performance of its or his duties. He shall also print, on or before the first day of June in each year, a city document containing the lists of officials and employees of the city, referred to in section twenty-seven of chapter three.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

STATE HIGHWAY, NORTH BEACON STREET.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:

Resolved, That the Mayor and City Council of Boston hereby petitions the Massachusetts Highway Commission, in accordance with section 5, chapter 47, of the Revised Laws, that North Beacon street, so called, within the limits of the City of Boston, be taken and maintained as a state highway.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, this meets with the approbation of the Mayor. It provides that the Highway Commissioners shall take and maintain North Beacon street, which, as you know, is a continuation of Commonwealth avenue and offers the most direct route through Brighton, Watertown, Waltham and Newton. As you also know, the Highway Commission have spent within the city limits of Boston no money except that on Washington street in West Roxbury—this in spite of the fact that Boston pays by far the larger part of the tax. It seems to me that this is no more than an act of justice, that some of the money should be spent within the city limits of Boston, and as this meets with the Mayor's approbation, I hope it will be passed.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ROPING OFF CHESTNUT AVENUE.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That Chestnut avenue in Jamaica Plain be roped off on the 19th of April, from Centre street to the Acme Club, between the hours of 10 and 12 a. m.

Passed.

ANNEX TO CITY HALL.

President COLLINS called up No. 3, past assignment, viz.:

3. Report of Committee on Finance recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That from the cash surplus in the treasury there be appropriated the sum of $800,000, to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings, after plans and specifications shall have been approved by the City Council, and the contract for the same shall have been approved by the Finance Commission, for the erection of an annex to City Hall on the site of the present Old Court House.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SIDEWALK ORDERS.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Standish street, between Harvard street and Park street, Ward 20, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Weld Hill street, between Hyde Park avenue and the cemetery, Ward 23, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestone, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

BRANCH LIBRARY, SAVIN HILL.

Coun. BALLANTYNE presented a petition signed by W. E. Beaton, M. D., and very many others, asking for the establishment of a branch library and reading room in the vicinity of Savin Hill avenue and Sydney street.

In connection with the petition Coun. BALLANTYNE offered an order,— That the Library Trustees be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to consider the expediency of locating a branch library and reading room in the vicinity of Savin Hill avenue and Sydney street, Dorchester, and to submit to the City Council, at its earliest convenience, an estimate of the cost of same.

Referred to the Committee on Branch Libraries.

BUILDINGS ON BACK BAY FENS.

Coun. HALE offered the following:

Whereas, The land occupied by the Back Bay Fens was purchased with the definitely expressed intention of using it solely for park purposes, and only such land acquired as was necessary for carrying out a carefully prepared design; and

Whereas, A vacillating policy in the management of any park is wasteful in the extreme, every change of purpose and design being a hindrance to the natural increase in the value of the park; and

Whereas, The residents of the Back Bay have paid betterments on account of this park, and transactions in abutting lands have been made upon the basis of the continued use of the Fens for park purposes; and

Whereas, It is therefore a grave legal question whether the Legislature has the right to authorize the diversion of this land to other uses without providing for the payment of damages, which would involve litigation and serious delay in the construction of the High School of Commerce and other school buildings; and

Whereas, There is a large amount of vacant land fronting on the Back Bay Fens which may be purchased for school purposes at reasonable prices; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the City Council oppose the passage of House Bill No. 573, or other legislation, permitting the erection of schoolhouses in the Back Bay Fens.

Referred to the Executive Committee on motion of Coun. KENNY.

PUBLIC HEARINGS, PLAYGROUND SITE.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Board of Park Commissioners be requested to give a puhlic hearing on the question of location of playground in Ward 19.

Passed.

LAYING OUT OF STREETS.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Board of Street Commissioners he requested to accept and lay out as puhlic ways Highland avenue and Southampton street.

Passed.

REPAIR OF STREETS, ROXBURY.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Commissioner of Puhlic Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to cause Rogers avenue, Leon street and Greenleaf street to be placed in proper condition for public travel.

Passed.

INVESTIGATION OF BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That a special committee of three memhers of the City Council be appointed hy the President to investigate the Building Department.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, in connection with this order I desire to say that I do not question the honesty of the Commissioner of the Building Department, Mr. Everett, hut I helieve that if Mr. Everett really desires to he of service to the citizens in the capacity of Building Commissioner it would be advisahle for him to have his eyesight tested. The Building Department, and the manner of conducting the various inspection affairs of that department, is gradually becoming as great a scandal as the conduct of the Police Department. During the past year there has scarcely been a week in which the newspapers have failed to record one or more deaths due to gas poisoning. The numher of persons who have died as a result of gas poisoning in this city during the past few years almost equals the numher that have died of measles, and I helieve in the majority of cases it has heen due to the failure of the inspection force of the Building Department to adequately carry out the work for which they are appointed and paid. It is common knowledge through the city that, despite the fact that the statute requires that every location of a gas engine shall be advertised in the daily papers, gas engines have heen put in various buildings throughout the city without going through the formality of complying with the statutes and advertising the location. It is common knowledge that defective gas fixtures have been approved in various sections of the city hy the inspection force of the Building Department, and in many cases, in consequence of those defective fixtures, deaths have resulted from gas poisoning. It is common knowledge that some of the men employed as inspectors in the Building Department are interested in various mechanical devices connected with the gas fitting and plumhing trade; and if I were in Mr. Everett's position as Building Commissioner, I would think it advisahle to set off a portion of the office where they might conduct their private business, to which they pay more attention than to their public husiness. We find one man who has a patent on a trap, also a patent on a drinking fountain and a patent on an automohile cesspool, who places ads in the daily papers and invites persons interested in those devices to address him care of the Building Department, Old Court House. Another man in that department is interested in another plumhing trap. If some irresponsihle character is putting up a building in competition and makes a bid lower than a reputahle huilder can honestly suhmit, the only way in which he can hope to carry on that work profitably is by not complying with the law, and if he cares to put in a trap upon which some plumbing inspector has a patent he can put in any kind of plumbing under the sun and have it approved by that plumhing inspector, if it is in his district. If he puts in some particular kind of gas fixture upon which some inspector has a patent, he can put up any kind of death-dealing gas fixtures and have them approved. Now, if there is one hranch of the public service, with the possible exception of the Health Department, that deals more directly than another with the health of the community, it is the Building Department, and it is the place where the services of an inspector should he honestly administered. It is a place where a man who honestly does his work and who tries to do it best for the interest of the city should be protected. But apparently the rule of the department is to protect the incompetent at the expense of the competent in the department, and if a man is competent and insists that the builders live up to the law, it has heen the custom for the huilders in the past to have the man shifted to some other district where he will not injure their interests by compelling them to live up to the requirements of the statute. I have no desire to serve on this committee. But the Building Department to-day, under the auspices of the present commissioner—who I helieve is an ahsolutely honest man—is conducted along the same lines as the House of Mirth at Revere Beach. You can get anything you want, provided it is as it should not be. I believe if an investigation were made by a committee of this Council they would uncover enough to warrant the cleaning out of that household, and I helieve for the hest interests of the city that it should be done. A family moves into a house that is newly constructed and where the gas fixtures are defective. Proper tests have not heen made, for excellent reasons, The family retires at night with the gas turned on, and in the morning the police officer on the heat, or somehody else, calls up the City Hospital and tells them to send along all the ambulances they have to take the people in the house to the morgue. That is a condition of affairs that should not obtain. If there is any man there interested in a patent device from which he is deriving a revenue, it would be far hetter to advance that man a hundred or a thousand dollars and let him start in business somewhere else, instead of conducting his private husiness from a public office of the City of Boston. If there are men there interested in private devices, let them either resign their positions or give up their interests in the private devices. I helieve this is necessary for the welfare and protection of the general puhlic, and I sincerely trust that the committee when appointed will make a thorough investigation. If they do, I helieve we will have a better Building Department, and that the interests of the people of Boston will he hetter served.

The order was passed.

Later in the session Coun. BALLANTYNE said:

Mr. President, I move a reconsideration of the vote wherehy Coun. Curley's order was passed, requesting the President to appoint a committee of three to investigate the Building Department. If this motion prevails, I shall ask that the order be referred to the Law Department for their opinion as to the powers of the Council in that direction. There is some question as to the rights of the Council to investigate any of the different departments of the city. If that motion prevails I shall move that reference.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I may say that I have no ohjection to a motion to reconsider if there is a question as to our rights in the matter. The only thing is that if reconsideration prevails I helieve it would be advisable to settle the question, because it has always been customary to appoint committees to investigate, and I doubt whether that section of the statute has been abrogated hy the adoption of the present city charter. Is it your idea to have the entire matter referred to the Corporation Counsel?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Yes.

Reconsideration prevailed, and the matter was referred, on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, to the Law Department for an opinion.

PUBLIC LANDS.

(12) Report on petition of Boston Elevated Railway Company, lessee (referred February 13), for permission to operate as a common carrier of newspapers, baggage, express matter and freight on tracks of West End and Old Colony Street railways in City of Boston—that the petitioner be given leave to withdraw.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, if I understand the history of this request by the Elevated Road, it was put in last year, and after consideration by this Board for two months the Board refused to take any action either to prejudice the matter or to favor it, because of lack of information. This year, after considering it two months further, they give the Elevated leave to withdraw. It seems to me that such action by this Board is subject to criticism. We have had four months in which to consider this matter. Personally, I can say that the matter has not received our consideration as far as possible restrictions are concerned. The Elevated has submitted certain restrictions upon this privilege which the Board, neither in executive session nor in open meeting, has deigned to consider. The Chamber of Commerce has acted favorably upon this matter and has suggested additional restrictions, which this Board neither in executive session nor in open session has deigned to consider.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman through you a question.

President COLLINS—Will the gentleman yield?

Coun. SMITH—Yes.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Didn't the Executive Committee at its session to-day listen to you when you read from the paper in regard to those restrictions, and weren't you given all the opportunity that you desired to call the restrictions to the attention of the Executive Committee?

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I see no reason to change my statement.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Will the gentleman answer the question, Mr. President?

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would like to ask a question of the questioner, if possible, before Coun. Smith answers his question—if the councilor is willing.

President COLLINS—That would require unanimous consent.

(The question was allowed.)

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would like to ask a question of Coun. Attridge, if he will answer.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Not at this time, I may later.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, to resume, it seems to me that we have not as a body——

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I desire at this time to ask if the gentleman will answer the question I asked of him?

Coun. SMITH—Certainly. This matter was under consideration in the Executive Committee. I want to repeat my statement, made once before this year, that it is unfortunate that the Executive Committee deals with so many important matters that ought to he dealt with in open session. If they were dealt with in open session any remarks made would be taken stenographically, and there would be no doubt about whether these questions were dealt with exhaustively or not. As a matter of fact, I started reading. I did read one of the restrictions suggested by the Elevated and started reading the second. The committee showed no intention of giving them any consideration, and I did not read the third. It seemed to me better at this time to take it up in open meeting rather than to continue a futile discussion in executive meeting. Does that answer the question?

Coun. ATTRIDGE—My question was, weren't you given every opportunity before the Executive Committee to read those restrictions or regulations which you say have been suggested by the Elevated Railroad?

President COLLINS—Does the councilor understand the question?

Coun. SMITH—Certainly, Mr. President. I have tried to say just exactly what did happen in executive session. It is all a matter of personal opinion, hecause unfortunately there were no stenographic notes taken. As a matter of fact, you can start to read restrictions by the Elevated, hut you cannot make the Council consider them. While I was given the privilege of reading the restrictions, there was no attention paid to the restrictions and there was no debate on the subject. I did not read them all. Furthermore, I did not read the restrictions—and they have never heen considered—suggested by the Chamher of Commerce in regard to the franchise. I did not read restrictions that I myself, having spent considerable time and study upon this matter, through reading and otherwise, had thought might he good restrictions to suggest, ones that had occurred to me in a consideration of the subject. I don't think any other memher of the Council suggested restrictions that had either heen thought of hy himself or had been referred to the hody. Therefore, it did not seem to me that they gave the subject the consideration due it. I am not going on record as saying that I favor this, as it is unnecessary. This Council is going to take the attitude of giving the Elevated Road leave to withdraw, and is going to do it in face of the position taken by the Chamber of Commerce that the road should have the right to do this business. The body proposes to act upon the matter regardless of any restrictions that might he made, whether as to the use of certain streets, regulations as to certain hours, as to whether cars shall operate in trains or singly, and so on; and the question whether this husiness would serve the purposes of the surrounding country, whether it would advance our business relations with the rest of the state, is evidently not going to be considered. The body is proposing to act entirely regardless of such matters. There has heen no consideration of the subject on a hroad scale, such as it ought to have, and it seems to me we are passing on it very lightly. Personally I shall vote against this report, hecause I think we ought to give the matter further attention, because I think it means much to the business community. I helieve it means much to the public generally, as I helieve they could get their express and freight husiness done more cheaply. We are not in line with the rest of the country on this matter. Philadelphia, Baltimore, Detroit, Brooklyn, and nearly every city of any importance throughout the West, has granted such rights on the traction lines; and yet we are passing the matter over with scarcely any consideration at all. It is one of the biggest questions we will have before us, and it has heen before us two years running. We hear arguments on other questions and see a great deal of consideration given to them. For instance, in executive meeting, we heard the argument advanced that we ought to rush matters on the proposed addition to City Hall, because it has heen delayed for some time; and yet that proposition was not suggested until the Mayor suggested it this year in his inaugural. This matter has been considered for two years. It has been before this Council for four months and I think we are open to criticism, to severe criticism, in acting upon it in this way without any general discussion. I myself think the matter ought to he restricted very, very carefully indeed. I think the Elevated would be getting a privilege which is worth a great deal to it, and I think that the passenger service of this city should be safeguarded. We should not grant to the Elevated anything that would interfere with the rights of people traveling to and fro; neither should we grant it any privilege which would hurt the passenger service. We should not allow trains to go through the streets, or heavy single cars to go through residential districts at improper times, with the consequent noise and jar. But this hody is ahle, with the representatives of the people here, to safeguard this privilege properly. I think, without any egotism, that we as a body are ahle to safeguard this privilege better than any other puhlic hody, and for us to pass it by and allow it to go to the Railroad Commissioners is really in a sense shirking our duty. I think the people of this town may criticise us for that. I think there could he restrictions upon the privilege which would work to the actual hencfit of the passenger department of the road. I think we might restrict the earnings from this department so that anything ahove a certain percentage might he secured for the henefit of the passenger service, and in so far as we did that we would actually help the passenger service in this city. Yet we gentlemen here are passing it by without even considering that point. That point, as far as I know, has never been urged in the puhlic hearings, executive session or otherwise. We might actually make this privilege that we are considering for the Elevated work out for the henefit of the passenger department.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman a question. I would like to know in what way, what manner, this might operate to the advantage of the puhlic in increasing the passenger service facilities?

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it gives me great pleasure to answer the question, although it seems to me late in the day for it to be asked. These things should be considered in executive session. I had suggestions to make which I was not——

Coun. BUCKLEY—Permitted?

Coun. SMITH—No, I will not say permitted—which I was not encouraged to offer, and I think other members of this body prohably had suggestions. My idea was that the hooks of the freight department should he kept separately. We might then limit the percentage they could earn in the freight department—allowing them, for example, to earn 6 per cent with the understanding that everything above 6 per cent should he turned over to the passenger department, to be used not in maintenance or betterments, but in extensions, such as additional cars, additional trackage, additional shops; and thus, without allowing the money ohtained in that way to he capitalized in stocks, bonds, notes or other indebtedness to be issued against it, we might actually make any earnings beyond the normal amount in the freight department accrue to the passenger department. That suggestion, coming at this hour, with the action of the Executive Committee, probably has no weight at all and probably will not receive any consideration. That suggestion, however, has heen acted upon favorahly by the Chamher of Commerce. It is not an idle creation. It is a creation of some merit and should be considered hy this body. There are also other restrictions that should be considered. I certainly very much regret the action of the Executive Committee, and I sincerely hope, for purposes of thorough consideration of the subject, that this report will not he adopted.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I do not believe, as a memher of the Council, that the Council, as a body, is subject to any criticism because of its action in regard to the petition of the Boston Elevated Railway Company. The Council has given this matter consideration. Two hearings have been held hy the Executive Committee. The representatives of the Old Colony Street Railway Company, the West End Street Railway Company, the Boston Elevated Railway Company and the Boston and Northern Street Railway Company, were heard at those hearings. Representatives of the express business, doing business in Boston, were heard; men representing improvement associations were heard hy the committee of the City Council, and individual citizens were heard upon this proposition, which means much to the citizens of Boston, if granted. The Council heard everyone who had anything to say in favor of the granting of the petition, and every individual and organization that had anything to say against the granting of the petition, and I think it cannot be said that this Council did not give this matter proper consideration. It did give it proper consideration. The first time when the petition of the Elevated Railway Company was before the Council, and surely when we held the two hearings upon the new petition, we considered the matter, and considered it properly and well, with due regard to the interests not only of the Boston Elevated, the Boston and Northern Street Railway Company and the Old Colony Street Railway Company, but with due regard to the interests of the people of Boston, whose servants we are.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, might I ask the gentleman a question, if he will yield?

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I do not desire to yield at this time. The Executive Committee to-day heard the matter of this petition, and I, as chairman of the committee, recognized the gentleman and gave him all the time he desired to present before your committee the statement that he had typewritten in regard to the regulations of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, and the members of the Council, in my opinion, were willing to give him all the time he desired to present the matter before the Executive Committee. I don't believe there has been any shirking on the part of the members of the Council. We all agree that it is an important matter. We are doing our duty as citizens, we are doing our duty as servants of the people—not as servants of any particular corporation or body of men, but of the people as a whole. The Executive Committee of last year, of which Matthew Hale was chairman, considered the matter and made a report. I am going to quote from that report, beginning on page 2 of Document 137 of last year, which was the report of the Executive Committee on petition of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, lessee, for permission to operate as a common carrier of express matter, freight, and so forth. That committee stated:

"The improvement of passenger service is a problem of exceeding difficulty for any city; the difficulty is an extraordinary one in the case of Boston because of the physical conditions existing. Most of the travel between Boston's outlying cities and towns runs north and south, and much of it must pass under, over or on the streets running north and south lying between the water front and the Charles River Basin. These streets are already taxed almost to the limit of their surface capacity, and it would seem that the improvement of the passenger service can be brought about not by the addition of more trolley cars on the surface but by the construction of additional subways and tunnels beneath the surface.

"This reasoning is made clearer when the relation of the steam railroads to the metropolitan district passenger traffic is taken into consideration. It is well known that the steam railroads cannot successfully compete with the trolley lines for the passenger traffic of the metropolitan district. The principal reasons are relatively low cost of operation by trolley in short distance passenger service as compared with the steam railroad cost, and the large terminal charges which the steam railroads have to pay but which the trolley lines are not required to meet. It is sufficient to point out the fact that the proportion of the entire number of passengers carried in the metropolitan district has been increasing in the case of trolley lines far more than in the case of steam railroads. In the last ten years the increase in the number of passengers carried by trolley lines in the state is at least double the increase in the number of passengers carried by the steam railroads in the state; and the increase in the metropolitan district must have been considerably more than twice as great in the case of trolley lines as in the case of steam railroads. It is apparent, therefore, that this community must depend largely upon the street railways for improvements in the passenger service.

"The difficulties which the street railways will have to meet in the near future in providing for the increased passenger traffic are enormous. The difficulty which exists on account of the physical limitations in the City of Boston will be multiplied as the population increases. The population in the metropolitan district increased in the fifteen years from 1890 to 1905 over 40 per cent, and there is no doubt that in the fifteen-year period ending in 1920 the increase will have been more than 40 per cent. It is fair to assume that the population of the metropolitan district by 1935, twenty-five years from the present time, will be at least three millions. In other words, in twenty-five years the difficulties in passenger service in this district will be twice as great as they are now, unless improvements are made on a scale of great magnitude, including the construction of additional tunnels and subways. In the execution of these improvements the surface capacity of the streets running north and south between the water front and the Charles River Basin will be taxed to their extreme limit in order to meet the needs of passenger service. It is difficult, therefore, to conceive that the city as a whole would receive benefits resulting from the granting of trolley freight privileges on such streets that would be commensurate with the loss caused by the disturbance to passenger traffic."

That is under date of October 21, 1910, and is signed for the committee by Matthew Hale, chairman. Mr. President, the streets of the City of Boston which lie between the water front and the Charles River Basin should not, in my opinion, be subjected to the additional burden of freight carrying cars. In my opinion it would at best be a dangerous experiment.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. Chairman, may I ask the gentleman a question?

Coun. ATTRIDGE—I refuse to yield, Mr. President. It would at best be a dangerous experiment, and once given a foothold it would be necessary to look to the Board of Railroad Commissioners for concurrence before the City Council could by its orders enforce or compel a discontinuance of such use of the streets. Under all the circumstances, it has seemed to me the duty of the City Council, safeguarding the interests of the people and the city, to refuse to grant the privileges sought by the Boston Elevated Railway Company.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would like in the first place to ask two or three questions of the gentleman who has just spoken, if he is now willing to answer them. Are you?

Coun. ATTRIDGE—If I can.

Coun. HALE—Would you mind stating to me briefly the restrictions proposed by the Elevated, the restrictions proposed by the Chamber of Commerce and the restrictions proposed by Mr. Smith, in this matter?

Coun. ATTRIDGE—I cannot at this time.

Coun. HALE—You cannot?

Coun. ATTRIDGE—No.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would like to say in this matter that I wish to protest very strongly against the action, or rather the attitude, of the Executive Committee. I, like Coun. Smith, have not definitely made up my mind what restrictions ought to have been imposed on this, or whether the thing should have been granted with any restrictions. I think probably with proper restrictions it should be granted; but I do protest very strongly against the way we have gone at this whole question. We have heard a great deal about graft and reform, and all that sort of thing, and this Board is supposed to be a reform Board. Everybody knows that the most important political question in the United States to-day is the relation of public service corporations with public bodies, and we cannot expect fair dealing from public service corporations, where most of the corruption in politics has come from, unless public bodies give them a square deal. I don't think our attitude on this question has been a square deal. I am not advocating now the passage of this particular thing or the refusal of this particular thing. I am advocating and looking into this question on its merits, studying the way the problem has worked out in other cities, and trying to make an investigation of possible restrictions. The chairman of the Executive Committee, which committee has had special charge of this matter, cannot now give even the substance of the restrictions proposed by the Boston Elevated in connection with this question, which is one of the most important that has ever come before the Council. I think that illustrates perfectly clearly the fact that we have not considered this matter. Public hearings are not consideration of a matter. No Board of Directors would ever think of taking action simply on a public hearing. They always go into executive session and discuss a matter pro and con, hearing arguments and getting statistics from both sides. I don't think we have dealt with this problem at all in a businesslike or broad manner. I think also we have been very unfair to the corporation, and I think no greater mistake can be made by public bodies, and especially reform public bodies, than refusing to give public service corporations a square deal. We ask them not to be corrupt, we ask them to give the public a square deal, and yet we do not give them a square deal. I, for one, wish to protest against the action of the City Council of Boston in turning down this petition without careful consideration.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I have listened to the remarks of Coun. Attridge and, although I have read the report, as he re-read it it did sound more impressive. I think that is all beside the point. He did not offer a single argument against the granting of the privilege with proper restrictions as to streets and times of day. If the rest of the Council have arguments on this subject, as to restrictions, it seems to me now is the time to bring them forward. We have not developed any thought on this subject in executive session. The only criticism I have heard from the members, either separately or collectively, is the one that the Elevated could not take care of the passenger service to-day, and therefore we would not give them any more rights—which is certainly a narrow view to take of the subject. It seems to me that the Council in fairness, as Coun. Hale has said, to the corporation ought to state why it gives the corporation leave to withdraw. There is one other reason that they state for not passing favorably upon this or giving it due consideration, and that is because the Boston Elevated has not matured its plans and presented them to us in a mature form. And yet that is no argument against it, because if we are convinced that this is for the public good—not only for the good of the business interests in this city but for the good of the traveling public—we as a body working for the people of Boston should take it up and push it, and see to it that it is inaugurated with proper restrictions. Therefore, the laxness—if it is laxness—of the Elevated in not presenting a well rounded, matured plan is no argument for our shirking our duty in bringing about what would be a public good; and if there are arguments against this, it seems to me now is the time to present them to the public. If any member of the Council has arguments against this other than those brought out in last year's report, it seems to me he is shirking his duty if he does not, in fairness, get up and state them now.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, the position of the advocates of giving the railway company the right to have this privilege is rather a peculiar one, to say the least. The Elevated Railway Company has filed a petition here. So far as I am informed it has not filed any supplemental petition. It has filed a petition asking for certain rights in the City of Boston, and on that petition two public hearings have been held. They were present with their counsel, their other officers, and advocated before our committee that which they are seeking for in their petition. So far as I am informed there has been no supplemental petition. Their counsel has passed to me, and he may have passed to other members of the Board, a draft of an ordinance such as he says they would be willing to make, which would give to the Elevated Railroad the rights which they are seeking in the first original petition, subject to certain qualifications. But I want to say to the advocates who have appeared here this afternoon in favor of this petition that I am against giving them those rights, against granting that petition even with restrictions. That is my attitude. I don't see why that requires any further statement. I don't see why I should be required to get up and offer anything more than my vote on the question. We have a report that has been before the Council several months, a printed document, and I must especially urge and commend that report to my friend on the left (Coun. Smith). If he had studied that report carefully, I think he would see why we are turning down this petition.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, will the gentleman yield for a question?

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I don't think I shall yield at this time. I think he had better make a minute of what he wishes to ask, and I will try to answer when I get through. It seems to me that this report—and I am not claiming any particular excellence for the report—very fully covers the situation. It states reasons why we cannot grant the petition. There is no reason why, because the Elevated Railway has asked for something we cannot give, we should grant them anything in the way of additional privileges, simply because in connection with their original petition certain restrictions have been suggested. That is not the question. We have turned down, as I understand it, their petition. My friend on the left now says that there are restrictions that they want imposed on the original petition. I have considered those restrictions, and I am not in favor of granting this petition. The reasons why I am not in favor of it are set forth in the report which has been read already by the chairman of the committee.

Coun. HALE—If the gentleman will now answer a question, I would like to ask one.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I am ordinarily willing to answer questions, but it seems to me that my friend from Ward 11 is rather prone to asking questions that are not altogether germane to the subject under discussion. I think it would be better if he would make his argument, entering into the discussion in such way as he sees fit. Of course, as far as I can assist in the discussion by answering a question, I am glad to do it.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would ask whether Coun. Kenny did not just say he was against granting this privilege even with restrictions? That is the first question.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, is there any doubt about what I said a few moments ago? If there is, I will endeavor to clear up the doubt.

(At request of President COLLINS, the stenographer read from Coun. Kenny's remarks: "But I want to say to the advocates who have appeared here this afternoon in favor of this petition that I am against giving them those rights, against granting that petition, even with restrictions.")

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would like to ask another question—whether he was in favor of this report of the Executive Committee dated October 21, 1910; whether he voted in favor of it?

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I submitted that report to the committee and we adopted it. Now, Mr. President, while I have the floor, if I may do so, I want to object to this style of conducting debate or discussion here.

President COLLINS—The Chair realizes that Coun. Hale has the floor, and that any member is obliged to get up and address the Chair, in answer to a question. A member can simply keep his seat and the debate ends there. Coun. Hale has the floor.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would like to read from the last paragraph of this report which Coun. Kenny submitted to the Executive Committee, and which appeared as the report of the Executive Committee and was passed by the City Council.

"The City Council does not take this position because of any antagonism to the petitioners, or because they do not realize that under proper conditions and restrictions the granting of the privilege of carrying freight may not be of great value to the community."

In other words, Mr. President, on October 21, 1910, Mr. Kenny says that he realizes that under proper conditions and restrictions the granting of the privilege of carrying freight may be of great value to the community. Now Mr. Kenny says he is against granting this privilege even with restrictions, and I would like to ask the reason for Mr. Kenny's change of mind. He must have given careful consideration to this subject in between, because the attitudes are not consistent. He must have decided that this privilege, which he says may be of great value to the community, is not of great value. I have not heard those reasons. Mr. Kenny says he does not see why he is under any duty other than to come in and vote. I think it is the duty of every councilor on every proposition affecting the interests of the city to not only vote, but to state his reasons for his position, for or against. He not only owes that duty to the public, but to his fellow members of the City Council, so that others of us not fortunate enough to have that knowledge can share it with him. I would like to ask Coun. Kenny why he has decided that he is not in favor of this proposition, even with restrictions, what has made him modify the opinion that he held on October 31, 1910.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like to say at the outset that the gentleman has not quoted me properly.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I have not quoted the councilor at all.

Coun. KENNY—At that time I had in mind that the presentation of the matter having already been made by the chairman of the committee, he had covered the case very fully, elaborately, and with much ability. Under those circumstances I did not feel that I was called upon to offer anything further here. I am always quite ready as a member of this Council to give my reasons for my vote. I think I always have done so. I don't think I have been at all slow or loath to refrain or fail in expressing my opinion or giving my reason for my position upon any matter that is now pending, or that has been pending, before this Council during the past year. I was referring to the restrictions that were cited in this amended ordinance. I was not referring to the general proposition. That was last October. I have given the matter some considerable thougbt since tben. Possibly my friend has not done so, hut I have, and it is my best judgment to-day that it would be a great mistake, a great error, to comply with the petition of the Elevated Company, to comply with this amended ordinance, whicb is the petition itself with modifications—namely, that it would bave the right to use certain streets at certain hours. I think, taking tbe entire matter as a whole into consideration, it would be a very dangerous thing for the City Council to grant this petition. That is why I stated my reasons as I did. What I said in that report, on general principles, last October is one thing. I meant it then, and I mean it now. There is nothing in this ordinance that cbanges my opinion, so far as it was expressed, or tbat is inconsistent with that report of last October.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I am not going to take up very mucb more of the time of the Council, but I desire to say that one of tbe real reasons why I will vote against granting the petition of the Boston Elevated Railway Company to carry freight, to carry dead freight, is because of the fact that, in my opinion, they do not at the present time properly carry the live freight, do not properly carry the passengers who are demanding rights from the road every day. We heard the complaints in regard to the road when we went around last year, heard the objections from various people, from the improvement societies, that tbey were not getting proper service from the Boston Elevated Railway Company. In my own opinion, from what I have seen in Washington street in our city, the Boston Elevated Railway Company has not given the people of Boston a square deal in the carrying of passengers.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I regret as much as any member of this Board can the personal trend of debate here among the reform members. (Laughter.) I do not think it is at all in keeping with the dignity of this body, and I therefore move the previous question.

The main question was ordered.

The report of the committee, giving leave to withdraw to tbe petitioners, was declared accepted. Coun. Hale doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The report was accepted, and the petitioners were given leave to withdraw, yeas 7, nays 2, Coun. Hale and Smith voting nay.

(13) Report on message of Mayor, communications and order (referred April 3) recommending that the sum of $20,000 be transferred from the appropriation for Bathing Establishment, Ward 15, to an appropriation for Locker and Sanitary Building, Strandway Playground—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I move reference of the matter to the Committee on Finance, to be considered with the various other matters of permanent improvement. I regret extremely to be obliged to take up any further time of the Council, but I consider that this matter now before us is as important a matter as has come or will come before the Council. It is not a question of the particular item; it is the question of what the attitude of this city government is going to be in regard to borrowing money belonging to the city and expending it for the city. Two questions bave been brought into the discussions on this point which it seems to me are entirely irrelevant. I hope very much tbat each one of you will not simply say that because you voted so and so in Executive Committee you have thereby decided your position, because I really do feel that this is the most important question that we can have before us, and I would like to have each one of you consider the question on its merits now. Tbe first point—that is often confused with the real issue here—is the question whether or not we are in favor of this particular item. As far as being in favor of sanitaries is concerned, I am very strongly in favor of them. If the members of the Council will look at the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen of 1909 tbey will find that in March of that year I introduced an order calling on the Board of Health to investigate the condition of all the city playgrounds and report to us what ones needed sanitaries; and that, I think, was tbe first time that tbe city government took action on this question of seeing that the playgrounds were made decent. My attitude is, and always has been, in favor of these sanitaries on playgrounds; but I say that the question is not whether this particular item is a good one. I say that the question is to be considered on its relative merits, bearing in mind the various improvements needed in the city. My attitude is that no loan should be made by this City Council for one particular improvement, on its own merits, without regard to other public improvements. That is my position, and I want to make it perfectly clear to the Council that no individual loan item should be passed simply on its own merits, but should be passed on its relative merits. I will illustrate that. Suppose we deemed it wise to borrow enough money for nine permanent improvements, all of them good, and suppose we had before the committee on finance ten proposed permanent improvements, all of them good. In other words, we have ten things that are very mucb needed, each one of which, if we were going to decide upon it on its own absolute merits, would be passed. But we have to act upon only nine out of those ten. In that case I think it becomes clearly the duty of every member of this Council to vote against the least important of those ten improvements, even though on its own merits, without regard to other matters, the order should pass. That seems to me a pretty elementary proposition of business. Applied to a man's income, it is certainly elementary. We would not go ahead and spend our own income without regard to the different things we might need. We would not, for instance, in walking by a clothing store, look in the window and say, "I will buy that overcoat," without regard to the other things that we needed. Take a man in business. Suppose you had $100,000 to start a shoe business, you would not spend three quarters of it on fixtures without finding out how mucb you actually needed for your stock. I think we, as directors of this big corporation, ought to take tbe same attitude. Another question that is wrongly confused with the question now before us is the question whether we believe in a general loan bill, or wbether we believe in considering each item separately. I cannot emphasize too strongly the fact that that is not now the question before us in any way, shape or manner. The question is, shall we borrow $20,000 of the city's money for an improvement without knowing whether that is the most important of the necessary public improvements? It is not a question whether, after we have considered all these various items, of which there are probably $10,000,000 worth now before us—we will vote for all of them at the same meeting, or one at one meeting and one at the next meeting, whether we will cover them all in a general loan bill or have each item separate. The important point is tbat we should have a cbance to consider all tbe items on their relative merits, and I do not believe any member of the Council can conscientiously say he does not believe in that elementary business proposition. I know perfectly well that all the members would apply that principle to their own business, rather than pursue the policy of simply spending money on a good thing, even if it is not tbe most important thing. There was one thing brought up in the discussion of the matter before the Executive Committee a week ago whicb requires special consideration by every man here. The argument is advanced that this matter of transferring $20,000 from a loan already existing of $50,000 is not the same thing as borrowing the $20,000 anew. I want each of you to carefully analyze tbat question and see really wbether there is any difference. Of course, on the legal side it is perfectly clear that there is no difference; I think that can be taken for granted. We cannot borrow money and we cannot transfer it without the consent of the Mayor. We cannot change any part of this item of $50,000 to any permanent improvement in the City of Boston without the consent of tbe Mayor. In otber words, a new loan and this transfer both require the consent of the City Council and of the Mayor. That is, it seems elementary tbat tbere is no legal difference between this transfer of $20,000 from an existing $50,000 loan appropriation and tbe making of a new loan of $20,000. Now comes the question whether there is any moral obligation involved. The point is this: It is said that the Councils of past years have appropriated $50,000 to be used in Ward 15 for a bathing establisbment, and the argument is used that because previous city governments saw fit to pass this $50,000 loan, thereby there arises some kind of a moral obligation on tbe part of this city government to spend that $50,000 in Ward 15. To my mind that is simply a relic of the old system of loans. In the old days, as probably you all know, tbe amount of money to be borrowed was divided among the different wards equally, as a rule, I believe, and the money was then spent in each ward. I tbink—in fact I know—that that is not the attitude of this City Council. I know that no member of this City Council, considering this question fairly and squarely, would take that attitude. I would like, for the interest of the City Council, to trace the history of this particular $50,000, of which it is now said to us that we are under a moral obligation to spend this $20,000 in Ward 15. The origin of it was in 1897. One of the members of the City Council put in an order for $10,000 for the extension of Leeds street. Leeds street was the street in which a certain member of the Council lived. That order was passed in 1897, included in one of the old time notorious grab loan bills. In 1898 another councilman introduced an order for a loan of $2,500 for the building of an all-the-year-around bath in Ward 15. That was passed without debate, both by the Board of Aldermen and by the Common Council. Later that year it was found that $2,500 really would not build a satisfactory all-the-year-around bath in South Boston, and a message of the Mayor came in recommending the transfer of the $10,000 which had been appropriated for Leeds street extension to the purpose of making an all-the-year-around bath. This was carried, and that made a total of $12,500. This was spent in buying the land and putting in a foundation. The foundation is now a complete waste. In other words, about $7,000 has gone, according to the report of the Finance Commission, the first volume. In 1902 an item was put in for increasing, adding to the appropriation of $12,500, $50,000. This item was referred to the Committee on Finance and a request was sent to the Bath Department to determine the probable cost of the completion of this building. The Bath Department returned a report saying that it would cost $45,000. That report was placed on file in the city government. Three or four months later one of the first loan bills ever passed by the city government was formed, for two and one-half million dollars. Included in that loan bill was an item of $20,000 for the completion of this bath house. In other words, that government, knowing that the bath house would cost $45,000, put in an item in a big grab loan bill for $20,000. That was the first of the $50,000 that is now outstanding, because the $12,500 was practically all used up. There was only $800 left. The first large element in this $50,000 loan which is supposed to put us under a moral obligation was passed in one of the worst loan bills ever passed by the city government, in 1902, in the face of reports from the Bath Department that the building would cost $45,000. Does that, in the opinion of any member of this Council, put us under a moral obligation to spend the money in any particular place? That means, in plain English, that we have got to ratify the acts of a city government which passed one of the worst grab loan bills ever passed; and to my mind I can see no distinction between ratifying the bad act of a past government and doing the bad act ourselves. Certainly as far as the law is concerned there is no distinction. That was $20,000. I should like to read, in connection with this 1902 loan bill, a criticism made at that time by Alderman Tinkham, at the time when this loan bill came up. He protested against the loan bill for five reasons, and when the items came up in detail he voted against this $20,000:

"First, because large and necessary permanent improvements such as would bring benefit to the greatest number of citizens and demanded by the business interests of Boston have been entirely omitted.

"Second, because the money has been divided into such small amounts and so scattered that the public benefit has been minimized.

"Third, because it exhausts the borrowing capacity of the city, which should not be done unless upon urgent necessity, which is not the case at this time.

"Fourth, because at least one-fourth of the items have not the approval of the heads of departments or others in charge of the different commissions for which loans are made.

"Fifth, because Lawrence Farm, alias E. W. Holbrook estate, is included at an exorbitant amount and provides for an increase to Mount Hope Cemetery of half its size, which is needless, asked for by no one, and is a scandalous piece of jobbery."

That is the loan bill which is said to put us under a moral obligation. I say, gentlemen, that that loan bill, or anything done by that city government in connection with that loan bill, puts us under no moral obligation of any kind. In 1905 there was a loan bill of half a million dollars in which an item of $5,000 was added to this $20,000. That made $25,000. In 1907 there was an order passed for $25,000 more for the completion of this bath house. This item was included in the loan bill of 1907. I read before the Executive Committee last time the report of the Finance Commission on that loan bill and the specific recommendation by the Finance Commission that that particular item of $25,000 be repealed, be rescinded. I would like to read what some of the gentlemen who were in the Common Council at the time of this 1907 loan bill said about the loan bill. Mr. Pierce of Ward 11 said:

"Mr. President, through all this debate I have waited for one word of reason in favor of this order. Not one reason has been advanced for the passage of this order. As a matter of fact, Mr. President, it is the most irrational and the most dishonest order that has been passed by this Council during my four years of service. It is an insult to the people of the city; it is a monstrous outrage. Mr. President, it is worse than the so-called grab loan order that created so much criticism a few years ago. It is irrational, because it is not passed with a view to the actual needs of the city. It is dishonest for the same reason, and also for the fact that it spends the taxpayers' money for purposes which are entirely unnecessary."

And there are other speeches.

Coun. CURLEY—Go on.

Coun. HALE—Coun. Curley would like to have me reminisce a little bit, by reading a speech of Mr. Noyes of Ward 11, which I was not going to read:

"Mr. President, for some reason or other I was named as a member of that committee on finance. More out of curiosity than for any other reason I attended some of those meetings. I know that as far as my vote was concerned it was not worth that (snapping his fingers). And, Mr. President, I want to say now, as I said to the gentlemen in the lobby, all honor and credit to Mr. Curley. It is not the Mayor's appropriation bill; it is Mr. Curley's appropriation bill; and I know no more charming or attractive member of the City Council than he."

I don't wonder that Mr. Curley asked me to read this.

"When Mr. Curley smiled, a bath house had its being; when Mr. Curley frowned, pleading posterity failed to get a playground; and if Mr. Curley smiled, it was like the touch of Midas—and I must say to the credit of Mr. Curley that he smiled often. Now, you say there are very good items in that bill. To be sure we all want playgrounds. We all want bath houses, and I notice that you have added $287,000 to the Park Department. What about maintaining those portions of the Park Department? When the members of the Park Department come next year before some committee of this body and ask for some appropriation for maintenance, will you give it to them? We are tottering, so the experts say, on the verge of financial ruin, and we rush in and pass a loan order of nearly $1,600,000. It is wrong, all wrong."

There is a whole lot more, but nothing more about Coun. Curley, so I shall not read any more. But that is the substance of this $50,000 loan which it has been argued here seriously creates a moral obligation on the part of this city. Twenty thousand dollars was passed in this loan bill of 1902; $5,000 in the loan bill of 1905; and $25,000 in the loan bill of 1907—all, and especially the 1902 and 1907 loan bills, notoriously corrupt grab loan bills. I want to make every man here realize that if we vote in favor of this measure on the principle that there is any moral obligation attached to this, it means that we are ratifying the act of those city governments in passing those grab loan bills. There are only two alternatives under which we can vote in favor of this proposition. The first is that we are not going to consider things on their relative merits. In other words, we are going to pass a loan item without any regard to its relative importance—which, as I have explained before, and which I think every man here must see, is unsound business and is not going to promote the welfare of the city; or we are going to vote for it because there is some moral obligation put on us as a result of past loans—which, as I say, is simply a ratification of notorious grab loan orders. I hope every man here will consider this matter seriously and will put the consideration of this loan item over until we get a chance to see what the whole city needs, finding out how we can best promote the interests of the entire City of Boston, and not of any particular section.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, after listening to the long and elaborate address by Coun. Hale I have not the slightest doubt that he has waked some of the other members up and that we will hear from them at some length also. As the hour is approaching when we will have to hold another meeting of the Executive Committee, in order to allow these gentlemen an opportunity to deliver their addresses, I move you, sir, that we postpone further consideration of this subject until eight o'clock.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I have no desire to discuss the subject at length, and I don't feel that Mr. Kenny or the other members of the Council have—because, after all, we have in mind the words of the great statesman of the Republican party, that votes count. I want to say that I am inclined to agree with a great deal that Mr. Hale has said, but I recognize the force of the scriptural saying that "out of evil cometh good." It may be admitted that this appropriation was conceived in an evil moment and that the location where the money was to be spent was an evil location; but if the transfer of the money is for a good purpose we can still carry out the intent of the Scripture and serve the good purposes of the city. There is no section of the city that is visited more largely at the present time than the Strandway section. Visitors come there from all over the state, in fact, from all over the country, and I believe it is the duty of the city to provide adequate facilities for those persons who have occasion to visit there. It is certainly a good purpose to which to apply this money, and if we can have good come from evil I believe it is our duty to do it.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President.

President COLLINS—The question is on Coun. Ballantyne's motion.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I am quite aware that my friend made that motion, but I think I can get through in a few minutes and have this over with. I have here a history of the Ward 15 gymnasium.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I withdraw the motion if Coun. Kenny is going to take only a few moments.

Coun. KENNY—I have here a history of these various transactions which culminated in the appropriations or loans amounting to $62,500. They started away back in 1898, and they proceeded down to 1907. Of course, I have been serving here in this government but little over a year, and I am not perhaps as familiar with the past doings in connection with grab loan bills as some other members are; but I find here, reading from Volume 1, page 118, of the Finance Commission's report, that they say this about this Ward 15 appropriation:

"After the immediate necessities of the Bath Department as above stated are provided for, and as soon as the financial condition of the city warrants the appropriation of sufficient money to complete the bathing establishments in Charlestown and Ward 15, these works should be undertaken,"

I think that disposes of the Ward 15 bath house. We are not asking for the construction of a bath house in Ward 15. That has already been asked. There has been an agitation along that line for some years, resulting in action by the government from time to time in voting this money. If that was an improper thing to have done, we are going to correct it, or going to cure it. If the creation of those loans for the Ward 15 bathing establishment was wrong, we are not going to perpetuate it; we are going to cure it so far as we can. I am not going to read what I have here in the shape of this long history to the Council, but I would like to read from a letter written by the chairman of the Park Commissioners, addressed to the Mayor, under date of March 18, referring to this matter under discussion—which is not the building of a bathing establishment in Ward 15, but the transfer of a sum of money, $20,000, part of the money already available for the purpose of doing something, which I think will meet the commendation or approval of my friend from Ward 11 if he looks into it:

"Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
"City Hall, Boston:

"Dear Sir,—Your message making inquiries regarding a locker building at the Strandway Playground, made through Mr. Clarke, our secretary, has been received.

"In reply I would say that our letter in the summer of 1909 to Mayor Hibbard and the Board of Aldermen discussed the subject of a locker building for that playground, and it was then proposed to include in it a gymnasium and bath and apply to it a fund of $50,000, which had been appropriated by the city for a municipal gymnasium and bath in Ward 15, but which sum was inadequate to build such a building and buy a lot. By placing it on the Strandway Playground the latter expense was to be avoided.

"In the spring of 1910 the matter was again brought up in the City Council, and the Park Commission urged very strongly that a sanitary and locker building on the Strandway Playground was very much needed, and it was then thought that a portion of such a building as would be ultimately needed might be then built for perhaps $14,000, and we again suggested that the money already appropriated for the bath house in Ward 15 might be used here and all these utilities thus be housed on the Strandway Playground, and we had some correspondence with you on this general subject in April, 1910."

Then, Mr. President, he goes on and says:

"There can be no question but that there is need of a locker and sanitary building on the Strandway Playground, which is already large and much used and which eventually is to be a very important playground. It would be possible to build a part of a future building, as has been heretofore suggested, but it doubtless would be better, if the money can be had, to build a reasonably large building which would serve the increasing needs for some time to come. We should suggest that the most appropriate thing to do would be to build a building somewhere in cost between that just completing on the William Eustis Playground and the larger building that is at Franklin Field. The sum of $25,000 would do this satisfactorily, and if you find it possible to transfer also the Ward 15 appropriation for bath house, so that it could be built at the same time and in the same character of design, so as to form one group of buildings, we think the whole would form a very useful structure."

Just one more word. This playground, the Strandway Playground, consists at the present time of about fifteen acres. Eventually there will be sixty-seven acres there when it is all filled in. It will be the largest playground in Boston probably, and it is not an unusual sight to go there Saturdays in the summer and see 10,000 to 15,000 boys using it. There is not a single solitary convenience there for the children and adults who go there to use it. I am not going to argue on the necessity of the transfer. I know it must be evident to everybody here that we all believe it should be done, with the possible exception of one member. Therefore, I am going to bring my remarks to a close and allow the gentlemen to go out and have their supper.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I am sorry about this supper question. Coun. Kenny has given a good argument in favor of this proposition. He has said absolutely nothing about the relative merits as compared with other propositions. I have written out two short questions—not for Coun. Kenny, but for any member of the Council—and I fail to see, and I think anybody else will fail to see, how any member of the City Council can vote in favor of this project without answering either one or the other of these two questions in the affirmative. The first question is this: Do you believe in borrowing money for a particular project, good in itself, without a preliminary study by the committee on finance of the resources of the city and the other improvements needed throughout the whole city? That is the first question. The second question is this: Do you believe that this City Council is under a moral obligation to pass a loan for an improvement in a particular ward because the City Councils of 1898, of 1902, of 1905 and 1907, have passed loans for a somewhat similar purpose in that ward, the money appropriated under these previous loans being still available and transferable to any public improvement in any part of the city upon the vote of the Mayor and this City Council?

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, this is not intended as a categorical answer to the questions just asked, but, as most of Coun. Hale's remarks have been directed to the moral question whether there was a moral necessity for passing this, and as I brought that question up at the last meeting of the Executive Committee a week ago Monday, I would like to state my reason for voting in favor of this measure. It is not because of any moral obligation ou the part of the City Council to carry out the purpose of this loan. It is possible to conceive of a case in which there would be a moral obligation on the City Council to do so; but I have not felt that that was so in this particular loan. I vote as I do in this case because I believe that, while all loans should be considered together in order to pick out the best, in this special loan there is a great necessity for haste in order to serve the Strandway during the coming summer. For that reason I make an exception to what I believe is a good principle and vote in favor of this measure. It seems to me that the principle that Mr. Hale is working for can be carried out, that we can consider loans together and find out which is the most important, and at the same time we can pass those loans separately—that we are not hung up on the horns of the dilemma as Mr. Hale and Mr. Kenny seem to imply; that we have not got to pass a grab loan bill, and that we have not got to consider things separately. We can do both of those things. We can consider the things together and then pass them separately. I do not care to go into this question further; but I simply want to explain my attitude on this one measure.

Coun. HALE—I would like to ask the gentleman a question. Would he mind giving me the reasons why the people who frequent the Strandway Playground are in any more need of sanitary arrangements than the people who frequent other playgrounds in other parts of the city?

Coun. CURLEY—If I may be permitted to say a word at this time in answer to the question, I would say that about 70 per cent of those who visit the Strandway are visitors to the City of Boston, that we have a great many who come from the vicinity of the particular university that the gentleman on my right attended, and that they need those conveniences more than any other class of people in the entire community. I would say, further, Mr. President, that when visitors come to Boston from inland cities or towns their first desire is to see the ocean, and I deem it probable that a person coming from Chicago would immediately feel the need of a structure of this character when arriving in the immediate vicinity of Marine Park. Aside from that, it is not a question that should be considered by the committee on finance, because it is a loan that has been lying dormant for a number of years and appropriated for the improvement of the South Boston section. I think it should go through, and I sincerely trust that it will.

Coun. Hale's motion to refer to the Committee on Finance was declared lost. Coun. HALE doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The motion to refer to the committee on finance was lost, yea 1, nays 8, Coun. HALE voting yea.

The report was accepted and the order was passed, yeas 8, nay 1, Coun. HALE voting nay.

Assigned for fourteen days for final action.

LAYING OUT OF HIGHLAND AVENUE.

Coun. CURLEY offered the following:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this City Council public convenience and necessity require that Highland avenue be laid out as a public street;

Be it further resolved, That the Street Commissioners be requested to act at once in this matter;

And be it further resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent the Mayor and the Street Commissioners.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I don't feel that it is necessary to say much on this subject beyond what has been said at previous sessions of this Council. The fact remains that this concern is really desirous of assisting the City of Boston. They have already expended in the vicinity of a quarter of a million dollars for one wing of a piano making establishment. They propose, if the city will lay out the street, to build three additional wings, having in the Neponset section the largest piano manufacturing building in the world, employing in the neighborhood of 1,500 hands. The chairman of the Street Commission, when the Street Commission had no funds, expressed himself before the committee as favoring this proposition. Now that they have funds, I believe that he should be kept up to his word. The City Council to-day voted $300,000 for the Street Commission. The money is available and if the Street Commission is in the same mood when they have the funds that they were when they had no funds, in all probability this improvement will be put in operation and the city will benefit financially, the people benefiting as well.

The resolution was adopted.

ADVERTISING OF HEARING.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the City Clerk be directed to advertise in the daily newspapers a public hearing to be held on Friday evening, April 28, at 7.30 o'clock p. m., at City Hall, on the subject of contract for street lighting, the expense attending the same to be charged to City Council, Incidental Expenses.

Passed.

BLOSSOM STREET BATHS—PLUMBING.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the Finance Commission be requested to investigate and report concerning the bids submitted for the reconstruction of the wardroom on Blossom street, Ward 8, into public baths, with special reference to the bids for plumbing.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I move reference of the resolution to the Executive Committee. I do this in view of the fact that we have already submitted to the Corporation Counsel an order asking an opinion as to our rights, and until such time as we have received that opinion I don't feel that we should pass any further order.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, there is no objection to this order legally, as we have already learned from the Law Department. My action in the Executive Committee, referring my original order to the Law Department, was based on the fact that I intended to offer this present order. There can be no possible objection to having the Finance Commission look into this. As I said originally on this order, my intention is not to slander anybody, not to bring trouble to any department, but simply to give certain individuals and certain departments a chance to free themselves from any implication of wrong, and that implication of wrong exists in the community to-day. If this is not taken up their names will be sullied. I ask that this order be passed, as it is perfectly legal, and it seems to me it embodies only a just request.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, with reference to the sullying of anybody's character I believe that has already been done. The Boston American, a copy of which was on my desk a short while ago, went on to say that the order was directed against a certain individual because of the position he occupied. With relation to that particular individual and his associations and connections, there is no question in the mind of any member of this body—not even of Mr. Smith himself—but what the Finance Commission would be very eager to investigate, if there were a possibility of anything wrong in connection with this particular matter. In view of that fact, and in view of the fact that the Finance Commission are exceedingly active and perhaps a little bit prejudiced in matters of this character, I see no great harm in waiting until such time as an opinion is rendered by the Corporation Counsel. It will then be sufficient time to make a mountain out of this mole hill if you see fit to do; but until such time I don't feel that we are justified in doing it.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I would hesitate to become a mind reader if it were not for the fact that Mr. Curley has already assumed that rôle. He has stated his idea of what I undoubtedly know. Allow me to state what he undoubtedly knows, that is, that this contract will be let before consideration of this matter comes about, unless we put it up to somebody capable of investigating it, and there is no legal reason why the Finance Commission should not investigate it. Of course whatever the Boston American sees fit to imply cannot be brought to my door. I stated directly at the beginning of the afternoon when I brought the measure up that I did it only to permit Mr. Maynard and Mr. McGrath to get out of an awkward position, and I repeat that that is my only object in asking for an investigation of this matter. I hope the order will pass and that the investigation will be put up to the Finance Commission. The investigation undoubtedly will take very little time and will free these gentlemen named from implications of wrong doing.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, certain members who were here a short time ago are now absent, and I think, pending the recess we are about to take, that this matter should lie on the table. I make that motion.

Coun. KENNY'S motion to lay the order on the table was declared carried.

SECOND RECESS TAKEN.

On motion of Coun. ATTRIDGE the Council voted at 7.50 p. m. to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair, and reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by President COLLINS at 8.30 p. m.

ADDITIONAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following additional executive reports:

(a) Report on the ordinance (referred March 20) to amend section 1 of chapter 9 of the Revised Ordinances of 1910 relative to storekeepers—that no further action is necessary.

Report accepted.

(b) Report on communication from the Mayor, with accompanying communication from the Election Commission relative to new precinct, Ward 20 (referred February 20), that no further action is necessary.

Report accepted.

(c) Report on order (referred last year) for employment of Frederick J. Glenn as assistant to the City Messenger—that said order ought to pass. The order was as follows:

Ordered, That Frederick J. Glenn be and he is hereby employed as an assistant in the City Messenger's office, and that he receive compensation at the rate of $900 per annum, the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

The report was accepted, and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I am going to vote against the adoption of that order. It does not seem to me that under all the circumstances the Council should at this time go into that matter. Under the new organization of the city government, with a board of nine, meeting but once a week, I believe that the City Messenger's Department as it is at present constituted is quite sufficient and able to take care of and discharge all the duties of the office. As I have already said in executive session, I think this will be establishing a precedent for other positions to be created. I don't believe this is essential; I do not believe that this additional assistant is needed at this time. The department at the present time is running satisfactorily. No one offers the slightest criticism of it. The work is being performed by the City Messenger and his assistant to the satisfaction of everybody. In view of the fact that we have so few meetings, none at all in the forenoon, and as the Board itself meets but once a week, I think the two gentlemen now looking after that department are sufficient. Therefore I shall vote against the adoption of the order.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, of course this question is for all of us simply a question of opinion as to whether we think this essential. I have considered what Mr. Leary has stated before us and what I have seen of his department. I have been down there very often, and I think the department does need another man. Since voting in the committee, however, I have been thinking a good deal about the amount of the pay. I understand from Mr. Leary that this man he proposes to employ is perfectly willing to come for a good deal less than we have authorized; and I think, in consideration of that fact, that we ought to amend this order by reducing the amount to $750. I should like to offer that as an amendment, and then I shall vote in favor of the order.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I don't think there has been an argument advanced here why this man should not be employed. Coun. Kenny says that he has not had any evidence of the necessity of employing this man, and he gives as an argument the fact that the City Council now consists of but nine members, and meets but once a week. The old Board of Aldermen and Common Council, it is true, had two meetings a week. But the Messenger's Department at that time had much more help. There were seven assistant messengers and they used them all the time. They did not have any work in the morning, but they had lots of work in the afternoon. Whether Coun. Kenny thinks it is necessary to employ a man or not, I think it is necessary. I have gone down to the City Messenger's office at times this past year and have not found anybody there, and I have seen Mr. Glenn around here doing a lot of work all the time. I am around here as much as anybody in the Board, and I see him employed all the time, doing work for the City Messenger. He is on the pay roll of the Public Buildings Department. I understand that Mr. Fish has said within two or three weeks that he was on his pay roll and that he was going to have him do work for him, was not going to allow him to do work for the City Messenger. The City Messenger told the committee that he did not have help enough, that he needed another man, and possibly could get along with a boy. As long as I am a member of the Council I will never be willing to do anything to place a boy at work in City Hall, in any kind of a place. I would not allow my brother to come here for $25 a week, because after he had been here a while he would be no good to himself, to his family or anyone else. I say employ a man, and employ a man of experience. I do not agree with Mr. Hale in the matter of salary. I think a salary of $900 is little enough for a man to do work in City Hall or for any other corporation or private concern. Seven hundred fifty dollars is not as much money as he is getting now. He is now getting $15 a week. I say if you are going to employ him, do so at a decent salary. I am not in favor of amending the order in that respect at all. Employ him at the salary the order calls for.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I recognize the fact that votes count, and I would move a further amendment, that the salary paid be $800. I believe that will be agreeable to everybody. Some of the members have been in favor of employing a boy at $5 a week. I believe in having a man who is familiar with the job, who is always on the job, and I believe such a man is worth $800 a year. I am agreeable to an amendment that the salary be $800 a year.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I wish it understood, as far as I am concerned, that I know of no reason against Mr. Glenn being employed in any department. I offer no suggestion of criticism against Mr. Glenn. Neither am I in favor of the employment of a boy. It seems to me if any person is employed it should be an adult. But the difficulty is this, that I don't recognize that there is any necessity whatever at this time of employing another person in that department. I think it is opening the door for other cases of that character, that will creep in from time to time.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I don't feel that it is necessary to prolong the debate on a proposition of this character. It is a fact known to all the members of this Council that, no matter what time of the day they come here, they find this man at work taking care of this Chamber and keeping things in order, or doing work required down below. I think he is a proper man to employ for the job, and that he ought to have it.

Coun. Curley's amendment, reducing the amount of compensation to $800 a year, was adopted, and the order as amended was passed, Coun. KENNY calling for the yeas and nays, yeas 5, nays 4:

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Buckley, Curley, Hale, McDonald—5.

Nays—Coun. Ballantyne, Collins, Kenny, Smith—4.

(d) Report on message from the Mayor and order appropriating $800,000 for City Hall annex (referred to-day)—that the order ought to pass.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, on behalf of the Executive Committee I desire to say that the committee referred the communication from the Finance Commission to the Law Department, and that Judge Corbett of the Law Department appeared before the committee and addressed them in reference to one or two legal points connected with the communication from the Finance Commission. The committee, after listening to Judge Corbett, decided to report back that the order ought to pass. I simply make this statemant for the purpose of having it upon the records, so that the people of Boston may know that we discussed these matters with the members of the Law Department.

Report accepted, order passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

BIDS FOR WORK ON ANNEX.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, in connection with the vote just taken I desire to offer the following resolution:

Resolved, In the opinion of the City Council the interests of the city require that in the preparation of plans and specifications for the construction of the annex to City Hall that public competition be invited.

The resolution was adopted.

APPROPRIATION REPORTS.

Coun. BALLANTYNE, for the Committee on Appropriations, submitted the following:

For the Committee,
WALTER BALLANTYNE,
Chairman.

The report was accepted, the Appropriation Bill was read a second time, and the question came on its adoption.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I move you, sir, that there be an amendment attached to the appropriation for the Department of Public Works, Bridge and Ferry Division, $3,000, for a footbridge over Fort Point channel, Dover Street Bridge. This is a sum which has been recommended, as I understand, by the Mayor in communications to the City Council and to the Committee on Appropriations. The Committee on Appropriations discussed the matter at some length, and it was the opinion of the majority of the members of the committee that this $3,000 was necessary. I move, sir, an amendment to include that sum.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I hope that that amendment will not prevail. My attention was first called to this question of the $3,000 item by Auditor Mitchell who, as I understand, feels very strongly on the subject. I may be wrong in my facts. If I am, I am willing to be corrected, because I would like to get at the facts in this case. But, as I understood it from him, this is a temporary footbridge, while the permanent bridge is being completed, and at most it will be used for only eight weeks. The distance that people would have to go around if this bridge is not put up, is only 600 feet farther. If that is the case I don't think we ought to spend $3,000, and if it is not the case I would like to know what the facts are. Those are the facts as I understand them, given by Mr. Mitchell.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I hope the amendment will prevail. It seems to me it is a very serious proposition, if we are going to discontinue, as a thoroughfare, Dover street, one of the most important arteries in Boston. It means that one whole section of Boston is cut off from communication with another, and that the people would be obliged to travel an additional third of a mile through a section of the city that is hardly desirable for pedestrians. There is a tremendous number of people coming from Roxbury and the South End across Dover Street Bridge, and vice versa, who will be obliged to travel to Broadway, and they are mostly working people. It seems to me tbat this $3,000 might be very advantageously spent in this way. It will serve a most excellent purpose. The people living in that section of the city are all working people and they will be obliged to go around by Broadway, a third of a mile farther, morning and night, if something of this sort is not done. I think the city can very well afford to make an appropriation for this purpose.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I feel that my Brother Hale is laboring under a little misapprehension in regard to this proposition. I feel that if he were as familiar with the facts as he might be, he would not take the position he does. I would like to call attention to the fact tbat this is the first bridge one reaches by way of public travel between Boston and Soutb Boston, taking in the Roxbury section; and, while the additional distance might be only 1,600 feet to people traveling in one direction, taking Southampton street it would be somewhere in the vicinity of three miles, if a person was thrown out of his way. About 2,000 chauffeurs, teamsters, stable helpers and men of that kind have sent in a petition in favor of this particular proposition. While, as Coun. Hale says, the time will be but eight weeks, tbe amount of time that will be lost by the enormous number of working people who would otherwise be able to use this temporary bridge instead of going around by Southampton street would be very great. The time saved by this temporary bridge would be worth many times the amount that it will cost. I feel, in view of the fact that a number of petitions have been received from people interested, tbat as a matter of simple justice we should adopt this amendment.

Coun. BALLANTYNE— Mr. President, as chairman of the Committee on Appropriations I might say tbat this matter was thoroughly discussed at considerable lengtb in committee, and tbat it seemed to be the opinion of practically everybody present on that occasion that this was a very necessary appropriation. There were certain reasons why it was not included in our bill at the time. It had to come as a recommendation from the Mayor to the Council in tbe first place. I, for one, am very familiar with the travel over Dover Street Bridge night and morning, and I believe that unless something of this sort is done the people of South Boston, Roxbury and tbe South End will be put to a very great deal of inconvenience, because they would have to walk 1,600 feet farther every night and morning. I sincerely bope the amendment will prevail and tbat this will be added to the bill.

Coun. Attridge's amendment was adopted, and tbe question came on the adoption of the Appropriation Bill as amended.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, may I offer another amendment,—that $1,700 be added to the appropriation for the Art Department, for retouching, reframing and rehanging pictures in Faneuil Hall? I may say that this $1,700 which I have suggested was the amount that was taken from the appropriation for the Art Department as banded down by the Mayor. The Committee on Appropriations in deducting that amount from the Mayor's recommendations simply did so not knowing for what purpose the $1,700 was to be used. I have been to the trouble of talking with some of the Art Department trustees and find that they wanted it simply to use for the pictures in Faneuil Hall—not for the protecting of them especially, but, as I have stated in the amendment, for retouching, hanging them over again and reframing them, if they need to be reframed. I think the Art Department can be trusted to spend this money without further specifying the uses to which it is to be put. They have in the past spent less than their appropriation for several years.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I have no objection to the Art Department appropriation being increased to the amount originally asked for. But they asked for $2,500 and we allowed them $1,500. That is, tbe reduction in the amount of their appropriation was $1,000, and this adds $1,700 or $700 more than they originally asked for. Therefore, I object to an increase to this amount. I would move to further amend by making the Art Department appropriation $2,500 instead of $1,500, thereby adding $1,000.

Pres. COLLINS—Does the councilor accept tbe amendment?

Coun. SMITH—I do.

Coun. Ballantyne's amendment was adopted, and tbe Appropriation Bill was thus amended, adding $1,000 to the appropriation for Art Department.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I would further move to amend the order, in connection with the appropriation for water service, that any surplus of revenue necessary to meet any of the above named charges be used towards the reduction of water rates for the following year. The reason why I have suggested this is because there is an excess this year of water rates over the original charges against that department of $11,000 or $12,000, in round figures. As it is now the water rates pay for the running expenses of the department. Then tbey pay for the metropolitan debt. Then tbey pay for any extensions of the water system which, under the old plan, would have been charged to loans. There are three separate charges,—first, for an extension of pipes or service in general, which would have been charged to loans in old days, now paid out of the water rates; second, the sinking fund, metropolitan debt; and third, the ordinary running expenses of the department. In using the meter system this surplus of only $12,000 this year will, I am told by the auditor, probably increase, and it is with a view to the increase that I am speaking more particularly than to the present sum. Of course this $12,000 is a small sum, but it is unfair for the water users of this town to have that $12,000 go into the general fund, the general fund being used for general city purposes. It is unfair, therefore, for the water users to pay for general expenses about the town. Tbere is a special class that you are taxing to the extent of $12,000 a year and to a greater extent probably in ensuing years, for other things in the town rather than water. This matter has been called to our attention by various bodies outside of the Council. It meets with the approbation of tbe Finance Commission, I think, and it certainly is true to the facts as stated to me by the auditor.

Coun. Smitb's amendment was rejected by a rising vote, 3 to 5.

The Appropriation Bill as reported, with the above two amendments, was adopted, yeas 9, nays 0.

DOVER STREET FOOTBRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 14, 1911.

To the City Council:

I have carefully considered the order of your honorable body appropriating the sum of fourteen million five hundred sixty-two thousand six hundred sixty-seven dollars and sixty-two cents ($14,562,667.62) for the city and county for 1911–12 and have reduced this amount by the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) by eliminating the item for "Temporary Footbridge, Dover Street," added to the appropriation for the Department of Public Works. While I have expressed a willingness to approve this item I am advised by the Corporation Counsel, in a communication forwarded herewith for your consideration, that a previous recommendation of the Mayor is requisite to the validity of any vote of your honorable body increasing any appropriation from taxes or adding any item to such appropriation.

I desire, therefore, in order to comply with the necessary legal forms, to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, appropriating the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) for temporary footbridge, Dover street, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALN, Mayor.

Law Department,
Boston, April 13, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—Your letter of the twelfth instant, concerning a vote passed by the City Council increasing certain items of the budget, such items being, "Increase the item for the Art Department of $1,500 to $2,500; under Public Works Department, Bridge and Ferry Division, insert the following item: Temporary footbridge, Dover street, $3,000," was received. You inquire as to whether the approval of the Mayor, required by section 3 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, can be given after the passage of the vote or whether it must precede such passage.

I know of no similar provision in any city charter and can find no decision of any court on the matter. It therefore must be decided by the language of the section itself.

As far as the clause which you quote is concerned, I think that the approval of the Mayor could be given after the passage of the vote. The doubt arises from the language used in the first part of the section which in substance is that all appropriations to be made from taxes, revenues or any source other than loans shall originate with the Mayor who shall submit to the City Council the annual budget and may submit thereafter supplementary budgets.

Taking this section as a whole, I am of opinion that all the items of the annual budget must originate with the Mayor and that the items referred to are not legally a part of the Appropriation Bill and that it would be safer for you to call the attention of the City Council to the fact that all appropriations must originate with the Mayor, that you have no objection to these items, but, in order to remove any doubts as to their legality, recommend that these items be passed by separate vote.

Yours respectfully,
THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

Ordered, That the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) be added to the appropriation for Dover Street Bridge, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works for a temporary footbridge, and that the said amount be raised by taxation upon polls and estates taxable in the City of Boston.

The order was passed, yeas 7, nays 0.

APPROPRIATION FOR MERIDIAN STREET BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 14, 1911.

To the City Council:

For the reasons set forth in the accompanying communications from the Commissioner of Public Works and the Division Engineer of the Bridge and Ferry Division, it seems to me urgently necessary that the appropriation for the reconstruction of the Meridian Street Bridge should be increased by the sum of sixty-three thousand dollars ($63,000), which is the amount needed, according to the estimates made by the city engineers, for the widening of the draw to a width of 100 feet. I recommend therefore the passage of the appended order, which provides this additional sum.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
City Hall, April 14, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In connection with the Meridian Street Bridge reconstruction, kindly note attached report of Division Engineer Fay upon the matter.

Inasmuch as the United States engineer insists on a channel one hundred feet in width and will not approve the reconstruction of the bridge with the channel of less width, I would suggest that you recommend the Honorable City Council to provide an increase of $63,000 to the present appropriation, in order to comply with the decision of Colonel Abbot.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
Bridge and Ferry Division, April 14, 1911.

Mr. L. K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,— On the occasion of the visit of his Honor the Mayor and City Engineer Jackson to Washington in June, 1910, an understanding was reached between the city authorities and the War Department by which the latter would agree to the city's plan for repairing Meridian Street Bridge by the construction of a new steel draw span in place of the existing wooden draw span and by making necessary repairs to the pile structure, leaving the two waterways at their present width, namely, 59 feet each. It was upon this plan that an appropriation of $125,000, for repairs to this bridge was made available last summer. In compliance with the requests of wharf owners on Chelsea creek above the bridge for a wider channelway, the city later agreed to the widening of each channel by 11 feet, and plans were prepared and bids received on February 28, 1911, for the reconstruction of the bridge with channels 70 feet wide. An understanding having been reached between the Superintendent of Streets and officials of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, by which that company would share in the expense of the work, owing to provision being made on the bridge for its heavy cars, it was possible to provide in the reconstruction for wider channels at extra expense without increasing the city's appropriation.

Since the conference between the city officials and those of the War Department last June the situation has changed, owing to the fact that Congress has made an appropriation for the survey of Chelsea creek with a view to dredging that waterway to a depth of 30 feet. It is practically certain that upon the completion of the surveys this fall Congress will at its next session authorize an appropriation for this dredging, and when the work is carried out, that channel will be available for the largest steamers now entering Boston Harbor. In view of this improvement of Chelsea creek a channelway through the bridge wider than 70 feet seems necessary to properly provide for navigation purposes, and the United States engineer officer in Boston, Colonel Frederic V. Abbot, insists upon the need of a channel at least 100 feet in width and will not approve the reconstruction of the bridge with a channel of less width.

Inasmuch as it is necessary to secure the approval of the War Department for any work that can be done, and as the Secretary of War is likely to be guided in his decision by the recommendations of his local officer in Boston, the city will undoubtedly be forced to accept this decision. At present the draw span of this bridge is in such a dilapidated condition that it is unsafe for street car travel and may at times become unsafe for travel of any kind, and something should be done at once.

The bridge can be reconstructed with a single channel 100 feet in width, provided the present appropriation be increased by the sum of sixty-three thousand dollars ($63,000).

As the projected improvement of Chelsea creek will add to the taxable valuation of East Boston, and as the bridge as thus reconstructed will provide all facilities needed for navigation for years to come, thereby postponing for some years the building of a permanent bridge on this location, it is recommended that this additional appropriation be made.

Respectfully,
FREDERIC H. FAY,
Division Engineer.

Ordered, That the sum of sixty-three thousand dollars ($63,000) be hereby appropriated, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works in the reconstruction of the Meridian Street Bridge; and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

EXPENDITURE OF PARKMAN FUND INCOME.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 14, 1911.

To the City Council:

A review of the various improvements made from the income of the Parkman Fund shows that thus far the entire income has been expended for the Aquarium at Marine Park and the Zoological Garden at Franklin Park, the bandstand on the Common, and certain general improvements on the Common and on the Charlesbank. In the meantime various recommendations have been made by civic organizations and city departments, which, if carried out, would consume the revenue from this source for several years to come. Among others I may point out the sum of two hundred thirty thousand dollars ($230,000) which has been requested by the Park Department for the partial completion of the Zoological Garden and the Aquarium before June 1, 1912. The recommendation of the United Improvement Association that the smaller parks of the city receive attention, and the specific request of the Charlestown Improvement Association that a part of the revenue be devoted to work upon the parks in that section of the city.

It is obvious that the time is ripe for a comprehensive plan by which the income of this fund could be laid out for a series of years and the various schemes proposed be brought together in some harmonious relation. With reasonable care in the investments the income from the Parkman endowment will amount to about two million dollars ($2,000,000) in the next decade, or twenty million dollars ($20,000,000) in a century. It would seem that with such an enormous sum assured for a particular purpose, the opportunity to utilize it in a large way and in accordance with some program prepared by competent experts is too inviting to be ignored. I suggest that the Parkman Fund Committee consider the matter from this point of view and devote itself to the task of outlining a plan for the application of the income during the next five or ten years.

Incidentally, I beg to call your attention to the absence in Boston of any institution corresponding to the horticultural buildings which are so attractive a feature of Belle Isle Park in Detroit, the Bronx and Central Parks in New York, and the south and west side parks in Chicago. These buildings are filled the whole year round with flowering plants or herbs and shrubs interesting for their foliage and arranged so as to produce miniature landscape or garden effects, while occasional displays of flowers appropriate to certain seasons correspond to the flower shows which are held from time to time in Boston under private auspices. The pleasure afforded by these floral displays is of the most refined character and they are made a means of instruction to school children and others. I suggest that the Parkman Fund Committee consider the establishment of such a building in one of our larger and more central parks.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Referred to the Committee on Parkman Fund.

TROPHY FOR YACHT RACE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 14, 1911.

To the City Council:

I have been informed by Mr. B. S. Permar, chairman of the regatta committee of the Boston Yacht Club, that there is considerable doubt whether six yachts will enter for the Boston-Bermuda yacht race to be held this summer. As the condition attached to the order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of March 27, and approved by me, requires that this number should participate it is obvious that there is some danger that the City of Boston trophy cannot be awarded to the winning yacht and the race will thereby lose much of its zest and distinctive character. Mr. Permar assures me that four entries are expected and that this is about the usual number for contests of this exacting nature. I have therefore drafted the accompanying order and recommend its acceptance by your honorable body, with the understanding that unless four yachts actually take part in the race the trophy will not be awarded.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That so much of an order passed at the meeting of the City Council held March 27, and approved by his Honor Mayor Fitzgerald as restricts the number of yachts which must participate in the Boston-Bermuda yacht race before the trophy provided for in that order can be awarded, be rescinded.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

The vote whereby the order was referred to the Executive Committee was reconsidered, on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, and the order was passed.

FIRE ESCAPES, PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 11, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the Superintendent of Public Buildings, containing his report upon the need of fire escapes on some of the more important buildings of the city, including the City Hall, Faneuil Hall, and others of considerable historic importance. I would suggest that a committee of your honorable body investigate the conditions in these buildings and make a report which might form the basis of an appropriation order after due consideration and the recommendation which is required by law.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Office of Public Buildings Department,
Old Court House, March 8, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Regarding the matter of public buildings, in charge of this department, which are not properly equipped with fire escapes and easy means of egress, I wish to call your attention to some of the most important, which I have personally inspected and some of which I find are in a deplorable condition. It is true that this condition has existed for many years.

The City Hall building has but one main stairway and in case of fire it would be difficult, if not practically impossible, for all employees and others having business in the building to escape. The Building Commissioner (Mr. Everett) and myself have inspected this building and have come to the conclusion that fire escapes must be erected at once, and he has so notified me and given me ten days in which to prepare to carry out the requirements of his department in this matter.

In order to make easy means of access to the fire escapes it will be necessary to cut through several brick partition walls and to support the weight of walls with iron beams, also to rearrange plumbing apparatus, etc., where the same comes in way of such openings. This is necessary in order that escapes may be reached without going into the corridors. I estimate that the amount required for City Hall will be $3,500.

Another very important building which should have immediate attention is the Wayfarers' Lodge on Hawkins street. This building, as you are aware, is of second-class construction, with woodyard adjoining, and practically no fire escapes. It is three stories high with dormitories on the second and third floors. These dormitories are furnished with sleeping accommodations for about two hundred and fifty people, and I am informed are usually occupied to their full capacity at night.

Fire escapes should be erected on three sides of this building with proper means of access to same. I estimate that the amount required on this building will be about $800.

The Faneuil Hall building has one main stairway up through to the top of building and a small spiral stairway from rear of stage in the lower hall to the street. I think that the lower or main hall could be easily vacated in case of fire, but the quarters on the top floor, which are occupied as an armory by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, must be provided with escapes from rear end of building to the street. This will require the cutting through of brick walls, etc., and I estimate that the cost of same will be about $1,500.

The old City Hall building at City Square, Charlestown, has but one main stairway. The second floor is occupied as a branch of the Public Library and consequently is much frequented by children. Fire escapes should be provided without delay. I estimate cost here to be $350.

The old Cross Street Schoolhouse on Cross street, Charlestown, is a two and one-half story wooden building, occupied by the Colonel F. B. Bogan Camp, Spanish War Veterans, and has no ready means of access. The second floor contains a hall in which, at times, social functions are held and consequently visited by a number of people. I feel that escapes should be provided here and estimate cost to be $150.

The old Armory Building on Winthrop street, Charlestown, occupied on first floor by Fire Department and upper floors formerly used for militia purposes. It is expected that the upper floors may again be occupied, in which case fire escapes will be necessary and I estimate amount required here will be about $475.

The fuel house, on Main street, Charlestown, is occupied on upper floors by the G. A. R. Post No. 149 and with but one stairway. They sometimes hold social functions in these quarters and it would be difficult to escape in case of fire or panic. I feel that proper fire escapes should be provided, to cost about $175.

The conditions at the old Smith Schoolhouse on Joy street, which is occupied by the Robert G. Bell Post No. 134 G. A. R., are practically the same as at the above mentioned building and fire escapes should be provided and will cost about $250.

The Thomas Street Schoolhouse is occupied by Boston Post No. 200 G. A. R., and has but one stairway. On the second floor is a fair sized hall used for socials, meetings, etc. This building should be provided with fire escapes which would cost about $150.

The Westerly Hall building on Centre street, West Roxbury, is a two and one-half story building of wooden construction with but one stairway. The second floor is occupied as a branch of the Public Library and consequently is much visited by children. Proper fire escapes should be provided immediately. I estimate cost on this building to be about $190.

The old town hall, Brighton, is a two and one-half story wooden building with but one stairway. The wardroom is on the first floor and the second floor is leased to Post No. 92 G. A. R., in which socials are often held. I estimate that cost of providing fire escapes on this building to be $150.

The courthouse in Roxbury district has but one main stairway and should be provided with fire escapes in the rear of building, to cost about $175.

The courthouse in the South Boston district is occupied by court room on first floor, with wardroom on second floor and upper hall occupied by G. A. R. Post, and has but one stairway. Under these conditions it is absolutely necessary that fire escapes be immediately provided and same will cost in the vicinity of $250.

The courthouse in Dorchester district is a three story brick building with court room on first floor and two upper floors occupied as a branch of the Public Library. The library quarters are much frequented by the residents in this vicinity and the need of fire escapes here is urgent. I estimate the cost of above to be about $350.

In connection with the above work of installation of fire escapes it will be necessary to do considerable carpentry and mason work in providing easy access to same and I am of the opinion tbat about $1,000 will be required for this purpose.

Consideration has been given to the matter of providing fire escapes on the Old State House building. This building is much frequented by visitors to the city and has but one main stairway, with no means of passing from one end of building to the other without crossing over this stairway. It is possible that fire escapes could be dispensed with here by limiting the number of persons going into the upper floors of the building at any one time.

To recapitulate, I estimate that the amount of additional appropriation required on account of the above will be eighty-six hundred ninety (8,690) dollars for public buildings, general expenses, and seven hundred seventy-five (775) dollars for appropriation for county buildings.

Yours respectfully,
M. J. FISH,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

CLAIMS.

Coun. BUCKLEY, for the Committee on Claims, submitted a report on the petition of H. G. Spence and Lizzie C. Hurd (referred last year) for a hearing on claim for damages to estates on Crafts street by change of grade—recommending reference of same to the Board of Street Commissioners.

Report accepted; said reference ordered.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. BUCKLEY moved reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

THE NEXT MEETING.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. Chairman, I move that when we adjourn it be to meet subject to the call of the Chair.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I see no reason for varying the ordinary custom of meeting on Monday. I wondered if Mr. Buckley had any special reason for changing the day or leaving it to the discretion of the Chair?

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I have no special reason, but if there is not a large amount of business to be transacted there is no nccessity for meeting. A few of the members with whom I have talked have thought it was a good idea to omit the meeting on Monday, unless we had to have it. For that reason I made the motion. I had as leave be here Monday myself, but if there is not a big docket I see no necessity for it.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I was in favor of adjourning over to a week from Monday until I had a talk with the chairman of the Committee on Finance, and found that there were some matters in the hands of the chairman that ought to be acted upon Monday.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Then, Mr. Chairman, I withdraw my motion.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I move that when we adjourn it be to meet at four o'clock on Monday. I think only a short meeting will be required.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, if we meet at all on Monday I want to meet at three o'clock. It may seem all right to some members to come here at four, but we met here last week at three and were here till ten. I think we ought to get through our meetings as early as possible, and that we ought to meet at the regular time, three o'clock. I am perfectly willing to be here at three o'clock. Therefore, I would move that when we adjourn it be to meet on Monday next at the regular time, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, there are but one or two matters coming up on Monday, I understand, and therefore I think those of us who are obliged to be elsewhere might save that extra time by not being brought here at an unnecessarily early hour. Therefore, I hope my motion, that when we adjourn it be to meet on Monday next at four o'clock p. m., will prevail.

Coun. Kenny's motion was lost.

Coun. Buckley's motion, that when the Council adjourn it be to meet on Monday, April 17, at 3 p. m., was carried.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. BUCKLEY, at 2.34 p. m., to meet on Monday, April 17, at 3 p. m.

POWER OF CITY COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE.

The following was received:

Law Department,
Boston, April 15, 1911.

To the Honorable the City Council,
City Hall, Boston:

Gentlemen,— There have been referred to me two orders offered by members of the City Council, one providing for an investigation of the bids submitted for the reconstruction of the wardroom in Ward 8, and one providing for an investigation of the Building Department, both investigations to be made by committees of three members of the City Council. I am requested by your honorable body to give my opinion as to the power of the City Council to make such investigations.

In my opinion the City Council has no authority to make such investigations. By chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909 the duty of making such investigations has been taken away from the City Council and given to the Finance Commission by sections 18, 19 and 20 of said chapter. The investigating powers of the City Council under the charter amendments are those given to it by section 7 of the charter amendments. Any action taken under that section must be by the City Council and not by a committee thereof.

Yours respectfully,
THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

OPERATION OF PUBLIC GARDEN BOATS.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to instruet the Superintendent of Publie Grounds to purchase and operate at cost swan boats and rowboats on the Public Gardens.
Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, the history of this right to operate swan boats and rowboats in the Publie Garden is that the Mayor in his first term let this right out. Before that it was given for nothing. Sinee then the right has been raised in price, so that to-day $300 is charged each year for the right to operate these boats on the Public Garden. I take it that the poliey of our public parks is to have them free for the use of the people of the eity. It is not here as it is in Europe, where the various rights or privileges in the parks are charged for. For instanee, in the European countries they charge for the right to use the settees. Of course that would be unheard of here. My idea in this order is that we shall run this department of tbe Publie Garden at cost—that is, that we shall not make any money from it. As it is to-day we are making $300, and the man who buys the privilege is presumably making a like amount, or perhaps more, so that the city is really charging those who use the boats $500 or $600, unnecessarily. Those boats are used mostly by ehildren from the West and North Ends, Wards 6, 7 and 8, and any deerease in the price of that privilege would be very mueh appreeiated by the ehildren. Last year his Honor granted the right to use the ferryboats free for a certain length of time, and that privilege would be no more greatly appreeiated than would a similar privilege on the Public Garden. It is customary for the school teachers in the downtown congested distriets to oftentimes take their elasses to the Public Garden and give them boat rides; and if the teacbers, at their own expense, give their pupils rides on the swan boats it strikes me that the eity should be willing to give this serviee to the public at cost—not free, but at cost. For this reason I hope that the order will pass.
The order was referred, on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, to the Executive Committee.

WORK ON CITY HALL ANNEX.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I desire to rise to a question of personal privilege in conneetion with the action of the Council on Monday last in appropriating $800,000 for the construetion of the City Hall annex. It appears that, notwithstanding the resolutions of the Council whieh were passed on Monday last to the effect that the Mayor invite competitive bids for the preparation of the arehitect's plans and specifications, eontrary action has been taken by the Mayor's offiee. The Council on Monday last passed the following resolution:
"Resolved, In the opinion of the City Council the interests of the eity require that in the preparation of plans and specifications for the construction of the annex to City Hall that public competition be invited."
I am informed througb the Press—and I think all the members have had it ealled to their attention—that tbe Mayor has seen fit to disregard that resolution and has already bestowed the work upon an arehitect. I offer no criticism of the architect, the gentleman wbo has received the employment, but I do as a member of this Council desire to protest against the Mayor's action in the matter. It was not in accordance with the usual and ordinary methods of a business eoncern or a business corporation. Tbe municipality is a corporation which should do business in accordance witb the best methods prevailing among private concerns. The spirit and intent of the law whieh calls for competitive bids on all contracts above $2,000, on transactions where tbe City of Boston is a party, it seems to me has been disregarded. No business man would think of applying sueh methods in his private affairs, and I regret, as a member of the Council, to see that the Mayor has failed, in setting aside the resolution of the City Council, to live up to the best methods of business life and to the standard of business administration which ought to guide executive action in a municipality.

RECESS.

The Council voted at 3.33 p. m., on motion of Coun. McDONALD, to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The members reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by President COLLINS at 5.09 p. m.

CONTINUANCE OF FENWAY POST OFFICE.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered the following:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the City Council of Boston that the Fenway Postal Station should be continued, as its discontinuance would injure the present and future interests of the district.

Ordered, That a copy of this resolve be sent to the postmaster of Boston.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. Chairman, I have no desire to take up much of the time of the Council, but it seems to me that the Post Office Department has inaugurated a policy which may be injurious to the business interests of this city. Probably with a view to retrenchment, under an order of the Postmaster General, a notice has been sent out that the Fenway Station Post Office here in Boston shall be discontinued on August 1, I believe. The business men of that particular district believe that the discontinuance of that post office will in a way affect business. I understand that many of them settled and located in that particular district because of the fact that the post office was established there as an inducement to do so. That particular section of the city is a growing district. We have seen the large trust companies establish offices there; we have seen the Rhodes Brothers Corporation establish one of its chain of stores there; and there are many business establishments in that district which will be served by such a post office branch as the Fenway Station. I believe its discontinuance will injure business, and I trust that the resolutions will pass and that a copy will be sent to the Postmaster of the city.

The resolution and order were passed.

SIDEWALK ORDER.

Coun. COLLINS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along No. 2 Hewins street, at the corner of Columbia road, Ward 20, in front of the estate of Charlotta A. Powell, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

CONSTRUCTION OF SEWERAGE WORKS.

Coun. KENNY, for the Committee on Finance, submitted a report on sewerage and order (referred March 13) appropriating $300,000 for construction of sewerage works—recommending passage in following new draft, viz.:

Ordered, That the sum of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) be appropriated for the construction of sewerage works, under the provisions of chapter 426 of the Acts of 1897, and chapter 204 of the Acts of 1908, and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds of the city to said amount.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, while I am going to vote for this order, it is on the understanding that we are not taking any attitude as to permanent improvements which can be authorized under loans, but that we are simply putting that question over for discussion and decision for some future time. I have personal opinions on that matter, and I simply abrogate them at this time without deciding the matter at all.

The report was accepted, and the order was given its first reading and passage, yeas 7, nays 0, the question of final reading and passage going over for fourteen days.

ACCEPTANCE OF ACT.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That chapter 252, Acts of 1911, entitled "An Act Relative to Mortuaries in the County of Suffolk" is hereby accepted by the City Council of Boston.

Passed.

RENTAL OF BRANCH LIBRARY, ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 24, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit herewith a statement from the trustees of the Public Library, in response to an order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of April 17, to the effect that "the Library Trustees be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to furnish to the City Council, at their earliest convenience, information as to the yearly rental of the Shawmut Avenue Branch Public Library, the number of years for which it is leased, the number of years it has been occupied, the time when the lease expires, the assessed value of the land and building and the amount of money for which the property could be purchased."

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

The Public Library
of the City of Boston,
April 21, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Sir,—In response to the request of the City Council, contained in an order passed April 17, 1911, the trustees of the Public Library transmit through you the following information relating to the premises on Shawmut avenue occupied by the South End Branch of the Public Library.

The premises were leased under date of June 27, 1904, the lease to run for the term of ten years from August 1, 1904. The premises have therefore been occupied six years and eight months to April 1 of the present year, and the lease will expire July 31, 1914.

The rent is $2,500 annually, in addition to "all annual assessments" that may be made by the city upon the property. The annual assessments for the year 1910 amounted to $492 for taxes and $21 for water rates, making the total rental for that year $3,013. The lease contains an option permitting the city to purchase the property at any time before the lease expires for the sum of $40,000, upon giving thirty days' notice to the owners. The assessed value of the land and building is $30,000.

We have no knowledge as to the amount of money for which the property can be purchased other than as above stated.

Respectfully,
The Trustees of the Public Library
of the City of Boston,
by J. H. BENTON, President.

Referred to Committee on Branch Libraries.

EXTENSION OF PLAYGROUND SYSTEM.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 24, 1911.

To the City Council:

I have been impressed with the great opportunity which Boston now has to improve and extend its playground system. The wiser policy, in my judgment, is not to wait until the congestion in a certain neighborhood has become intolerable, and the sight of swarms of children playing in the street constitutes a reproach to the city authorities, but to anticipate future needs by the timely purchase of suitable lots when these can be obtained at a low cost. In many sections of the city open spaces can now be purchased at reasonable prices which in a few years will be built upon and practically withdrawn from the market.

I know of no subject more worthy of your attention than this and would earnestly recommend that your Committee on Playgrounds investigate conditions, which vary widely in different parts of the city, and compile a statement of playground needs, with a list of available sites. Appropriations could then be made and the city could take possession of the desired estates. In this manner not only would a considerable pecuniary saving be effected but the city would have committed itself to a liberal policy in a field which has been somewhat neglected hitherto.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

RELEASE OF RESTRICTIONS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 24, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, authorizing me to execute an instrument in proper legal form whereby the city shall release the conditions, easements and restrictions now remaining in force, excepting certain rights in party walls from certain lots on Providence street, described in the order. Accompanying this draft of the order is a petition from Charles S. Rackemann, Esq., requesting this release.

On the north side of Providence street there exists a 5-foot set-back, which can be built upon or used by any of the abutting owners without a release from the city. The Street Commissioners are now at work on the proposed widening of Providence street from Park square to the Arlington street extension, and the owners are willing to release the city from any claim for damages on account of the rebuilding and widening of Providence street if the city should release to them this 5-foot set-back, and also remit any betterment assessments on account of the improvements. It is for this purpose that I have drafted the accompanying order. As it must be publicly advertised for two weeks it seems to me desirable that it should be passed immediately by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

To the Honorable the City Council of the City of Boston:

Your petitioners, Charles S. Rackemann, trustee under the will of Freeman Allen, and Henry F. Allen, respectfully represent that the best interests of said city require that the conditions, easements and restrictions now remaining in force (excepting, however, right in party walls) being the conditions, easements and restrictions imposed by said city conveying certain lots on Providence street therein by deeds recorded with Suffolk Deeds as follows:

Book 512, pages 121 to 126, inclusive; Book 525, page 286; Book 526, page 235; Book 530, page 161; Book 541, page 138; Book 547, page 218; Book 555, page 234; Book 560, page 168; Book 569, page 105; Book 578, page 16; Book 579, page 73; Book 588, page 293; Book 594, page 125; Book 596, page 132; Book 597, page 53; Book 602, page 16, Book 605, page 58; Book 607, page 45; Book 647, page 36; Book 703, pages 177 to 180, inclusive; Book 710, page 79; Book 762, page 67, should be removed, discharged and forever extinguished.

CHARLES S. RACKEMANN, Trustee.
HENRY F. ALLEN,
by CHARLES S. RACKEMANN,
Attorney.

April 24, 1911.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and he is hereby authorized in the name and behalf of the city to execute an instrument satisfactory to the Law Department, whereby the city shall so far as it may lawfully do so without affecting the legal or equitable rights of other persons, release the conditions, easements and restrictions now remaining in force, excepting, however, rights in party walls, from certain lots on Providence street he heretofore conveyed by the city hy deeds recorded with Suffolk Deeds as follows:

ORDINANCES.

Coun. McDONALD, for the Committee on Ordinances, submitted a report on ordinance (referred April 10) to amend chapter 31 of Revised Ordinances of 1898, relative to the Printing Department—that the ordinance ought to pass.

Report accepted; ordinance passed.

LICENSING OF NEWSBOYS.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That no licenses he required for newsboys over sixteen and that application of hoys between fourteen and sixteen for the privilege of selling papers be made to the School Committee, though the actual granting of the license is to remain with this Board as at present.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, this matter of licensing newsboy's between the ages of fourteen and sixteen used to he handled by the City Clerk and is still handled in a separate department from the School Committee. Those under fourteen are now handled hy the School Committee. The power, so far as hoys under fourteen are concerned, has heen placed hy statute in the hands of the School Committee, leaving the right to us to grant licenses to boys from fourteen years of age up to twenty-one. The licensing of hoys over fourteen years of age has cost the city an extraordinary amount of money. The cost is approximately $6,000 for from 1,500 to 2,000 hoys. That is ahout $3 apiece. The cost of the School Committee licenses is about $2,000, and they make $500 from the sale of hadges, making a net cost of ahout $1,500 for something like 4,000 hoys. So that, while the School Committee grants double the number of licenses, the work costs only about one-quarter as much. This on its surface would require some explanation. The Finance Commission has looked into the matter, although it has not given an official report. (Since making these remarks, Councillor Smith finds that the Finance Commission has referred to the matter on p. 36, Vol. VI., of its reports.) On these figures it seems to me that the efficiency of the School Committee has heen proven, and that we should turn over the licensing of newsboys over fourteen years of age to the same hody that is at present licensing younger boys so efficiently. If we gave them the power to grant the licenses themselves it would require an act of the Legislature, but if we simply give them the right to look up and report to us, as is now done, we can do that under an ordinance. For this reason I have brought the matter up to-day. I think, on the basis of economy and efficiency, as proven by the action of the School Committee, we should grant to that committee the right to investigate and report to this body.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

CITY INSURANCE FUND.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the Corporation Counsel be required to give an opinion as to whether the city may set aside a yearly appropriation as an insurance fund against loss on public buildings by fire, without the necessity of going to the Legislature for authority. If this can be done legally, that the Corporation Counsel be requested to draw an ordinance to that effect.

The order was read a second time, and the question came on its passage.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, this matter has been discussed for some time, the matter of the city insuring its own buildings against fire loss. It is in keeping with the modern custom of great corporations. At the present time the city does not insure either by outside companies or by any fund of its own set aside for that purpose. That is to say, the city is slipshod, as became apparent in the destruction of Curtis Hall last year. When property of the city is destroyed there is no fund out of which it can be rebuilt. For example, if the city has built a building on loan and the loan runs for ten or twenty years, and a fire destroying that building occurs at the end of two or three years, property of the City of Boston has been destroyed. We must then rebuild with a new loan. This is bad business. It would be an easy matter for the city to set aside a certain amount each year until the fund became large enough to amply protect our buildings. It might be done on the basis of a percentage of the total value of the city's buildings; say a half or a quarter of 1 per cent of the value of our city buildings might be set aside each year out of the tax levy. Whether this can be done legally or not there seems to be some doubt. It is for that reason that I have asked the Corporation Counsel to look it up. If it can be done, I have asked him to draw an ordinance giving the exact language under which it would be best to create the fund and protect the fund from being used for other purposes.

The order was passed.

REGULATION OF PLEASURE CRAFT.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to confer with the Metropolitan Park Commission relative to regulating pleasure craft on the Charles river, with special reference to motor boats slowing down and giving warning before going through bridges, and also in passing canoes and racing shells.

The order was read a second time, and the question came on its passage.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, this is a simple matter, but it is one that will mean great convenience to people using the river. As we have this great waterway we ought to see that it is used properly and as extensively as possible. At the present time there are several bridges crossing the stream which have draws built of solid work. If a launch comes through from the other side at a high rate of speed, boats coming in the opposite direction cannot see it and accidents are apt to occur. Recently there was an accident of this kind. Not only that, but motor boats passing up and down the river and causing a heavy swell are apt to be disastrous to canoes and to racing shells. It is for these reasons that I have introduced the order, asking his Honor the Mayor to take it up with the Metropolitan Park Commission.

The order was passed.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. KENNY, at 4.11 p. m., to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by the President at 6 p. m.

An Ordinance

Concerning Members of Fire Department.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

A QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege. My question of personal privilege concerns an article appearing in the Boston Journal under date of Monday, April 24. The article in question is relative to the payment for treatments at the Boston City Hospital by myself, and I feel that an explanation is necessary. I have here a hill from the City Hospital under date of April 20, 1911. This bill was mailed to me from Washington to-day. It was mailed to my home address, I presume, on April 20, hut the post office authorities had instructions to forward my mail to Washington, so to-day for the first time I received it and had an opportunity to examine it. The bill is for treatment for seven and five-sevenths weeks, dating from January 8 to April 11, and amounts to $162. I want to say in connection with the hill, Mr. President, that neither the surgeon who treated me at the hospital, his assistants or myself were satisfied that my condition was such that I might he discharged as cured. I was discharged with "condition relieved" and with the understanding that whenever opportunity afforded I would come in for treatment until such time as a cure was effected. Upon leaving the hospital on March 11 I waited on Doctor McCollom, the Superintendent at the City Hospital, and informed him that I desired a hill for the services and treatment received at the City Hospital. Doctor McCollom informed me that the trustees had met the previous day and had ahated the bill for my treatment. I told him that I appreciated the kindness of the trustees iu the matter, but I felt that I would prefer to pay that bill. He said that he had no authority to accept payment for the bill, in view of the action of the trustees, and somewhere about April 15 I wrote the trustees asking that they suhmit to me a hill for the services received at the City Hospital. This bill has been received in reply to that request. I do not know whether the chairman of the Finance Commission is responsihle for the making puhlic of this article that appears in the Boston Journal and which would lead anyone to believe that it was my desire or intent to hecome an ohject of public charity at the hands of the City Hospital. I do want to say this, however,—and I feel that as a matter of justice I should say it—that it is no unusual custom to abate the hills of persons who are holding or who have held public office. In fact, it has heen a custom ohtaining there for a great number of years, and it obtains not only in the case of those in moderate or poor circumstances, but equally so in the case of those who are possessed of some means. I hesitate about citing any instance, hecause of the impropriety of such a course, but I do feel that I should call the attention of the Council to the fact that an ahatement was made just previous to my going to the hospital in the case of Ex-Mayor Green of Boston, a man of some wealth, of considerahle means. The salary of memhers of the City Council is somewhat limited, $1,500. True, the majority of people believe we are overpaid, hut the services required of one representing a district such as Coun. Ballantyne and myself represent are such as to take almost the entire time of the representative. So the amount of time that such a person can ordinarily devote to outside employment of any kind is extremely limited. If this courtesy had been extended to me by the trustees of the City Hospital my case would certainly not have estahlished a precedent, because a similar custom has obtained in the case of hundreds of other city officials since the institution was established. If there had heen such a precedent there might be some justification for the leakage of a story of this character from the rooms of the Finance Commission to the columns of the Boston Journal. Mr. President, I do not feel that it is customary for the distinguished acrohat who presides as chairman of the Finance Commission to make payment for a consignment of whiskey hought for his various rum shops before that whiskey is delivered to those rum shops; and I do not believe it should be proper for me to pay this hill hefore the bill is received. I had no means of knowing just what the charge would be: consequently I had no means of paying the bill more promptly. I asked for a hill and was refused a bill. If a bill had been presented, I certainly should have been pleased to pay it. Knowing the honorahle chairman of the Finance Commission as I do, I should feel that it was not only the part of wisdom but of good policy to pay it. I realize the picayunesh methods that he would not hesitate to resort to in order to place me in an unfavorable light before the puhlic, and this statement publicly made in the columns of the Boston Journal is the very hest indication in the world that I have heen correct in my surmises concerning him. I have no desire to add to the criticisms that I have made in the past of the chairman of the Finance Commission. I wish to say, however, that I do not take hack one solitary thing I have ever said about him. I have charged on the floor of this Chamber at previous meetings that he hegan his career as a pool shark; that he was the originator of the gambling game of "Kelley pool" in the City of Boston; that he was involved in a manslaughter case in the early years of his manhood; that his election to the high office of Congressman was obtained by methods that were responsible for the dehauchery for entire weeks of one of the city's departments; that there was more corruption in evidence at every election where he was a candidate than was ever known in the history of the city. I want to say this, however, Mr. President, that I do not believe an attempt of this character to hlacken and hesmirch, when there is no ground for such action, adds anything either to the dignity or the standing of the Finance Commission, and I do want to say that it is impossihle for the chairman of that commission hy any act to add one iota to his stature, which has always heen exceedingly small.

GRAND TRUNK TERMINUS AT BOSTON.

Coun. CURLEY offered the following:

Whereas, The bill to establish reciprocal relations hetween the United States and Dominion of Canada has heen favorahly considered by the National House of Representatives; and

Whereas, The adoption of the measure by the Senate of the United States seems assured; and

Whereas, The final passage of the bill will result in a general revival of commercial development in New England; therefore

Be it Resolved, That we, the City Council of Boston in meeting assemhled, do heartily indorse the movement for the establishment hy the Grand Trunk Railroad of a terminus at Boston; and he it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the directors of the Grand Trunk Railroad.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, with relation to this particular question the opportunity is afforded me to set at ease the minds of many people in Boston with relation to the disposition that I propose making of my City Council salary. I appreciate fully the fact that there is nothing in the law which prohibits my drawing hoth salaries to which I am entitled at the present time. My purpose in retaining memhership in the City Council is that I may be of service to the people who have sent me here, and in addition may make the best use possible of the salary that I receive, not for my own particular benefit, hut for the henefit of the people of our city at large. I have my own ideas with relation to the question of the distribution of money for charitable purposes, and I realize that in some respects, possibly, they differ from those generally entertained by most persons. Personally, I believe that the receiving of charity is distasteful to the average man or woman. In our city the average man or woman welcomes an opportunity to secure employment as greatly as he or she detests the distribution of charity. In the City of Boston, as in the cities of New York, Philadelphia or any of our Atlantic cities where the bulk of the immigration is delivered, conditions of employment are such that there will at all times be in the neighhorhood of ten thousand or more people seeking employment. Any avenue that will afford a means of employment to those persons is one that should be encouraged. The Boston American has started in circulation petitions as a means of inducing the Grand Trunk Railroad to estahlish a terminus at the port of Boston. Mr. President, we have talked about the development of the port of Boston for the last twenty-five years without doing anything of a practical nature, and I feel that a good disposition of a portion of my City Council salary would be made hy applying it toward the creation of a fund of half a million dollars. I stand ready to contrihute $100, and there are certainly 5,000 or more men in Boston in a position to contrihute a like amount. It should he feasible to establish a fund of $500,000 among the husiness men, the Chamber of Commerce, the Boston City Clhh, anyhody else who believes in the development of the port of Boston or who believes in the work of reform—hecause, after all, the question of reform is largely a matter of conditions and of environment. Crime waves are only general in large cities during periods of general industrial depression; and, so far as domestic felicity goes, there is nothing that will hring such a smile of happiness, peace, contentment and gladness, if you will, to the housewife on a Saturday night as a full pay envelope. So anything that will tend to increase the prosperity, peace and general happiness of the community is deserving of encouragement. I realize the fact that my contribution in this particular is exceedingly small, but if 5,000 men in this city will contribute a like amount it will be possible for the citizens of Boston not only to present a petition signed by 100,000 citizens and a petition bearing the approval of the City Council of Boston to the movement for the establishment of a terminus for the Grand Trunk Railroad here, but to show the directors of the Grand Trunk Railroad in a practical way that we are willing to go a step farther, that we are willing to furnish them with sufficient money to establish a terminus for their great railroad in the port of Boston. In the consideration of the reciprocity treaty with Canada, recently considered by Congress, the injury and injustice that would come to the farmers of the country because of competition resulting in cheap agricultural products from the fertile fields of Saskatchewan and Alberta, of the Canadian fields generally, was dwelt upon at great length. Personally I have the immigration figures from 1900 to 1909, as compiled by the commission of which the senior senator from Massachusetts, Mr. Lodge, was chairman. Those figures show that, while 8,000,000 immigrants landed in this country in those nine years, in excess of 80 per cent entered manufacturing and mercantile pursuits, while the number entering agricultural pursuits was so small as to be actually not worthy of recognition. If that is the condition of affairs, the only way in which cheaper cost of living can be obtained in the large cities is by opening up that section so that the people of these United States can obtain the fruits of the earth. Canada is peculiarly situated. It has only two outlets that can be used throughout the entire year, an eastern outlet and a western outlet. They are blocked to the north because of the rigorous climate, and they have been blocked to the south because of the tariff war that has been maintained by this country. We are within less than a day's journey from Canada on the Boston & Maine Railroad. Canada must have some outlet in the winter for the product of her fields, the product of her factories and the product of her mines, and New England has the greatest opportunity ever presented in her history to take advantage of and profit by the commercial development that will ensue in Canada and in New England. We take the first practical step by the creation of this fund; we take the second practical step by the signing of these petitions. If $500,000 is turned over by the business men of Boston, it will mean much. If the contributions are but $100 each, they will not weigh heavily on the particular shoulders of any individual. The amount is sufficiently light to make possible a contribution of that character by every business man in Boston, because of the increase that will result, and it is something that may well appeal to them, because it will result materially in the development of the port of Boston and the enrichment of the manufacturers and business men of the city. I say that in my opinion it is the greatest opportunity that has been presented to the port of Boston in the last twenty-five years, and I sincerely trust that we will take advantage of it. I desire to present this check for $100 to the representative of the Boston American, Mr. Andrew R. Kelley, to be turned over by him to his paper; and I sincerely trust that the business men of Boston will see the wisdom of contributing generously to this proposition so that we may within a reasonable time take advantage of our opportunity before some other New England or other city precedes us.

The question came on the adoption of the resolutions, which were read for the information of Coun. Smith.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, may I inquire whether there is a movement by the Grand Trunk road toward a terminus in Boston?

Coun. CURLEY—If I might be permitted I would say, Mr. Smith, that the Boston American of yesterday, April 23, contained a very lengthy article, with the signatures of many prominent officials, including his Excellency the Governor, and his Honor the Mayor, in favor of the project; that Mr. FitzHugh, the vice president of the Grand Trunk Railroad, representing the Grand Trunk, said that the directors were in doubt as to whether they were welcome to the port of Boston or not; and the American, taking the vice president at his word, proposed to furnish him within a short time the signatures of 100,000 men in Boston who are in favor of the Grand Trunk establishing a terminus at the port of Boston. Now, then, my proposition, which is independent of the resolutions, is that the American start a fund of half a million dollars, to be turned over to the Grand Trunk officials on condition that they establish a terminus here at Boston, the idea being that the 5,000 business men would profit by the increased business that would come from the establishment of a Grand Trunk terminus here and the opening up of Canadian territory, with free admission of raw materials and food products; that they would, therefore, welcome an opportunity to contribute, and the amount of the contribution would be really so small, considering what the coming of the Grand Trunk road here would mean to Boston and New England, as to make the probable return on the investment of these business men exceedingly great.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it would give me great pleasure to vote for the movement which Mr. Curley has inaugurated. I read with a great deal of interest the article in the American yesterday, but I could not gather from the article that there was any real probability, or even a possibility, that the Grand Trunk road was considering Boston as a terminal point. Of course, the Grand Trunk is now in Portland, Me., the Grank Trunk is now in New London, Conn., and the Grand Trunk has been making every effort for over a year to get into Providence, R. I. If it is desirous of having Boston as a terminus, certainly we ought to do everything we can to attract it this way. The statement of Mr. FitzHugh, however, seemed to me to be absolutely negative. He was asked if there was any such movement, and replied that there was a movement to get into Providence. As to Boston, he refused to answer at all. Of course, if there is a movement for the road to come here, I shall be only too glad to assist in it with my vote here or otherwise, and I shall be very glad to help in any movement that Mr. Curley has started —but as to there being any movement on foot prior to Mr. Curley's efforts I am unaware of it.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I have a copy of the Boston American here and it says:

"There is nothing chimerical or uncertain about the coming of the Grand Trunk to this city. The directors will be easy to convince that Boston is necessary to them as a great Atlantic terminal. But they cannot enter Boston without a strong public sentiment in their favor which will secure them the right to extend their lines from Palmer to Boston."

And the article continues. But I feel that I have read sufficient to satisfy my Brother Smith.

The resolutions were adopted.

Hagan appeared for the Boston Chamber of Commerce and stated that the Committee on Municipal and Metropolitan Affairs of that body has considered the matter of the street lighting contracts, has conferred with Commissioner Rourke and with Mr. E. N. Wrightington, second vice president of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, and recommends that the present temporary contract with the Rising Sun Company be continued for a period of not over six months; that in the meantime a study be made of the appliances for automatic lighting with the purpose of either buying an automatic equipment to be operated by the city or making a contract with the company which shall furnish the most efficient device and shall agree to sell it to the city upon stated notice and at an appraised value; that in the opinion of the committee satisfactory automatic lighting devices, both in the form of pressure appliances and automatic clocks, are now upon the market, and that the whole saving from the use of such a device should accrue to the city; that the pending contract with the Rising Sun Company is disadvantageous to the city in that any reduction in the cost of operating the lamps resulting from the installation of an automatic device would be divided between the city and the contractor.

The speaker thought it quite possible that other competitive bids might be obtained, through the assistance of the Chamber of Commerce and other public organizations, and with some degree of publicity, and that a careful, broad and comprehensive study should be given to the various methods of automatic lighting and extinguishing.

Mr. Frederick J. Brand thought the question divided itself into three parts: Shall the city do its own lighting, shall it be done by contract, shall it employ electricity or gas? Personally he felt that electricity represented the triumph of man's ingenuity in lighting, while the use of gas is primitive. The city should not tie itself up with a gas lighting contract for ten years.

The speaker pointed out the wonderful results that have been achieved in Pasadena, Cal., which, under a municipal lighting system, is obtaining far better illumination at a greatly reduced cost; and he also referred to the fact that Boston's lighting contrasts very unfavorably with that of Rochester, N. Y., and of other places. He did think, however, that the Consolidated Gas Company might be given serious consideration if it showed a disposition to come forward and make a bid that would be attractive to the city. He thought the city should consider very earnestly the advisability of municipal lighting.

Mr. James M. Glassman, representing the Automatic Lighting Company, stated that his company is manufacturing an automatic device of which it was ready to install any number that the city might desire, 500 if necessary, to prove that the device will result in a considerable saving to the city; that the company is prepared to install a sufficient number to equip every lamp-post in the city without charge to the city, upon an equal division of the net saving in the cost of maintenance, for lighting and extinguishing. The company estimates that there would be a saving of 90 lamplighters. He showed what a reduction there had been in the expense of maintenance in the city of Liverpool by automatic devices, and said the same result could be accomplished here. Some of the Automatic Company's devices are installed in different cities of this country, including one in the City of Boston, but so far purely on a test or experimental basis. The percentage of efficiency, however, is very high. His company had not made a bid under the recent advertisement, as it was not prepared to go into the matter of equipment.

Mr. J. W. Maples thought Boston should be a handsomely lighted city, with up-to-date methods, and stated that such was not now the case, and he thought the only solution of the problem was municipal lighting, the city owning its own equipment and facilities for furnishing the citizens with light. He stated that in every city where municipal lighting had been tried on a proper basis it had been a great success, both from the standpoint of efficiency and economy; and he certainly did not favor tying up the city for ten years with any such contract as is proposed.

Mr. Robert A. Jordan, representing William A. Rumpf, spoke of the advantages of the inverted gas lamp, stating that it doubled the candle power with practically the same consumption of gas. He spoke particularly of Graetzin gas lamp, saying that nearly all the continental European countries are using this inverted lamp, and that Boston is 25 years behind the times in its lighting. By making such a contract as Mr. Rumpf and Mr. Robinson offer the city will own its own equipment at the termination of the contract and will have had double the quantity of light that it now has, to say nothing of the economy of the proposition.

Mr. Frank H. McCarthy, vice president of the Central Labor Union, representing the Lamplighters' Union, stated that not only does that union object to the adoption of the contract as presented to the Council, but offers two alternative propositions, either of which it believes to be a great improvement. The union has tried to view the matter not only from its own standpoint but from that of the city, having in mind good lighting service, economy and protection of life and property as well as fair conditions to labor. It considers that the suggested contract price is excessive, and bases that upon the long experience of its own members with this business. The propositions it makes show on their face a saving to the city, and the union expressly guards the city against any possible increase in the labor cost by solemnly agreeing not to take any direct or indirect steps toward the increasing of wages, reduction of hours, or vacations of any kind. The Central Labor Union stands back of the Lamplighters' Union in this agreement. The figures submitted by the union are based upon the results of long and intimate experience with all the details of this business by its members. Insidious attacks are made everywhere, all along the line, against municipal ownership or operation of public utilities, but when the city can conduct its affairs upon at least as sound, permanent and honest a basis as a private concern it is hard to understand why there should be objection to its doing it. If the city accepts either one of the propositions offered by the union, when the ten years has expired the city will be the complete owner of its lighting plant and able from that time on to have a still cheaper system of lighting, besides in the meantime making a large saving; and if the proposed contract with the Rising Sun Company is accepted, not only will the lamplighters lose 25 cents a day, if they are employed by the company, but at the end of the ten years the city will not only have lost $204,000 which it might save, but will not own a shoestring in connection with the lighting plant and will be in the same position it is now. With regard to an automatic system of lighting, if feasible and desirable, he wished it understood that the laboring men stood in relation to such a system as the typos stand towards the linotype, as the shoe workers stand towards the shoe machines,—that they go into establishments and operate the machines recognizing the fact that this is an age of progress, that improvements are at all times coming about, and that men in industries must suit themselves to conditions as they change. When there is a lighting device that will light automatically and well, and when it shall be for the business interest of the city to apply it, if it displaces lamplighters they will, of course, regret their displacement, but will recognize that it is in the line of the march of progress and that they have to submit; that by the introduction of all forms of machinery men are displaced at the start but that the improvement stands for general advancement in the long run; but he felt that when that time comes the city should reap all the benefits and profits coming from such an investment, not dividing the profits with any private concern. He stated that the figures, $185,000 to install 11,000 inverted lamps, are not haphazard but are based on experience and carefully worked out.

Mr. Frank A. Goodwin was opposed to the signing of the contract with the Rising Sun Company as he thought it would be ridiculous to tie up the city for ten years, continuing the present kind of lamps. He was in favor of municipal ownership of an electric lighting plant, and stated that it depended upon the City Council and upon Mr. Rourke, acting for the Mayor, whether or not we shall have it. He also considered the figures set forth by the Lamplighters' Union as too low, that the expenses of equipment and maintenance would be somewhat higher than those suggested, and he did not feel that a lamplighter could properly take care of more than ninety lamps, while the union had mentioned 100. He thought if it were put up to the Mayor to give reasons why the city should not run a municipal lighting plant the only reason he could give would be that he had not confidence in his Commissioner of Public Works; and he thought in a matter of this kind that it was not for the City Council to wait for the Mayor to take the initiative.

Mr. William H. O'Brien, president of the Central Labor Union, Mr. Fred J. Kneeland, representing the Boston Building Trades Council, and Mr. Charles Morris, representing a committee of the Boston Central Labor Union, appeared and indorsed what Mr. McCarthy had said, stating that it was absolutely understood that the Central Labor Union stood back of the proposed agreement of the Lamplighters' Union not to take any steps directly or indirectly during the proposed term for the increase of wages or the reduction of hours.

Mr. Parker D. Morris appeared for certain clients, whose identity he was unwilling to disclose at this time, stating that if the matter were open his clients, representing a large amount of capital, were prepared to come in and submit a bid under any reasonable proposition, either the same as the specifications already issued or new ones, and he felt that he could assure the City Council that there would be a material saving as compared with the present proposition of the Rising Sun Company. He explained that they had not previously submitted a bid because they were not at the time in touch with each other, but that their attention had been directed to the matter by the discussion which resulted from the action of the Council.

There being nobody else who wished to address the Council the hearing was adjourned, on motion of Coun. BUCKLEY, at 10.19 p. m.

LOCKER BUILDING, TENEAN BEACH.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 1, 1911.

To the City Council:

Representatives of local associations have waited upon me, urging the necessity of increasing the accommodations at the Tenean Beach Bath House. The chairman of the Board of Bath Trustees believes that this can be done by filling the space between the two buildings, making a locker house about forty-five (45) by twenty-five (25) feet, the cost of which is estimated by him, in a communication appended hereto, at one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500). As this improvement seems to me to be a necessary one, if the beach is to be used to its full capacity this season, I recommend the passage of the accompanying order, which provides an appropriation for this purpose. The funds might properly be taken from the amount received from the trustees of the late Quincy A. Shaw.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Bath Department,
Boston, May 1, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I beg to submit estimate for building locker house, 45 feet by 25 feet, at Tenean Beach, providing 125 new lockers and 3 new showers, general improvements and alterations, $1,500.

Very truly yours,
RICHARD M. WALSH,
Chairman Bath Trustees.

Ordered, That the sum of one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) be appropriated from the revenue received from the estate of the late Quincy A. Shaw, to be expended under the direction of the Bath Trustees, for the erection of a locker building at Tenean Beach.

PROTEST AGAINST GARBAGE DEPOT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 26, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the corresponding secretary of the Savin Hill Improvement Association regarding a vote recently passed by that association opposing the location of a garbage collection depot on the water front at Harrison square, Dorchester, and requesting that a public hearing be held at which citizens may have an opportunity to state their objections. I venture to suggest that in your consideration of the question, which must come before you for decision in the near future, you hold a public hearing in some convenient hall in the Savin Hill district, in order that the citizens of that district may have the opportunity which they desire for expressing their views upon the subject.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Savin Hill Improvement Association,
Dorchester, April 24, 1911.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald,
Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—At a recent meeting of the Savin Hill Improvement Association an unanimous vote was passed by which this association placed itself on record as opposing the location of a garbage collection depot on the water front at Harrison square, Dorchester.

The residents of this district strongly protest against the establishing of this depot in this section, and particularly wish to call your attention to the fact that the Savin Hill public bathing beach, which is resorted to by thousands in the summer season, would be greatly injured.

I have been requested to ask your Honor to appoint a time for a public hearing at which the citizens may have an opportunity to state their reasons why this depot should not be placed in this section of Dorchester.

Trusting that you will see your way clear to comply with this request at an early date and awaiting your reply, I am

Yours very truly,
N. WINTHROP ROBINSON,
Corresponding Secretary.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

DISPLAY OF FLAGS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 1, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to submit a communication from Mr. Edward O. Skelton, patriotic instructor, Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R., together with a copy of Senate Bill No. 406. Mr. Skelton recommends that the flags upon all public buildings be hoisted throughout the year as an object lesson in patriotism to the citizens, and I deem this suggestion very worthy of consideration by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

April 27, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Having secured after vigorous opposition the enactment by the Legislature of 1911 of a law which provides for the imposition of a penalty of five dollars upon the principal or master of any public school in the Commonwealth who neglects to display the flag of our country upon all school session days on the schoolhouse in which he may be in charge, I write to suggest that an order from you requiring all public buildings in the City of Boston, fire, police, hospital, to display the United States flag on such days as the weather permits would be promotive in a large degree of the lesson which we Americans are striving so hard to inculcate in the minds of those people who have in recent years come from lands of oppression to the land of freedom—that respect for the flag, the one visual representation of the nation, results in making patriotic Americans, inculcating in them a spirit that when in the future that flag should be assailed they would with the same spirit as did the men and boys of 1861 spring to its defence. The daily display of the flag does not "cheapen it" as some say. It seems to make you, me, every loyal American, love it the more. And with us, so in time will it be with those who to-day do not realize what it stands for. It will in the display serve to soften the hearts of the lawless element, with resultant decrease in crime.

I know, Mr. Mayor, that this letter would be unnecessary if in the multitude of your cares of and thoughts of the welfare of our city you had the time to even give it a thought.

I am,

Very respectfully,
EDWARD O. SKELTON,
Patriotic Instructor,
Department Massachusetts, G. A. R.

I inclose a copy of the flag law approved by the Governor April 5, 1911.

(Accompanying the letter was Senate Bill 406.)

HIGH PRESSURE SERVICE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 1, 1911.

To the City Council:

I submit herewith a letter from the Fire Commissioner, together with a certified copy of chapter 312 of the Acts of 1911, which is an act to provide for a high pressure fire service in the City of Boston. This measure was advocated by the Fire Commissioner, the Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Fire Underwriters, and in view of the recent conflagrations in other cities, which had emphasized the need of strengthening the system of fire protection everywhere, I presume there will be no hesitation on your part in accepting it. I recommend, therefore, the passage of the appended order, providing for such acceptance, and suggest that an appropriation be made as liberal as may be deemed consistent with the other demands upon the resources of the city.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Fire Department,
Boston, April 26, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Sir,—I have the honor to inclose herewith a certified copy of an act to provide high pressure fire service in the City of Boston. This act has been passed by the General Court of this year and signed by the Governor, and will take effect upon its acceptance by the City Council and the Mayor.

I therefore request that this matter be officially brought to the attention of the City Council at once.

There seems to be no question that we should proceed to the immediate installation of the high pressure service. The leading cities of America either have or are installing this system, and its success is unquestioned. Systems of high pressure water mains used exclusively for fire protection are installed in New York (one in Manhattan, one in Brooklyn and one at Coney Island), Philadelphia, Toronto, Ontario; Winnipeg, Manitoba; Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo and Oakland, Cal. San Francisco and Baltimore are putting in such systems, and Portland, Ore., and Toledo, Ohio, have started them.

Philadelphia has used its system for nearly eight years, and Manhattan and Brooklyn about three years; the experience in these cities proves the feasibility of separate high pressure fire system and its superiority over fire engines, especially for large fires which tend to assume conflagration proportions.

In my judgment, the high pressure service would be even more effective in the City of Boston than in any of the above mentioned cities.

I therefore strongly recommend that this matter he pushed forward with all dispatch.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES D. DALY,
Fire Commissioner.

An Act
To Provide for a High Pressure Fire Service in the City of Boston.

Be it enacted hy the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled and hy the authority of the same, as follows:

Section 1. The commissioner of public works of the city of Boston is hereby authorized to prepare plans and to proceed to the immediate installation of a suitahle and efficient system of high pressure fire service for the said city.

Sect. 2. For the purpose of defraying the expenses incurred under the provisions of this act the city council may appropriate during the ensuing six years the sum of one million dollars. The said appropriation shall be not less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars for each year, and the amount which the city council shall thus appropriate in any one year shall be included in the statutory limit of indebtedness of the city for that year.

Sect. 3. The said city is herehy authorized to take such quantities of water as may be necessary for the proper carrying out of the purposes of this act from the Charles river basin. It shall also he authorized to purchase or to erect such pumps and stations as may he necessary to carry out the purposes of this act. The work of huilding such pumping stations as may he found necessary under the authority of this act shall be done hy contract puhlicly advertised. Not more than fifteen per cent of the indehtedness incurred under the provisions of this act in any year shall he expended for day labor.

Sect. 4. This act shall take effect upon its acceptance by the city council and mayor of the City of Boston.

Approved April 20, 1911.

Ordered, That chapter 312 of the Acts of 1911, entitled "An Act to provide for a high pressure fire service in the City of Boston," be, and the same hereby is, accepted by the city.

COMMITTEE ON INDEPENDENCE DAY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 1, 1911.

To the City Council:

The success achieved in the celehration of Independence Day by the arrangement of a somewhat novel program last year leads me to hope that still better results may be ohtained in 1911. To this end I recommend that a committee of three members of your honorable body be appointed hy the President to confer with the officers of the United Improvement Association and such other local organizations as may seem proper, with a view to outlining and arranging the celebration for this year. Should this committee be appointed immediately, as I trust it will, I shall be glad to arrange a conference in my office this week with the representatives of the organizations mentioned.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

DISCONTINUANCE OF FENWAY POST OFFICE.

The following was received:

United States Post Office, April 25, 1911.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,— The Post Office Department, in acknowledging the receipt of the resolution adopted by the City Council at the session of April 17, 1911, protesting against the proposed discontinuance of the Fenway Station of the Post Office of Boston, has expressed its desire that the Council be informed for the department's action in this matter.

The proposed step is taken not only in the interest of economy (the change will result in the saving of $15,000 a year in the cost of the postal service) but also for the reason that mail for the Fenway district can be more expeditiously delivered from the Back Bay Station, as at the present time all mail for the station to be discontinued is first sent to Back Bay Station through pneumatic tubes and from there transferred to Fenway Station by car or wagon service, thus causing an extra handling of the mail and delay in its delivery.

It is the purpose of the department that a numbered station with facilities for the transaction of money order and registry business and the sale of postal supplies be established in the vicinity of the station to be discontinued, so that persons residing in that section of Boston will not be deprived of the postal advantages they are now enjoying.

The Council will undoubtedly be interested to learn that it is not the intention of the Post Office Department to discontinue the Fenway Station until the close of business April 30, 1912.

Respectfully,
E. C. MANSFIELD, Postmaster.

CITY INSURANCE FUND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Law Department, April 27, 1911.

The Honorable the City Council,
City Hall, Boston:

Gentlemen,— My opinion is requested as to whether the city may set aside a yearly appropriation as an insurance fund against loss on public buildings by fire without the necessity of going to the Legislature for authority.

Under the charter as it now exists all appropriations other than for school purposes must originate with the Mayor. If he should so recommend, the City Council could pass a vote making an appropriation for fire insurance on public buildings, but such an appropriation would not be a continuing one as the city government of this year can only appropriate from the revenue of this year.

If the City Council desires to insure the public buildings by providing that each year there should be paid from the revenues of the city a sum equal to the premium charged by fire insurance companies, such fund to be kept separate and distinct from other funds of the city and to be used to rebuild or repair public buildings which are damaged or destroyed by fire, legislative authority must be given before the revenues of the city from taxation and other sources can be so used.

Yours truly,
THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

APPOINTMENT OF F. J. GLENN.

The following was received:

Office of the Civil Service Commission,
April 27, 1911.

To the City Council,
Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sirs,— Referring to the appointment of Frederick J. Glenn as assistant in the City Messenger's office, I have to say that this matter has received the consideration of the Civil Service Commissioners, who are of the opinion that the position held by Mr. Glenn is within the classified civil service and therefore his appointment to said position without certification by the commission is illegal and cannot be allowed.

If you wish to fill the position you should make requisition upon the commission in accordance with civil service rules and I inclose a blank for that purpose.

Very truly yours,
WARREN P. DUDLEY, Secretary.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

LIGHTING OF STREETS.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
410–416 Tremont Building,
Boston, April 29, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Finance Commission respectfully submits the following report upon certain proposals for lighting the streets with gas or furnishing lighting equipment, made in response to the Commissioner of Public Works' advertisement for bids, dated February 11, 1911.

1. Bids for Lighting the Streets for a Period of Ten Years.

The notice to bidders called for the furnishing, maintaining and operating of approximately 11,000 gas lamps on either of the following plans:

(a) Lamps to be lit and extinguished either in whole or in part by hand, or by any automatic device the contractor may install.

(b) Lamps to be lit and extinguished by hand, with a provision for the installation at some future time of automatic devices for lighting and extinguishing lamps in whole or in part.

The bids were opened on Saturday, March 4, 1911. Only one bid was received, that of the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company, the concern which has received various street lighting contracts from the city for the past twenty-three years, including the gas lighting contracts of the last twelve years. The company bid $22.30 per lamp per year, under the provisions of the second plan (Article b) of the notice to bidders, which gives the company the choice of lighting and extinguishing the lamps by hand or by automatic devices, subject, however, to the provisions of Article 3 of the specifications (a copy of which is hereto annexed and marked Appendix A), in which it is provided that the city may request the contractor to install automatic devices and, if the contractor declines, the question of installation shall be finally determined by three experts, one to be chosen by each party to the contract, and the third by the two experts thus chosen. Article 3 also provides that if such devices are installed the cost of installation, including interest and sinking fund charges, shall be computed upon the basis of the number of years the contract has to run beyond the date when the installation is completed; and after the payment of said interest and sinking fund charges, the saving effected by the use of such devices shall be divided equally between the city and the contractor.

In considering the advisability of accepting the offer of the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company, it will be necessary first to estimate the reasonable cost to the company of executing the contract in the event of the maintenance of the present system of upright mantle lamps, lighted and extinguished by hand, and also to consider in that connection the Lamplighters' Union's estimate of the cost of maintaining such a system. It will then be necessary to consider the cost to the city in the event of the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company's installing automatic devices and also to consider in that connection the informal offer which was made by the Pressure Lighting Company for the maintenance and operation of a similar system. Finally, it will be necessary to consider the advisability of the city's purchase, installation and operation of a lighting plant equipped with automatic devices.

2. Hand Lighting System.

A. Estimated Cost to the Rising Sun Company.

Mr. Guy C. Emerson, engineer for the Finance Commission, estimates that the probable cost to the Rising Sun Company will be $21.69 per lamp year, including interest at 4½ per cent on $50,000, which he considers to be the fair value of the company's present upright mantle lamp equipment. This estimate of $21.69 does not include an allowance for penalties which may be deducted for failure to maintain the required candle power; and, as there are more effective provisions in the new contract for securing the prescribed candle power than the former contract contained, it is likely that greater penalties will be imposed hereafter, and therefore a substantial allowance will have to be made in excess of the estimate of $21.69. The existing contract provides penalties for the failure to maintain the lamps at 60 candle power, but the police officers who make the reports report only those cases where the lights have gone out, as they have neither authority nor means to test a lamp which has become dim, and consequently many of the lamps have been maintained at from 30 to 50 instead of 60 candle power. Under the proposed contract, however, there are penalties both for lights which have gone out and for lights which have become dim, and the lamps may be tested by experts employed by the Department of Public Works. There is every reason to expect that the city will be able to compel the contractor to maintain lights of 60 candle power and that the penalties exacted will be far greater in number and amount than those which have been imposed heretofore. It is not improbable, therefore, that making allowances for penalties the cost to the company will be $21.90 per lamp year.

The commission's engineer has made no estimate of the cost to the Rising Sun Company for maintaining and operating an inverted mantle lamp system as the company does not intend to install such a system.

B. The Estimates of the Lamplighters' Union.

The Lamplighters' Union has furnished two estimates of the expense which the city would incur in installing its own plant and maintaining and operating it by city labor, the first applying to the upright mantle lamp system, the second to inverted mantle lamps. The union's estimate of the cost to the city of installing and maintaining the upright lamp system is $20.58 per lamp year, and $20.44 per lamp year for the inverted lamp system. If the union's estimates are correct, either of the plans it suggests would be more advantageous to the city than the offer of the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company for maintaining the existing system on a hand-lighting basis ($22.30). The commission believes, however, that the union's estimates are inaccurate in several particulars and below the actual amount the city would have to expend for the operation of either system.

The estimates of the commission's engineer and of the Lamplighters' Union are set forth in detail in an appendix hereto, marked "B." The commission's engineer has made a critical analysis of the estimates of the Lamplighters' Union, which will be found in an appendix hereto annexed, marked "C."

If the city should decide to maintain the present system of upright mantle lamps, without automatic devices for lighting and extinguishing, it would be advisable to accept the present offer of the Rising Sun Company, as the cost of municipal operation under such a system would be greater than the company's offer, and, furthermore, because at the present time no immediate prospect appears of finding any other company which will install a new plant and perform the services at a rate as low as that which the Rising Sun Company is able to offer on account of its having a plant already installed.

If the city should decide to purchase and install inverted mantle lamps without automatic devices, such a system could be maintained at a cost lower than the Rising Sun Company's offer of $22.30, if that company should not use automatic lighting devices in connection with its system. But the Rising Sun Company will, in all probability, use automatic lighting devices, and their use will bring the cost to the city below the point at which the city could maintain its own hand-lighting system with either upright or inverted mantle lamps. The city cannot afford to continue the hand-lighting system as it would be able, either by availing itself of the Rising Sun Company's offer to maintain its system with automatic lighting devices or by municipal ownership and operation of a plant equipped with automatic devices, to secure light at a cost below the lowest estimate for the hand-lighting system with either upright or inverted mantle lamps.

3. The Automatic Lighting System.

A. The Rising Sun Company's Offer.

If the bid of the Rising Sun Company is accepted it may, either upon the request of the city or as the result of a decision of the board of experts, install automatic lighting and extinguishing devices in connection with its lighting system; and in either case the net saving effected by the use of such devices will be divided equally between the city and the company.

The estimate made by the commission's engineer of the cost to the company of maintaining its system by hand lighting shows a very small margin of profit for the company, to wit, 61 cents per lamp year, not including deductions for penalties. Unless the company increases the extent of the lamplighters' routes or reduces their pay, neither of which seems practicable, the company's profit will be so small as to afford little inducement for the continuance of the work, and in order to make a reasonable profit it will be obliged to install an automatic lighting device as soon as one is found which is efficient in operation and can be obtained at a reasonable price. But, as already stated, if the company should not voluntarily install automatic lighting devices, there are means provided in the contract for installing them against the company's will. At all events, the commission believes that the acceptance of the company's offer will give a practical assurance that automatic lighting devices will be installed soon after the award of the contract, and in this event the bid of the company ($22.30) will be substantially reduced, the reduction being larger or smaller according as the device is installed at an early or at a late period of the life of the contract. The following table shows the net saving which the commission's engineer estimates will be effected by the use of an automatic device in any one of the first eight years of the contract. No saving could be made in the ninth or tenth year, as the time which the contract would then have to run would be so short, and consequently the interest and sinking fund charges would be so large, as to preclude the possibility of a saving at such a late date. It would be certain, therefore, that the devices would not be installed after the eighth year.

The estimate of the saving in eacb year is based on the assumption that the automatic devices shall have been installed for the entire system before the beginning of the year in which the saving is shown in the above table. It is hardly possible tbat the devices would be installed before the new contract begins to run, August 1, 1911. If they are not so installed the cost in the first year would be in excess of the $20.67 shown in the above table.

B. The Pressure Ligbting Company's Offer.

The Pressure Lighting Company, in response to tbe advertisement for bids for equipment, offered to furnish and install upright lamps with automatic lighting devices for $16.50 plus $1 a year royalty for each of the ten years of the contract, in other words, for $26.50 per lamp, tbe lamps and automatic devices to become the property of the city at the end of ten ycars, when the royalty payments shall have been completed. If this offer were accepted the city would have to light and extinguisb the lamps and care for them at its own expense.

Shortly after this bid was submitted, and after tbe time for opening the bids had expired, the Pressure Lighting Company made an informal offer to maintain and operate the lamps and automatic devices for $19.30 per lamp year, the offcr being based, however, upon the understanding that the city would purchase the lamps and automatic lighting devices from the Pressure Lighting Company at a cost of $16.50 for each such lamp and device.

To the company's offer, $19.30, for operating the system there should be added, therefore, the interest and sinking fund charges on the cost of tbe lamps and automatic devices, namely, $1.99 per lamp year, making a total of $21.29 per lamp year, or a saving as compared with the Rising Sun Company's hand lighting rate of $1.01 per lamp per year. This gives a gross saving for the ten years of $111,100, as compared witb the Rising Sun Company's hand lighting rate. Turning to the last column of the table above, wbere the savings to be effected over the hand lighting rate by the adoption of automatic lighting devices are given, it will be seen that the saving under the Pressure Lighting Company's offer would be greater than that effected by the adoption of automatic lighting by the Rising Sun Company in any year after the beginning of the third, but less than that effected if automatic lighting devices are installed by the Rising Sun Company before the beginning of the third year of the contract. In otber words, if the Rising Sun Company's bid is accepted and automatic lighting adopted in either of the first two years, it will be cheaper for the city tban under the Pressure Ligbting Company's bid, but more expensive to tbe city if the installation of automatic lighting is delayed longer than two years after the beginning of the contract.

It should be noted tbat the city at the end of the contract period would own the lamps furnished by the Pressure Lighting Company, but would not own the lamps furnished by the Rising Sun Company. If tbe Rising Sun Company's bid should be accepted, the company would own the lamps at the end of the contract period, and the city would own the automatic lighting devices whicb the company had installed. If the Pressure Lighting Company's offer should be accepted, the city would own both the lamps and thc automatic lighting devices at tbe end of the contract period.

C. Respectivc Advantages of the Two Offers.

There are many elements to be considered in weighing the respective advantages of these two offers. For example, it cannot be known in advance how soon the Rising Sun Company would install automatic lighting devices; nor, on tbe other band, is it certain that the Pressure Lighting Company would undertake the work of operating the lighting system even if it were awarded the contract on its informal offer, as the offer was not accompanied by a certified check, and the city has no guaranty of the financial responsibility of the company. The Rising Sun Company made its bid in good faith, within the time specified in the public advertisement, and accompanied the bid with a certified check for $5,000 as a guaranty of its willingness and ability to perform the contract. There can be no doubt as to its financial responsibility. If the case is to be decided upon a comparison of the advantages of closing a contract with one or the other of these two companies, some consideration should be given to the fact that the bid of thc Rising Sun Company was made in the regular way, while the offer of the Pressure Lighting Company was irregular. Some consideration may well be given to this fact for the sake of the city's reputation for fair treatment of bidders and observance of its published rules, a reputation which can be made a valuable business asset. Tbe known responsibility of the Rising Sun Company and the lack of knowledge concerning the financial status of the Pressure Lighting Company should also be considered; and another factor which, in the opinion of the commission, should be considered as favorable to the Rising Sun Company is that it would assume the entire risk of loss due to defective automatic devices, whereas, the city would have to assume the entire loss due to defective automatic devices if it accepted the offer of the Pressure Lighting Company. These three factors seem to be decisive in favor of the Rising Sun Company as against the Pressure Lighting Company.

4. Contract, or Municipal Ownership and Operation.

A. The Narrow Field of Competition.

The hope of inducing the Consolidated Gas Company, wbich furnishes the gas, to furnish the lighting equipment also, and to operate the system at a low figure, thus eliminating the middleman, has departed, as the company, for raesons of its own, has definitely declined to perform this service.

The city is therefore left to choose between the plan of owning and operating its own gas lighting equipment or accepting the bid of the Rising Sun Company. If the company should install automatic devices in either of the first two years of tbe contract, the average price for the ten-year term of the contract would be lower than any price the Rising Sun Company or any other responsible company has ever before offered to the city; even lower than the cost to the city under the terms of the offer made by the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, on June 23, 1909, namely $20.51, plus the cost to the city of installing lamps at its own expense. It is considerably lower than the price ($22.31), for which the Edison Electric Illuminating Company will furnish incandescent lamps. In the opinion of tbe commission it is lower than any other street lighting company can afford to offer, as sucb a company would have to make a large capital investment for lamps, whereas the Rising Sun Company has its lamps installed and its capital investment has already been returned to it in earnings from its previous contracts with tbe city.

B. Relative Illuminating Power of Uprigbt and Inverted Mantle Lamps.

The proposed contract, as already stated, provides more effective means for testing the lights, and enforcing penalties for failure to maintain them at 60 candle power, than the previous contracts provided. Inverted mantle lamps will give the required illumination, but upright mantle lamps will not unless reflectors are used and mantles are more frequently renewed than formerly. Even then, in the opinion of the commission, the upright lamps will not give as much illumination as inverted lamps would furnish. In weighing the respective merits of municipal operation under a system of inverted mantle lamps and the Rising Sun Company's system of upright mantle lamps, some allowance should be made for the superior illumination furnished by the inverted lamps. The use of inverted lamps by the Rising Sun Company, would require the removal of its upright lamps with accompanying loss, and involve a new expenditure of capital; and its representative has stated definitely that the company will not furnisb inverted lamps.

C. Tbe Principal Question Involved.

The main question to be decided by the Mayor and City Council is whether the city shall take half the net savings due to the use of automatic lighting devices installed at the expense and risk of the Rising Sun Company, or seek to obtain all the savings due to tbe use of such devices by installing them at its own expense and taking the risk of their failure to operate satisfactorily.

D. Tbe Capital Expenditure and the Estimated Savings.

The city would have to expend about $181,000 for inverted mantle lamps and from $88,000 to $132,000 for automatic devices, according to tbe type of automatic device selected; in other words, from $269,000 to $313,000. The commission's engineer has estimated the cost to the city of maintaining the inverted lamps and automatic devices through the use of its own labor force at $18.98 per lamp year. This includes interest and sinking fund charges computed on a ten-year hasis. As a result of this system the city will have better light, will pay for its plant during the ten years, and should save a considerahle sum hesides.

It is not expected that the Rising Sun Company or the city would be able to complete the installation of automatic devices earlier than one year after the heginning of the contract. The following comparative costs are figured upon that hasis. The average cost to the city, through the operation of its own system, for the ten years heginning August 1, 1911, would be $19.44 per lamp year. This assumes that in the year during which the city installs the automatic lighting devices it will pay $23.60 per lamp year for lighting, and for the remaining nine years after the installation has been completed $18.98 per lamp year. If the Rising Sun Company receives the contract and installs the automatic lighting devices in the first year the cost to the city would be $22.30 for the first year and $20.67 for each of the nine succeeding years, or an average of $20.83 per lamp year. In other words, the cost under municipal operation would he $1.39 less per year, or $152,900 less during the ten years even on the most favorable assumption to the Rising Sun Company. It is to he noted, however, that the contract does not give the Rising Sun Company the right to install automatic lighting devices on its own initiative, but compels it to ohtain the consent of the city, or if the city does not consent, to ohtain a decision of the hoard of experts requiring the installation. If through any cause the company did not install the automatic lighting devices, in that event the cost to the city would be $22.30 per lamp year for the entire ten years, or $2.86 more than the cost to the city under municipal operation of the lighting system. This would he an excess cost to the city of $314,600 in ten years.

Part of the great saving thus effected hy the city's operation of its own plant, as compared with the price it would have to pay the Rising Sun Company, will be due to the use hy the city of inverted mantle lamps which are cheaper to maintain than upright mantle lamps, such as the Rising Sun Company maintains; part will he due to the fact that only one supervisory force will he necessary, whereas two such forces would he required if the Rising Sun Company had the contract; part will he due to the taking hy the city of the profit of the middleman, exclusive of the saving hy automatic devices; and the greatest part will be due to the fact that the city will take all the savings effected hy the use of automatic devices instead of dividing them equally with the Rising Sun Company.

E. The Risks Involved.

In the opinion of the commission's engineer, there will be no danger of the total failure of automatic devices, nor even of such partial failure as to make it necessary for the city to consider returning to the hand-lighting system. The only risk would lie in making an investment in a particular device which might either be improved upon or excelled by another device invented at a later period. Such automatic devices must in any event be more economical than lighting hy hand, as an efficiency of hetween 95 per cent to 100 per cent has been shown hy tests of the present devices in this city and it is inconceivable that any superior device can he invented which could profitahly he substituted within the period of the contract. In some cases hetween 99 and 100 per cent of efficiency has heen reached, the highest known to the commission heing 99.76 per cent. The city would therefore take practically no risk in purchasing automatic devices; and it would take no appreciable risk in purchasing the inverted mantle lamps in connection with which automatic lighting devices would be used. There is no doubt that inverted mantle lamps would work well and give superior illumination to upright mantle lamps.

Practically the only risk which the city would take would be in operating its lighting system with its own labor force, which may prove inefficient and would therefore entail unnecessary expense. Thus, if the force should be increased unnecessarily, or those members of the present contractor's lamp lighting force who would not be needed for lamp lighting should be given positions in other city departments, created for them but not necessary in fact, at least part of the saving effected by the use of automatic lighting devices would disappear. In this event the cost to the city might he greater than it would have heen under the contract with the Rising Sun Company, provided that company had used automatic lighting devices.

If the situation were the same now as it was when the commission recommended the purchase hy the city of its own lighting equipment and its operation hy city lahor, the commission would renew such recommendations without hesitation. (See F. C. Rep., Vol. 6, pp. 71, 102). But the situation is entirely different now. The Rising Sun Company's price then was $23.60 per lamp year, or ahout $2.77 per lamp year more than the average price the city will have to pay if the company should install automatic devices in the first year of the proposed contract; in other words, the city would pay in the ten years under the new contract about $300,000 less than it would have to pay if the former rate prevailed. Moreover, the city will be hetter lighted than formerly as a result of the more stringent provisions for maintaining the lamps at 60 candle power.

The city could afford to encounter the dangers of municipal ownership and operation at the time the commission made the recommendations ahove referred to hetter than it can now, because the Rising Sun Company's price was then so high that the city would have been warranted in taking considerahle risk in order to obtain relief from an excessive hurden. That burden will be so greatly reduced, if the proposed contract with the Rising Sun Company works as favorably as it is expected to, that there is not nearly the same inducement for taking the risk of municipal ownership and operation as there was formerly.

The possible saving under municipal ownership and operation, however, of about $150,000 in ten years over the lowest anticipated cost under the proposed contract with the Rising Sun Company, plus the value of the lamps at the expiration of ten years, offers considerable inducement to the city for assuming the risk of inefficiency in its labor force and the padding of the payrolls. The automatic devices, as already noted, would he the property of the city, either in the event of the city installing its own plant, or in case of making the contract with the Rising Sun Company.

The risk of loss due to inefficiency in the lahor force is not so great as it would be in some other branches of the city's service, as there are more effective means of checking up the work of every employee engaged in the street lighting service than there are in most other kinds of municipal service, and therefore waste could more easily he prevented. Moreover, the possibility of padding the street lighting pay rolls would not be great, as the amount of work each employee should perform could be easily calculated. The maximum numher of lamplighters required under the present hand-lighting system is 128; and not over fifty of them would be required under the automatic lighting system for cleaning and repairing lamps and doing inspection duty. If an attempt were made to employ a number in excess of fifty, it would be such a flagrant waste of the city's money as to constitute a clear case for puhlic criticism.

Conclusion.

In view of the many factors involved in the problem, of the uncertainty of the final result of the experiment of municipal ownership and operation of a street lighting plant, and of the fact that the Rising Sun Company's offer is as low as could he reasonably expected from a company which intends to make a profit, the commission regards the company's offer with considerable favor; hut it helieves that the prohabilities of success in this particular experiment in municipal operation outweigh the chances of partial failure in the automatic devices or of inefficiency in the small labor force required. Therefore, viewing the matter merely from a financial standpoint, the commission recommends the purchase by the city of a complete equipment of inverted mantle lamps with automatic devices and the operation of the plant hy its own force.

Respectfully suhmitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
hy JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

APPENDIX A.

It is hereby agreed hetween the parties that by joint consent this contract may be modified as follows: If during the term hereof any automatic device for lighting and extinguishing said incandescent mantle lamps proves to the satisfaction of both parties hereto (a) to be obtainable, (b) to be practical in operation, (c) to reduce the cost of maintaining said lamps, then and in that event the contractor shall install such device on all or part of said lamps, when said device can be practically operated, at his own cost and expense, and will rebate the price paid by the city for each lamp hereunder a sum equal to 50 per cent of the net saving caused by the use of said device. The installation of such devices on each gas lamp in the service shall be completed within six months after the date on which the parties herein agree that said devices shall be installed. The cost of such installation, including the interest and sinking fund charges, computed upon the basis of the number of years the contract has to run beyond the date when the installation is completed, shall be ascertained and agreed upon; said cost shall then be divided by the total number of such devices installed in order to ascertain the cost of each such device. The saving per lamp year effected by the use of such devices shall be ascertained and agreed upon by the parties herein, and the cost per lamp year of such devices shall be deducted from the saving per lamp year thus ascertained, and shall be regarded as the net saving resulting from the use of such devices. The share of the net saving due the city shall be deducted from the contract price per lamp year.

All such devices as have been installed pursuant to these provisions shall become the property of the city upon the expiration of this contract.

In case of dispute as to the amount of net saving, the books of the contractor shall be audited by a certified public accountant to be chosen by the parties, whose report as to the amount of the net saving shall be accepted as final, conclusive and binding upon both parties, except as such accounts may be incorrect or evasive of the complete facts. If the parties cannot agree as to who shall audit the books of the contractor, the Commissioner of Public Works and a representative of the contractor shall select a third person to act with them in the selection of a certified public accountant to make the said audit, and the person chosen by the three persons aforesaid shall be accepted by the city and the contractor.

In case of disagreement between the City of Boston and the contractor as to the advisability of installing said device, such differences shall be determined and adjusted by three experts, one to be chosen by each party and the third by these two, and their decision shall be final and conclusive on both parties.

* It should be noted in connection with the above estimates that interest and sinking fund charges are estimated on a ten-year basis and that consideration should be given to the value of the plant at the end of that time. If interest and sinking fund charges are estimated on a fifteen-year basis, which may be fairly estimated as the time of the lamps becoming obsolete, the price estimated per lamp year in each case will be materially lower; in case of the upright mantle lamps 32 cents can be deducted, and in the case of the inverted mantle lamps, 44 cents.

APPENDIX C.

April 26, 1911.

To the Finance Commission:

Gentlemen,— I respectfully submit herewith the following criticisms of the estimates of the committee of the Lamplighters' Union for installing and operating under municipal control street lighting appliances with upright mantle burners and inverted mantle burners respectively. The criticisms, except as otherwise stated, apply to both of the estimates furnished by the Lamplighters' Union. Some of the inaccuracies in the estimates of the Lamplighters' Union are as follows:

The price of gas in the estimate for upright mantle lamps seems to be too low. It is not clear what basis was taken in calculating the probable amount of gas to be used, but whether an arbitrary amount of 12,000 feet per year was taken, or the actual amount burned at the rate of 3 cubic feet per hour for the schedule of 3,887 hours, the figures appear to be incorrect.

The estimate has also apparently neglected to allow for the fact that the price of gas is higher in East Boston and Charlestown than it is in the other parts of the city. The city will probably have to pay at the rate of 78 cents per thousand feet of gas furnished in all parts of the city, except East Boston and Charlestown; 85 cents in Charlestown and 90 cents in East Boston. There are 530 gas lamps in Charlestown and 555 in East Boston. As each lamp will consume about 12,000 feet of gas per year and the cost per thousand feet in Charlestown and East Boston is respectively 7 and 12 cents more than in other parts of the city, the cost per lamp year in Charlestown and East Boston respectively will be 84 cents and $1.54 per lamp year more than in other parts of the city, and this excess will raise the total cost to $9.47 per lamp year, or 11 cents above the estimated cost on the basis of 78 cent gas for the 11,000 lamps provided for in the contract.

The union has also based its estimate of labor cost upon the assumption that each lamplighter would cover a route containing 90 lamps. The lamplighters are able to cover a 90-lamp route for the present contract, but it is doubtful that they would do so if they were directly employed by the city. When they were directly employed by the city the average number of lamps per lamplighter's route was 84 and it is probable that they would not cover a larger route than they did formerly. On the basis of an 84-lamp route, the labor cost will be $9.77 per lamp year, or 64 cents more than their present estimate for upright mantle lamps, and $1.56 more than their estimate for inverted mantle lamps.

In my opinion the union has also underestimated the number of globes, domes, chimneys, mantles and burners required for efficient maintenance of the lamps on a 60 candle power basis in both estimates. To maintain the upright mantle lamps at the same low candle power as formerly, the equipment upon which the union furnished its estimate might possihly be sufficient if extraordinary precautions were taken against waste, but if the lamps are maintained at 60 candle power or more, as the city's interests require, the amount of equipment estimated by the union would he entirely inadequate.

The union has also omitted to allow anything for the following items:

1. Painting lamps and posts.
2. Torches, ladders and cleaning materials.
3. Interest charges on stock on hand not in use.
4. Damages resulting from fire or accident.
5. Office charges in addition to present charges, including telephone, postage, stationery, blank forms of reports and office furniture.
6. Expense of maintaining a laboratory for testing lamps.
7. Cost of changing location of lamps.

The union has estimated $6,000 for the maintenance of the repair shop. A committee of the Lamplighters Union has informed me that this amount included salaries, rent and teaming. It is possihle under city control that the pay roll cost of maintaining the repair shop, including the services of a superintendent, two assistants, a clerk, a stock keeper and watchmen, would amount to approximately $6,000, an amount in excess of the actual needs, but prohahly no greater than what the city would expend if it undertook the management of the shop. There would also have to he an expenditure for tools and mechanical appliances. An amount of at least $1,300 per year ahould he included for teaming, and a hookkeeping charge of $1,200 per year for rent on account of the fact that under the present contract the city receives $1,200 per year for its shop from the Rising Sun Company.

The union also seems to have fallen into error in assuming that the depreciation charge for the lighting plant would he only $2,000 a year for upright mantle lamps, and only $2,200 for an inverted mantle equipment. The estimated cost of the plant with upright mantles is $126,500, and the depreciation charge of $2,000 per year seems to he hased upon the theory that the average life of a lamp is sixty-three years. No lamps of either type can fairly be expected to last one-half of this period, and, moreover, it is almost certain that the upright mantle type of lamp will he ohsolete in fifteen years, or less than one-fourth of that period.

The union, though making an allowance for interest on the honds sold to purchase the plants, has made no allowance for a sinking fund charge. In my opinion interest and sinking fund charges should hc hased upon the bonds issued for a term of fifteen years, the estimated life of the equipment. On this basis, with interest charges at 3½ per cent and sinking fund income at 3½ per cent, compounded semiannually, on an investment of $126,500, the annual sinking fund and interest charges would he approximately $11,550, or $1.05 per lamp year. The union's allowance, however, for both interest and depreciation charges for upright lamps amounts to only 64 cents per lamp year, or 41 cents less than would he required for interest and sinking funds. In estimating the actual cost of municipal operation, as contained in Appendix B, a ten-year period has been assumed as a hasis for calculating interest and sinking fund charges. On this basis the annual charges would he $1.28 per lamp year, or 64 cents more than the union's estimate. The value of the plant at the end of the ten-year period should be taken into consideration.

As regards the cost of an upright mantle lamp equipment, in my opinion the price of $11.50 estimated by the union is too high and a suitahle plant should not cost more than $9.50 per lamp.

The estimate of the Lamplighters' Union is so defective as to he of little value in making a comparison with the price offered by the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company.

Respectfully submitted,
GUY C. EMERSON,
Consulting Engineer.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON BRANCH LIBRARIES.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Committee on Branch Libraries, suhmitted the following:

City of Boston,
City Council, May 1, 1911.

The Special Committee of the City Council on Branch Libraries hegs leave to submit the following report:

The fifty-eighth annual report of the Board of Trustees of the Puhlic Library of the City of Boston for the year ending January 31, 1910, addressed to his Honor John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor, called attention to the need of hetter hranch huildings in various sections of our city and invited the attention of the City Council especially to the matter of hetter accommodations for some of our hranch libraries and reading room stations and expressed the hope that an examination of them would he made.

Nothing was done hy the city government during the year 1910 in regard to this matter and the fifty-ninth annual report of the Board of Trustees for the year ending January 31, 1911, again called attention to it. As a result of these two reports of the trustees a committee of three members of the City Council of 1911 was appointed, which committee has made an examination of the branch libraries and reading room stations and presents various recommendations herein contained to the City Council.

Boston has a most beautiful municipal central library huilding but its branch buildings and branch reading stations are uninviting and inadequate, and some sections of the city are without proper branch library facilities and accommodations. A general scheme or municipal plan for branch huildings in the various districts of the city should be carefully evolved which when fully carried out would place Boston in the proud position of having the best equipped and most properly located and the best public serving library system in the United States; a library system which would comprise the central building and modern up-to-date district branches. The committee believes that it would be a wise expenditure of money if the city could and would provide $60,000 or $70,000 each year for the next ten years for the erection of modern branch buildings in the districts of the city in which the need is greatest. The branch libraries should be operated in separate, independent buildings which are devoted to no other use or uses but solely for library purposes and specially adapted therefor in order to properly provide for library work. This would be an improvement in our library system and accords with the views of the delegates to the International Congress of Archivists and Librarians, which congress was held at Brussels, August 28–31, 1910.

The North End District.

We are of the opinion that there should be a building for a new branch at a proper place in the North End of Boston and that money should be provided for this at once. Better library facilities appear to be absolutely necessary and it is for the good of the entire city that this should be done, bearing in mind the interests of all the people of Boston.

The present small and crowded rooms at the North End Industrial School are inadequate for library purposes and improperly supply the large and increasing population of children. There are many public schools in this district and a great number of pupils in attendance who could make good use of the books contained in a branch library.

In this connection we desire to say that there should be co-operation with the educational work of the schools and the closest relations should exist between the schools and the libraries, the libraries supplementing the work of the class room; and the location of the branch building should be in relation with the school as recommended by the Congress of Archivists and Librarians.

The Board of Trustees has investigated the matter of obtaining land and building for a branch at the North End and have reported that the city can purchase an estate now occupied by the Church of St. John, Baptist, on North Bennet street, comprising 4,980 feet of land with a substantial building thereon, for the assessed valuation of $38,000, and that the Board has taken an option to the city to purchase the estate at any time within ninety days from March 15, 1911, at the above price, which the trustees believe to be reasonable. The trustees also reported that the location was a proper one in their judgment and that the building can be remodeled for $38,000 for second class construction and for $42,000 for first class construction (the latter they recommend as better economy), and that $5,000 will be necessary for library fittings and furnishings, making a total of $85,000 to accomplish the purpose which they deem desirable.

The committee recommends that the suggestions of the trustees be adopted and that a loan of $85,000 be authorized for branch public library in the North End for land, building and equipment, and further recomends that the appropriate committee of the City Council make inquiry as to the value of the land and building, and also inquire of the architects as to the possibility or feasibility of reconstructing the present building.

Adjacent to or in the immediate vicinity of the estate which the trustees propose to acquire are the following named schools: Christopher Columbus, Eliot, Paul Revere, Hancock, Cushman, North Bennet Industrial and St. Anthony's.

Nearby this municipal center are branch post office, North End Playground, the municipal gymnasium, St. Stephen's Catholic Church and the Baptist Bethel.

The committee has been informed by Principal Assessor Edward B. Daily that it is his belief that this property is fairly assessed, and First Assistant Assessor Harry C. Byrne who made the assessment has written to Mr. Daily stating that he considers the property assessed about right to the best of his judgment.

East Boston District.

The need of a branch building in East Boston is very great because the work is carried on in rooms which are not suited for library purposes. The entrance to the branch is very uninviting and in fact dangerous. This is a crowded and busy branch in an unsatisfactory location. The lower floor of the building (the old Lyman School) is occupied by the East Boston District Court and part of the building is at present used as a school. Police Station 7 is directly opposite.

This branch serves Wards 1 and 2 and is the first branch library established by the city and opened in 1871, and occupies the same rooms to-day without any substantial alterations that it occupied in 1871, when established.

The committee believes that East Boston should be provided with a separate building centrally and suitably located as soon as the finances of the city will permit.

Charlestown District.

A new and more accessible location with a new building should replace the inconvenient branch located at the old Charlestown City Hall building, the quarters of which are inconvenient and not very pleasant.

There is an appropriation of $30,000 now available for land and building in the district but this sum is deemed insufficient by the library trustees.

The committee believes that Charlestown, like East Boston, should be provided with a new building for library purposes.

South Boston District.

The library in this section is in a reading room in leased premises above a bank, and there has been practically no change made in the quarters since 1872. This great section of the city requires an independent library building.

Cove District (so called).

This section of the city is served by the Broadway extension reading room, which is poorly located and has very bad accommodations.

The room now used will not accommodate more than sixty persons and is poorly ventilated and is subject to the noise made by the Boston Elevated Railway trains which pass overhead nearby.

The one small room serves both young and old and is very much used and frequented. This place should be abandoned as soon as possible. The trustees and the committee believe that a branch building is not necessary for library purposes in this district and agree that one large, well lighted, suitable room would be sufficient for the needs of this locality, and the trustees, we understand, would not object if a large room were provided in the proposed municipal building for Ward 7.

Other Districts.

Demands and requests have been received from citizens in other sections of the city, especially from the Germantown and Savin Hill districts, in addition to the districts noted above, and the trustees and the committee believe that it is inexpedient and impossible at this time to furnish additional library buildings and facilities.

Thanks of the Committee.

The committee desires to thank the Board of Trustees of the Boston Public Library for the kindness which was shown by them to the committee during examination and investigation of the branches and of the needs of the various sections of the city, and also to thank the librarian, Horace G. Wadlin, for his kindness and for information furnished, and we desire to compliment the trustees and the librarian because of the efficient and courteous employees in charge of the various branches and reading rooms.

Recommendations.

(1) General municipal plan or scheme of branch library buildings.

(2) Establish one branch each year for ten years if city finances will permit.

(3) Have independent, separate buildings as a rule for library uses solely.

(4) Provide money at once for new building at North End.

(5) Adopt suggestions of Board of Trustees and authorize loan of $85,000 for land, building and equipment.

(6) Provide buildings for East Boston, Charlestown and South Boston when feasible from financial standpoint.

(7) Abandon Broadway extension reading room and provide suitable reading room for Cove district, so called.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN J. ATTRIDGE,
EARNEST E. SMITH,
TIMOTHY J. BUCKLEY.

Report accepted, and ordered printed as a city document, on motion of Coun. ATTRIDGE.

BRANCH LIBRARIES.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Committee on Branch Libraries, submitted the following:

(1) Report on message of Mayor and communications (referred April 3), relative to new branch library at North End—recommending the passage of the following:

That the sum of eighty-five thousand dollars ($85,000) be appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the Library Trustees, for land, building and equipment of branch public library at North End, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, the Committee on Branch Libraries consists of Coun. Smith, Buckley and myself. At a meeting which was held last week it was decided to recommend that the suggestions of the Library Trustees be adopted, and that a loan of $85,000 be authorized for a branch public library building in the North End to care for the needs of the people of that particular district. The report submitted by this special committee states that the proper committee of the City Council, whether it be the Executive Committee or the Committee on Finance, should make an investigation as to the value of the property which the Library Trustees intend or propose to take for this branch public library building and that the proper committee also make inquiry of the architects who have been employed by the Library Trustees as to the feasibility of using the building which is proposed to be used by the Library Trustees, remodeling it for library purposes. I think the committee were of one accord in the recommendation that something should be done at once in the North End of Boston in the way of a branch public library building and the committee has recommended that this Council appropriate by loan $85,000 for this purpose. Some of the members of the Council may ask how that sum was arrived at. I might say that the Library Trustees after investigation have reported that $85,000 would be necessary for the land, building and equipment—$38,000 for the land, $42,000 for renovating the building which they have proposed to take, and $5,000 for the equipment of the library building. I trust, as a member of that committee, that the Committee on Finance, to which I trust and expect that this order for the loan will be referred, will in its judgment pass the order for this money—that is, if the committee believes, as the Library Committee believes, that this is necessary, taking into consideration the needs of the city as a whole, and I think this particular item for the branch public library building should be threshed out alone and on its merits, not in connection with any other loan item or loan order that might come before this Council. Again I repeat that I trust that the Committee on Finance will see the wisdom of appropriating this money this year for this purpose in the North End of Boston.

The order was referred under the rule to the Committee on Finance,

(2) Report on petition and order (referred April 10), that the library trustees consider the expediency of locating a branch library and reading room in the vicinity of Savin Hill avenue and Sydney street, Dorchester—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

(3) Report on message of Mayor and communication (referred April 24), relative to the yearly rental of the Shawmut Avenue Branch Public Library the assessed value of the land and building, etc.,—that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; communications and order placed on file.

MACADAMIZING OF SAXTON STREET.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to macadamize Saxton street from Savin Hill avenue to Romsey street, Ward 20.

Passed.

PLAYGROUND FOR MATTAPAN.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Public Grounds be authorized to hire for playground purposes the Woodman Jones estate on River street, Mattapan; the expense not to exceed two hundred dollars to be charged to the appropriation for Public Grounds Department.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, this order is introduced at the request of Representative Hart of Ward 24. He made the statement that this piece of land is hired every year by the Public Grounds Department for playground purposes in that section of the city. I don't know whether that is so or not, but he made that statement; and, of course, if that has been the case in the past it ought to be done this year. With that idea in mind I introduce the order.

The order was passed.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to make the nesessary repairs in the sidewalks along both sides of Thane street, between Athelwold and Park streets, Ward 20.

Passed.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Athelwold street, between Spencer and Millet streets, Ward 20, in front of the estates bordering thereon; said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, the work to be done under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

TRANSFER OF LAND, WARD 21.

Coun. BALLANTYNE offered an order—That the care and custody of that strip of tree planted land lying on the east side of Elm Hill avenue, between Schuyler street and Seaver street, Ward 21, be transferred from the Public Works Department to the Superintendent of Public Grounds.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

BUILDING OF "ZOO," ETC.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to consider the advisability of employing the men in the Park Department for the erection of the buildings, etc., contemplated for the "Zoo" and Aquarium, if in their opinion the work could be done as cheaply and as well as by contract.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, this order asks the Mayor to request the Park Commissioners to consider the advisability of employing men in the Park Department in the erection of the buildings contemplated for the Zoo and Aquarium, if in the opinion of the Park Commission that work can be done as cheaply by the city itself as by contract labor. The City of Boston expends a great deal of money through its annual appropriations for the Park Department. Our last appropriation was $385,000. That is a great sum for the carrying on of one department of our city.

I do not say that the money is not well spent, that it is not judiciously spent. I make no statement as to whether the men in the Park Department are constantly employed or not. But it seems to me that this department might be able to compete with private contractors in doing its work—that is, in the erection of the proper buildings for the Zoo. We have in the Park Department about a dozen carpenters; we have plumbers and masons, machinists, painters and iron workers. I think most of those men are skilled in their own particular trades and lines, and it may be that the city itself can do this work and do it as cheaply as a private contractor. Some one may say that the City Council has no right to interfere with the work of any department. I think we have a right, as members of this Council, to appropriate money for the carrying on of the work of the department, and I think we have a right, as members of the Council who will pass upon the expenditure of the Parkman money — and I think I have a right as a member of the Committee on Parkman Fund— to suggest such an order as this. I believe that if the city can do this work as cheaply as a private contractor and if the city has the skilled labor that can do the work as well, the city should do it and not the contractor.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, may I inquire as to two things of Coun. Attridge—first, as to whether he intends to have additional labor put on, or whether this is simply to employ the present laborers during idle time?

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Did I understand you to say "during idle time"?

Coun. SMITH—Yes.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—I cannot say to the gentleman on the other side that the men in the Park Department have at present any idle time. The order simply calls upon the Park Commissioners to consider the advisability of this. If the men in the department at present have no idle time there is no doubt but what the Park Commissioners will notify his Honor to that effect and say that the Park Department cannot do the work. The Park Commissioners would have to decide, if they thought they could do the work, whether the men in the department at present could do it or whether it would be necessary to have more men. That would be something for them to say, and I think they probably would say it to the Mayor in a communication to him if such an order as this were passed.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it seems to me that this would properly fall under the Building Department and not under the Park Department; that we as a Council have scarcely any right to interfere with the Park Department, asking them to construct these buildings in this way or to even consider the advisability of it. It is only a roundabout way of asking them to do it. It would properly come under another department of the city, and it seems to me better to leave it to that department, especially as it would necessitate taking on more men in the Park Department, and of course it is common knowledge that, a department having once taken on men, it is very hard to take them off. It would probably result in the permanent increase of the pay roll. For that reason it seems to me it would be better to leave it to the proper department and not to interfere with the carrying on of the Park Department, something which we properly have no right to do. We had better leave it to the Building Department; and a second reason why we had better leave it to them is that it would increase the pay roll of the Park Department, thereby tending to permanently increase the pay roll I hope the order will not pass.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I would have no objection to an amendment of the order to read that the Mayor request the head of the Building Department and the Park Commissioners to consider the advisability of doing this work in this way. I do not believe that we are interfering in any way with the work of these departments. I believe we are here in the interests of the city as a whole, and I think that if we as members of the City Council can save the city any money in the erection of these buildings by asking the Mayor to suggest to the various heads of departments consideration of the advisability of those departments doing the work, we are not violating the law, and I do not believe we are interfering with the work or the management of the departments. That is my personal opinion.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I don't see where the Building Department comes into this question of the building of the Zoo or the Aquarium. This money was appropriated to the Park Department for that purpose and the Building Department has nothing to do with the expenditure of that money. I don't think we have any right to request or to instruct the Park Department in any way in regard to the expenditure of that money. I am of the opinion that this work could probably be done as well and as economically by day labor as by contract, and if any word that may be spoken here by the members of the Council will induce the Park Department to follow out suggestions along that line, very well; but as for passing an order here requesting them to do either one thing or the other in the expenditure of that money I think it is entirely contrary to the spirit of the charter, and I for one hope that this order will not prevail.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

RECESS.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. HALE, at 4.44 p. m., to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair. The members reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by President COLLINS at 5.54 p. m.

COURTHOUSE, SOUTH BOSTON.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the sum of sixty-five thousand dollars ($65,000) be appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Buildings, for new courthouse in South Boston, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, in 1909 a special committee of the City Council to investigate the conditions of the accommodations for persons awaiting trial in various municipal court buildings made two reports and recommended that there be included in the loan bill of that year three sums of money for three distinct purposes—one sum for a new combination courthouse and police station in the Charlestown district, one sum for a new combination courthouse and police station in East Boston, and another sum for a new courthouse in South Boston. That committee, of which Mr. Hale was chairman and I was a member, reported as to the conditions which existed in the city. Money was authorized for a new courthouse and police station in East Boston, but that building for which the money was authorized and for which the loan was issued, as I understand, has never been erected because of the inability of the people of East Boston to decide as to a proper location for the building. But, while the money for East Boston has been authorized, nothing has been done by the city government in reference to either Charlestown or South Boston. As I say, the same conditions that existed two years ago in Charlestown and South Boston exist to-day. A few days ago my attention was called to the fact that his Honor Justice Fallon of the South Boston District Court called the attention of the Mayor to the condition of that courthouse, and I noticed that the article stated that the court building was not suitable, that it was not fit for human beings to use. Document 117 of the Board of Aldermen of 1909 states what the conditions are in South Boston and Charlestown. In my opinion something should be done by the city government to remedy the conditions which exist. I shall not take up the time of the Council now to tell what those conditions are. The conditions are exposed in those two reports. I trust that the Committee on Finance this year will consider these items for the Charlestown and South Boston districts, that these items will be considered as like the item for the North Bennet street public library building, on its merits and on its merits alone, without tacking these items to other items and making a big, gigantic loan bill. The needs of the entire city should be taken into consideration by the Committee on Finance when these items are before the committee. As I understand, $30,000 is available at the present time for a courthouse in South Boston. As a member of the committee which investigated the conditions there two years ago, I desire to say that something should be done in righting the wrongs which we have done as members of the city government to these two great districts of our city.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I simply want to say a word on this before it is referred, reiterating what Coun. Attridge has said as to the importance of this matter. I feel with him that the matter should not he put through to-day but should be referred to the Committee on Finance to he considered with a view to the interests of the city as a whole and with any other loans that are to be considered, acting upon such matters as in the judgment of the committee are most important. If we haven't money enough for this I think it should he postponed; but in my opinion we will find that the South Boston Courthouse is the most important improvemcnt needed in the city to-day, to be provided for by loan. That is only my personal opinion, but I shall do my best to convince other members of thc Committee on Finance that that is so. It interested me a great deal when I was in Montreal last week to read the leading editorial in the leading Montreal paper, the Montreal Star. As you know, I worked very hard on this courthouse matter two ycars ago with Coun. Attridge and we nearly got it through, hut it was very difficult to arouse public opinion on the matter because people were not interested in jails or whether inhuman conditions existed in them or not. But I fully helieve that during the next five years public opinion will he awakened here in Boston. The conditions we have in Boston are merely relics of the middle ages, and we ought to be ashamed to sit here and allow them to continue a single month more. It is not a question entirely of the money we can spend. Of course we have to take into consideration the city's financial needs; but anything that allows conditions such as we find here to exist is disgraceful and we ought to horrow money to put a stop to it. I would like to read this editorial from the Montreal Star. It is headed "Our Inhuman Jail," and is as follows:

"It will be Fehruary hefore there is any chance of the ncw jail being ready for occupancy, and there is only a chance of its being ready hy that time. Pending its completion, the unfortunates who are sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from two weeks to two years"—you see there are long term men there, which makes it worse than ours in that particular—"will continue to serve out their time in the old Delorinier avenue building where, in addition to close confinement, they incur all the added punishments which come from overcrowding, from a lack of anything approaching proper sanitary arrangements, from the ahsence of ventilation, and from the presence everywhere of a swarm of vermin. None of these extra punishments are prescribed by law; in passing sentence, a magistrate does not enumerate them. It is only charitable to hope that he knows littlc ahout them, or that, knowing a little, he thinks of them as seldom as possihle."

Now, this is the important part, and it shows that Coun. Attridge's and my attitude on this is not one only of humanity to the prisoners. We do not care in the least about having shower baths for them and plush lined seats. It is not because we wish to make things comfortable for them, but in hehalf of the community as a whole that we want proper action taken; and I think the last part of this editorial which I am now going to read will make that point clear:

"As a matter of fact, confinement for any period in the present jail under existing conditions is very apt to result in the moral hankruptcy of any young prisoner and the physical bankruptcy of any old one. There is no effective segregation on any lines or for any cause;"—just as true here in Boston—"the physical conditions will not permit of it. The unspeakahly vile, and the youngster who has only been soiled by sin are herdcd together; the horrihly diseased are thrown into continuous and intimate contact with those who are still uncontaminated; the cocaine fiend and the weakling ready to turn to any desperate expedient for relief from his misery are made to hohnob together. Of all agencies for the propagation of crime, for the spread of infection—physical as well as moral—for the crushing out of any hope of better things and for the tying of mill stones around the necks of unfortunates, we feel safe in commending the present Montreal jail as representing almost the last word on the suhject."

And I would like to add from my personal experience that the Boston jails—and I have been through every single one of them and studied them carefully with Coun. Attridge—are just as bad in their conditions as the one in Montreal. I hope the Council will takc another step forward, the same as the Council of two years ago did, and will put a stop to these conditions.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would like to say a word on this proposition. I feel as do the other councilors with relation to the absence of Coun. Kenny, and I do not feel that he should be placed in a wrong light on this particular proposition. I talked with him last week and urged upon him the advisahility of doing something in the matter. He said he would call a meeting of the committee on finance within a very few weeks and consider this with other propositions. I want to say in this connection that I have an order here in my desk dated Octoher 4, 1910, bearing upon this particular proposition, ordering the committee on finance to consider and report on the advisability of providing a suitahle sum of money for a court house in South Boston. I refrained from introducing the order in the hope that Coun. Kenny as a representative of the South Boston district would see the wisdom of taking some action upon this matter. I want to say in connection with the order offered that I think the sum designated, $65,000 is merely a tentative sum and can he changed at the discretion of the committee on finance. I think the committee on finance, and in fact, the entire board, who visited the South Boston Courthouse a year ago, were agreeablc to an appropriation of $125,000 to $150,000 for a suitahle huilding, and I trust, as Coun. Hale has pointed out, that they will see the advisability of appropriating a sufficient sum to erect a building that will reflect credit on the city. I want to say in this connection that I do not feel that the committee, the chairman or any member of it, are justified in depending upon the recommendations of the Finance Commission as to their mode of procedure in committce mceting, and while perhaps there is some justification with a policy of ex-economy in relation to public huildings and certain other expenditures, I do not feel that conditions warrant the pursuance of that policy to the extreme that has heen contemplated during the past two years. I wish to say in this connection, that we are considerably behind not only European cities but other cities on this continent. I had occasion to take dinner on Saturday with the Minister Plenipotentiary of the Argentine Repuhlic, Señor Rinaldo S. Naon, former Commissioner of Education, and, speaking along this line, he pointed out the fact, that it is customary in the Argentine Repuhlic in the construction of schoolhouses to expend a sum of not less than $2,000,000 upon every schoolhouse that will house 500 pupils. If anyone in the City of Boston were to advance a proposition of that character and it should hy any means be brought before the Finance Commission for their consideration there is a possibility that they would require medical attendance before they would be ahle to consider it. They do not call them schools there, they call them palaces of education. But here in the City of Boston we talk over the question of making an improvement for one, two, three, five or ten years, and after we are defeated for puhlic office and a new hatch of men is elected, they come in and talk the same things over for a similar period, until they are required, and those who succeed them continue to talk them over. I sincerely trust that the chairman of the Committee on Finance will see the wisdom of an early meeting of that committee and speedy action, in order that long delayed justice may be done to the people of the South Boston district.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I would like to say just a word on this matter. The only ohjection I have to the order is that it contemplates too small an amount. I do not think $65,000 is anything like an adequate sum to provide such a building as is needed in South Boston. I agree with Coun. Hale and Attridge that if there is any section of the city that requires a new courthouse it is South Boston. I have said so for over one year, and hope the order will he amended in some way so as to provide a suitahle sum for the purposes of the district. There are two districts that require special attention this year, I helieve, Charlestown and South Boston, and I stand here ready to vote for an appropriation for these improvements at any time. I think the most important of all the needed courthouses is that of South Boston, and the matter of next importance to my mind is a playground for Ward 5 in Charlestown. I sincerely hope that the chairman of the Committee on Finance will call that committee together and take action on these very important matters.

The order was referred to the Committee on Finance.

COURTHOUSE, ETC., CHARLESTOWN.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the sum of eighty thousand dollars ($80,000) he appropriated, to he expended hy the Superintendent of Puhlic Buildings, for new comhination courthouse and police station, Charlestown, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer he authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, honds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

(6) Report on order (referred April 17) that the Superintendent of Puhlic Grounds purchase and operate at cost swan hoats and row boats on the Puhlic Garden—that the order ought not to pass.

The question came on the acceptance of the report, and the rejection of the order.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, in order to have the things I said in the Executive Committee go into the records, I desire to say again that I helieve that is not a matter of dollars and cents, hecause if I thought it was such I would consider it a very, very simple matter. It is more a matter of principle—whether we intend to try to make money from our puhlic parks hy the letting of such privileges. If we do decide to do this—and I may say that this is only a recent development in connection with our puhlic grounds and parks—there is no reason why we should not extend the principle to the selling of other privileges, the privilege of using the pond to skate, the privilege of using the henches and settees, the privilege of using our school halls and our wardrooms for meetings, charging more than the mere expense in connection with those different privileges. That may he a very good principle and it might result in a very considerahle amount of money coming into the city treasury but I do not believe such to be the attitude of our city. I do not helieve that if this Council adopted such a principle hroadcast it would he supported hy the citizens of Boston. This is only an opening wedge for such treatment of these things generally throughout the city. I believe we ought to run this department, if it is worth running, at cost. We should not tax the children of the North and West Ends who primarily use these hoats in order that a profit may he made hy the city and a profit made hy the contractor. The profit must he considerable; we have no accurate means of knowing what it is. In spite of the fact that the contractor gives away tickets to a large number of children, or gives a reduced rate to a large numher of children, nevertheless the profit is considerable. It is $300 to the city and runs into the thousands for himself, and I am ahsolutely against that principle. If the city adopts that principle, as it was adopted under the first administration of Mayor Fitzgerald, there is no reason for not extending the principle. I believe the principle is wrong. I helieve the citizens of this town are taxed for the maintenance of the parks, and the parks are intended to he free, ahsolutely free, especially to the children from the North and West Ends, who use these boats primarily. I am absolutely against the city trying to make revenue from this source. If it is a question of revenue, there is no reason why we should not charge for our wardrooms and high school halls considerably more than the necessary charge for attendance, lighting and janitor service, and we might get considerahle revenue. It is not that I criticise the way these hoats are run, hecause I have said hefore, and I still think, that they are run very creditably. My position in this matter is entirely as a matter of principle, and I think although this is a small matter it is a good one to test the principle upon. I hope the order will not be rejected.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I think the fundamental thing in this question is whether by this change we can get any cheaper fares for the boys and girls of the North, South and West Ends, who use these boats, and I have not seen any figures presented to this Council in any way, shape or manner, which would show that if the city ran the boats it would be able to have the fares a single cent cheaper. Coun. Smith says the principle is that we ought not to make money out of the parks. I say the principle is that we ought to give the privilege to the poor people at as low a rate as we can, and furnish as good service as we can. Until Coun. Smith can prove that under some other management we can get better service at the same price or the same service at a less price, we ought to stay where we are now.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, if Coun. Hale wishes to amend the motion so as to read "pending a report giving facts and figures," I shall be very glad to accept such amendment.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I am perfectly willing to offer an amendment of that kind. If Coun. Smith wishes more time in connection with the matter along that line I think it is perfectly fair. If he can convince us that with fares of four or three cents we will get as good service, I shall be glad to have him do so. I move, therefore, that the matter lie on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was declared lost. Coun. Curley doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The motion to lay on the table was lost, yeas 3; nays 4.

Yeas—Coun. Curley, Hale, Smith—3.

Nays—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Buckley, Collins, McDonald—5.

The report was accepted and the order rejected.

PLAN OF HIGH PRESSURE.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the Fire Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit to the City Council, at his earliest convenience, a plan of the proposed high pressure fire service, said plan to show location of stations, pumps, and mains.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, this is simply carrying out what we talked of in the Executive Committee, requesting more definite information about the high pressure system. I think without any doubt it is advisable to pass this, as we recommended in our resolution some time ago; but, nevertheless, we would like to know the details of such a large expenditure of money. It seems to me, in view of the recent disaster in Bangor, we ought to push this matter along to a rapid conclusion. I think this should be taken together with the insurance of buildings. Our public buildings need protection and they need insurance, and while it is not exactly germane to the matter, I hope the matter of insurance which was reported back to us to-day by the Corporation Counsel will be acted on to-day. It seems to me that we ought to face the fire hazard that is being met in one city after another. It is not a long cry back to the 1872 fire in Boston. We have in our memories very vividly the fire in San Francisco and the recent fire in Bangor; and we should consider very seriously not only the question of high pressure mains but absolute insurance against such general havoc as a large fire might cause, involving also the tremendous burden which would be imposed on the taxpayers in any one year. I hope, therefore, that the order will pass and will receive prompt attention.

The order was passed.

PENSION FOR E. BRADFORD GAY.

Coun. McDONALD offered an order—That in accordance with the provisions of chapter 209, Acts of 1911, E. Bradford Gay, a veteran of the Civil War and late master of the Warren Grammar School of the City of Boston, be granted a pension of $50 dollars per month, the same to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

REPAIR OF ZEIGLER STREET.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested to place in condition suitable for public travel, Zeigler street, Ward 17.

TIME OFF FOR PENAL EMPLOYEES.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Penal Institutions Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to give all employees in the Institutions Department at Deer Island one day off in seven as is now done at the State Prison.

MUNICIPAL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

I recommend the passage of the accompanying order, appropriating the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000), to be expended under the direction of the Bath Department for the purpose of encouraging athletic sports among the boys and girls of the city through the organization known as the Municipal Athletic Association, which has been recently formed. Similar work has been undertaken in the past by Boston–1915, but it seems to me that it will be more effective if carried on under municipal auspices and directed by a branch of the government which is devoted to public recreation. The work of the association will include field and track sports, swimming, baseball and other games suitable for developing vigorous muscles, sound constitutions and those habits of individual self-control and united action which are so important an element in good citizenship. The plan of the association contemplates a general advisory committee with local committees, and its primary aim is to interest working girls and boys who, under expert supervision, are believed to offer a promising field for the labors of those who are enthusiastic in this cause. If the association develops, as I trust it will, Boston, which has had the first indoor and outdoor gymnasia in the world, will once more take the lead by founding the first municipal athletic association.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000) be appropriated, to be expended in accordance with the program of the Municipal Athletic Association, under the direction of the Bath Trustees, and that said sum be met by taxes to the amount so appropriated, and be raised by tax on the polls and estates taxable in the City of Boston.

The communication was declared referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would move a reconsideration of that reference, and if that prevails I shall move reference to the Committee on Ordinances, which meets to-morrow night. At that time, as I understand, we are likely to take up the matter of the Recreation Department, and we may want to consider this. For that reason I move reconsideration of the reference.

Reference to the Executive Committee was reconsidered and, on motion of Coun. KENNY, the matter was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

SEATING ACCOMMODATIONS, PUBLIC GROUNDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

Criticism having been made of the lack of seating accommodations in various portions of the park system and in some of the public grounds, I addressed inquiries to the heads of the Park and Public Grounds Departments and learned that the need of additional seats was recognized by them, but owing to the lack of specific appropriations it was impossible to meet the demand. I recommend, therefore, the passage of the accompanying orders, appropriating four thousand dollars ($4,000) for the Public Grounds Department, and three thousand dollars ($3,000) for the Park Department, for additional seating facilities. A letter from Superintendent Sullivan is appended hereto.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Grounds Department,
May 6, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Referring to inquiries from your office regarding the number of settees on our parks and squares, and the advisability of increasing same, I would strongly recommend that 1,000 additional settees be purchased and distributed on the various public parks. During the warm season the demand for seats is very great, and at the present time the number of settees to each district is limited. Based on our former purchases a first-class wrought-iron settee may be had for approximately $4, or $4,000 or thereabouts for the proposed 1,000. I am sure such a movement would be very much appreciated by the public at large.

Respectfully yours,
D. H. SULLIVAN, Superintendent.

Ordered, That the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000) be appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund, to be expended by the Public Grounds Department, for the purchase of additional seating accommodations for parks and squares under the control of said department.

Ordered, That the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) be appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund, to be expended by the Park Department, for providing additional seating accommodations in the parks and grounds under the control of said department.

Referred to the Committee on Parkman Fund.

RECEPTION TO VETERAN REGIMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from Representative William S. Hoyt, of the Thirteenth Essex District, who writes as a representative of the surviving members of the First Massachusetts Regiment Volunteer Infantry in the Civil War. The survivors of this regiment intend to hold a reunion upon the fiftieth anniversary of the date of their mustering in as a regiment. They have a peculiar claim upon the city as they were largely recruited from Boston and were not only the first three-year regiment in the war but the first that went to the front with over one thousand men. Owing to the fact that their companies were recruited from existing militia organizations these veterans are considerably older than the average and it is doubtful whether they will ever have another reunion here.

Under the circumstances as set forth in the letter of Representative Hoyt it seems to me that it would be a proper recognition of the services rendered by these citizens and a faithful expression of the sentiment of our people toward them if the city should appropriate the sum of three hundred dollars ($300) to carry out the program of this reunion. I recommend, therefore, the passage of the accompanying order, transferring this sum from the appropriation for the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Mayor, Public Celebrations.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
House of Representatives.
Boston, May 3, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor, City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I desire, as representing the Fiftieth Anniversary Committee of the old First Massachusetts Regiment of Hooker's old brigade, composed of Boston companies, to solicit the aid of the government of the City of Boston in order that we may be enabled to carry out the program of the inclosed circular. We have the address of about 300 living members and wish to have them meet once more. Many of them cannot come without aid. As this was a "Boston regiment" we believe we may safely ask your consideration and financial aid. Our dear old city has always stood with its own.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM S. HOYT,
Representative Thirteenth Essex District.

(Annexed were the circulars referred to.)

Ordered, That in accordance with the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the sum of three hundred dollars ($300) from the appropriation for the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Mayor, Public Celebrations, to be expended for the reception of the surviving members of the First Regiment Volunteer Infantry Veteran Association.

APPOINTMENT OF HEALTH COMMISSIONER.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council respectfully petition his Honor the Mayor to immediately send an appointment to the Civil Service Commission for the vacancy existing in the Board of Health since August 8, 1910.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I have introduced this resolution not in the slightest spirit of animosity either toward the present incumbent of that office or against the Mayor. It is simply that this Board is asked to appropriate money for the running of that department, among others, and as a member of the Board I cannot vote money for the department without knowing that the Board of Health is comelete and doing its duty to the best of its ability. It is no criticism of the gentleman holding that temporary office to say that the Board is not technically complete when one of the places on it has been vacant under the new charter since the eighth of August last. If I had known the conditions existing when I first became a member of this Board I would not have voted for the annual appropriation until some active step had been taken to complete the Board so that we might have that department working, as the other departments are working, to the best of its ability. That department is growing in importance in this city. The work that is being thrust upon it is more and more important. We have this year put two new nurses in the department for the baby hygiene. We have constantly increased the scope of the department and the inspectors have not kept pace. We have not even one inspector of the Health Department for each ward of the city, important as the work of the department is. We have not proper sanitary stations throughout the city; there is a great lack of them. And yet we are asked to go on appropriating money for this department when the Board is not complete. If this were simply a temporary condition of the Board we might, of course, appropriate the money without any qualms of conscience; but it is not fair to the gentleman holding the position temporarily, and it is not fair to the taxpayers of this city, who are looking to the Board to safeguard the health of the city, to have the Board going on and acting for over eight months, incomplete. It is, therefore, in no spirit of animosity that I offer this resolution. It is simply to bring home to the Mayor the fact that we do not under the new charter think we can appropriate money asked for by that Board when the Board is seriously impaired because it has not its full quota of members. I realize the fact that the Mayor is in touch with affairs in this city and in touch with many individuals, and it must be he is perfectly able to complete that Board if he so desires. Furthermore, names have been suggested to him for consideration, if he so desires; and it seems to me that the condition existing there should exist no longer in fairness to the taxpayers, to the man who is holding the position temporarily, and to the Mayor himself, because criticism is bound to arise, and justly so, if that office is held vacant too long. I therefore hope, in order to aid this Board in passing the necessary appropriation for the department, that the Mayor will see fit to send in a name to the Civil Service Commission at once.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, while I do not oppose this resolution it seems to me we ought not to take any action upon it at this time. It seems to me as though such an order should come directly from the chief executive of the city and not from the City Council. I believe, with Coun. Smith, that the Board should be complete, and I believe we should have competent men on that Board; but it is so hard to get a man confirmed by the Civil Service Commission at the present time, no matter what his qualifications may be, that it seems absolutely impossible to get a first-class man in that department. His Honor the Mayor last year submitted the name of a man who knew conditions existing in this city, who knew the wants of the city, who was thoroughly familiar with the tenement house section, and absolutely nothing could be found against him. Still the Civil Service Commission refused to confirm him, and the so-called Good Government Association of Boston brought out some facts about his character which they could not substantiate when they were called upon to do so. As a result the man was rejected, although he would have made an admirable Health Commissioner for this city. What is the use of our taking action of this kind? You have to have some certain man in order to pass muster at the State House to-day. It seems to me, having that in mind, we should leave this matter to the discretion and judgment of his Honor the Mayor and not take any action upon it. As I say, I believe with the councilor that the vacancy should be filled and that the place should not be held by a man who has not been confirmed; but under the conditions existing it is almost impossible to have any man confirmed.

Coun. SMITH—Of course, I don't think it is any concern of this body as to what action the Mayor takes on his nomination to the Civil Service Commission, provided the nominations are made within a reasonable length of time. But you see in this case months have gone by without any nominations being sent to the Civil Service Commission, and it is for that reason that I hope the Board will express its desire that the Mayor shall send a nomination to the commission at once. The milk question has arisen and the Board of Health needs a number of additional inspectors, and it is presumable that we may be asked for an appropriation for additional inspectors. I cannot, for one, vote money for the Board of Health, knowing that the Board is crippled as it is at present, having only two members out of three, and one of the members being somewhat out of health at times. I cannot vote that money as willingly as I would if the Board were complete and I knew that the money could be used actively at once. I think if we withhold our appropriations the people of this town, especially now that summer is coming on, with the danger of contagious diseases, will insist on properly caring for our milk supply, and I think the people of this town will add their pressure to ours and insist that, difficult though it may be to get nominations by the Civil Service Commission, nevertheless the Mayor shall persist in sending them actively to that Board. Of course, it must be possible to find men qualified for the office. Six names have been suggested only recently, and none of them have been sent up, nor have any others been sent up. Why should the Mayor hesitate, for instance, to send up the name of the present incumbent of the office? I am not the person, and of course this Board is not the Board, to suggest whose name should be sent up, but some name should be sent up and sent at once. While we have no right to interfere actively in the management of this department, we can surely pass a resolution saying what we hope will be done, in order that we may willingly vote the necessary money for the support of the department.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I don't think it is any of the councilors' business whether the Mayor sends in a name for the Board of Health or not. The charter forbids our requesting or petitioning the Mayor to appoint any head of a department, and I do not see that we have any right to interfere at all. I don't think we need be afraid of appropriating money to be spent by the present Health Commissioners. The gentleman at issue—while he is not there permanently, and while we all regret that he is not and that possibly he would not be confirmed if appointed, by the Civil Service Board—is a man of whom we need not be afraid. He is a good business man, a level headed young fellow, and knows a great deal about the health of the common people, so called. He is down there all the time and doing his work all the time. He is level headed, and this Council, as far as he is concerned, need have no fear of his judgment in the spending of any money that may be appropriated to take care of the milk question or any other question that may be acted upon by the present Board of Health. Outside of that question of the three men at issue I don't think the Council has a right to petition or request the Mayor, by resolution or otherwise, to send in any name for the head of a department. This is a very important matter, and we certainly should not interfere in something in which we have absolutely no right to interfere, practically requesting his Honor the Mayor to send in the name of somebody as a Health Commissioner. I hope the resolution will be ruled out as beyond our rights under the charter.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I only want to reiterate what I said in my opening, that I have no personal animosity toward anybody in introducing the resolution. Neither do I desire to boom anybody's stock by introducing it. My desire is simply that a vacant position on that Board, left vacant since the 8th of August last, shall be filled, that the Board shall be made complete; and, while the Mayor has the say in the matter and while this Board may not interfere in most matters of that kind, it seems to me that we do have a certain direct responsibility to the citizens of Boston in connection with this subject matter. One place in that department has been vacant so long that it becomes our concern whether we shall appropriate money for the carrying out of the necessary functions of the department. We cannot shirk the responsibilities cast upon us by the charter. We share in the responsibility of appropriating money It is money that makes this city go and it is necessary for both the Mayor and the City Council to join in appropriating money. As one of the Board I cannot conscientiously vote to appropriate money for the Health Department until I know that that department is running to its fullest and best ability, and that is impossible when only two men out of three are on the job, and when, as I have said before, one of the gentlemen is somewhat incapacitated by ill health. As I have said before, it is absolutely necessary in passing appropriations that this Council should know that the money is being spent to the best advantage. I think we cannot feel that under present conditions it is, and without any personal animosity, but simply in the interests of the proper transaction of the city's business, I have introduced the resolution.

The resolution was referred to the Executive Committee.

Later in the session Coun. SMITH asked for a reconsideration of the reference, which was declared carried. Coun. McDONALD doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. Reconsideration of the reference was refused, yeas 4, nays 4:

Yeas—Coun. Collins, Kenny, Hale, Smith—4.

Nays—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Buckley, McDonald—4.

Passed.

PAYMENT FOR CLERICAL ASSISTANCE.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That, until otherwise ordered by the City Council, the City Auditor be authorized to allow for payment, and the City Treasurer to pay, expenditures for clerical assistance by the following officers at the rate named per annum in each case, viz.:

CHILDREN IN BUSINESS SECTION.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the Committee on Ordinances give a public hearing on Wednesday, May 17, at four o'clock p. m., on the message of Mayor and ordinance relative to children under fourteen years of age loitering upon streets in business section after nine o'clock p. m., unless accompanied by a parent, guardian or other adult person, the expense attending the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

Passed.

Later in the session Coun. SMITH said: Mr. President, it is with peculiar pleasure that I rise to perform an act of courtesy ——

President COLLINS—Does the gentleman rise to a question of personal privilege?

Coun. SMITH—I am speaking to a motion to reconsider that I propose to make. It is with peculiar pleasure that I rise to perform an act of courtesy with respect to an order introduced by myself relating to the Committee on Ordinances, of which the councilor on my left is the chairman. I was told that the Council had power to ask for a public hearing, hut I find that the custom is to leave that to the chairman of the proper committee. I therefore ask for a reconsideration of the passage of my order, which was passed earlier in the meeting, relating to a meeting on the curfew ordinance, so called.

Reconsideration prevailed, and the order was referred, on motion of Coun. SMITH, to the Committee on Ordinances.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted, at 3.45 p. m., on motion of Coun. KENNY, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by the President at 4.34 o'clock p. m.

HEARINGS AT FOUR O'CLOCK.

The Council proceeded to take up Nos. 3 and 4, viz.:

No objections. Referred to the Executive Committee.

FURTHER RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. ATTRIDGE, at 4.35 o'clock p. m., to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the Council Chamher and were called to order by the President at 5.35 o'clock p. m.

SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

Coun. HALE, for the Committee on Soldiers' Relief, submitted a report recommending passage of an order for the payment of aid to soldiers and sailors and their families in the City of Boston for the month of May.

Report accepted; order passed.

NUMBER OF LABORERS, RETIREMENT ACT.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the heads of departments, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to report to the City Council as to the number of lahorers who, in their opinion, would be affected hy the provisions of chapter 413 of the Acts of 1911, entitled "An Act Relative to the Retirement Fund for Lahorers Employed hy the City of Boston."

Coun. ATTRIDGE.—Mr. President, there were two other orders presented with that, and the Clerk read them out of order. One was with reference to the City Council accepting chapter 413 of the Acts of 1911, and this order, of course, has reference to that, being an act providing for a retirement fund for the laborers employed by the City of Boston. That act was signed hy the Governor to-day and one provision of the act is that it shall take effect on the first day of March of the year following its acceptance by the City Council of the City of Boston. I have three orders there, one calling upon the City Council to accept the act; another that the heads of departments, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to report to the City Council as to the numher of laborers who in their opinion would be affected hy the provisions of that chapter; and there is a third order which asks the opinion of the Corporation Counsel as to the meaning of the word "lahorers" and the words "any laborer" as used in this act. This act was known as House Bill No. 802, a bill accompanying the petition of Francis J. Brennan for legislation to provide for a retirement fund for laborers in the employment of the City of Boston. Last year's City Council rejected a retirement act which had been passed because of the fact that the act was supposed to he defective. Some memhers of the Council were of the opinion that the old, infirm and physically incapacitated laborers in the employ of the city should receive a pension, and the Legislature of this year has seen fit to pass such an act. The act has secured the approval of the Governor, and I trust that the City Council of this year will accept it. In my opinion we should do something for the old men who have served the city faithfully twenty-five years or more and who have reached the age of sixty years or seventy years, if they are physically incapacitated. I think it is but fair to those men that the city should provide a retirement fund, a pension, for these aged and physically incapacitated men. We have a pension system for the school teachers, for the police officers and for the firemen, and personally I helieve that the City of Boston should do something which is honorahle for these men. I do not call upon the Council at this time—that is to-day—to accept the act. In fact, I trust that this act will be referred to the Finance Commission for recommendation and report, and when that order is read hy the Clerk I shall move you, sir, if there is no ohjection on the part of the members of the Council, that the act he referred to the Finance Commission for recommendation and report. In regard to the order which calls upon the Corporation Counsel for an opinion in regard to the meaning of the word "lahorers" and the words "any laborer" there has heen a doubt in my mind as to the meaning of those words, because of a rule of the Civil Service Commission which classifies lahorers into three classes—Class 1, common lahorers; Class 2, skilled lahorers; Class 3, mechanics and craftsmen. I don't think there would be any question about Class 1, the common laborers, coming under the provisions of this act. There is one question in my mind as to whether, under Class 2, derrick men, building lahorers, chauffeurs, drivers, stahlemen, elevatormen, lamplighters, would come under the provisions of this act. The order asks for the opinion of the Corporation Counsel upon the meaning of those words as used in the law and under the rulings of the Civil Service Commissioners.

The order was passed.

ACCEPTANCE OF RETIREMENT ACT.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That chapter 413 of the Acts of 1911, entitled "An Act Relative to the Retirement Fund for Lahorers Employed hy the City of Boston," he and the same hereby is accepted.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I move you, sir, if there is no objection on the part of the members of the Council, that this order be referred with the act to the Finance Commission for recommendation and report hack to the City Council.

Coun. Attridge's motion was carried.

Later in the session Coun. KENNY said: Mr. President, I want to move in connection with this pension matter that the secretary he requested to provide the stenographer with a copy of that act, so that it may appear in the minutes and we may he ahle to read what it is. I believe it should appear in the minutes for our information.

The motion was carried.

(The act referred to, heing chapter 413 of the Acts of 1911, was as follows:

An Act Relative to a Retirement Fund for Lahorers Employed hy the City of Boston.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. There shall he a retirement board for the lahorers employed hy the city of Boston, consisting of the mayor, the auditor and the treasurer of the city, who shall discharge the duties herehy imposed upon them without additional compensation.

Sect. 2. Any lahorer employed hy the city of Boston who has reached the age of sixty years and who has been in the service of the city for a period of not less than twenty-five years, and who is physically incapacitated, shall, at his request and with the approval of the retirement hoard above provided for, be retired from service, and shall receive for the remainder of his life an annual pension equal to one half of the compensation which he received during the last year of his service for the city. It shall be the duty of the said board so to retire any laborer in the service of the city who has reached the age of seventy years and has served the city for a period of not less than twenty-five years.

Sect. 3. This act shall take effect on the first day of March of the year following its acceptance by the city council of the city of Boston.)

OPINION ASKED ON RETIREMENT ACT.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Corporation Counsel be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to inform the City Council what is the meaning of the word "lahorers" and the words "any laborer" as used in chapter 413 of the Acts of 1911, entitled "An Act Relative to the Retirement Fund for Lahorers Employed hy the City of Boston," and to inform the City Council if this act would apply to the "labor service" of the city as understood under the law and the rules of the Civil Service Commission.

Passed.

TREES, ETC., CHARLESTOWN PARKS.

Coun. McDONALD offered an order—That the Superintendent of Puhlic Grounds he requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to send to the City Council an estimate of the cost of setting out a sufficicnt numher of trees in Training Field, City Square Park, Sullivan Square Playground, Charlestown Heights, to heautify said breathing spaces; also an estimate of the cost of erecting a suitahle drinking fountain in the Training Field.

Passed.

FEE FOR USE OF BATHS.

Coun. McDONALD offered the following:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the City Council of Boston that no fee should he charged for admission to the public baths, as such fee, small though it may be, will be a hardship to numerous citizens who desire to use the haths.

Ordered, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Bath Trustees.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, my reason for introducing this order is because of a talk I had last week with the secretary of the Bath Trustees and hecause of information received through the newspapers to-day that the Bath Trustees have passed a vote charging a fee of eleven cents for admission, suitable covering and towel at the L Street Bath. I think all the memhers here will agree with the Bath Trustees that a suitahle covering should he worn by everybody who patronizes the L Street Bath and that one cent for a towel is a just fee. But there are a lot of people who patronize the L Street Bath who go there, for instance, in the morning hefore going to work, who go there upon returning from work, and who go there on Sunday possihly two or three times, hecause they live near there. There are others who go there frequently from distant parts of the city, and who have to pay car fares, and I am introducing this order in the interests of these different people who use that bath. Some of them have called upon me to-day and have stated their feeling in regard to the matter. If they are charged five cents for admission to the L Street Bath every time they go there it makes quite an item hy the end of the week and they cannot afford it. I think the City Council should at least insist on free admission to the public baths, whether all the year baths or summer haths like that at L Street. All these haths are used hy a great many of our citizens, and I hope the Bath Trustees will reconsider their action and at least take off the fee of five cents for admission, allowing the fee of five cents for a proper covering and one cent for a towel to stand. I do not object to that. But a great many of our citizens, printers and others I know, who live in South Boston or who go over there from Charlestown and other sections, while they are satisfied to pay for and wear a suitahle covering, think it a hardship to be ohliged to pay five cents every time they want to go there and patronize a hath which has always been maintained free by the city for public bathing purposes.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I wish to say that I am in entire sympathy with the remarks of the member from Charlestown. The L Street Bath for years, certainly as far hack as I am ahle to recall, has heen free to the public, and I think it would be a very serious mistake to say that the public shall not continue to have the right to go there and use the bathing facilities without a charge for admission. I think the same reasoning applies to other bathing estahlishments in Boston. I believe one thing the city should do is to throw open the bath houses to the puhlic free; and I sincerely hope that the department having this matter in charge will pay some attention to and have some respect for the resolution and order, which I trust will pass.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it is with a great deal of regret that I think I shall have to vote against this resolution and order. Of course, we have to call a halt on luxuries at some time. The city cannot grant to the people everything that may he heneficial or desirable. We have extra requirements there, and it seems to me that we must make a charge for them, and it seems to me that the trustees of the Bath Department are the best people to judge what should be done in the matter. They know their appropriation and they know how far it will go; and, having made improvements and extensions at L Street, they know hest whether they must charge a nominal amount for that increased service. It is also a matter of common knowledge that L Street is different from some of the other municipal haths. It is used hy a large contingent from downtown, and those people as a rule are well able to pay and should pay. The great majority of those people are nonresidents of Boston, and while we may as a city see fit to give all sorts of luxuries to our citizens, that does not apply to out-of-town people, especially when they are well ahle to pay. I think that fact must have influenced the trustees. I know the ones I talked to were certainly influenced by it in recommending this nominal charge. I helieve we should give all luxuries possihle to our citizens commensurate with a fair tax rate, hut if extensions and additions are to he made to our bathing facilities it does seem as though there might he some fair return to the city. It has heen decided in other luxuries connected with our park system to lease out certain privileges. The Council voted in that way on a similar subject at last meeting, and I don't see why the same rule should not apply here. I think if the Council should see fit to lease out the Bath Department, the department would be ahle to make much more money than it can do hy charging eleven cents for the total hath at L Street. I hope the resolution and order will not pass. I think it is an interference with the Bath Trustees in the running of their department. I think, furthermore, it is a nominal charge, and that it falls principally on a class of business men in this city who are not residents, not citizens, and who are well able to pay.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I should like to ask the gentleman a question, if he will answer it.

Coun. SMITH—Certainly.

Coun. BUCKLEY—I should like to ask him if he considers a bath a luxury or a necessity?

Coun. SMITH—I should consider the councilor from Charlestown hest able to judge.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I am not going to take up any of the time of the Council in discussing this proposition, hut I don't think it is a fair argument to say that it is outsiders, nonresidents of Boston, who use the L Street Bath, and because they do they should pay an admission fee of five cents. Such people as the gentleman refers to would not care if the fee was twenty-five cents. I am not talking ahout that class of citizens or nonresidents at all. I am talking ahout the people living near L street, South Boston, and residents of Charlestown and other sections of the city, many of whom go over there every morning in the summer and some every morning in the year, and take a hath, and many of them are also there after their day's work is over and on Sundays. They cannot afford to pay their car fare and five cents for admission two or three times a day. As Coun. Buckley says, it is not a luxury. The City of Boston should at least allow the people to use the ocean free and provide a suitahle house to protect them from the view of the public while they are using it. I am glad to hear that the gentleman thinks we are interfering with the heads of the department in the performance of their duty. A little while ago he did not think we were interfering with the Mayor of Boston when he wanted to request him to appoint somebody to the head of a department. But now he thinks we are interfering with the duties of the Bath Trustees unwarrantably in expressing our opinion as to the desirahility of their charging the citizens of Boston five cents to use a puhlic hathing place. It is nothing more than a public bathing place, and it should be maintained by the city free. I do not question the propriety of requiring bathers to use a proper covering or requiring them to pay for a towel; but the trustees should allow citizens to go there, if they have a proper covering, and use the L Street Bath free. It was originally intended that it should be free, that it should be maintained by the city as a free bathing place, and it always has been so maintained. I hope the order will pass, and I trust when it is passed that the roll will be called.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I did not desire to address the Board again on this matter, but I think it is really a serious proposition, and, at the risk of interfering to some extent with the executive work of some department, I propose to vote in favor of the order and resolution. When I voted here several weeks ago for an appropriation for the L Street Bath, it was with the idea that the privileges of the bath house were to be given to the public free. When we passed the appropriation we did so with the expectation that the conditions existing in years past would continue. I think it is a very serious matter, almost verging on an outrage, to deprive the people of Boston of the rights they have heretofore had to enjoy the accommodations at L Street free. We all agree that there should be proper covering, such as the rules and regulations may prescribe, for which there shall be a proper charge if the bathers do not furnish their own equipment, and that there shall be a charge for towels; but certainly the people should be allowed to use the L Street Bath, as well as the other bath houses in the city, without a charge for admission. I never heard of such a proposition as is advanced by the Bath Trustees to-day. I don't believe there is any city in the country along the water front but what offers these bathing facilities to the people free of charge. I think I am ordinarily as careful as the average member of the Board in refraining from voting away carelessly the money of the city, but this is a proposition that I think the people will not stand for, and I don't think the Board should stand for it. I think the department is making a great mistake in charging the people for the use of the L Street Bath. I certainly feel that when they realize what the sentiment of the people is, as voiced by the Council, they will reverse their action and will throw the bath house open to the public without any charge for admission.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, so far as my personal opinion in this matter is concerned, I think what Coun. Kenny has said is entirely true. We have had for years and years this policy of affording baths to the citizens without charging fees, and I think to reverse the policy is an important step and should be carefully considered. I think Coun. Smith has not quite correctly characterized the matter when he seems to consider it as parallel with the swanboat proposition. It seems to me, as far as the city is concerned, that swanboat privileges might be considered more nearly on the basis of skating rink privileges, and it does not seem to me that bath houses are quite within the same scope. There is much to be said for the ground Coun. McDonald takes, that we should not charge for the privilege of bathing in the Atlantic Ocean or for the mere use of a bath house alongside of the ocean. But I suppose the Bath Trustees have given very serious consideration to the proposition, and I think, with an important matter like this, we might well refer the whole question to the Finance Commission, getting their opinion before we act. I would, therefore, like to move that the matter be so referred.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I am very sorry that Coun. Hale has made this Lohengrin entrance into the debate, but generally speaking I would heartily approve of his attitude, as far as the suggestion that we should look into the matter further is concerned. But it seems to me, as some of the Council here are very much interested in this matter, that they can perhaps give us the information without referring it to the Finance Commission, who are already overburdened. The babit of referring everything, even minor matters like this, to the Finance Commission seems to be growing to an alarming extent. Therefore I should like to ask Coun. Kenny, who spoke of what other cities along the Atlantic coast do, what the conditions there are? I will not ask him this if he objects to such a question in open debate, but if he is ready to answer I shall be glad to hear from him how the work is carried on, whether they have absolutely free bath houses in other cities along the coast?

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, so far as I may be able to do so I shall be very glad to answer the gentleman. I should be very much surprised to find that any of the cities along the coast commencing at Portland and going down to New York made any charge for bathing along the water front. I know when we go along the East river we see boys in bathing with trunks and having police protection. I am very sure that no charge is made. I think that holds good of Providence and of Newport.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, might it not be courteous for this Council to hear the two sides of the question? It seems to me that we should not take action without hearing the Bath Trustees in the matter. I know tbey were considering it at least a month ago, and their action must have been taken with a great deal of knowledge and after going into considerable detail. It seems to me we should at least hear them before we actively pass this resolution. I should like to amend, that we lay this on the table pending hearing from the Bath Trustees.

Coun. Smith's motion to lay on the table was declared lost by a rising vote, 2 to 5.

Coun. Hale's motion to refer the resolution and order to the Finance Commission, witb a request to report back to the City Council, was lost by a rising vote, 2 to 5.

The question came on the adoption of the resolution and order.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I should like to state definitely before casting my ballot against this that I do so not so much on the merits of the question as through lack of knowing both sides of the question. I think the Council is hasty in its conclusion. I for one do not know the attitude of the Bath Trustees or the reasons guiding them in passing the regulation concerning L Street, and in absence of the facts I am obliged to vote "no."

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I should like to say something on this matter, too. We had in Executive Committee a few minutes ago a discussion on the high pressure system which has been before us. The bill was passed by the Legislature two weeks ago, but practically the identical bill has been before the Legislature for a long time. It has been before the people of tbe city for a long time and we have had a report of the Finance Commission on a bill almost identical. Yet we felt that we were unable, for fear of acting hastily, to pass that measure to-day. I do not see why we cannot treat this in the same manner, giving a hearing to the Bath Trustees. Although, as I have said, I am in favor of the proposition embodied in the resolution and order before us, I would like to give the Bath Trustees a chance to convince me that I am wrong. I think as a matter of courtesy to them, and in order to be consistent with our attitude on other projects, that we should give them a chance to be heard. This has been stated by the people who are in favor of the action proposed to-day to be a tremendously important matter. That being so, we ought not to act hastily, but should give the Bath Trustees a chance to come in and state their reasons. No possible harm can be done by delaying action upon the matter for a week. They can come in before next Monday and state their reasons, and we can act upon the matter then. I think, out of courtesy to them and in justice to our own dignity, we should not pass upon the matter without hearing from them.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I cannot see what connection this matter has with our desire to refer to the Finance Commission for consideration a bill enacted by the Legislature and put up to the City Council. I suppose when the Legislature passed the bill in regard to the high pressure service it expected the City Council to consider the matter thoroughly in all its phases before putting the stamp of its approval on it. That is an act of the Legislature. What has that to do with this resolution and order? We are all citizens of Boston and we know the conditions existing in Boston. We know what our experience has been in the past in connection with this bath house matter. In this resolution and order we are simply stating our belief that the Bath Trustees are making a mistake in taking the action they have taken. I certainly feel that the proposed action is an outrage. I take that stand in regard to L Street or any bathing facilities offered by the city on the water front or inland. I think the proposition is absolutely absurd, and there is certainly no parallel between the action we propose to take on this matter and the question of accepting the act of the Legislature in regard to the high pressure service.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, in answer to Coun. Kenny I would say that I think Coun. Hale's remarks concerning the high pressure water service are directly in point. There is an evident difference in the attitude of the Council toward certain matters. It has struck me right along that on certain matters that did not have a popular side, that did not mean votes, that would not prejudice the members of the Council in the minds of the public, the attitude of the Council has been that of procrastination. On matters that do have a popular side and that may mean votes, the attitude of the Council has been entirely different. As far as the high pressure service is concerned, that matter has been before the public two years. It has been passed upon by former Fire Commissioners, has been passed upon by the present commissioner, has been passed upon by the Chamber of Commerce, by the Finance Commission, and by this Council, as mentioned in the Executive Committee. Yet, because the matter was only thirteen days old from the Legislature, we asked the Finance Commission to make another report on the same matter and deferred action upon it for a week in spite of the fact that the present Fire Commissioner is most anxious to get the measure through, in spite of the fact that we see almost every year conflagrations that may at any time threaten this city have same as other cities, in spite of the fact that we have seen disastrous fires such as we may have here, because of the lack of just such facilities as would be provided by this legislation, in Chelsea, San Francisco, Baltimore and Bangor. And yet we cannot take prompt action upon a matter that has been dealt with by other public bodies, that has been considered very carefully by the citizens of this city, and individually by this Board. On the other hand, when we come to a measure like this bath house measure, brought up in the last hour, the Council is ready to act in a moment on a matter which is certainly absolutely new to me, which I have only talked of casually with one of the Bath Trustees. We are asked to make a quick decision upon it without hearing both sides of the question, and we are simply asked to do so because everyone knows that it is a popular measure and that if I stand up and vote "no" on the measure it prejudices me in the eyes of the people of Boston, that everyone in South Boston, particularly the constituency of the gentleman on the right (Mr. Kenny) will say: "He is against South Boston; they are levying an unjust tax on us for our bath privileges, which we ought to have free." And I will be put in the position of not favoring the common people in the matter of bath privileges. I am going to vote "no" on this in spite of that prejudice, and I am going to vote "no" simply because I don't know both sides of the question. If the Council was fair it would pass the measure in regard to fire protection, which the city needs fully as much as bath privileges, and would not insist upon the passage of this measure—although it may be a good measure—to-day. It can very well wait until next Monday, when we can have the facts laid before us by the Bath Trustees, the Finance Commission or somebody representing the other side. Therefore I think the Council is open to criticism, not because it favors one measure and not the other, but because of its attitude on a popular measure as contrasted with a measure that is of great importance to the city.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I don't see what this has to do with high pressure service, the act passed by the Legislature which has been sent to the Finance Commission for report. I understood the councilor to say when he first spoke against my resolution and order that he did so because he thought the citizens of Boston were now receiving luxuries at the expense of the taxpayers that they should not receive, that he did not think they should have the privilege of using the L Street Bath free. He did not say he objected to the resolution and order because he did not know whether the Bath Trustees had given the necessary time to the consideration of this matter or not, and he did not say it was because he did not know anything about the facts of the case. He admits now that he talked with one of the Bath Trustees about it, and I suppose he told him that the outside people, the nonresidents of Boston, were getting a privilege they were not entitled to. I tell him that because some nonresidents patronize the L Street Baths we should not charge those who are residents of Boston, and who comprise 90 per cent of those who patronize the L Street Baths, a fee for admission which they should not be charged. They should not suffer because of nonresidents. I don't care whether he wants to apologize for his vote or not. That is none of the Council's business. But I think this is a resolution that we should pass to-day. The Bath Trustees have put this regulation into force; people are using the L Street Bath, and the resolution is in effect. The Bath Trustees may not take any notice of the resolution, but I say, as a member of the Council and as a citizen of Boston who at different times during the year patronizes the L Street Bath, that I should not be compelled to pay for the privilege of using the ocean, as the councilor has said. I don't think it is a luxury. I think it is a privilege that the citizens of Boston have always had, taking a free bath in the summer, and I believe the City of Boston should continue to permit them to have it free. If the gentleman from Ward 11 (Coun. Hale) or the gentleman on my right (Coun. Smith) desires to be placed right before voting, I do not object. I am not trying to put either of them in a hole, and I don't think anybody here is trying to do so. I am going to vote for the resolution to-day and I am going to insist on its being acted upon to-day, as far as I am able to do so, because I think it should be passed to-day and that we should at least ask the Bath Trustees to reduce the fee, to cut out the charge for admission, so that citizens of Boston will not be required to pay five cents for using a bath that should be free.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like to say in reply to my friend from Ward 11 who sits on the left (Coun. Smith) that I think his language has been in very poor taste and has been extravagant. I don't know just what he means by his reference to the popular side of this matter. So far as I am concerned, I am not fishing for votes, and I think my record in this Board will bear out that statement. I am not considering the question whether this has a popular side or an unpopular side, and I trust that the gentleman may not be doing so. He may answer that question for himself. I don't care whether it is popular or unpopular. I have never cast a vote in the year and four or five months that I have been here predicated on that thought one way or the other. I say the action of the Bath Trustees in charging the citizens of Boston for going over there and using the beach is nothing short of an outrage. I don't care whether every member here disagrees with me in that view—that is my opinion, and I am not afraid to say so. In regard to this other matter that has been brought in here—the question being raised why we did not to-day accept an act of the Legislature that was passed no doubt by the Legislature after mature reflection and submitted to the City Council for approval or disapproval—that involves an entirely different question. When the gentleman asks why we did not accept that act to-day, I simply reply that I should like to see the act of the Legislature that I would vote to accept immediately upon its first presentation to this body. I should like to see the act that I would vote upon the very first day it came before us, without the slightest consideration. I will not be taunted with not doing my duty simply because I refuse to vote to accept any act of the Legislature without any consideration whatever the very moment it comes before us. When did the Finance Commission approve of that act? When have other bodies approved of that act? When have we had a chance to pass upon that act so that we could intelligently approve of it? It is true that the different bodies to which the gentleman refers have approved of action looking towards the improvement of our high pressure system, and it is true that the Legislature, after mature consideration, has passed that act which is now before us in concrete form. That act is now before us for consideration and for approval or disapproval. I propose, and other members propose, that the Finance Commission shall express its judgment in regard to that act; and our duty requires that we shall properly consider that act before we approve or disapprove of it. I say again that I think the remarks of my friend were in very poor taste— in very bad taste, indeed.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I am sorry that my friend on the right should take such umbrage at what I have said. Yet it may be just as well, because it stirs the matter up in just the way that I want to bring it up. I shall not retract what I have said. I was willing, upon a matter which involved a million dollars, to wait a week, in deference to the Executive Committee, although this high pressure matter is an exceedingly important matter, and has been thoroughly considered by the city at large, by this Council, by various public bodies, which have all united in favor of it. But upon this matter, in regard to which there is no necessity at all for haste, he is anxious that immediate action be taken, without hearing both sides. I was perfectly willing to join in waiting until a report had been made upon that high pressure matter for a second time by the Finance Commission, waiting an indefinite time—for I believe it is not even limited for one week—and I see no reason why he should not show me the same deference, not trying to force upon me a vote this afternoon on a matter of which I am entirely ignorant except for the very casual mention of one of the Bath Trustees. If he is not willing to show me that deference and if the majority of this Board are not willing to show me that deference, I bow to the will of the majority, but at the same time I do not retract the statements I made a few moments before.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I am going to say another word on the matter. At the executive meeting this afternoon we had before us Commissioner Daly and one of the engineers, Mr. McInnis. Mr. McInnis stated that the installation of this high pressure service could not commence until next spring, if I remember rightly. If I am wrong I ask to be corrected. The committee this afternoon stated—at least I as one member stated, and I think at least one other member joined with me—that so far as we understood the situation we were in favor of accepting the proposition before us, but as a matter of protection we felt that we were entitled to at least have the Finance Commission say that this was a proper act for us to accept. I trust that the gentleman will not try to distort my position upon this matter by saying that I at one time assented to or voted for a resolution in favor of some such act as the Legislature has passed for our acceptance. Of course I did, and I expect next Monday, unless something unforeseen affords a reason to the contrary, to vote to accept the act. But as a matter of precaution I shall always favor referring matters of that kind to the Finance Commission, a body created for the very purpose of making such examination and investigation, to assist us in arriving at a proper determination ourselves.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, we have had a great deal of excitement on this matter, but I feel sure that the Council will be fair on the whole proposition. I understand that the fees go into effect at once, Coun. McDonald?

Coun. McDONALD—So I understand.

Coun. HALE—I would like to suggest action which I think will probably satisfy everybody—that we ask the Bath Trustees to hold up their change of policy until they have had a chance to confer with us, and that we then arrange for a conference with the Bath Trustees so that we can hear both sides. I am sure none of the members want to decide any question until they have heard both sides, no matter how much they may think they are in favor of it. No judge, no lawyer, certainly no member of a City Council, should decide any question without having a chance to hear both sides. I feel that, out of courtesy to us, the Bath Trustees will postpone action upon the matter until they have had a chance to hear our ideas and we have had a chance to hear theirs, and I hope very much that such action will be taken. I move that the matter be referred to the Bath Trustees with a request to postpone this change of policy until we have had a chance to confer with them and that they be requested to come down and confer with us some night this week or at least next Monday.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I did not intend to say a word on the question at all. I think too much time has already been consumed in the discussion of it. But I heartily oppose Coun. Hale's motion that we ask the trustees to hold up this order for a certain time until we have had a chance to confer with them. If the Bath Trustees were here now, no matter what they might say, they could not change my opinion. My opinion is this, that where you have a free bath house it ought to be free and that the City of Boston should not charge one cent for admission to one of its bath houses. That is the stand I take and that I will continue to take, no matter what opinion the whole Board of Trustees of the Bath Department might express in the matter, and I am prepared to vote for the resolution presented to-day.

Coun. SMITH—Will the gentleman answer a question?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—I will if I can.

Coun. SMITH—Would Coun. Ballantyne be willing to tell me whether he would defer his vote, definite though his opinion may be, until next Monday?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—I am prepared to vote on the question now.

Coun. SMITH—That was not my question. The question I asked was, whether he was willing to defer that vote until next Monday?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—I am not. If I thought there was any chance of my changing my mind on this proposition I would be willing to give way or one week, but one week or a month would not change my mind upon it.

Coun. SMITH—Of course, that was not what I had in my mind. It was not that Coun. Ballantyne might change his mind, looking at it from his personal point of view, but I asked him that question thinking that he might look at the matter of putting this over for a week from my point of view. I do not know the facts. In deference to me would he put off his vote for one week?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—I don't know the facts any more than Mr. Smith knows them. I have not had any interview with any member of the Bath Trustees, I have not talked the matter over with any member of the Council. The first intimation I got was when the order was read. I thought it was a just order and I am prepared to vote for it. I am prepared to vote for such orders at all times, where we have free institutions and the trustees change their rule and make a charge for admission to them.

Coun. HALE—Mr President, I would like to simply say in other words what Mr. Smith has said, that ever since I have been in the City Council it has been the custom where it was possible without injury to anybody's rights, as in this case, as a matter of courtesy to grant any member a week's delay in a case like this. I hope this Council will be as courteous in that respect as the Board of Aldermen I was in two years ago and as last year's City Council, and I am sure it will be. I am sure, by wording the thing as I have suggested, no injustice will be done to anybody and that courtesy will be extended to the whole Council.

Coun. Hale's motion, that the Bath Trustees be requested to suspend the operation of the rule for at least one week and that in the meantime they meet the City Council and confer concerning the matter, was lost by a rising vote, 2 to 5.

The resolution and order were adopted, yeas 6, nays 2:

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Buckley, Collins, Kenney, McDonald—6.

Nays—Coun. Hale, Smith—2.

REMOVAL OF HOUSEHOLD REFUSE.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to restore the days in springtime for the placing of refuse on the streets by residents in the congested districts.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I do not propose to take up the time of the Council talking at this late hour. But this is a custom that used to obtain in years past, particularly in the congested districts like Charlestown, South Boston and the North and West Ends, districts of that sort, where about the first of May each year the people had so many days in which to put their refuse, such as old mattresses, and so on, on the streets in barrels. In the last few years they have not been able to do that, and it seems that they should have that right. I don't call it a privilege, because I don't think it is a privilege. I think it is a right that the people ought to have, in order to get such refuse out of their cellars and other places where it is stored. I hope the order will go through.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I want to say a word in favor of this order. This is a custom that has prevailed in the City of Boston for a great many years. I think during the first week in May the householders in the various districts were allowed to put their house refuse out on the sidewalks, and it was taken away during the day time. That rule was revoked some two or three years ago. I believe in the interest of the health of the people of Boston it should be restored. Those of us who have occasion to go through the tenement house districts and down in the cellars and yards know the amount of old refuse, mattresses, and so on, that collects, as Coun. Buckley has said. A great deal of household refuse is stored away in odd corners because the people will not go to the expense of carting it off themselves and the ashman will not take it from them. It does not mean a great deal of expense for the city to go back to the old rule and remove those articles of refuse within certain times, within probably one week in the early summer, and I hope the order will pass.

The order was passed.

The term expiring this year in the membership of the Board is to be filled from a selection to be made by me from two candidates, one nominated by the Master Builders' Association and the other by the Contractors' and Builders' Association. Under date of April 7, 1911, both of these organizations, through their secretaries, were requested to make nominations, in order that the provisions of the act might be complied with. I append a communication from the Master Builders' Association, presenting the name of Mr. McNeil. City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 15, 1911.

To the City Council:

In transmitting the accompanying letter from the chairman of the Bath Trustees I beg to indorse his opinion that an additional appropriation of five thousand dollars ($5,000) is needed to complete the repairs upon the piers at North End Park, and recommend the passage of an order which I have drafted for this purpose.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,

My dear Sir,—I beg to call to your attention the advisability of thoroughly renovating the planking and guard rails and piling of the piers at North End Park, which are in a very dangerous condition. An estimate of $10,000 has been received from the Engineering Department for doing this work and putting the piers in a safe condition. We have now on hand a balance from the special North End Park appropriation of approximately $5,000, only one-half the amount required to do this work.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS.

I respectfully request, therefore, that an additional appropriation of $5,000 he given us to complete the work, which is of a most urgent nature.

Very truly yours,
RICHARD M. WALSH,
Chairman Bath Trustees.

TRANSFER FOR CITY HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a letter from the president of the Board of Hospital Trustees, accompanied by a statement from Messrs. Densmore & LeClear. For the reasons given in his communication the president of the Board requests that the halances remaining in three special appropriations for Fireproofing of Engine Room Building, New Electrical Machines and New Electric Wiring he transferred to the original appropriation for City Hospital, Fireproofing. I am advised by the City Auditor that this transfer is desirahle and recommend that the appended order he passed by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

The Boston City Hospital,
Boston, May 9, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I herewith transmit a copy of a letter from Densmore & LeClear, engineers for fireproofing the power house and doing certain other work. It will be seen from this letter that certain items for which proposals have heen made exceed the appropriation, whereas certain other items fall short of the appropriation. It would therefore seem advisahle, if your Honor consents, that the halances remaining in the four special appropriations, City Hospital Fireproofing, Fireproofing Engine Room Building, New Wiring and New Electrical Machines, be consolidated in one appropriation to be termed "Appropriation for Fireproofing at the Boston City Hospital and Work Incidental Thereto." Mr. Mitchell, the City Auditor, says he will approve of this transfer. It will not necessitate any additional outlay of money to the city, and will expedite the work and simplify the hookkeeping to a very great extent.

I have the honor to remain, on bchalf of the trustees,

Very respectfully yours,
A. SHUMAN,
President Board of Trustees.

Densmore & LeClear,
Engineers and Architects,
88 Broad Street,
Boston, Mass., May 6, 1911.

A. Shuman, President,
Boston City Hospital,
Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—Proposals were received at noon, May 2, for fireproofing the engine room, new electric generator and engine, switch board, steam fitting, etc., the intended work being a continuation of the work hegun last fall. All of this work comes under the appropriation of $50,000, which appropriation was divided as follows:

Fireproofing of engine room building	$25,000 00
New electrical machines	10,500 00
New electric wiring	14,500 00
Total	$50,000 00

A contract for electric wiring of approximately $10,000 has already been awarded and the work practically completed, the cost of the work heing taken from this appropriation. There is therefore a halance of approximately $40,000 left to he spent. In accordance with our various conversations with you and the vote of the trustees, we have prepared plans and specifications and advertised for hids on the work which it was deemed advisahle to do under this appropriation. It was not possihle, in planning this work, to follow the exact division of the appropriation, and further work, not actually included in the wording of the appropriation, hut similar in character, had in some cases to be included. Specifications and plans were prepared for bids under four heads, as follows:

1. Specifications for Fireproofing Power House and Other Construction Work.

The work included under this specification is fireproofing of floor and roof space in power house, lowering level of hasement floor in power house, foundation for new generator unit, and also construction work in connection with the extension of the tunnel system for pipes near the laundry building.

2. Specifications for New Generator, Switch Board and Electric Wiring.

The work included under this specification is the new generator and switch hoard, the connections for the new generator, and also the rewiring of the entire power house, which is necessitated on account of the fireproofing work. Some connections are also included hetween the power house and the switch hoard in Pavilion III. It is to be horne in mind that the electric work already completed under the old contract was for the wiring work in the hospital huildings and corridors, which was done in conjunction with the fireproofing work recently completed in these corridors and buildings.

3. Specifications for New Engine.

The work included under this specification is for the new engine only and does not include the generator, which is furnished as ahovc under the electrical contract.

4. Specifications for Steam Fitting Work.

The work included under this specification is the piping work in the power house necessitated by the changes and hy the installation of the new engine, piping work and connections with the new tunnel work in front of the laundry huilding, changes and additions to the existing service piping in the huilding corridors. This latter work in the huilding corridors includes new service piping and repairs to the old piping, starting from the laundry building and extending through the main pipe tunnels to the surgical huilding on one side and the medical buildings on the other.

Bids were received on the ahove specifications after advertising, and several bids were received on each part of the work. These hids were opened at the hospital office, and a summary of the bids is in the hands of Doctor McCollom. We give helow the lowest bidder for each part of the work:

NATURE OF WORK.	Name of Bidder.	Price.
Fireproofing work	John A. Rooney	$13,370 00
Electric wiring	Lord Electric Company	10,750 00
Engine	Ames Iron Works	2,600 00
Steam fitting	Bradlee & Chatman Company	12,543 00
Total		$39,263 00

The total of these bids, as given above, is $39,263, which is within the amount available from the appropriation.

It is to be noted, however, that the bids received are not in accordance with the division of the appropriation. As explained above, it was not possible to carry out the work within the division stipulated, but the work, as specified, is under the same general headings included in the appropriation.

Very truly yours,
DENSMORE & LECLEAR.

Ordered, That in accordance with the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the balances of three special appropriations for Fireproofing of Engine Room Building, New Electrical Machines and New Electric Wiring to the appropriation for City Hospital, Fireproofing.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

Meeting House Hill Improvement Association,

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Meeting House Hill Improvement Association at its monthly meeting May 5, 1911, placed itself on record as favoring an annual loan bill, said loan bill to include in its items for this year $50,000 for a playground on Mount Ida.

Yours very truly,

TRANSFER FOR BROADWAY BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 9, 1911.

To the City Council:

In compliance with the request of the Commissioner of Public Works, based upon the recommendation of the Division Engineer of the Bridge and Ferry Division, as expressed in the accompanying communication, I have drafted an order providing for the transfer of the sum of six hundred and fifty-seven dollars and two cents ($657.02) from the appropriation for the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Broadway Bridge over the Boston & Albany Railroad, and recommend that this transfer be made.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Mr. L. K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,—There is needed, over the balance remaining of the appropriation for Repairs to Broadway Bridge over the Boston & Albany Railroad the sum of $657.02.

I respectfully suggest that his Honor the Mayor be asked to arrange for the transfer of this amount to meet the deficit.

Respectfully,

L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That in accordance with the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the sum of six hundred and fifty-seven dollars and two cents ($657.02) from the appropriation for the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Broadway Bridge over the Boston & Albany Railroad.

INSPECTOR FOR ELEVATORS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 15, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the Building Commissioner, requesting that one inspector be added to the elevator inspection division of his department, and recommend for passage the accompanying order, appropriating the sum of one thousand six hundred dollars ($1,600) for this purpose.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

—

City of Boston,
Building Department, May 12, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Sir,—I feel that the elevator inspection division of this department should be strengthened by the addition of at least one inspector, there being but two inspectors at present assigned to that work to assist the supervisor. The amount of the appropriation for this department does not afford this expenditure and I submit to you the advisability of adding a sufficient sum to pay one man at least, at the rate of $1,600, for the remainder of the year

Yours respectfully,
ARTHUR G. EVERETT,
Building Commissioner.

Ordered, That in accordance with the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor he, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the sum of one thousand six hundred dollars from the appropriation for Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Building Department.

CITY PLANNING CONFERENCE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from Mr. C. Bertrand Thompson, organization secretary of Boston–1915, suggesting that the city invite the directors of the City Planning Conference to be held in Philadelphia, May 15, 16 and 17, to hold their next session in Boston in the spring of 1912. While I feel that such an invitation might properly be extended, I realize that the presence of so important a gathering in Boston would call for official recognition and the expenditure of a considerable sum. The city of Philadelphia has identified itself officially with the conference this year and has made an appropriation for an exhibit which is to be held in the rooms and corridors of the City Hall. Such an exhibit might properly be arranged on the occasion of a conference in Boston and would necessarily involve an appropriation sufficient to do justice to the importance of the affair. For this reason I respectfully ask for an expression of opinion upon the propriety of presenting the matter during the sessions of the conference, which I expect to attend in person.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

6 Beacon Street,
Boston, Mass., May 9, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor, City of Boston:

Dear Mr. Mayor,—As you know, the National City Planning Conference is to meet in Philadelphia May 15, 16 and 17 of this year. I understand that the City of Boston will have at least three officially appointed delegates at that conference.

As city planning is a very live issue in this community at present, and is having attention concentrated upon it through Coun. Hale's ordinance providing for a plan and the agitation of various organizations, including Boston–1915, the Chamber of Commerce, the Boston Society of Architects, the Joint Board of Metropolitan Improvements, permit me to suggest that it would be exceedingly appropriate to have the National City Planning Conference hold its next meeting in the City of Boston. The present meeting has the official indorsement of the city of Philadelphia and the exhibit in connection therewith is, as you know, financed by the city. It would be well for Boston to have the next conference and finance a city planning exposition on a large and comprehensive scale, of such a nature as to set a model for such expositions in America as Berlin has recently done in Europe.

Can you not, therefore, authorize your delegates officially to invite the conference to meet in Boston next spring, assuring its members at the same time that an effort will be made to provide entertainment and an adequate exhibit? I can assure you that there will be plenty of support from various individuals and organizations in the city behind any request you may make to the Council in this behalf.

I expect to attend this conference myself as the delegate of Boston–1915 and will, of course, be glad to urge upon the conference the acceptance of your invitation if tendered.

I am writing this letter personally and not as representing any organization, but I am assured by Mr. Leahy that it will have none the less of your courteous attention.

Respectfully yours,
BERTRAND C. THOMPSON,

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ANNIVERSARY OF NINTH REGIMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 15, 1911.

To the City Council:

In compliance with the request contained in the appended communication from the colonel of the Ninth Regiment of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, I recommend the passage of the accompanying order, which appropriates the sum of three hundred dollars ($300) for the reception of the surviving members of this regiment. Its glorious record in war and its close identification with the City of Boston are familiar to all the members of your honorable body and I scarcely need to urge upon you the propriety of accepting this recommendation for a moderate recognition of the services rendered by the Fighting Ninth.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

42 Summer Street, May 15, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

My dear Mr. Mayor,—I have the honor to request that the city government of Boston take official part in the semi-centennial of the departure of the Ninth Massachusetts Volunteers to their glorious career in the army of the Union. The Ninth was one of the first six regiments to leave Massachusetts for the full period of three years' service. The regiment was then and has ever been since a Boston regiment, as it was organized in Boston, mustered in here and from the close of the war the headquarters and most of the companies have been located in Boston. The Ninth Regiment, M. V. M., will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the old regiment on June 11, 1911, by a church service, street parade and banquet, and would be pleased to have the co-operation of the city government in making the affair a memorable success.

Very respectfully,
JOHN J. SULLIVAN,
Colonel Ninth Regiment Infantry.

Ordered, That in accordance with the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the sum of three hundred dollars ($300) from the appropriation for Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Mayor, Public Celebrations, to be expended for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Ninth Regiment, M. V. M.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

MONEY FOR MUNICIPAL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

It has been pointed out that owing to the uncertain status of the Bath Department, in view of the proposed ordinance consolidating it with three other departments, the order which I recommended at your last meeting, transferring the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000) from the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for the Bath Department, should be amended so as to place this special appropriation under some more stable jurisdiction in which it would be free from the embarrassments incident to a change of control. For this reason I desire to suggest that the order in its present form be canceled and recommend that the accompanying order be adopted in its place.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000) be added to the appropriation for Mayor, Public Celebrations, to be expended in accordance with the program of the Municipal Athletic Association, and that said sum be met by taxes to the amount so appropriated, and be raised by tax on the polls and estates taxable in the City of Boston.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PURCHASE OF NORTH END PROPERTY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 15, 1911.

To the City Council:

I am in receipt of a letter from Miss Lilian Marchant Skinner, of 157 Endicott street, who has pointed out that the property at 179–181 Salem street, at the corner of Tileston street, covering about two thousand five hundred (2,500) square feet, has recently changed hands, and that the present owners propose to erect a five-story tenement house, which will be a decided detriment to the neighborhood. As Tileston street is only twelve (12) feet wide and Salem street is very narrow, the result will be a complete blanketing of the North Bennet Street Industrial School as well as other neighboring houses.

Miss Skinner proposes to interest certain individuals in a proposition to collect money to purchase this estate, provided the city will contribute part of the expense. If her plan is successfully carried out, instead of a densely populated building with some twenty-five (25) families living together under conditions such as prevail too commonly throughout the North End, the district would acquire a playground or municipal building. The owner has recently released an option upon the property for thirty-four thousand dollars ($34,000), but building operations are now under way, and if the city acts it will be necessary to make the appropriation soon. I believe that Miss Skinner's proposal is worthy of consideration by the City Council and beg to suggest that your Committee on Playgrounds enter into communication with her and make some preliminary studies of her plan in anticipation of a definite statement on the result of her effort to obtain contributions.

Yours very truly,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Office of Civil Service Commission,
May 11, 1911.

To the City Council,
Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sirs,—Referring to my letter of April 27 in relation to the employment of Frederick J. Glenn as assistant in the City Messenger's office, I have to say that after careful consideration of the matter, it appearing there is some question as to whether or not the position held by Mr. Glenn is within the classified service, the commission has voted to take no further action in regard to his employment at present and our pay roll inspector will be instructed to approve his pay for the time being.

Very truly yours,

HIGH PRESSURE SERVICE.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
410–416 Tremont Building,
Boston, May 12, 1911.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—On May 8, 1911, the honorable the City Council referred to the Finance Commission for a report and recommendations two communications submitted to the City Council by the Fire Commissioner and by the Mayor, dated respectively April 26, 1911, and May 1, 1911, both of which recommended that the Council accept chapter 312 of the Acts of 1911, which provides for the installation of a suitable system of high pressure fire service in the City of Boston. The act is to take effect providing it is accepted by the Mayor and the City Council.

The act, among other things, authorizes the Commissioner of Public Works to prepare plans and proceed to the immediate installation of the high pressure system, and it also authorizes the City Council to appropriate $1,000,000 during the six years ensuing after the date of the acceptance of the act, the appropriation in each of the said six years to be not less than $150,000, and the bonds issued under the act to be within the statutory limit of indebtedness. The appropriation of $900,000 in the six years aforesaid is mandatory, and the appropriation of an additional $100,000 is permissive.

The commission has already stated its approval of the act in two communications, the first of which was sent to the General Court under date of February 18, 1911, and the second of which was sent to the Mayor and City Council under date of March 22, 1911. In the communication to the General Court, the commission, after recommending the rejection of other bills then pending which were unnecessary because no additional statutory authority was required to accomplish the purposes in question, stated in relation to the high pressure service bill the following:

"On the same ground (i. e., that no additional statutory authority was required by the city), Senate Bill 295, providing $1,000,000 for a high pressure water service, could be rejected; but as the bill seeks to establish definitely the policy of the city by providing that loans shall be passed in each year until the total amount authorized has been issued, thus insuring the completion of the work, an exception may well be made in this case. Moreover, this bill, unlike the others under consideration, provides that the act shall not take effect until it has been accepted by the Mayor and City Council." (House Document 1537.)

In the communication to the Mayor and City Council the commission stated the grounds upon which it recommended the passage of the bill. (See City Record, March 25, 1911, page 255.) In this communication the commission also said: "If the act is passed by the Legislature and accepted by the Mayor and City Council the plan prepared by the late City Engineer, William Jackson, and the less expensive plan suggested by former Fire Commissioner Benjamin W. Wells should be considered before the contracts for the work are awarded, and the less expensive plan adopted if it seems to afford adequate protection. The Finance Commission does not pass upon the respective merits of the two plans but simply suggests their careful study in the interest of economy." It seems important that not only the executive department of the city government but also the City Council should inspect the plans before voting to accept the act. Such inspection, prior to the acceptance of the act, would enable the City Council to obtain a definite idea of the cost of completing the system before the city became irrevocably committed to the expenditure. If the plans are not inspected by the City Council before the act is accepted the executive department will not be obliged to submit any plans whatever to the City Council for its examination, and the Council will be obliged to appropriate at least $900,000 for the system in the six years after the acceptance of the act without knowing whether the money so appropriated will be sufficient to insure the completion of the system or how far the money so appropriated will go toward completing it, and therefore without knowledge of how much money may be required for its completion.

The commission recommends:

1. That the Council, prior to the acceptance of the act, request the executive department to submit the plan of the late City Engineer, or any modified plan that may have been prepared by the engineers in the Department of Public Works, and also request former Fire Commissioner Benjamin W. Wells to appear before the Council to explain his plan and to state its advantages and the estimated cost thereunder.

2. That after the inspection and careful consideration of said plans the City Council pass a vote accepting the act, provided that it feels assured that the executive department will adopt a plan which will secure an adequate high pressure service for not more than the sum appropriated.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

The communication, with the message of the Mayor and order of May 1 and message of Mayor and order of May 8, were referred to the Executive Committee.

2. Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor May 8, of Miss Lucy Wallen and Maynard F. Moseley, to be Weighers of Coal; Amos S. Hubbard, to be an Inspector of Pressed or Bundled Hay and Straw and a Measurer of Grain; Andrew W. Crowther, to be a Weigher of Boilers and Heavy Machinery; and William A. Tryder, to be a Weigher of Coal, a Measurer of Wood and Bark, a Measurer of Grain, a Weigher of Boilers and Heavy Machinery and Wigher of Beef; all for the term ending April 30, 1912.

The question came on confirmation. Committee —Coun. Curley and Buckley. Whole number of ballots cast 8, yeas 8, and the several appointments were confirmed.

FINANCE.

Coun. KENNY, for the Committee on Finance submitted the following:

(1) Report on petition of South Boston Citizens Association (referred last year) for new municipal building—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That the sum of one hundred and twenty thousand dollars ($120,000) be appropriated, to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings, for a municipal building in South Boston, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, the South Boston Citizens Association last year petitioned the City Council in favor of a loan, looking to the construction of a new municipal building in South Boston. In that petition they stated:

"One of the prime needs of the South Boston district is the replacing of the present old and inadequate municipal building, in which should be provided room for the branch of the public library, courthouse, if necessary, a large hall capable of holding several thousand persons for public assemblies, gymnasium, with baths and swimming pool, similar to the municipal building in Ward 16.

"There is no large hall for public assemblage now left in South Boston, and the need of one is imperative. The building would best serve the needs of the district if located near the center of the central line of communication. In other words, somewhere near the junction of Broadway and Dorchester street.

"The desirability of such a municipal building to accommodate the great population of the three South Boston wards will, I am sure, be apparent to every one of you upon an examination of the situation."

I do not imagine, Mr. President, that the contemplated loan will quite secure all that is requested in this petition, but that is of course for the executive department of the city to determine. There is one thing certain, that South Boston does need a new building. It needs a new courthouse and it needs a hall which can be used for public meetings; and to-day the Committee on Finance, in addition to passing this loan, has also recommended the passage of a resolution as follows:

"Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to recommend to the City Council the transfer of $30,000 from appropriation for 'Bath House, Ward 15,' to appropriation for Municipal Building, South Boston."

I think that $150,000 will be required. That is the best opinion we have been able to get. It is the opinion of the Building Department, through its head, and with the transfer of $30,000 now available for the Ward 15 Bath House, added to the $120,000 loan, which we contemplate making, there will be $150,000, which will give to South Boston a place where public business can be transacted, which will supply in South Boston a need that has been manifest for a great many years, something that everybody throughout the city, I think, recognizes as a great public necessity. I shall offer this resolution in connection with the order.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

(2) Report on order (referred last year) to provide sum for playground in Ward 5—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That the sum of eighty thousand dollars ($80,000) be appropriated to be expended for a playground in Ward 5, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I do not intend to talk on this order at length, but it gives me a great deal of pleasure to stand here to-day and thank the members of the Council for their justice to Ward 5 at this particular time. This is a matter that those who have represented perhaps the most congested ward in Boston have fought for the last twenty years, and it has finally been left for this body, as a monument to the body, to see that justice shall be done to the young and old people of that district. I wish to express their thanks to the Council for passing this order here to-day. It is a simple act of justice, and it is what Ward 5 has long deserved. We pay a fair proportion of the taxes of the city and we ought to get this playground. In addition it will fill a long felt want over there. When I ran for the City Council a year ago I said that is what I would bring to Ward 5, and it now looks as though my hopes will be realized. If I do nothing more while I am in the Council I shall at least have accomplished what I came here for.

The report was accepted, and the order was given its first reading and passage, yeas 8, nays 0.

(3) Report on order (referred last year) to provide sum for playground in Ward 20—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) be appropriated to be expended for a playground in Ward 20, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, there are two or three prominent items which have been before the Committee on Finance for more than one year. They have been almost self-evident propositions. The time had not arrived during the year 1910 when the committee saw its way clear to asking the municipality to borrow this money for these improvements, but to-day, having in view the entire situation, recognizing the demand which these several orders entail upon the city in the way of loans, recognizing the fact that they are of very great public necessity, the committee felt that it could see its way clear to recommend the borrowing of money for some of these things. They certainly speak for themselves. The South Boston courthouse and municipal building is something that has been before the people for a great many years. Last year the City Council went to South Boston and came away every member of the Council feeling that the sooner we could pass a loan and arrange for the construction of such a new building the better, that it was really a great public necessity. The same thing was true in connection with the Charlestown Playground. The district is congested perhaps as much as any part of Boston. There is no place there for the boys to play, and it was felt that the borrowing of this money for that purpose was a very just and proper thing, something that the city could very well take on when the time came that we had the money to do it. The same is true of the situation in Ward 20. That ward represents a large part of Boston, both in area and population, and the demands and necessities there in the way of playground accommodation are of such a character that we felt that we could very well, on behalf of the City Council, take up that item with the other two I have referred to. We have done so, and we feel that this order, like the others, should be passed.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, as one of the two members constituting the minority I desire to express my thanks to the majority for the generosity they have displayed in finally favoring these propositions. I wish to say that the minority had at all times been a unit in favor of them. We rejoice in the fact that the majority has seen the wisdom of acceding to the wishes of the minority in the matter and reporting these orders.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, as a minority of one on this question it gives me great pleasure to agree with everything that Mr. Kenny has said in regard to a playground in Ward 20. I went out there with several members of the Improvement Association and agree that the site on which people seem to center, on top of Mt. Ida, is a most excellent site. I grant frankly that I had never been up there before, and I was tremendously impressed with the beauty of the spot I was also impressed by the way in which buildings were closing in around that hill and with the danger that in future years the city would not be able to get any land on top of the hill. At the same time I have listened with a great deal of interest to the demands of other sections of the city for playgrounds, and I realize that there are also several sections that actually need playgrounds. And with the finances of the city as they are now it seems to me better to give a half loaf in several sections than to devote too much money in one section to the exclusion of others. It also seems to me, in talking of playgrounds, that we must remember that the city needs other improvements. It is possible that the town has gone playground mad. Mr. Mitchell has not been able to give me the exact figures to-day as to the amount of money the city has spent on playgrounds in the last few years, because of the trouble in his family, but it is a very large sum. And at the present time our playgrounds are not kept up as they should be. They are woefully lacking in teachers and in apparatus and in general cleanliness, as compared with the playgrounds of other cities. For that reason it seems to me better to increase the availability of the present playgrounds, to approve their appointments, to spend more money upon them, and, if we are going to buy new playgrounds, to take comparatively small areas situated in various sections of the city. For these reasons it seems to me that we are spending too much money in Ward 20 for a playground and for that reason, and that reason only, I am going to vote against this loan. The site suggested at the top of Mt. Ida is assessed for about 15 cents a foot. The Carey estate on the top of Mt. Ida contains 109,000 square feet and is assessed for only $25,600. Therefore that estate, if purchased at anywhere near its assessed valuation, would cost only half the amount of this loan and would furnish over 100,000 square feet, with the building. It seems to me that that loan is ample. Mr. Kiley told the Committee on Finance that $50,000 ought to buy 200,000 square feet on top of Mt. Ida. It seems to me that that is an unreasonable amount of land to buy. Of course, it may be answered by other members of the Council that we have not the selection of the site, and that is quite true. But if we grant a certain amount of money it enables the Park Commissioners to buy a certain site. If we grant a smaller amount of money it enables them to buy a smaller site, even in the same neighborhood. That is the reason why I am going to vote against the loan—not that I don't wish well to Ward 20 in the matter of a playground, not that I am not heartily in sympathy with the needs of that community. I agree with everything that has been said. But I think if Ward 20 is given $50,000 for a playground it is going to exclude some other section of the city from having the same privilege. The members of the Improvement Association told me that all they wanted up there was a breathing space for the women and children, that they did not desire a building, that they did not desire a ball field. They have down in the town field near Field's Corner a ball field and also apparatus, such as swings, teeters, that sort of children's apparatus; and it seems to me if we grant simply a breathing space for approximately half the amount of this loan on Mt. Ida we shall be doing all that the Improvement Association asks and leaving money for some other section of the city that may need it fully as much. That is my first great reason for voting against the order, and the second is this, that I believe, with all due respect to the needs of Ward 20 in the way of a playground, before we issue the full amount of this proposed loan we ought to issue a loan so that the children of the North End of the city may be educated through the medium of a library. I believe a library at the North End is more needed than a playground in Ward 20. I believe it because our city is changing in the character of its population. We have down there a great cosmopolitan population, which we must absorb. The great influx of immigrants must be made into American citizens, and the question is nowhere so imminent than in the North End of Boston. We have more nationalities probably in that district that must be assimilated than in any other section, and as the great means of assimilation a public library comes next only to the public schools. The children of that section are crying for books. They have only temporary room now in a private institution, the North Bennet Street Industrial School, with which to offer facilities to those children at present—entirely inadequate in size, badly lighted and with no ventilation. We ought to change that condition of things as soon as possible. In my opinion we should first grant a library building to that section of the city. For these two reasons—because I think the loan is too large for a playground for Ward 20 and because I think the library in the North End should come first—I am forced to vote against this loan.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I regret very much that Coun. Smith has taken the stand he does take upon this proposition. The merits of the proposition must be apparent to Coun. Smith when he considers that the Dorchester district resembles Ward 10 as much as it does the Desert of Sahara, so far as children are concerned. There was no serious objection on the part of the citizens of Ward 10 or of Ward 11 when the question of the expenditure of nearly a million dollars was considered for the beautiful esplanade at the rear of the houses on Beacon street at the State House. There has never been any serious objection raised by the people of the Back Bay Station to extensions and enlargement of the Fenway; and where a district is as rich in parks as the section that Coun. Smith represents I feel that he should consider it a matter of justice to favor a proposition that will give to some other less favored section of the city the same rights and privileges and chances that are enjoyed by his section. There is what may be termed a park system running entirely through Wards 10 and 11, known as Commonwealth avenue. The section is rich with the Public Garden, perhaps the most beautiful breathing spot in the entire world. It is rich in Boston Common. It has the magnificent Charles River Esplanade; it has the beautiful and magnificent Fenway; it has the little Lafayette Mall and numerous other small breathing places scattered throughout the section. As regards the appropriation of $50,000 being excessive, I want to say to Brother Smith that the ward that Coun. Ballantyne and myself have the honor to represent received a loan of $80,000 for a playground some three years ago, and the land was bought in that section at less than the assessed valuation. There is a probability that there will be sufficient public spirit in the owners of the land on Mt. Ida to lead them to treat the city in a similar way. I feel that the needs of the North End section, so far as library accommodations are concerned, are fully as pressing as they have been pictured by Coun. Smith; but I still recognize the fact that there is sufficient money which may be borrowed to provide the necessary library facilities for the North End. But because the North End library idea is a good proposition it does not follow that we should sidetrack an equally good proposition, or perhaps a better one, because of the pressing needs of the North End section. I feel that if Coun. Smith had given this matter the attention that has been given to it by other members of the Council—and which I recognize that he has not had the opportunity to give—he would not vote against it. I feel that his vote against this proposition is caused by lack of knowledge of the necessity and needs of that particular section, and I sincerely trust that he will see the wisdom of joining with the other members of the Council in favor of the proposition. It is true that his vote is not required to pass the order, but in view of the fact that it is a meritorious one I sincerely trust that he will cast it that way.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I cannot agree with Coun. Smith in regard to the amount for a playground in Ward 20 being excessive. As Coun. Curley has well said, Ward 17 had an appropriation of $80,000, and, while we bought the land there below the assessed value, we required every cent of that $80,000 to put the playground in proper condition. We have just appropriated $80,000 for a playground in Ward 5, for which I was very glad to have an opportunity to cast my vote, because I believe that is one of the most necessary improvements in the City of Boston. When we come to a large ward like Ward 20, with a large population and a great area, I think that $50,000 is a small amount to provide for a playground in that section. I don't know where this playground may be selected. All that this Council can do is to appropriate a certain amount of money and the Park Commissioners will make the selection. They may select the top of Mt. Ida, one of two prospective lots there, or they may select a playground in some other section; but I believe the Park Commissioners ought to have in their hands at least $50,000 for that purpose. If they do not require it all for a playground it will not be spent. I have every confidence that the Park Commission will expend this money for the best interests of the City of Boston, and that if they can buy a sufficient amount of land there for a playground for $20,000 or $25,000 that they will not spend $50,000 upon it. With regard to the Meeting House Hill Association being satisfied with $25,000, I hold in my hand a communication asking that there be included among the loan items this year an item for $50,000 for a playground on Mt. Ida, and from that association; so the Meeting House Hill Improvement Association expects and thinks that the sum of $50,000 will be needed. I certainly hope that the order will pass providing $50,000, and I take great pleasure in saying that I shall vote for it.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I shall vote for this order calling for the expenditure of $50,000 for this playground in Ward 20. I shall vote for it because I believe it is necessary in that growing section of our city. Of course, I have my own personal opinion in reference to the needs of other sections of the city. I am sure that something should be done by the Council this year at an early date to relieve the conditions which exist, such, for instance, as the condition in the North End district in reference to library facilities and accommodations, and I now want to urge upon the members of the Council immediate action in regard to that growing section of our city. The needs of the North End are a little bit different from the needs of the Dorchester district. I admit, after having made investigation with the members of this Council, that the Dorchester district does need a playground, and I admit that in the North End of this town there is great need of a library building. The Trustees of the Boston Public Library for two years have called the attention of the Mayor and City Council to that need, and up to the present time nothing has been done to satisfy it. The Branch Library Committee, consisting of Coun. Buckley, Smith and myself, submitted a report to this Council calling attention to that library need of that great district of our city. We stated that for two years the Library Trustees have desired that some action be taken to satisfy this long felt want in the way of library accommodations. The Library Trustees have stated to us that they have an option on a piece of property in the North End, that that option is to run from March 15 for three months. The Library Trustees have stated the amount of money necessary in order to purchase this property, to renovate the building, having first-class construction, and to properly equip it as a public library. $85,000 is needed for that urgent necessity, and I stand here to-day as a member of the City Council, not opposing the needs of any particular district of our city but desiring to call attention to what I consider are needs just as great as the needs of other sections of our city. I trust that the members will be fair enough to the Library Trustees and to the citizens of Boston in general, to do something for that great section of our city, the North End, a cosmopolitan section made up of various races, of families that have many children and children eager to learn. Playgrounds are necessary for children and so, I submit, are libraries; and it is my earnest wish and hope that the members of this Council will keep in mind the needs of that great district—but do something—that is, appropriate the money which the Library Trustees say is absolutely necessary. Appropriate $85,000 for a branch public library building in the North End.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I want to put in only one more word after the general discussion of this matter, reminding the Council that I am voting upon this matter as I do simply because I believe it is not relatively as important as the library building in the North End, and that I believe the amount of the loan is unduly large when we take into consideration the playground needs of other parts of the city. Those are my only two reasons. It is not because I do not believe this playground is needed in Ward 20. I started out by saying that one is needed, and I reiterate that now. I simply intend to vote against the order as presented for the two reasons I have already stated. Our position should be to look around the city and find out what we think personally is most needed, and then, with a given amount of money, to meet as many of those needs as we can, in the order in which we think they are most pressing. This playground does not appeal to me as being as pressing as the library in the North End, and if we are to consider it at this time it seems to me that we should cut the amount down one-half. Those are my only reasons against this order. Of course, I do not agree with Coun. Curley that I represent Ward 11 any more than he represents Ward 17. I think he forgets that we are living under a new charter, that we are not representing sections of the city but the whole city. If we are doing our duty we are representing the whole city. That is what we are supposed to do by the charter under which we are elected, and under which we should serve, striving to do our duty by the whole city and not by any one section. Of course, it is a stupid reflection to criticise the building of the embankment along the Back Bay. That was built by the Metropolitan Park Commission at an expense of $800,000, $600,000 of which will be returned to the city by the betterment assessments of 15 cents a foot, along the back of Beacon street. So that point is not well taken, and even if it were it would have no relation to me, any more than the playground in Ward 20 or the library at the North End, because it is not my section any more than it is Coun. Curley's section. On the two grounds already stated I vote against this order—because I do not believe it represents the most pressing need and because I think the amount is too large by 50 per cent.

The order was read once and passed, yeas 7, nay 1, Coun. Smith voting nay.

(4) Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred April 14) for loan of $63,000 for Meridian Street Bridge—that the same be referred to the Finance Commission for investigation and report.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, on April 14, the Mayor submitted to the Council an order that the sum of $63,000 be appropriated to be spent by the Commissioner of Public Works in the reconstruction of Meridian Street Bridge, recommending a loan. Last year the Council appropriated $125,000, if I remember rightly, for the reconstruction of this hridge. The present draw span is 59 feet. Last winter the present Commissioner of Public Works and certain members of the Council went to Chelsea and there took up this subject with the officials in Chelsea. It seemed to be the unanimous opinion that a 70-foot span hridge would he sufficient for all purposes, and the Commissioner of Puhlic Works, I understand, started in to reconstruct the hridge on that theory. Since then the officials in Chelsea have hrought the matter up again, and as a consequence of their activity the official of the War Department here, Colonel Abbott, has intimated or suggested that there should be a 100-foot span across Chelsea creek. It ought to be rememhered that the bills are heing paid entirely by the City of Boston. Chelsea will not contrihute one cent towards the construction of this hridge. As a result of the activity of the Chelsea officials a condition of affairs has heen hrought ahout under which it looks as though Boston might he called upon to spend $60,000 more to give them a bridge of 100-foot span. It is the opinion of the Commissioner of Public Works—I have it from him directly—that a 70-foot span will answer all purposes. Therefore it seems to me that this is a matter that might very well he taken up hy the Finance Commission for the purpose of investigating and seeing what might he done towards bringing the matter hefore the proper United States officials. I helieve Colonel Ahhott, the resident official here, is a gentleman of the very highest standing, and that he will not attempt to coerce the city or to do anything unfair or unjust. Nevertheless, it seems to me that the Finance Commission should be called upon to take this matter up. It is a line of work that is entirely in keeping with the purpose of their organization, and in hehalf of the Committee on Finance I submit this report.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would say in connection with this order that I have talked with the Mayor and have arranged to meet him in Washington on Wednesday and take the matter up with him and with the Secretary of War.

Report accepted; said reference ordered.

TRANSFER FOR MUNICIPAL BUILDING.

Coun. KENNY offered the following:

Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to recommend to the City Council the transfer of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000) from appropriation for "Bath House, Ward 15" to appropriation for "Municipal Building, South Boston."

Adopted.

MERIDIAN STREET DRAWBRIDGE

Coun. KENNY offered the following:

Resolved, That his Honor Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and Congressman James M. Curley be requested to confer with the proper officials of the War Department, Washington, in relation to the width of the draw of the Meridian Street Bridge, East Boston, as it is the opinion of the City Council that a 70-foot draw is preferahle to a 100-foot draw, as now proposed.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, in this connection I will say that I understand that his Honor the Mayor and Congressman Curley, one of our colleagues, are to he in Washington on Wednesday, and I think that will be a very opportune time for those officials to take this matter up with the War Department. Therefore I offer the resolution in that connection.

The resolution was passed.

DISAPPROVAL OF LIGHTING CONTRACT.

Coun. KENNY offered the following:

Resolved, That the offer of the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company, dated March 4, 1911, to light the streets, parks and alleys of the city with gas is not advantageous for the city to accept; and therefore the City Council hereby declines to approve a contract awarded to said company by the Commissioner of Puhlic Works.

The question came on the adoption of the resolution.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I confess that I have reached this conclusion with some regret. I have a great deal of sympathy for the present corporation that is lighting the city. It has heen engaged for a great many years in furnishing to the City of Boston, under contracts which so far as I am able to determine have been fair and just, a very splendid system of lighting. I think the gentlemen connected with the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company have undertaken to do at all times what was fair and equitahle. I think Boston has not suffered in that respect as other cities have. I understand that in New York, for instance, the price for lighting per lamp is even greater than it is here. I understand also that they have their equipment here, that they have a plant installed, and I would say this without the slightest hesitation, other things heing equal, that, provided the Rising Sun Company will do as well hy us as others will, I would prefer doing husiness with them. But we are here as trustees of the city and it is our duty in spending the city's money to spend it advantageously and in the best manner. Therefore, under all the circumstances, considering everything, I think the City of Boston would he in a hetter position financially during the next ten years if it should resort to its own system of lighting and pay the hills itself, cutting out the middlemen. I did feel inclined and rather disposed to extend the present contract, say for two years, provided it might be done on the hasis of $22.30 per light. That has not been hefore us. Many improvements are being made and have heen made in automatic lighting, although I am not satisfied that at present there is any system that is entirely perfect. I think, however, that we are reaching a climax in that respect, that they are on the eve of perfecting these various devices, that the automatic lighting and extinguishing in connection with the inverted system will in a short time reach a high state of perfection, and I think pending that time the city might very well continue the present contract for a while, if it could do so on the basis of $22.30 per light, later taking advantage of whatever might be on the market in the way of a good system. That is not now hefore us, but it is a thing to be considered; and I think, taking into consideration everything, that the best interests of Boston will be met hy our turning down this proposed ten-year contract. I helieve it is a very undesirable thing to tie the city up with a contract of ten years' duration. That is one of the principal objections that I have to the proposed Rising Sun contract. I don't see why Boston, with its splendid organizations of different kinds, trade associations, Finance Commission, and so on, organizations tending to the puhlic good and the uplift of the people as a whole and the transaction of puhlic husiness, should not be safeguarded in all matters of this kind. I think Boston may very well proceed to light its own streets and cut out the money that is now paid to intermediaries. If this passes I shall offer another order looking to ohtaining the money to place the paraphernalia needed hy the city itself on the lamps.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, this lighting question has been hefore the Council in one form or another for several years. Personally I feel that it would be folly for the city to engage in a ten-year contract with the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company or with any other company or corporation. I agree heartily with that portion of Coun. Kenny's remarks whcre he refers to the fact that street lighting is somewhat in its infancy and in process of development. If anything were necessary to prove that statement I believe it is exemplified in an advertisement puhlished hy the Lynn Gas and Electric Company in a program distrihuted at the letter carriers' convention yesterday. It said:

"On July 1 we shall make a 16⅔ per cent reduction on our present maximum price for electricity. In other words, electricity which is now costing 12 cents per kilowatt on July 1 will be reduced one-sixth—10-cent electricity and 75-cent gas. Compare the prices with what people of other cities are paying."

It seems to me that if it is possible to supply a small city like Lynn with electricity at 10 cents per kilowatt and with gas at 75 cents per cuhic feet, it is possible for us to have electricity and gas furnished at a less price than at present in the City of Boston. With relation to the expenditure of $300,000 for the purchase of some devices to be placed on the lamp-posts, I want to say this, that I recognize the fact that the day is rapidly approaching when the lighting of lamps by hand will be a thing of the past, that some automatic device will be invented whereby a hutton may be pressed and the entire city lighted and another button pressed and the lamps of the entiie city extinguished. But I nevertheless realize that there must be some gentleman interested in the purchase hy the city of $300,000 worth of tops for the lamp-posts scattered throughout the city who evidently must be on fairly friendly terms with the memhers of the Finance Commission, because of their activity and interest as exemplified in the present instance and as at times exemplified in the past. In other words, this is not the first time that thcy have shown a desire that the City of Boston shall invest a substantial sum of money in a questionable investment —and I say questionable advisedly. There is no question hut what the amount of candle power light furnished by a tungsten lamp very nearly equals the amount now furnished hy one of the present lamps or one of those that it is proposed that the city shall purchase. It is a safe presumption that were the city to submit a proposition to the Edison Company for the entire lighting of the city's streets with tungsten lamps, a price much less than the present price paid by the city would be submitted hy that company. The Consolidated Gas Company, the largest lighting concern with the exception of the Edison Company in the city, refused to accept a contract with the city on other terms than that the city purchase the equipment. Supposing that the city purchases the equipment, costing some $300,000, and that within one year or two years after the purchase some invention such as has been suggested by Mr. Kenny and is probably in the minds of every member of the City Council is made, which means that the entire $300,000 of equipment will be junked and that thc city will stand the loss of $300,000, possibly less such an amount as can be derived from the sale of the material as junked. Personally, since the question of street lighting is in a progressive state, I feel that the best interests of the city will be conserved hy laying this order on the table and hy the adoption of a recommendation that the Commissioner of Public Works confer with the officials who have the contract at the present time and ascertain upon what basis a contract may be made for one year, eighteen months or two years—until such time as these experimental devices which are being continually referred to may have their usefulness demonstrated. What is the proposition? The city proposes to pay $300,000 for the purchase of tops for the lamp-posts and to install those tops, and they have as their basis for reckoning the materiai value of those tops the results obtained in some thirty or forty isolated cases where the lamps have not been given a fair trial, so far as the city is concerned, hut where they have received an extremely fair trial so far as the agents for the lamps are concerned. If an extension of the contract for one year, a year and a half or two years is made, a certain number of those tops might be installed. We will say that 500 or 5,000 are installed, and that they are not confined to those sections of the city where it is impossihle to subject them to the greatest amount of exposure, but that certain ones are placed in the hilly sections of South Boston, Charlestown, Boston proper and Dorchester, and that a fair trial is given through the winter assuming that the weather is the most extreme that we have in this section of New England. If they stand up under a fair trial of that character I would be one of the first to favor a loan of $300,000 for the establishment of those tops; but for the city to plunge into a proposition of this character without a fair trial, without an opportunity to pass on the merits of the proposition, I do not believe in. With the development that is taking place in the matter of street lighting, with the possibility of inventions that may be discovered within perhaps one year or two years, certainly within the life of those tops that would he purchased, I feel that it is anything but the part of wisdom to invest such a substantial sum of money in such a questionable enterprise. I want to say further that I have no desire to impugn the motive that prompts the action of this Board or of any member of the Finance Commission in the matter of the purchase of those tops; but where it is proposed to invest $300,000 of the city's money in a proposition that has not had a fair trial I do not feel that justice is being done to the City of Boston. I do not propose to make a motion to lay on the tahle at this time, as I desire that the matter may he fairly discussed in open Board, but after each member has discussed the proposition I shall make that motion, and if that motion should prevail I stand prepared to vote in favor of a resolution or order which any member of this Board may see fit to present, that the Commissioner of Puhlic Works be instructed to confer with the officials of the company having the present contract with the city relative to an extension of that contract on such terms as may be advantageous to the city, for a period not longer than one or two years, or until such time as a fair trial may be had of the various devices that may be presented for acceptance by thc City of Boston.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it gives me great pleasure to vote for the resolution, for two reasons, —first, hecause the present company doing the lighting of this city, through the ownership of the lamps practically has a monopoly of the business. By that I mean that other possihle competitors cannot suhmit a sufficiently good hid to attract the city. The old company having lighted the city for so long, knowing the cost under the contract and having charged off its equipment probahly several times is enahled to make a lower hid than any other company,—and the truth of that is well shown hy the fact that only one bid was suhmitted under the last call. For that reason it seems to me well that the city should own its equipment in order to permit of competition, in order to permit of other companies outside of the Rising Sun coming in and making bids. Competition is always good for the city. Normal, natural competition will bring a lower price in its wake; and for that reason I hope the city will own its own equipment. The second reason why I hope the order will pass and the city own its own equipment is that it takes only half an eye to see that automatic devices are practical to-day. I don't think we have got to put this thing off into the future for any great length of time. I think automatic devices for lighting and extinguishing lamps are in very good shape to-day. The Horstman clock, which is used in Liverpool, is an excellent device; the Shaw Company's clock, used in Newton, has proven itself to be an excellent device; and there are a numher of devices on trial in different places which have made a good showing. This all goes to show that the city can huy a practical automatic device to-day and make a saving. For that reason I hope the resolution will go through. Ownership by the city of its own equipment will enable other bidders to come in if we care to let the work in connection with the operation of the system out by contract, and the city will get the entire amount that may be saved. Under the proposed contract with the Rising Sun Company, if automatic devices are adopted, the amount saved will be shared between the city and the company. I don't think such a sharing would be helpful. If the automatic lighting is practical, I think the city should get the whole henefit of the saving that results from it. For those two reasons I want to vote in favor of the resolution. At the same time I wish to express my sincere feeling that Congressman Curley is working along the right track in saying that the city should experiment. I have a strong feeling that the city hefore expending such a large sum of money should spend a great deal of time in experimenting. Such experiments may show that the inverted lamp is not the best, although I am convinced that it is. But there are various inverted lamps and various automatic devices. Experiments will show what devices give hest results. I am convinced that there are various good automatic devices, but to make a wise selection it seems to me there should be ample time spent in experimentation. For that reason I drew up a resolution this morning asking that the present contract with the Rising Sun Company he extended for a while and that the Commissioner of Puhlic Works experiment in the meanwhile with the various apparatus and with the various inverted lamps. But I am not going to present that, for this reason. I believe that the Commissioner of Public Works will do exactly that same thing, whether we pass a resolution to that effect or not. I helieve it is simply the natural thing to do,—to continue the contract with the Rising Sun Company pending such time as he can experiment, and then install the device that is considered best. What other course can he adopt? If he starts right away and huys a device, he will suhject himself to grave criticism. If the Rising Sun Company, on the other hand, should say on August 1, "We will take out all our lamps," it would lay itself open to grave criticism. It is not apt to do that because it has 400,000 lights all over this country in different cities, and it would not prejudice itself in other cities by doing that thing. The normal, natural thing to do would be to continue the contract with the Rising Sun Company until the commissioner has had a chance to experiment and install the proper system. This would take some time. To merely install the lights would take four months, I am told. We have to huy not only the gooscneck risers hut the inverted lamps, and the automatic device itself would have to he put up hy expert workmen. Not only that, but it will take timc for the delivery of the automatic device and inverted lamp. So it seems to me, while it may he the right thing to pass a resolution asking the Commissioner of Puhlic Works to expcriment, it would simply be carrying coals to Newcastle. It is what he would naturally do, anyway. Therefore, I feel perfectly free in leaving the experimentation to Commissioner Rourke and voting for this resolution.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. Prcsident——

President COLLINS—The Chair wishes to advise the Council that the only question hefore the Council is on the resolution relating to the declination of the present contract or proposed contract with the Rising Sun Company.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, with relation to the matter of experimentation, as I understand it the city charter provides that no contract for lighting streets or for the collcction of garhage, extending over a period of more than one year, shall he engaged in without the Commissioncr of Puhlic Works complying with certain conditions that are set forth in the city charter. So thc greatest possible extension thzat might he made of an existing contract would not be in excess of eleven months. If the City Council feels that that is a reasonahle time, it might he pcrfectly proper, but if, on the other hand, a year, a year and a half or two years was a reasonahle time, it strikes me that such an extension might he advisahle. I should like to ask some of those who desire to purchase these tops what connection there is between Henry C. Long, of the Tremont Building, attorney, who sends a communication to every memher of the City Council to-day, and this particular proposition. I will say that I have received one of these communications, as I believe every memher of the Council has, and this particular portion of the communication is extremely interesting—not only interesting to me hut I presume to the general puhlic of Boston and to the lamplighters as well:

"The people of Boston have reached the stage where they are very much in earnest ahout having the hest possible light for the least money. We are far from that position to-day.

"The proposition suhmitted by the Rising Sun Company is not one that meets that demand. The day of puhlic ownership and operation of puhlic utilities, if not at hand, is not far away.

"Clients of mine who are responsihle, desire to suhmit a proposition which leads direct to puhlic ownership and operation, and relieves the city of the responsihility of operation for any number of years agreed upon. The Rising Sun Company's offer is $22.30 per lamp, subject to a possihle discount, probably not exceeding two dollars, with the automatic device. My clients wish to suhmit the following offer:—In case the city appropriates $350,000 to he used hy it for the purchase of equipmcnt, they can, after investigation, purchase the best equipment in the world, and we will maintain and operate the same during any period of years, not less than ten, agreed upon for the same sum per annum which the Rising Sun names, to wit, —$22.30 per lamp. We will, in addition to that, rebate to the city such a sum of money per annum as will return to the city in the period of years agreed upon for the life of the contract, the entire $350,000 furnished by it, and will deliver over to the city the entire equipment."

This company stands ready at the present time to take over the matter of caring for those lamps, continuing the lighting and extinguishing of thc lamps, and then turn over to the city at the end of the ten-year period the total amount of the investment of $350,000. I don't know whether it was premature on the part of Mr. Henry C. Long to send out communications of this kind before Mr. Kenny's order had been presented, and I don't really know whether there has heen any connection between his presenting the order and the receipt of the communication from Mr. Long. But the character of the letter is certainly suggestive of an understanding with some one, possihly with the Finance Commission.

"Or, if the city will purchase a first-class equipment, in good condition, the hest that can he had, my clients will lease the entire equipment, for such a sum per annum as will pay for the entire equipment in the life of the lease provided the lease is for not less than a ten-year term."

So that those who propose to take over the matter of lighting the city's streets propose to do it on a contract hasis the same as it is done at the present time. But they propose to go a step farther—they propose to turn over at the end of ten years the total cost of the equipment. It does require a very great stretch of the imagination to discern in what manner and hy what method it will he possihle for them to continue this street lighting system hy automatic devices and turn over in ten years $350,000 to the city. It means simply such a system of lighting as is in vogue to-day in Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York and other cities. In New York the price paid men to light lamps is $30 per month, and each man lights 100 lamps. The price paid in Philadelphia is $18 a month and the work is done hy high school boys. In Boston the men are paid $14 a week, and the average numher of lamps lighted is ahout eighty. So the company would prohahly turn the proposition over, as an uplift movement, to the boys in the high school, letting them light the lamps and letting the city take chances as to whether there were well lighted or poorly lighted streets.

"In either case we will furthermore give a bond of $50,000 or more, if neccssary, to guarantee the faithful performance of our contract. Now, it seems to us that a contract of this sort should receive your most earnest consideration, as it leads directly to public ownership, and not puhlic operation."

Why, I presumed that the purpose of the purchasc of these clocks was to insure puhlic operation, that the men now employed as lamplighters might he taken over into the city's service and receive the prevailing rate of wages now paid by the city to men performing a similar work, $2.25 a day. But apparently those most interested in the adoption of this new lighting system are desirous that there shall he puhlic ownership of the lamps hut that there shall he a contract system applied to the lighting and extinguishing of those lamps and not puhlic operation.

"Now, it seems to us that a contract of this sort should receive your most earnest consideration, as it leads directly to puhlic ownership, and not puhlic operation, and leaves with the city the right to select, after proper investigation abroad or in this country, the very best equipment that the world contains for gas lighting of streets.

"It seems to us that a contract of such magnitude and importance would merit the city in spending such reasonable sum as would he necessary for a committee of the city government visiting a number of citics of Europe and in this country, with a view to ascertaining the very hest possihle equipment before going into a contract for so long as ten years.

"We would like to be heard on this matter at your convenience.

"Very respectfully,

"HENRY C. LONG."

It is extremely kind of Mr. Long or the persons whom he represents to suggest, perhaps at his expense, a trip ahroad as well as a trip around this country for the members of the City Council, in considering the purchase of those tops by the city and their operation under a ten-year contract by Mr. Long's concern. It certainly furnishes food for thought. But I don't see how, in justice to his own reputation, any memher of this Board can afford to vote for this proposition to-day, in view of the receipt hy every memher of Mr. Long's letter and in view of the questionable character of the proposed expenditure of $300,000 of the city's money. I therefore move at this time that the matter lie on the table for two weeks. I believe in two weeks or three weeks we will reccive further light in relation to Mr. Long's proposition for puhlic ownership and for private operation of this lighting device. I am sufficiently familiar with this proposition, I have discussed the matter at length at different times with Mr. Rourke and with others in a position to know, and I have it on fairly good authority that the present contract will not net in excess of 5 per cent on the total amount involved. If the net revenue on the present contract is not in excess of 5 per cent, I would like to ask some memher of this Council to explain to me how it is possihle to have a sinking fund of $35,000 per annum estahlished—which is on the hasis of 10 per cent of the $350,000—to turn over to the city with the prevailing rate of wages paid to the operatives in connection with those lights. It is an utter impossibility. You cannot pay the men $2 a day and at the same time create a sinking fund that represents 10 per cent on the amount invested by this concern. If you do that you will net nothing to the company, and at the end of ten years, or of one year, the company assuming the contract would be in debt. I accordingly move that this matter lie on the table for three weeks.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, Coun. Curley has asked the Council to explain Mr. Long's letter. I think we ought to thank him for explaining Mr. Long's letter.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I had presumed that Mr. Smith would recognize the fact that the motion to lay on the table was not debatable.

Coun. Curley's motion to lay on the table was declared lost. Coun. CURLEY doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The motion was lost, yeas 1, nays 7, Coun. Curley voting yea.

The resolution was adopted.

Later in the session Coun. BUCKLEY said:

Mr. President, I move a reconsideration of the action whereby the Council adopted the resolution declining the contract with the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company. My purpose in making the motion is this, that I would like every member of the Council recorded either for or against the proposition.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would say that I am in favor of that motion—that during the discussion of the resolution as presented by Mr. Kenny I stated that I was opposed to the adoption of a ten-year contract with this company or any other company. I sincerely trust that reconsideration will obtain and that the roll will be called.

Reconsideration of the adoption of the resolution prevailed, and the Council then voted by roll call to adopt the resolution, Coun. BUCKLEY calling for the yeas and nays, yeas 8, nays 0.

INSTALLATION OF GAS MANTLES.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the sum of $300,000 be and hereby is appropriated to be expended by the Department of Public Works for the purchase and installation of approximately 11,000 gas lamps with mantles and other necessary equipment and approximately 11,000 automatic lighting and extinguishing devices; that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be hereby authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds of the City of Boston to said amount for said purposes.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

ORDINANCES.

Coun. McDONALD, for the Committee on Ordinances, submitted the following:

(1) Report on message of Mayor, communication from Police Commissioner and ordinance (referred last year) concerning parks and public grounds—that no further action is necessary.

Report accepted.

(2) Report on ordinance (referred last year) relative to sauntering and loitering on streets—that the ordinance ought not to pass.

The question came on accepting the report and rejecting the ordinance.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I hesitate to air the somewhat unpleasant affair that occurred in the Committee on Ordinances, but I would like to request that this be laid over for one week. I have endeavored three times to find Police Commissioner O'Meara to discover the pros and cons of this matter. The proposed ordinance has been in committee for a year, I understand, but I knew nothing of it until last Tuesday; so it seems to me only a fair request that we should hear both sides on this matter. The request is of the same tenor as other requests I have made—simply that the courtesy of this body be extended for one week to find out the arguments for and against this. I understand that courtesy is granted without discussion and without hard feeling in other bodies. It is always granted as a matter of course in the Legislature—I think the members of the Council who have been members of the Legislature can bear me out in that. It does not seem to me an unreasonable request, and I trust that the Chair or the body as a whole can grant it. As I say, I have made three attempts to see the Police Commissioner in regard to this matter. I know practically nothing about the subject. When I called up the Clerk of Committees to-day he actually did not know what the ordinance suggested. We had a discussion over the phone about it and he could not give me any light at all. It seems to me when the thing is in such a state possibly it might not be out of place to put it over for a week, and I move that the matter be laid on the table for one week, simply as a matter of courtesy.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I do not propose to discuss this question to-day either. I am satisfied to allow it to go over one week, but I feel that I will vote for it a week from to-day just as I would to-day. However, if the gentleman pleads courtesy I am satisfied. I don't want to be discourteous to anybody. I told him so the other night, and I shall agree to postponement for a week.

The matter was specially assigned to one week from to-day.

AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC, COMMONWEALTH AVENUE.

Coun. McDONALD offered the following:

Whereas, The present regulations governing automobile traffic on Commonwealth avenue, between Arlington street and the Ericsson monument, cause the lives and property of many persons to be endangered daily; therefore be it

Ordered, That the Mayor be requested to direct the Park Commission to give a public hearing to the remonstrants against said regulations.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I don't suppose it is necessary for me to say much on this resolution and order, because of the fact that possibly every member of the Council has read articles that have appeared in one of our leading papers, the Boston Post, advocating a change in the rules or regulations established by the Park Commissioners on Commonwealth avenue, between Arlington street and the Ericsson monument, a little beyond Massachusetts avenue, between the avenue and Charlesgate. It seems that the rule that the Park Commission has established on Commonwealth avenue compels automobiles to keep on the right hand side of the left hand side of Commonwealth avenue, from Arlington street to the Ericsson monument, and then compels them to turn to the right, from the Ericsson monument to Charlesgate, keeping on the right hand side of the right hand side of Commonwealth avenue, making a danger point there that is being objected to by hundreds and hundreds of citizens of Boston. The Boston Post has been devoting two or three columns at least, and sometimes a whole page, to publishing protests of our citizens against this danger point. I read the other day that an automobilist in trying to turn out at this point went over the sidewalk and into a lawn and just barely escaped hitting a woman who was standing on her lawn in front of her house. I do not want to take up the time of the Council by reading some of the protests that have appeared in the Boston Post, but from reading them over it seems that everybody is of the opinion, that the opinion is unanimous, that that is a danger spot, and that the rule should be repealed by the Park Commission. I understand that the Park Commission says that the police ought to properly police the point and prevent the existing danger of accidents, and the Park Commission say that they cannot at the present time repeal the rule they have made relative to that point. I hope that this Council will see fit to pass this resolution and order, and that the Park Commission will at least grant a hearing to the remonstrants and to the people who are vitally interested, with a view to preventing in the future the occurrence of accidents at this point.

The order was passed.

PAYMENT TO MRS. DONAGHUE.

Coun. McDONALD offered an order—That chapter 171, Acts of 1911, entitled "An Act to Authorize the City of Boston to Pay a Sum of Money to the Widow of George A. Donaghue," be and the same is hereby accepted.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

VACATION FOR COUNTY EMPLOYEES.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Register of Deeds be authorized to allow a three weeks' vacation, without loss of pay, to all employees in his office, the expense to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, Registry of Deeds.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SIDEWALK ORDERS.

Coun. BUCKLEY presented the petition of the Baker Congregational Church for sidewalk on Saratoga street, East Boston.

In connection with the petition Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along the Saratoga street side of the Baker Congregational Church, on the corner of Saratoga and Byron streets, Ward 1, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of gravel with granite edgestone, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along Winship street, Ward 25, from 43 to the corner of Union street, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of gravel with granite edgestone, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Edge Hill street, between Round Hill and Gay Head streets, Ward 22, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of gravel with granite edgestone, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along the westerly side of Ocean street, between Welles avenue and Roslin street, Ward 24, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone with granite edgestone, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

PUBLIC LANDING, WARD 24.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the Park Department be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to acquire land at the foot of Walnut street, Ward 24, and build and maintain a public landing in said location.

Passed.

MEMORIALS IN FANEUIL HALL.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That no portrait in oil, or bust in marble, bronze or bas-relief, or any form of portrait memorial be placed in Faneuil Hall unless the subject of the proposed memorial shall have been dead twenty-five years.

President COLLINS—The Chair rules, under a decision of the Corporation Counsel, that we have nothing to do with Faneuil Hall. Accordingly, the Chair is constrained to rule the order out of order.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I think we have some rights in the matter and I would like the matter referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

President COLLINS—Very well. Coun. Smith desires the order referred to the Committee on Ordinances, and, with the unanimous consent of the Council, the Chair will waive his ruling and that reference will be made.

Coun. BUCKLEY—I would like to ask the gentleman whom he has in mind? (Laughter.)

President COLLINS—The order stands referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

PAYMENT TO SCRUBWOMEN.

Coun. CURLEY offered the following:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the City Council the wages paid women employed at cleaning and scrubbing various municipal departments are both unfair and inadequate; and be it further

Resolved That in the opinion of the City Council the women employed at cleaning and scrubbing should be paid at least $1.50 per day.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, in relation to this resolution I desire to state that it is not introduced for the purpose of creating political capital but simply as a means of rendering justice to those women who work faithfully in the various branches of the city's service. The men employed at similar work in every city department receive from $2.25 to $3 and $3.50 per day. The men who clean our streets receive $2.25 a day, have Saturday half holidays occasionally and enjoy all holidays. Women engaged in similar work, but of a more exacting nature, compelled to scrub on their knees eight and ten hours a day, receive on an average from 75 cents to a dollar a day in the various city departments. I see no reason why this standard should be maintained with relation to the women when the standard has been raised with relation to every other branch of the public service. I feel in addition that the city should set the example in the matter of wages and that simple justice requires that some such order be adopted and put in operation by the various departments. I have here an excellent little article by Herbert Kaufman, which called my attention very forcibly to this proposition. Speaking of woman it says:

"She is in a class by herself—the rules don't apply to her at all. She's the widow with a family of little children to support. Life hasn't given her a square deal and it is up to you to help out. She prepared herself for a different career than that which has been forced upon her—she learned the trade of being a wife and it took all her time to acquire proficiency—she hadn't the leisure to equip herself with a defensive training against the hour of want. She's crippled—her wings are broken—but the fledglings are in the nest and she must fly far to feed them. You mustn't weigh her on the same scale with which you estimate the value of the rest of your people. She's entitled to come an hour later and to leave an hour earlier. She's doing double duty—she's working on her old job—the children need her attention every morning and she should be at home in time to keep them from the streets and to teach them a little more from her store of mother wisdom. You can forego enough of your profits to lighten her load—you'll never pass into the hands of a receiver because she has received a bit of extra consideration from your hands. Of course, you hadn't thought of her in just that way. Most of us have ears only for our own sobs and eyes for our own scars."

And I confess that I am in the same boat.

"Most of us forget to remember those whom fortune has overlooked. But you do know now—you have had it called to your attention, and you can't dodge your responsibility. You can't offer the excuse of thoughtlessness to the Eternal Auditor, upon whose books your rating in Dun and Bradstreet's is never reckoned. Do we still agree entirely? If you're in doubt, let your wife decide whether she wouldn't rather have a little less later, so that the other shall have a little more now."

It would be unnecessary to introduce an order of this character if woman were weighed in the same scale in which man is weighed. But woman is regarded as a different individual; she is regarded as a different creature, in a sort of class by herself, and where men receive a high standard wage for doing a certain work women engaged in the performance of similar work receive about one-half the men's wage. The total number of women affected by the adoption of an order of this character would in all probability be less than 100, certainly not more than 150. The women who work in our hospitals, who go there in the morning at seven o'clock and who toil until six o'clock at night, ten hours a day on their knees, scrubbing, receive $5 a week, and 90 per cent of those women have fledglings in the nest at home. They are widows with children, and they are compelled to work six days a week, ten hours a day on their knees, scrubbing, for the wage of $5 a week. Invariably there are none of the children who are in a position to contribute to the support of the widow or the family. I feel that the city should be the leader in this matter. The city has established a standard for wages in various lines as applied to men. It has never established a standard as applied to women and I feel that it should. The objection may be raised, according to the interpretation of the charter by our distinguished Corporation Counsel, that it is improper for us to consider questions of this character. But I desire to call to the attention of the members of the City Council this fact that this is simply in the nature of a recommendation—a right that no charter and no statute can take from any individual, a right that is worked overtime by the so-called improvement associations. I sincerely trust that this order will be adopted unanimously by the City Council, and that its adoption may result in some small share of happiness, peace and plenty to the overworked widows in our city departments.

The resolutions were adopted.

BROOKFORD STREET SCHOOL FOUNDATION.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Schoolhouse Commission be requested to consider such changes in location of foundation of school now in course of construction upon Brookford street, Ward 16, as will cause the same to conform to the street line.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I desire to say that a delegation of the property owners and residents upon Brookford street waited upon me and asked me to present an order of this character, after having appealed to the Schoolhouse Commission, in favor of a setback of the school now in course of construction there. They were granted no relief by the Schoolhouse Commission. The construction of the school at this particular point will destroy the æsthetic value of the street and tend greatly to injure the valuation of property It does appear that the Schoolhouse Commission can very easily accede to this request and should do so.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, in connection with this order I might say that a delegation of the residents of that section called on me Saturday evening and requested me to confer with the Mayor in regard to the location of this schoolhouse. I visited the place this morning and found the foundations pretty well in above the ground. If there is anything to be done it should be done quickly. I presented a petition to his Honor the Mayor and have been assured that he will take action at once with the Schoolhouse Commission. As it is proposed to locate that building, it will be a great detriment to many of the property holders on the street. In that particular section the street curves around almost in a half circle, and instead of setting the building in line with the circle they have put it out to the line of the street at one corner. and back about 15 or 20 feet at the other corner. It will be really very unsightly construction, and I sincerely hope that some action will be taken before the building gets any farther towards completion.

The order was passed.

INFORMATION ON RETIRING ACT.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered the following:

Ordered, That the Finance Commission be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to report to the City Council as to the advisability of accepting chapter 619 of the Acts of the year 1910, as amended by chapter 338 of the Acts of 1911, entitled "An Act Relative to Retirement Systems for the Payment of Annuities and Pensions for Employees of Cities and Towns"; also to report to the City Council on the following:

(a.) The cost of the system to the city in actual pecuniary outlay.

(b.) Its effect on the service in removing aged employees who by their example tend to retard the efficiency of younger and more active men.

(c.) The positive gain resulting from the substitution of younger and stronger men for the retired veterans.

(d.) The net gain or loss to the city as a whole, measured, first, in terms of pecuniary outlay; and, secondly, in terms of efficiency.

Passed.

Ordered, That the heads of departments be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to report to the City Council as to the operation of chapter 619 of the Acts of 1910, as amended by chapter 338 of the Acts of 1911, designated as "An Act to Authorize the Cities and Towns of the Commonwealth to Establish Retirement Systems for their Employees"; also to report to the City Council on the following:

(a.) The cost of the system to the city in actual pecuniary outlay.

(b.) Its effect on the service in removing aged employees who by their example tend to retard the efficiency of younger and more active men.

(c.) The positive gain resulting from the substitution of younger and stronger men for the retired veterans.

(d.) The net gain or loss to the city as a whole, measured, first, in terms of pecuniary outlay, and second, in terms of efficiency.

Passed.

The orders were read a second time, and the question came on their passage.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, these two orders are put in simply for the purpose of gaining information from the Finance Commission and from the heads of the various city departments in regard to the operation of chapter 619 of the Acts of 1910, as amended by chapter 338 of the Acts of this year. Chapter 619 is the act which was rejected by the City Council of 1910. Some amendments were presented to the Legislature and were passed by both branches, the Senate and the House of Representatives. The Governor of the state did not sign the amendments, but they had the force of law after the required legal time; so that at the present time there are on the statute books of the state two acts for the pensioning of city employees—one act in reference to the laborers of the city, signed by the Governor, the other act, as amended, providing a retirement system for employees generally. The purpose of these two orders is simply to get the opinion of the heads of departments and the Finance Commission as to the cost and operation of the act, the effect of the act on the service in removing old employees, and in regard to the gain which may result to the city from the substitution of stronger and younger men. We should get the gain and loss to the city as a whole, measured in terms of efficiency and also in terms of pecuniary outlay.

Both orders were passed.

USE OF CITY PROPERTY.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council most heartily approves the policy of his Honor the Mayor in encouraging various organizations to hold conventions in Boston and make them welcome while here. That the City Council request that if his plan involves the use of city property intended for other purposes he consult with them.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I will state the reason why I introduce this order. I sincerely believe that we should do everything in our power to become a convention city and to encourage the holding of conventions here. We should also make people welcome when they are here, giving them a feeling that Boston not only wants them to come but wishes them to feel at home while they are here. But notwithstanding my feeling that the Mayor is doing a great deal of service to the city in bringing conventions here and encouraging them to come to the town, welcoming them when they are here, I think there is a limit to the use he should make of the property of the city departments in welcoming these guests. I cite as an example in point the use of the steamer "Lincoln" last Wednesday to take the Bartenders' Union down the harbor. It strikes me that if he cares to use the property of the City of Boston in that way—while it may be perfectly legitimate and while I have no criticism to make of it, it would be courteous to come to the City Council in connection with it. He must either pay for a steamer or use a city steamer to make those guests welcome in that manner. If he pays for a steamer it comes out of his contingent, and any great use of the contingent fund along these lines would necessitate his coming to us for a further appropriation for a contingent fund. If he cares to adopt that policy, well and good, but if he cares to use city property instead of hiring a steamer, it seems to me it would be well for him, using city property for such purposes, to come to us and ask our advice and permission. You will notice a request from him among the orders of the day for $300 for the Ninth Regiment, and there was last week another request in connection with the Sixth Regiment. It is common for him to come here and ask us for appropr ations for these celebrations. If he is going to do it for a sum of money, why not do it for the use of the city's property? During the Hibbard administration there was a request made by the Finance Commission, I believe,—I am not sure whether it was in print,—that the Mayor if he used city property for the entertainment of guests should pay from his contingent fund to the department concerned a fair sum, what he would have to pay in the open market for the same service. In other words, if he takes an automobile from a department or a boat from the Penal Institutions Department, he should pay from his contingent fund to the department a fair sum for the service. If that seems preferable I see no objection; but in all events, whether he takes it from his contingent fund and comes to us later for another appropriation, or whether he uses city property for the entertainment of his guests, it seems to me he ought to come to this Board in regard to the matter. That is why I have introduced the order.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I don't feel that there is any reason why the Mayor should come to this Board or any other board. He has a perfect right to use his contingent fund as he sees fit for the entertainment of guests of this city, and I do not believe it is fair to reflect on the bartenders either as a union or as individuals. There is no class of men in public life or private life more welcome when a man is thirsty than the men engaged in that particular calling. I don't know whether Mr. Smith has ever had occasion to require their services or not, but I feel that if he had it might broaden him out a little (laughter), so that he would take a different view for the time being on some of the questions coming before us. I feel that this question should be considered on broad lines. On the one hand we congratulate the Mayor upon inviting conventions to come to this city, and with the other hand we assault the Mayor because he endeavors to make their stay in this city of such a character as to cause them to go to their respective homes and speak well of the reception they got here. I confess that I feel that this order is a little too much in the peanut class for members of a City Council who call themselves by the distinguished title of "Councilors" to seriously consider. And I move its indefinite postponement.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I feel like asking that Coun. Curley's remarks be spread on the record with my signature at the top, because I entirely agree with him. Of course, he was busy with his many personal affairs when I started speaking and did not catch the drift of my remarks. I said all he has said, in other words—perhaps not as eloquently, but in substance. I made the remark that I believed we ought to encourage conventions to come here; I made the remark that I thought the Mayor's attitude on that subject was admirable; I made the remark that I thought we ought to make them welcome while they are here. I do not care whether the expense of entertainment is to be borne out of the contingent fund or whether it is to come out of the general appropriations for city departments, and I make no criticism of that. I say welcome to bartenders or clergymen, I don't care what the organization is. I was interested in the doctor's advice that I apply to them for help. Nevertheless, I believe that if the Mayor takes such amounts out of the contingent fund he must come to us for an additional appropriation; therefore, if he uses city property instead of taking it from the contingent fund he ought at the same time to come to us in regard to the matter. It seems to me it is a matter that has no bearing whatever on the welcoming of conventions, making people feel at home, or anything of the sort. Of course we welcome them and of course we wish to make them feel at home, and the remarks along those lines, as far as this order is concerned, are entirely beside the point. The question is simply whether the Mayor shall take an amount for entertainment out of the contingent fund or use city property and request us that its use may be allowed. Last year the boats of the Penal Institutions Department were used very little; this year they plan to use them for different occasions, and I hope they will do so. I pass no criticism on the use of the boat last Wednesday, none whatever. I simply say the Mayor should come to us in a case like this just the same as when he needs an additional appropriation for his contingent fund.

Coun. Curley's motion to indefinitely postpone the order was carried. Coun. SMITH doubted the vote. A rising vote was taken, and Coun. Smith's order was indefinitely postponed, 6 to 1.

ICE FOR DRINKING FOUNTAINS.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding five thousand dollars ($5,000) for the purpose of maintaining and furnishing ice for the public drinking fountains during the present season, said sum to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

FLAGS ON PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That on all public buildings of the City of Boston the United States flag shall be displayed upon all days except Sundays, the weather permitting; days that it rains and days when the wind blows a half gale the flag shall not be displayed. This is in accordance with Senate Bill No. 406.

Passed.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 6.01 p. m., on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members reassembled and were called to order by the President at 7.05 p. m.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

Report accepted; order passed.

(4) Report on order (referred to-day) that the Commissioner of Public Works expend a sum not over $5,000 for ice for drinking fountains—that the order ought to pass.

The question came on accepting the report and passing the order.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I am going to vote against this order, because I don't see any necessity for it, although it is a customary expenditure of money. When I think what might be done with $5,000 of the city's money—that we might employ five nurses for the work the city has just taken up on baby hygiene, taking care of the milk, that we might build a street out in one of the suburbs where councilors are so solicitous that the city shall spend money—when I think of the various things that could be done with the sum of $5,000, while it is here proposed to expend it in a way that will simply make trouble, burting the physique of the people of the city—it certainly seems to me that it is a useless expenditure of money, and I shall therefore vote against it.

The report was accepted and the order was passed, yeas 7, nay 1, Coun. Smith voting nay.

(5) Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred to-day) that one inspector be added to elevator inspection division and appropriating $1,600 for this purpose—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed, yeas 6, nays 0.

(6) Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred to-day) transferring the sum of $300 from the appropriation for Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Mayor, Public Celebrations, to be expended for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Ninth Regiment, M. V. M.— that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

(7) Report on message of Mayor, communications and order (referred May 8) transferring the sum of $300 from the appropriation for the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Mayor, Public Celebrations, to be expended for the reception of the surviving members of the First Regiment Volunteer Infantry Veteran Association—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

(8) Report on message of Mayor and order (referred to-day) that the sum of $2,000 be added to the appropriation for Mayor, Public Celebrations, to be expended in accordance with the program of the Municipal Athletic Association—that the order ought to pass.

Coun. ATTRIDGE— Mr. President, I desire to say in behalf of the committee that the committee does not wish it to be understood that by the passage of this order the committee means to establish a precedent. Some of the members of the committee believe that athletic games should be handled by our Recreation Department when it is established. Again, I desire to say that the committee does not wish to have this considered as a precedent for future years.

Report accepted; order passed, yeas 7, nays 0, Coun. Curley not voting.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I desire to make a statement. Being a vice president of this proposed association, I feel that it would be improper for me to vote.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, may I inquire if the councilor has accepted the office?

Coun. CURLEY— Mr. President, I should judge from the number appointed vice president and the notices sent out that it would make no difference whether one or more accepted or did not accept, that there would be a sufficient number to serve. I have not yet accepted.

(9) Report on message of Mayor and communication (referred May 1) relative to flags on public buildings—that no action is necessary.

Report accepted.

(10) Report on message of Mayor and communication (referred to-day) requesting that an appropriation of $50,000 be made for the purchase of playground at Meeting House Hill — that no further action is necessary.

Report accepted.

IMPROVEMENT OF NEPONSET PLAYGROUND.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to grade and resurface and place in condition the Neponset Playground, Ward 24.

Passed.

HEARINGS ON DISPOSAL OF GARBAGE.

Coun. CURLEY offered the following:

Whereas, The character of the bids submitted upon the disposition of garbage has been of a complex nature, and the termination of the existing contract is short and the importance of the proposition is great; be it

Resolved, That the Commissioner of Public Works submit to the City Council a detailed report with recommendation and opinion upon each and all bids submitted for the disposition of garbage, ashes and refuse; and be it further

Resolved, That the City Council hold hearings thereon before action is had thereon.

The question came on the adoption of the preambles and resolution.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President. I shall be very brief on this proposition. I feel, from the number of bids submitted,—and in this I believe I voice the sentiment of every person who has looked into or studied the bids to any extent,—that it would be a difficult if not impossible task for the Commissioner of Public Works to determine which was the best proposition for the best interests of the city, without leaving him open to criticism. I feel that the best interests of the city would be served if an opinion were presented to the City Council by the Commissioner of Public Works with his recommendation on each and every separate bid, the City Council then holding a public hearing. It would give him an opportunity to become more conversant with the matter and at the same time afford protection to him and to the city. While it may not be exactly in conformity with the suggestions or ideas contained in the city charter, still I feel that the more publicity there is upon this very important proposition the better it will be for the city.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I should like to ask Coun. Curley one question—whether this entails an additional hearing?

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I should say yes.

Coun. SMITH—Of course, the commissioner would make a report to us on the bids, anyway, so that in that respect what he has suggested would not be anything new.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would simply state that the purpose of the order is to afford the Commissioner of Public Works an opportunity to acquire more information and for this body to acquire additional information before he takes action on any of the propositions that have been submitted. There are probably five methods of disposition in connection with which propositions have been presented. It would be difficult to determine which is the best for the city without a public hearing at which men interested in the different propositions as well as the general public will have an opportunity to voice their ideas before the commissioner recommends any particular proposition.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, as I understand it, the method now is simply to await his recommendation and then hold a public hearing. Of course, anybody interested in a plan other than that recommended by the commissioner could be heard then. My point is that, if possible, I want to avoid an additional public hearing.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, as I understand it, this contract that the New England Sanitary Product Company now has with the city terminates shortly. It is within the power of the administration to renew that contract for a term of less than a year. To put in operation anything else under the propositions submitted, with possibly one exception, will require for the building of a station ten months of labor on the part of the contracting parties. If this order is passed it will result in giving the fullest possible publicity to the entire proposition, and it is introduced simply with a view to serving the best interests of the city.

The preamble and resolutions were adopted.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. McDONALD the Council refused a general reconsideration of all action taken to-day.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. McDONALD, at 7.20 p. m., to meet on Monday, May 22, at 3 p. m.

HOT WATER IN COURTHOUSE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 22, 1911.

To the City Council:

I heg to transmit a communication from the Register of Deeds of Suffolk County, requesting that the sum of one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars ($1,250) he appropriated for the installation of hot water apparatus on the fifth floor of the courthouse, and four hundred dollars ($400) additional for a similar installation in the Social Law Library on the fourth floor. I should he glad to receive an expression of opinion from your honorahle body upon this subject.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Registry of Deeds, Boston, May 16, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Mr. Mayor,— In accordance with our talk recently, I write to suggest that a special appropriation should be made for the Puhlic Buildings Department to install hot water scrvice in the new Registry of Deeds on the top floor of the courthouse, Pemherton square.

We had hot water service in the old Registry of Deeds on the third floor, but when the two extra stories were added to the courthouse, no provision was made for installing hot water apparatus on the fourth and fifth floors. The absence of hot water in the registry has caused great inconvenience to the clerks and the puhlic, and has seriously interfered with the cleanliness of the office.

Recently I had an interview with the clerk of the Courthouse Commissioners regarding this matter. He said the commissioners had completed their work and could give no relief now. He referred me to the firm which did the plumbing work for the commissioners and they havc submitted an estimate of $1,250 for hot water for the fifth floor, and $400 additional if it is placed in the Social Law Library on the fourth floor. It seems to me that where such a small expenditure would result in so much good in a puhlic huilding, there should he no unnecessary delay in making provision for it.

Trusting this matter wili have your early attention, I am,

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM T. A. FITZGERALD, Register.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ENTERTAINMENT OF NEW BRUNSWICK REGIMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

To the City Council:

I beg to refer for your information a communication from William H. Oakes, Brigadier General, M.V.M., retired, relating to the contemplated visit of the Sixty-second Regiment St. John's Fusiliers, of St. John, N. B., to this city, June 17, 18 and 19, 1911. General Oakes suggests the propriety of an appropriation of one thousand two hundred dollars ($1,200) for the entertainment of this regiment and I would respectfully solicit an expression of opinion from your honorahle body upon the expediency of making this appropriation.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston, Mass., May 15, 1911.

B., are to visit Boston June 17, 18 and 19, 1911, permission having been granted them hy the state and war departments at Washington to visit and carry arms in this country, so that they are the official representatives of their country and city. I would most respectfully suggest that the sum of $1,200 he appropriated for their entertainment as guests of the city on June 18, 1911.

I am,

Very respectfully,
WILLIAM H. OAKES,
Brigadier General, M. V. M. (retired),
Chairman of Reception Committee.

RETIREMENT OF M. F. EDMONDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 22, 1911.

To the City Council:

I heg to transmit a copy of a letter from the Superintendent of Puhlic Works, recommending that Michael F. Edmonds, an inspector in the Water Service of the Sewer and Water Division of the Department of Puhlic Works, who is a veteran of the Civil War, be retired under the provisions of chapter 113 of the Acts of 1911. The City Auditor informs me that the water income cannot be used for the purpose of pensioning employees. I have therefore drafted a special order, providing that this pension be charged to the Reserve Fund, and recommend its passage by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department.
City Hall, May 10, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

I beg to call your attention to the case of Michael F. Edmonds, who is a veteran of the Civil War, and is an inspector in the Water Service of the Sewer and Water Division of this department, at a salary at the rate of $1,100 per year. This man is sixty-eight years of age, and has been in the service of the city for twenty-eight years. He has a first-class record in the department, and has been home sick for over a month. His physician says that he cannot live much more than a month longer. I would recommend that you authorize this department to retire this man on half pay, to take effect April 17, 1911.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That a sum sufficient to provide a pension under the authority of chapter 113 of the Acts of 1911 to Michael F. Edmonds, an inspector in the Water Service of the Sewer and Water Division of the Department of Public Works, dating from April 17, 1911, be, and hereby is, appropriated, and that the said appropriation be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

TRANSFER TO MUNICIPAL BUILDING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 22, 1911.

To the City Council:

In compliance with the resolution adopted by your honorable body at its meeting of May 15, 1911, to the effect "that his Honor the Mayor be requested to recommend to the City Council the transfer of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000) from the appropriation for Bath House, Ward 15, to the appropriation for Municipal Building, South Boston," I have drafted and recommend for passage the accompanying order.

Yours very truly,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That in compliance with the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1903 the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the sum of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000) from the appropriation for Bathing Establishment, Ward 15, to an appropriation for Municipal Building, South Boston.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

YACHTING TROPHY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 22, 1911.

To the City Council:

I am informed by Mr. B. S. Permar, chairman of the Regatta Committee of the Boston Yacht Club, that only two entries have been received for the Boston-Bermuda Yacht Race, for which the City Council appropriated the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) to be expended for a special trophy. One of the yachts has come from Bermuda to New York and is about to visit Boston. As the appropriation was made with the understanding that unless four yachts actually took part in the race the trophy would not be awarded, I do not feel authorized to award the prize without the consent of your honorable body. Unfortunately as the order for the trophy has already been given and a contract entered into for a silver cup costing five hundred dollars ($500) there would seem to be no way of saving to the city the amount of the appropriation.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor

Referred to the Executive Committee.

HEARING ON AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 22, 1911.

To the City Council:

In compliance with an order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of May 15, 1911, to the effect "that the Mayor be requested to direct the Park Commission to give a public hearing to the remonstrants" against certain regulations governing automobile traffic on Commonwealth avenue, between Arlington street and the Ericsson Monument, I have arranged that such a hearing be held on Tuesday, May 23, at 4 p. m.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

REMOVAL OF DRINKING FOUNTAIN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 22, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners, written in compliance with the request contained in an order of your honorable body passed at its meeting of April 24, 1911, to the effect "that his Honor the Mayor be requested to instruct the proper authorities to remove a drinking fountain now situated in front of the estate corner East Cottage street and Columbia road."

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

—

City of Boston,
Board of Commissioners of the
Department of Parks,
May 19, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—Herewith we return to you an order from the City Council relating to the removal of the drinking fountain at East Cottage street and Columbia road. This was referred to the Park Department May 4, with a request for a report. After inspecting the site the Board desires to say that the location of the fountain seems to us the most desirable and convenient location in the neighborhood, and one that must inconvenience the neighbors less than any other nearby. We therefore recommend that no change in position of the fountain be made.

Yours truly,
ROBERT S. PEABODY,
Chairman.

LOCKER BUILDING, TENEAN BEACH.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 19, 1911.

To the City Council:

I am informed that there has been some hesitancy on the part of your members in passing the order recommended by me for an appropriation of one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) for the erection of a locker building at Tenean Beach, because it was thought inadvisable to use the revenue derived from the estate of the late Quincy A. Shaw for this purpose. As the need is urgent and the making of the appropriation seems to be more important than the source from which the funds are derived, I beg to withdraw my previous recommendation and the order which accompanied it, and to recommend instead the order attached hereto which prescribes a transfer from the Reserve Fund to a special appropriation under the control of the Bath Trustees.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That in accordance with the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the sum of one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) from the appropriation for the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for the Bath Department, to be expended for the erection of a locker building at Tenean Beach.

ADDRESS ON SUBSURFACE STRUCTURES.

Tbe following was receivcd:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 22, 1911.

To thc City Council:

I beg to transmit a copy of an address delivered by Mr. George S. Webster, chief engineer and surveyor of Philadelphia, on "Subsurface Structures," at tbe Third National Conference on City Planning, held in that city May 15, 16 and 17, 1911.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Subsurface Structures.

In considering the subject of street widths and tbeir subdivisions, the necessity for providing ample space to accommodate the substructures needed to meet the requirements of modern city life cannot be overlooked. Underground circulation is as necessary to modern municipal life as surface circulation, and tbe problems involved in its installation and maintenance have become exceedingly complex and difficult as the demand for sucb service has increased. Surface traffic may be shifted entirely off of a street temporarily, in cases of emergency, without inflicting any great hardsbip, but the underground service once installed becomes permanent, and any derangement or interference with it ofttimes seriously affects large areas. The great tendency in all our large cities, especially in America, to concentrate business activities at some central location (to create civic centers) has demonstrated the total inadequacy of the street surface to supply space to meet the problems of passenger transportation. It is therefore essential to plan in all our large cities to carry tbe thousands of people who daily congregate for business or pleasure over railway lines constructed either above or below tbe street surface. The space required for the foundations to support elevated roads, or the area of the street cross-section necessary for subways, in addition to tbe sewers, water and gas pipes, telegraph and telephone conduits, pneumatic tubes, pipes for the conveyance of steam, hot water or refrigerating compounds, vaults and tunnels, cannot be found except in streets of considerable lengtb.

Tbe substructure congestion occurs not only in the business districts but also along tbe lines of all main arteries of travel leading from tbe beart of tbe city to local centers of manufacturing or business interests. In tbe central and older portions of tbe city of Philadelphia many of the streets in the regular system are 50 feet wide, witb a few diagonal avenues 60 feet wide. Tbe widths of tbese streets are insufficient not only for surface travel but also for tbe substructures wbich must be placed in them. Tbis congestion is particularly marked at the street intersections. In tbe replanning of tbese portions of tbe city it is found necessary not only to provide for widening existing highways but also to lay out and open additional avenues and to enlarge intersections to meet the demands for subsurface structures as well as for surface uses. This increase in street widtb bas been gradually accomplished on Chestnut and Walnut streets, in the business section, by placing tbe streets upon the official plan of 10 feet greater widtb and requiring all new buildings to recede to tbe new line, paying to the owner at the time of reconstruction any damages that may be sustained. By tbis method tbe cost is not burdensome to the city. The widtbs of a number of important diagonal avenues leading througb local business centers are being increased in like manner.

In the growth of a modern city the number and character of underground structures is constantly increasing and changing, and it is probable tbat tbe future will see the present ones supplemented by others for purposes now scarcely thought of. Tbis ever increasing demand for space under the street surface makes it tberefore necessary tbat tbe available cross-section be utilized to tbe best possible advantage. This in a measure can be accomplished as it is in the city of Philadelphia, by grouping the structures as closely together as possible, but a much better metbod would be by the construction of one or more lines of subservice galleries, of sufficient size to accommodate all future structures, preferably one on each side of the street, close to tbe curb lines, tbus doing away witb tbe usual form of conduit construction, and avoiding the necessity of continually opening tbe street surface and interfering with the proper maintenance of tbe paved areas. Sucb galleries might, when old streets are widened or new avenues opened in tbe built-up portion of the city, be advantageously spent, constructed and maintained by the municipality and at least a portion of the cost covered by rental cbarges to public service companies, which should be required by law to place their structures in tbem and to pay a proper rental therefor.

The prevailing custom in many cities of allowing vaults to be constructed under the sidewalks of the strect and extending to tbe surface results in tbe occupation of a large pe:centage of tbe available cross-section of tbe street and interferes witb the laying of other underground structures. The disadvantage of allowing construction of this kind is now being realized in many of our cities and such constructions wholly prohibited on main thoroughfares. Since 1902 it has been unlawful in Pbiladelphia to construct or reconstruct any vault under the sidewalks of the streets unless the outside top of the vault shall be at least 4 feet below tbe established grade of the sidewalk over the same, the purpose being to reserve this 4 feet of space for conduit and tube construction. All persons rceeiving permits to construct vaults are required to enter into agreement that the city shall in no case be liable for any claim tor damages for tbe reoccupation and use of the whole strect, or any part thereof, to the housc line, for public purposes.

In the city of Philadelphia tbe location of underground structures of every character is determined by a Board of Highway Supervisors composed of the chief officers of the various bureaus of the city government having cbarge of the municipal underground structures. This Board is vested with the full power not only to grant original locations to companies authorized by law to lay pipes and conduits, but also to direct their removal and location whenever the public good demands it. For tbe purpose of enabling the Board to act intelligently upon all applications, a recording and drafting department is maintained wbere all underground structures are plotted and their sizes, depths and distances from tbe curb or building lines shown upon plans of uniform size drawn to a scale of 20 fcet to an incb. Eacb structure is colored witb a conventional tint so that it may be readily followed on the plan. All applicants for pcrmits to locate pipes, conduits or other subsurface structures are required to obtain plans from tbe department records showing, as far as practicable, all existing structures in tbe street, also the location which they desire to occupy. A charge per linear foot is made by the city for such plans and information and tbe cash receipts are considerably more than necessary to maintain the force in the drafting room, and the field inspectors who are sent to see tbat the locations granted are followed and to systematically make measurements of and report all structures of every character met with in the excavation. By tbis means the plans are constantly being cbecked and where necessary corrected. In all cases wbere electrical conduits are laid by public service corporations, the law requires tbat one conduit shall be provided and laid at the expense of the company for the use of the city.

A standard plan showing subsurface structures in Market street between Eleventh and Twelfth streets is among tbe plans of the city of Philadelphia exhibit.

City of Boston,
Office of tbe Mayor, May 22, 1911.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—In accordance with the requirements of chapter 261 of tbe Acts of 1893, I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order wbicb combines the two appropriations for a branch library in Charlestown, established for tbe purchase on an estate, and for alterations and completion, respectively, into a new appropriation. I believe that tbe time bas come when a start should be made toward tbe actual selection of a site and erection of a building for the accommodation of the people of Charlestown, and that the first step necessary to effect this result is the consolidation of the two appropriations.

Respectfully,

Gentlemen,—In reference to the communication from the Superintendent of Public Buildings to the City Council, under date of April 11 and referred to the Building Department under date of April 24, 1911, I report as follows: The following buildings referred to in the communication from the Superintendent of Public Buildings should, in the opinion of this department, be provided with additional means of egress in case of fire.

The City Hall on School street; Wayfarers Lodge, Hawkins street; Faneuil Hall; Old City Hall, Charlestown; Old Cross Street Schoolhouse on Cross street; Old Smith Schoolhouse on Joy street; Thomas Street Schoolhouse the Courthouse, South Boston; Courthouse, Dorchester.

The Armory Building on Winthrop street and the fuel house on Main street, Charlestown, should be provided with additional means of egress if used above the first floor.

This department does not dictate the means to be employed for providing egress but determines what may be done upon consulting the convenience of the owner; this report is, therefore, not specific in its nature and a detailed description of the work contemplated in respect to these buildings can be made only after consultation with the Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Respectfully submitted,
ARTHUR G. EVERETT,
Building Commissioner.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

AUTOMATIC LIGHTERS.

The following was received:

Automatic Lighting Company,
Old South Building.
Boston, Mass., May 22, 1911.

To the Honorable Members of the Boston City Council, City Hall, Boston, Mass:

Dear Sirs,—The subject of automatic lighting will probably receive your attention in the very near future, and as the matter of choice as to the particular device to be adopted by the city rests with you and the Commissioner of Public Works, permit us to call your attention to the clock controller manufactured by our company.

The City of Boston under the supervision of the Lamp Department has tested our Automatic Lighter for the past six months. Our lighter has shown up splendidly through the severe winter months and that of course means a great deal in its favor, inasmuch as the conditions existing during those months show up the efficiency or inefficiency more clearly than any other period of the year.

While it is true that the test conducted by the city has been on but one lamp, the fact that the test was not more thorough was not our fault, as we were willing at all times to install a sufficient number at our expense in order to make the test more thorough. We do not fear competition, in fact we court it, being firmly convinced that as to both efficiency and price we have absolutely no competitors.

We do not seek preference because of the fact that our controller is made in this country by American workmen, but we do ask that a fair opportunity be given us in order to demonstrate that American inventions are still the equal of if not superior to any like foreign inventions.

The office and factory of our company are located in Boston, and in view of the fact that the Mayor with the aid of the Chamber of Commerce is earnestly endeavoring to increase the business of the City of Boston, it would seem that by aiding an enterprise located in Boston which would give employment to citizens of this city, the Council and the commissioner would be serving the best interest of the community.

In conclusion we beg to say we are willing to install fifty (50) or one hundred (100) of our Automatic Lighters under the supervision of the Commissioner of Public Works in open competition with any similar device without a single penny of expense to the city, so that same may be judged fairly and squarely upon its merits.

Respectfully yours,
AUTOMATIC LIGHTING COMPANY,
JAMES M. GLASSMAN, Vice President.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ORDER OF NOTICE.

On the petition of the Old Colony Street Railway Company for leave to operate as common carrier of newspaper, baggage, etc., on its tracks in Neponset—an order of notice was passed for a hearing thereon on Monday, June 5, at four o'clock p. m., when any parties objecting thereto may appear and be heard.

FINANCE.

Coun. KENNY, for the Committee on Finance, submitted a report on order (referred May 15) for loan of $300,000 for lighting equipment—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would like to have this laid over until immediately after the recess, for this reason. I am heartily in favor of the necessary amount being borrowed for the purchase of lamps, but I read in the paper last week that the contract with the Edison had already been extended for 2,000 lamps. If that is true and if it is irrevocable it means that instead of 11,000 lamps, which is approximately what this order calls for, only 9,000 lamps can be bought, and that instead of a $300,000 appropriation only $250,000 is needed. I think it would seem rather foolish for this Council to pass a $300,000 loan and then go back on its own action a week later and reduce it to $250,000. I am now taking steps to find out whether it is true that the 2,000 lamps have been provided for, and if we can put the passage of this off until immediately after the recess we can still get it through to-day in correct form.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I have no objection to the request being granted.

On motion of Coun. HALE it was voted that action upon the order be postponed until after the recess.

Later in the session, before the recess, Coun. KENNY said:

Mr. President, I understand that there is no longer any reason for the action we have taken with regard to the order as to the lighting of the streets. I understand that Coun. Hale has since satisfied himself in regard to that matter and is now prepared to vote on it. Therefore, I ask that the reference to the Executive Committee be reconsidered.

Reconsideration prevailed, and the order took its first reading and passage, yeas 8, nays 0.

Coun. KENNY offered the following:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the City Council the city's interests require the prompt purchase and installation of the gas lamps provided for in the foregoing appropriation order and the purchase and installation of suitable automatic lighting and extinguishing devices, as rapidly as experience with said devices shall warrant.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I now ask that that resolution lie on the table for two weeks, until we have a second reading of the order which has just been acted upon.

The resolution was assigned for two weeks.

SETTEES IN PARKS, ETC.

Coun. KENNY, for the Committee on Parkman Fund, submitted a report on message of Mayor and orders (referred May 8) for appropriation of money for settees in public parks, grounds and squares—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) be appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund, to be expended by the Park Department, for providing additional seating accommodations in the parks and grounds under the control of said department, which come under the terms of the Parkman will.

Ordered, That the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000) be appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund, to be expended by the Public Grounds Department, for the purchase of additional seating accommodations for parks and squares under the control of said department which come under the terms of the Parkman will.

Report accepted; order passed.

CLAIMS.

Coun. BUCKLEY, for the Committee on Claims, submitted a report on the petition of Lorenzo D. Perkins (referred last year) for compensation for expense incurred by him as an officer at Deer Island—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That there be allowed and paid to Lorenzo D. Perkins the sum of five hundred dollars for expenses incurred in suit against him for act as officer at the House of Correction, Deer Island, said sum to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, Penal Institutions Department, House of Correction.

Report accepted; order passed. The passage of the order was reconsidered later, on motion of Coun. KENNY, and the order was assigned to the next meeting.

MINORS' LICENSES.

President COLLINS submitted reports on petitions for minors' licenses for fifteen newsboys, four bootblacks and five vendors—recommending that permits be granted.

Reports accepted; permits granted on usual conditions.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS.

President COLLINS called up Nos. 1, 2 and 3, unfinished business, viz.:

Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor May 15, viz.:

1. Neil McNeil, to be a member of the Board of Appeal for the term ending July 31, 1916.

2. Chester A. Bailey, William Cohen, Charles A. Hardy, Francis H. Hughes, Daniel F. Hurley, Robert Langal, Edward Rodgers, John D. Smith and Frederick J. Swendeman to be Weighers of Coal for the term ending April 30, 1912.

3. Samuel Bennett, John Hurley, Timothy J. Sullivan, George Secor, Walter S. Hall, William S. Jewett, Charles F. Davis, Forest O. Mitchell, William Seeley, Charles B. Harris, Louis L. Berry, Eugene Sheridan, William F. Mahoney, Everett S. Vradenburgh, William W. Gordon and James K. Farry to be Inspectors of Pressed or Bundled Hay and Straw for the term ending April 30, 1912.

The question came on confirmation. Committee, Coun. Hale and Buckley. Whole number of ballots cast 7, yeas 7, and the several appointments were confirmed.

SAUNTERING, ETC., ON STREETS.

Coun. McDONALD called up No. 4, special assignment, viz.:

4. Report of the Committee on Ordinances, ought not to pass, on the ordinance relative to sauntering or loitering in the streets.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, while I did not introduce the ordinance and therefore am not the father of it or responsihle in any way for its coming before this Board, nevertheless I have heen at some pains to look the matter up and I find that the change suggested by the ordinance is very much needed. That proposed change is to strike out the words "wanton and malicious" from the ordinance as it stands at present. The ordinance originally read as the amendment strives to make it read at the present time. It read that way for years and years and was not changed until 1903, when, through the efforts of Judge Dewey, it was changed hy the introduction of the words "wilful, wanton and malicious." There can he no objection to the word "wilful," because any act done is done wilfully, hut the words "malicious and wanton" make the law an ahsolute dead letter. They remove all ahility to enforce the law. As the law stood hefore this amendment of Judge Dewey's a person had to be first warned if he was loitering on the street, and then, after five minutes, if he was on the same spot, the policeman had a right to arrest him. As it stands at present, a policeman cannot stop anyhody from loitering on the street unless he thinks that person has no cause whatever,— and not only that, but unless he thinks he is doing it maliciously in the eyes of the law with a deep, black regard against the law. That takes away all the force of the ordinance and makes it impossihle to prosecute. It is hardly necessary to argue the effect of the language of the ordinance here, as there are so many memhers of the Board who are lawyers. But any gentleman here who asks his local policeman will find that the policeman does not dare to arrest a man for loitering on the street. The law is a dead letter. If any memher cares to go farther he can go to the Police Commissioner and find the same thing, and if he cares to do as I have done he can go a step farther and go to the judges themselves and find that the judges do not dare to convict under the ordinance as it stands at the present, that they do not have the power to convict. If a policeman should be foolish enough to hale into court a man for loitering and loafing he could not get a conviction under the ordinance unless the judge stretched it and took a chance. That fact is puhlic knowledge. The different gangs on the streets know it to-day, and it is a condition of affairs that ought to be stopped. The ordinance ought to he put hack into the form in which it stood for so many years on the books of the city. I sincerely hope, in keeping with the desires of the police officers and the Bench, that this Council will pass the amendment as suggested and will not take the recommendation of the committee.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, at the meeting of the Committee on Ordinances the other night this matter was thoroughly discussed. One of the reasons why the committee reported hack ought not to pass has been suggested hy the councilor who just took his seat. It is true that the ordinance was changed in 1903. I then happened to he a memher of the City Council. I don't know whether it was hecause of Judge Dewey or any influence that Judge Dewey might have had with the memhers of the City Council or the Mayor of Boston at that time that the ordinance was changed but it was a fact that hefore that time police officers in Boston were arresting a lot of young fellows heacuse they were standing on the street corners, having no other place to go to. They were heing arrested for loitering on the street and were fined in almost every case at least $5 and sometimes $25. That was my reason and the committee's reason for not proposing to change the ordinance as it is now on our hooks. I thought and the committee thought that the officers have power enough and I don't think they should be permitted to arrest a young fellow or an old man because he is standing on the street five minutes or over five minutes. In the thickly congested parts of the city—such as Charlestown, the North End, the West End and South Boston—they haven't any other place to go. They cannot stand anywhere but in the street or on the sidewalk. There are no vacant lands, no playgrounds in the section where I live, for instance, with the exception of the extreme end, and the young fellows I represent have to get into ohsure places, doorways, or stand on the sidewalk. As it is now an officer comes along and tells them to move on and comes hack later in the evening, and if he has a grudge against some young fellows he arrests them under the present ordinance. I know of two or three instances within six months where young fellows who have never done anything out of the way, holding responsihle positions and with a record as good as anybody in the United States, have heen haled into court for loitering on the sidewalks and have heen fined in the Charlestown court. They can do that now and have done it within six months, and I don't think we ought to give the police officers any more power. If you take out the words "wantonly and maliciously" they will be continually arresting young hoys and men, who perhaps work at night and have some time off in the day, for standing on the street, simply because they may have a grudge against them. Poor young fellows of my hahits or the habits of other memhers of the City Council could not stand on the street for even one minute if the ordinance were changed and the officers had a grudge against them, without heing arrested. I hope the report will he accepted, and that the proposed ordinance will not he passed.

Coun. BALLANTYNE.—Mr President, I believe I am the father of this ordinance. I am not going to take up the time of the Council arguing in its favor this afternoon hecause I have said all I wanted to say in the Committee on Ordinances, I realize the force of the statement made by Coun. Curley many times, that votes count, and I have a good idea as to what the fate of this ordinance will he. At the same time I cannot agree with Coun. McDonald in the way he pictures the police of Boston. I helieve if this order were passed and discretionary power put into the hands of the police officers of Boston it would not be abused. I have more confidence in our police force than Coun. McDonald seems to have. While the remarks made hy Coun. McDonald may apply to certain sections of the city I am very sure that an ordinance like this is needed very much in other sections—the section that I come from and the sections that several other memhers come from—where hoys make a practice of loafing on the streets for hours, obstructing puhlic travel, and, knowing that the police have no power to act in the matter, continûe to stay there as long as they please. I am not going to argue any more in favor of this ordinance, but will simply say that I am in favor of it, although I well know the fate that awaits it.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I hesitate to take up the time of the Council if, as Coun. Ballantyne states, the measure is already defeated. At the same time I want to have the acts hrought hefore the Council and spread upon the records in order that there may not he any douht of the Council voting with full knowledge of the facts. Of course, we have heen granting loans for playgrounds, for baths, for puhlic parks, with a pretty free hand for the last four or five years, and these places all tend to help solve the loafing problem in Boston. They tend to give the boys a chance to husy themselves in athletic ways. At only the last meeting we passed an appropriation of $2,000 to give them games on Saturday under the new athletic association. It does seem to me that now there is no valid reason for loafing on the street corners, whether the boys think so or not. As a matter of fact, nothing can he worse for them. In the last few years we have granted loans of $2,100,000 simply for playgrounds alone. If that is not giving them places all over the city in which they can spend their time instead of hothering pnssers-by on the street corners and doing harm to themselves, I would like to know what it does mean. As a matter of fact, so far as Charlestown—which Coun. McDonald has just spoken of—is concerned, we passed an order last week granting to that section $80,000 for a playground over by Sullivan square, and they already have the Bunker Hill Park. There seems to he no real reason to my mind for the hoys hanging about street corners; and even if there is the police are powerless now to hreak up the loitering when it gets to the danger point. I agree with Coun. Ballantyne that the police are to be trusted, that they are not trying to work out their petty spites against hoys, and that they would not do so. It seems to me that such a statement is ridiculous on its face. The police officers are to he trusted. They have many duties beside working out petty spite against boys. If you pass the amendment suggested and put the ordinance back on its old footing, you then have a law which will amply protect the boys.

The law will then read that they must first he warned, and after standing for five minutes in a spot after they have heen warned they may be arrested; hut if they have moved three feet farther on the policeman cannot arrest them. The law will amply protect anyhody who should be protected. I have personal knowledge of the fact that the law is ohjectionable at present to the Police Commissioner, the policemen and the judges themselves, hecause I have taken the trouhle to look it up. As far as discussion in Committee on Ordinances was concerned, it was extremely meager —that is, discussion as to the merits. It seems to me that now is a good time to discuss it. We have a good amendment suggested, and I sincerely hope it will pass.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, I cannot see why anybody should stand up here and argue that everyone who stands on a street corner is a loafer. I don't think that is a fair argument to use as showing why such an ordinance as is proposed should he adopted. I do not care whether the judges, the Police Commissioner or the policemen ask that this he passed. I don't think it is a proper ordinance to pass. I did not say that the policemen could not he trusted, hut I do say that there are a lot of police officers now who ought not to he there, who are nothing hut hrutes. They take a young fellow and arrest him for no reason at all. The gentleman who sits here at my right doesn't know the conditions hecause he doesn't live in them. I have had to live in them all my life. The people over my way cannot go in the summer to country homes or out on the Charles river rowing. They have to either stay out in the middle of the street or on the sidewalk, in a gentlemanly way, stay in the house, or go down to a park that we have there at Chelsea Bridge, three-quarters of a mile away from where I live, in the thickly settled part of the section, where you can almost throw a stone over a district inhahited hy nearly 50,000 people. He talks ahout having the loafers driven off the street corners. It is true that the police want the ordinance passed, that the Police Commissioner wants it passed. Young fellows have heen arrested and they have got convictions in the lower court, hut not in the higher court, to-day in many cases where they would like to get convictions, because the judges, as well as people generally, do not believe that a young fellow who has to work all day in a factory or workshop is doing anything very bad, anything that requires arrest, simply hecause he goes out after supper and stands on the street corner. They do not feel that such a man should he locked up over night and the next day fined $5. There has not been a good argument presented why we should put hack the words in the ordinance suggested hy the gentleman here and in the committee. I douht if Judge Dewey had anything to do with the present law. I know he did not introduce it, hecause I was a member of the City Council at the time when those words were in. They are using the argument now that Judge Dewey had those words taken out. It is true that Judge Dewey had some cases of loitering down at the North End that went to the Supreme Court for decision. I don't remember just how they came out. A lot of these poor fellows, after working all day in the trench, stood in North square and were arrested for loitering without warning. Wagon load after wagon load of them were taken and dumped at the station house. Judge Dewey was their attorney, and possihly because of that incident the ordinance may have heen introduced into the City Council. But it was introduced by Mr. Mancovitz of Ward 8, passed hoth hranches of the city government and was signed by Mayor Collins, and there has not heen an attempt since to change it on the part of anyhody, with the possihle exception, as the gentleman says, of the policemen and the Police Commissioner. I don't know anything ahout the judges, not being close enough to them to talk with them upon the question. But I know there are a good many policemen who can he trusted, and a good many who cannot he trusted, men who want to show their authority, who are continually interfering with boys, young men and old men standing on the streets, even when they are interfering with nohody and are not obstructing the way. They compel them to either go into houses or get arrested. I don't think this ordinance should he passed in the present form or that the words should he put hack in the old ordinance. I hope the committee's report will be accepted.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I should like to ask a question. I have not heard the discussion upon this matter at all. I should like to know what under the present law the police can do in the matter of loitering. Take the ordinary case, say, of a group of ten young fellows of our age standing on the corner, what does the present law allow the police to do? Can I find out from anybody about that?

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, as I understand the present law the policeman first asks the man or hoy to move along. If he does not do that in five minutes he again comes and asks him to move along. If he does not pay any attention then, he can arrest him if he thinks he can convict him under this law. But the ordinance reads that the policeman must he able to prove that the young man was standing there hlocking passers-by willfully, maliciously and wantonly. Now, "wantonly" means, in legal phrase, without any cause whatever. If young men so spoken to by policemen were standing there for any conceivahle cause they could not he prosecuted. Maliciously—of course it is hardly necessary to argue that hefore this hody—means with a dark and deep hatred of the law, with malice aforethought, speaking in legal terms. The policeman realize that it is foolish to hring hoys up under such an ordinance as that, that it is impossihle to prosecute with any hope of success, and the judges realize it. Every time when a judge finds a verdict against a boy—which is very rare—there is a risk connected with it, hecause he knows that the case can he appealed and the hoy can get off. The whole ohject of this proposed amendment is simply to get at the loafers —and when I speak of loafers I use the word just as Coun. McDonald would use it, and I do not helieve policemen are going to arrest men who are simply standing about getting the air on a summer's evening. That is absurd. I think we can trust the policemen to he serious minded ahout this. It is aimed only at the gangs hooting around the streets and making trouhle for passers-hy. I think nohody will question the fact that policemen should interfere with them, hut if they interfere now they have no power.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I should like to ask another question. I am sorry to take up the time, hut suppose a group of boys does interfere directly with passers-hy by calling them names or acting in a riotous manner, is there no ordinance now that enables that to he stopped? Isn't that a hreach of the peace, or something like it, which is an offence? What I am getting at is this. I have lived for a numher of years on River street, and immediately across the way from where I live a group of young hoys on summer nights, from now on, are used to assemhle and sing, amusing themselves in that way, hecause there is no other place in the neighborhood where they can go. Although it hothers me more or less personally, especially if I have sickness in the family, I helieve very thoroughly in their heing allowed to do that. None of them are drunk and none of them interfere with passers-by, and I want to find out whether this ordinance would prevent a situation like that which I thoroughly helieve in, or simply give the police a chance to interfere when they are acting in a way in which they should not act? I think Coun. McDonald's argument ahout men standing about where there is no playground is perfectly sound—that you must have some place where people can walk around. We haven't enough playgrounds and we have got to expect that people will stand around on the streets more or less. It is what we all do, and that should be allowed under proper conditions. I don't think men standing ahout should have a right to interfere or should he allowed to interfere with passers-hy; and I want to find out what the situation is before I vote upon this matter.

Coun. McDONALD—Mr. President, under the present law an officer can come along and tell you to move on, and if he comes back in five minutes and you have not moved he can arrest you. A numher of such cases are cited in the lower court hut when they are appealed the jury lets them go, where the arrest was not warranted. Nobody would stand up here and defend anyone who was insulting people and causing a riot, causing trouble in a neighhorhood. An officer can come along and arrest such a person at any time now, under the present ordinance, and they do it. I helieve last Saturday night in Charlestown a young fellow was arrested hecause he was standing on the street corner and gave the officer some hack talk. I don't know who he was, hut the chances are that he went into court this morning and was fined in the Charlestown court. They can do that now. But if these words are taken out of the ordinance an officer can come along, if he does not like a man, and arrest him and hale him into court, saying, "You are obstructing traffic or passage," all that sort of thing. The police now have all the power necessary to handle cases that should be dealt with by the police, and I don't think they should he given any more power in the matter of loitering and sauntering.

Coun SMITH—Mr. President, I would suggest, as there seems to be some douht as to the legal features of this matter, that Judge Corhett he asked to come down here from the Law Department and give us his opinion. That might have some weight with Coun. McDonald. As a matter of fact, some of the statements that Mr. McDonald has made are not in agreement with the statements that Judge Corhett has made. It seems to me that before acting upon the matter the lawyers here might very well consult with Judge Corhett and with other judges and talk the matter over with the Police Commissioner. I douht if the subject has been thoroughly considered. I would like to move that it be laid on the tahle and that Judge Corbett he asked to come down and give us the facts and the law.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, as one of the lawyers sitting ahout here, I am not at all in doubt as to what my vote shall be in this matter. I have been quite prepared from the very start to vote against the proposition advocated by my friend and to vote in favor of the report of the committee. I have heard no argument here to-day which would change my mind in the slightest degree. I don't think this law should he changed. I think the present law is working satisfactorily despite the suggestions as to what the police officers may require and as to what some judges may require.. Therefore, acting in my capacity as a memher of the Board, I shall vote in favor of the report of the committee.

Coun. Smith's motion to refer to the Executive Committee, etc., was declared lost.

The report was declared accepted, and the proposed ordinance rejected. Coun. SMITH doubted the vote, a rising vote was taken, and the report was accepted and the ordinance rejected, 6 to 2.

UNION FREIGHT RAILROAD TRACKS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Corporation Counsel, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to draft suitahle rules and regulations governing the use of the tracks of the Union Freight Railroad Company in the City of Boston, said rules and regulations to be submitted to the City Council for its approval.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, this order calls upon the Corporation Counsel to draft suitable rules and regulations governing the use of the tracks of the Union Freight Railroad Company in the City of Boston, said rules and regulations to be suhmitted to the City Council for its information. The City Council, as I understand, as the successor of the Board of Aldermen, has the right to make suitahle rules and regulations governing the use of the tracks hy this railroad company, hut I have never been ahle to find that this right has heen exercised. The right of the City Council is contained in Part 3 of the Acts of 1906, chapter 463, section 74, which says that: "the Board of Aldermen of a city or the selectmen of a town may, suhject to the approval, revision or alteration of the Board of Railroad Commissioners estahlish such regulations as to the rate of speed, the manner and extent of use of tracks, and the numher and routes of cars which run over such tracks, within such city or town, as the interest and convenience of the puhlic may require" Some memhers of the City Council who visited the institutions at Long Island on last Saturday had a personal experience in regard to the use of these tracks during business hours of the day by this railroad company. At ahout five o'clock on that day there were two long trains of cars on Atlantic avenue, near the approach to the ferry and the Eastern Avenue Wharf, and it was necessary for passengers from the ferry—and incidentally the members of the City Council who had been on the trip—to walk at least 150 yards around these two railroad trains in order to reach the other side of the street. That is the busy hour of the day in that section of the city, five o'clock, and in my opinion there should be some regulation regarding the use of the streets at that particular hour. In 1904 some very pertinent questions were asked in regard to this railroad of the Corporation Counsel, and I am going to take the time of the Council to read these questions, because they are very important at this time, and also in view of the fact that nothing has heen done in the matter of the use of the tracks. The answer of the Corporation Counsel was addressed to James H. Doyle, acting mayor of the City of Boston, and the opinion was from the Law Department to the Hon. Patrick A. Collins, Mayor. It reads as follows:

"Dear Sir: The Common Council through you have asked the following questions:

"1. Is there any limitation as to the number of hours in each day during which the Union Freight Railway Company may operate its cars through the streets of the City of Boston?—and to this question I answer that there is no limitation at the present time.

"2. Is there any limitation to the numher of cars which may he hauled at one time through the streets of the City of Boston?—to which I answer that at the present time there is no such limitation.

"3. If there are any limitations as to the time of operation and length of trains, what is the proper procedurc in case these limitations are being violated, and if there are no limitations, does the power exist in any hody to make any limitations?—and to this I answer that, in my opinion, the Union Freight Railway is suhject to the laws relating to street railways, and Revised Laws, chapter 112, section 42, provides, in regard to the use of street railway tracks, that 'the Board of Aldermen or the selectmen may, from time to time, make such regulations as to the manner and extent of use of tracks and the numher and routes of cars of any and all companies which run over such tracks within their city or town as the interest of public travel may require.'

"Respectfully,
"ANDREW J. BAILEY,
"Corporation Counsel."

This communication was placed on file. There is at the present time before the Legislature a bill which was on the calendar to-day, House Bill No. 1358, relative to the Union Freight Railroad Company in the City of Boston, a hill introduced on petition of the Mayor, and that hill provides that "The Union Freight Railroad Company, in the City of Boston, shall be subject to the same control, regulations and requirements by the Board of Railroad Commissioners and the City Council as the steam railroads and street railways." His Honor the Mayor stated in reference to that bill, for which he is the sponsor—and which bill, by the way, was postponed until next Thursday for action by the Legislature— that after consultation with the present Corporation Counsel, Mr. Babson, he was convinced that at the present time the city Council of Boston had the power and right to make these rules and regulations. I have on my desk a letter from the Corporation Counsel under date of May 19, last Friday, in which he sends some extracts from his opinion concerning the Union Freight Railroad Company—extracts from an opinion sent to the Mayor something like a year ago. Mr. Babson states that in his opinion the City Council has a right to make those regulations, and he further says in his opinion that if the Board of Aldermen has not made regulations—as I supposed it had—relative to the rate of speed and the time and manner of using the road over and upon the streets, it means a state of confusion that ought to he remedied. In my opinion the matter is in a state of confusion and ought to he remedied. I could not find any rules and regulations that have been made by the Board of Aldermen under section 74, chapter 463 of the Acts of 1906, and surely in this city, which allows this great railroad company to use the streets something should be done to regulate the traffic. To-day we have traffic rules and regulations which have been made by the Board of Street Commissioners and the Corporation Counsel, and this is certainly in my opinion a matter which should be submitted to the Corporation Counsel for the drafting of suitable rules and regulations governing the use of the tracks of this company, said rules and regulations to he suhmitted to the City Council for approval. I trust that the order will pass.

Coun. HALE.—Mr. President, I desire to have it noted that I do not vote on this hecause it is a matter in which I suppose the corporation in which I am an officer is interested. Therefore, I am interested myself.

President COLLINS.—The Chair recognizes the point made by Coun. Hale.
The order was passed.

BENCHES AT CITY SQUARE.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Superintendent of Public Grounds be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to place the benches around City square, Charlestown, as they were formerly, viz.: on all sides of the square.
Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, in years past seats were placed all around the triangle in City square, Charlestown, but within the past week the Public Grounds Department has placed them on two sides of the square, the sides facing the Waverley House and the Public Library. The men over there like to sit on the side facing Main street to see the cars going by and whatever is going on, and the result the past week has been that the men stand in the open space and have no seats on which to sit. I hope the order will prevail and that the seats will be put around as in former years.
The order was passed.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 4.40 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.
The members of the Council reassembled in the Chamber and were called to order by the President at 6.30 o'clock p. m.

PLAYGROUND, WARD 9.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the Board of Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to communicate with W. J. Tyler of No. 24 Milk street, Boston, with a view of securing the free use of a vacant lot of land on Genesee street, Ward 9, as a playground for children during the summer months.
Passed.

COST OF RETIRING EMPLOYEES.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the City Auditor be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit to the City Council a statement as to the amount of money it will cost the city yearly if chapter 619 of the Acts of 1910, as amended by chapter 338 of the Acts of 1911, is accepted by the city and retirements made in the various departments.
Passed.

USE OF APPLE ISLAND.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:
Resolved, That it is the opinion of the City Council that the Board of Street Commissioners should charge a fee for all permits issued by said Board to parties on Apple Island.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

HOLDING OF CITY PLANNING CONFERENCE.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested in the name and behalf of the City of Boston to extend an invitation for the holding of the City Planning Conference for the year 1912 in the City of Boston.
Referred to the Executive Committee.
Later in the session Coun. HALE said:
Mr. President, I move a reconsideration of the reference of the order inviting the City Planning Conference to Boston to the Executive Committee, hoping that it will prevail.
Reconsideration was declared lost. Coun. HALE doubted the vote and asked for a rising vote. The Council stood divided and reconsideration prevailed, 5 to 2.
The question came on the passage of the order.
Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it seems to me that the Council should know in advance before passing the order what expenses may be entailed on the city in consequence of passing the order. Therefore, I move that, pending such inquiry, the matter be assigned to the next meeting of the Council.
Coun. HALE—Mr. President, of course this order does not definitely commit us to any sum. It does commit us to expending something, I suppose, because if the conference is held here we will have to spend some money. I think it is a tremendously important matter for the City of Boston to get this conference, which represents cities all over the country interested in making improvements and developments. It is especially in line with the proposed visit to Europe of our Chamber of Commerce this summer, the idea of the Chamber being to study how they plan their improvements and developments abroad. I think it is very important to get the conference here, even if it costs $5,000 or $10,000. The reason why I wish to get the order through to-day is that the sooner we get the invitation in form the better chance there will be of having our invitation accepted. Of course, a number of cities are bidding for the next conference, and I think it is very important for us to get this order through right away.
Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I understand from some source—I don't know how reliable it may be—that the Mayor has already extended this invitation. If that is true, he must take the responsibility of having done so. I don't think the Council should plunge in the dark. We ought to know what this means in a financial sense to the city. I am not opposed to it, but I would like to know before voting on it what it will cost the city. I think that is only a proper, conservative request. I hope, therefore, that the matter will stand over for a week.
Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I don't know what the councilor heard in regard to the Mayor extending this invitation. I was informed a little while ago, when I ventured to oppose an amendment in the Committee on Finance, stating that I read in the paper that the Commissioner of Public Works had extended a contract for 2,000 lamps, that it was merely newspaper report, and that we should take no notice of it. I think the same suggestion applies still more forcibly here. I think even if the Mayor has extended an invitation in some speech of his down there, that it is essential that some other branch of the government should take it up, because when the conference is considering to which city it will go it will, of course, want something more than an offhand invitation in a speech. It will want something in the nature of a definite and formal invitation—which I hope it will get as a result of this order, and I trust that it will get it soon.
Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, early in the afternoon when a report came from the Committee on Finance—I refer to the loan order of $300,000 for lighting equipment — the gentleman who has just spoken requested that the matter be postponed until he could make some investigation. He did so, to his own satisfaction, and the Council acceded to it. I do not quite understand what he meant when he referred to that a moment ago. His wishes were met. We conformed to his desires in the matter. I do not quite understand why he referred to that a few moments ago. Referring to the proposition before us, if the Mayor went to Philadelphia and extended an invitation on behalf of the city I don't say that it was not all right for him to do so; but let him take the responsibility for having done so. I don't think the Council ought to go ahead blindly and take this action without our knowing something about the matter. I think when the Council passes such orders it should have some information about them, should be advised as to what the expense will be, and that we should not be asked to plunge into matters of this kind without the proper information. I hope the matter will stand over.
Coun. SMITH.—Mr. President, it is going to give me great pleasure to vote for this special assignment for one week, simply to allow some of the councilors to look into the matter of expense. But on the broad question of the invitation, whether we should invite them to come here or not, I have no doubt at all. We should invite this great City Planning Conference to come to Boston next year. It is much more important than most conferences that come to Boston. There has been a 1915 bill in the Legislature this year in regard to city planning. The trip of the Chamber of Commerce has been spoken of, and the members of the Chamber will probably be looking into the matter of city planning abroad. The city planning problem is in the air in Boston, and it would do much towards clearing it up to have the conference here. Not only that, but it will be the means of bringing a good many new ideas on city work to Boston. I think it is in line with the general policy of our city to have such conferences in Boston. It will do much for the business interests of the city, and I am heartily in favor of anything of that sort. But if some councilor secs fit to look into the question of the cost I have no objection. We may want to spend more than Philadelphia or less; and if any member of the Council wishes a week to look into that matter, I am heartily in favor of giving it.

The order was assigned to the next meeting.

THE NEXT MEETING.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I move that when this Council adjourns it be to meet two weeks from to-day. Next Monday, the 29th, coming the day before Memorial Day, I think it would be very well to adjourn over that week; and I move that when we adjourn it be to meet two weeks from to-day.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, at this time I think it would be inadvisable for us to take the action suggested. There is really so much business that ought to be done before the warm weather starts that in my opinion, even if the amount of business to be done is small, we should meet next week.

President COLLINS—The Chair will state that the loan orders passed a week ago to-day will come up for their reading a week from to-day. If it is the pleasure of the Council to act on them forthwith it will be better to meet a week from to-day, instead of two weeks from to-day—although I will suggest that it might be advisable to have a shorter meeting.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I move that when we adjourn it be to meet two weeks from to-day.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I move as an amendment to that motion that when we adjourn it be to Wednesday, May 31, so that those of who desire to get away over the holiday may do so—next Tuesday, a week from tomorrow, being the holiday. A day later will not make much difference.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I withdraw my motion in favor of the motion made by Coun. Kenny.

It was voted, on motion of Coun. KENNY, that when the Council adjourns, it be to meet on Wednesday, May 31, at 3 p. m.

CONSTRUCTION OF HIGH PRESSURE SYSTEM.

Coun. KENNY offered an order—That the sum of $150,000 be and hereby is appropriated to be expended under the direction of the Commissioner of Public Works for the construction of a high pressure fire service in the City of Boston, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 312 of the Acts of 1911, and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be hereby authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds of the City of Boston to said amount for said purpose.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I have here a duplicate order, except that the amount is $300,000. I prefer this because the order as Mr. Kenny has introduced it calls for the minimum amount, and that will not permit of the pumping station loan. It seems to me that the pumping station at least ought to be considered this year.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the sum of $300,000 be and hereby is appropriated to be expended under the direction of the Commissioner of Public Works for the construction of a high pressure fire service in the City of Boston, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 312 of the Acts of 1911, and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be hereby authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds of the City of Boston to said amount for said purpose.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I think this is a very worthy case, and I am very much in favor of passing it; but I don't think we ought to be considered as starting a precedent in this matter. It seems to me that the expenditure for this purpose might be very large throughout the different departments and that we ought to deal with such matters in a rather different manner than by taking the money from the Reserve Fund—although I am heartily in favor of passing this special order.

Report accepted; order passed.

(4) Report on petition of Boston Elevated Railway Company (referred May 15) for approval of location of proposed station—recommending the passage of the following:

Whereas, The Old Colony Railroad Company, a corporation duly established under the laws of the Commonwealth, has represented to this Council that for the purpose of making or securing its road and for depot or station purposes it requires land outside the limits of its route as fixed, and that it requires additional land for one or more new tracks adjacent to other land occupied by said railroad company by tracks already in use, and that it is unable to obtain such additional land by agreement with the owner or owners; and

MONEY FOR CONSUMPTIVES' HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of tbe Mayor, May 31, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the chairman of the Consumptives' Hospital Trustees, requesting an appropriation of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) for the erection of a hospital to contain fifty beds for cbildren with demonstrable tuberculosis, and an appropriation of eighty thousand dollars ($80,000) for a concrete ward building similar to the two concrete buildings now located in Mattapan. Tbese appropriations can properly be made the subject of loan orders and the requests might well be considered witb others that have been received when the City Council comes to decide whicb of the most urgent needs of the city should be met from the borrowing capacity this year.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston Consumptives' Hospital Department,
926 Tremont Building, May 25, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the trustees of the Boston Consumptives' Hospital, held on Monday afternoon, May 22, the following votes were passed:

I was instructed to request that an appropriation of $50,000 for the erection of a hospital to contain fifty beds for children with demonstrable tuberculosis, and $80,000 for another concrete building similar to the two concrete ward buildings now erected at Mattapan, making in all $130,000.

This request for an appropriation for a cbildren's hospital was first made in September, 1909, but was not acted upon, and is imperatively needed.

The additional use to the concrete ward buildings is a part of the regular plan of development of this institution, and should proceed as rapidly as possible.

Respectfully yours,
EDWARD F. MCSWEENEY,
Chairman.

Referred to tbe Committee on Finance.

WAGES OF SCRUBWOMEN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 31, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the Superintendent of Public Buildings, dealing with the question of the wages of women employed at cleaning and scrubbing in the Public Buildings Department. This communication was forwarded to me in response to a request for an expression of opinion upon the resolution adopted by your honorable body at its meeting of May 15, to the effect that "the wages paid these women are unfair and inadequate and that they should be paid at least $1.50 per day."

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Office of Public Buildings Department,
May 24, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Regarding the matter of the resolve as passed by the City Council on May 15, 1911, relating to the wages paid the women employed at cleaning and scrubbing in the various municipal departments, and suggesting that they be paid at least $1.50 per day, I wish to state that the conditions are so variable that each case must be given individual consideration.

The compensation of the women employed in this department, at this time, is as follows:

One janitress, $30 a month.
One janitress, $25 a month.
One janitress, $12 a week ($2 a day).
One janitress, $10 a week.
One woman cleaning, $25 a month.
Two women cleaning, $8 a week each.
Seventeen women cleaning, $7 a week each.
One woman cleaning, $6 a week.
One woman cleaning, $5 a week.
Seven women cleaning, 25 cents hour, amounting to $7 week each.
Five women cleaning, 25 cents hour, amounting to $5 week each.
Two women cleaning, 25 cents hour, amounting to $4 week eacb.
Three women cleaning, 25 cents hour, amounting to $26 month each.
One woman cleaning, 25 cents hour, amounting to $23 month each.

Shortly after I assumed charge of this offiee I increased the compensation of the women employed cleaning and scrubbing on an hourly basis from 20 cents to 25 cents per hour.

Only one of the above women gives a full day's service, the others will average about four hours daily and in the majority of cases are not employed every day, but do their cleaning on certain days each week as are assigned to them.

As you are aware practically all of the cleaning and scrubbing must be done outside of the regular working hours.

If the women were employed a full day on the present basis of 25 cents per hour, the compensation would be $2 for each day.

Yours respectfully,
M. J. FISH,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Boston Park Commission acknowledges tbe receipt from you of an order requesting the commission to grade and resurface and place in condition Neponset Playground, Ward 24.

The Park Commission would say that a force at present employed on the Speedway will be through with tbat work in a week or ten days, and they are then to begin work on the Neponset Playground, and soon thereafter enough land will be leveled for extra ball fields. We cannot undertake this work more quickly with our present force, but we will give to it every attention in the manner thus outlined.

Very truly yours,

Office of the Mayor, May 31, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend for passage by your honorable body an amendment to the ordinance governing the route of parades containing more than five hundred persons. This amendment has been approved by the Law Department and provides that "no such parade shall be held in the above named streets or any of them unless a permit shall be granted therefor by the Commissioner of Public Works with the approval of the Mayor."

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1 of chapter 6 of the ordinances of the year 1910 is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following: No such parade shall be held in the above named streets or any of them unless a permit shall be granted therefor by the Commissioner of Public Works with the approval of the Mayor.

PARK STREET SIDEWALK — VETO.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 27, 1911.

To the City Council:

I return without my approval your order directing that a sidewalk of artificial stone be constructed along both sides of Park street, between Anawan avenue and Clement avenue, Ward 23, for the reason that the Acting Commissioner of Public Works reports that it would be advisable to have an order passed covering the construction of a sidewalk on the northwesterly side of the street only.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Public Works Department,
City Hall, May 15, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

I respectfully recommend that the order of the City Council calling for the construction of a sidewalk along both sides of Park street, between Anawan avenue and Clement avenue, passed May 8, 1911, be withdrawn, and a substitute order introduced calling for the construction of an artificial stone sidewalk along the northwesterly side of Park street, between Anawan avenue and Clement avenue, Ward 23.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES H. SULLIVAN,
Acting Commissioner of Public Works.

COST OF IMPROVEMENTS, TRAINING FIELD.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 25, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the Superintendent of Public Grounds relating to an order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of May 8, 1911, on the subject of the cost of planting trees in certain of the Charlestown parks and of erecting a drinking fountain in the training field.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

—

City of Boston,
Public Grounds Department,
May 22, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In regard to the inclosed order from the City Council, dated May 8, 1911, "that the Superintendent of Public Grounds be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to send to the City Council an estimate of the cost of setting out a sufficient number of trees in training field, City Square Park, Sullivan Square Playground and Charlestown Heights, to beautify said breathing spaces; also an estimate of the cost of erecting a suitable drinking fountain in the training field," I would say that it will cost $600 to plant a sufficient number of trees in the training field (Winthrop square) and City Square Park, and a suitable drinking fountain for the training field will cost $125.

As Sullivan Square Playground and Charlestown Heights are not included in care of this department, I would refer that portion of the order to the Park Department.

Very truly yours,
G. H. SULLIVAN,
Superintendent.

AWARD TO CITY FOR DAMAGES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 25, 1911.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a notice from the secretary of the Boston Transit Commission, relating to an award of damages amounting to fifty dollars ($50) for the taking by said commission of easements and rights in the estate No. 33 Beacon street, belonging to the City of Boston, together with an opinion of the Corporation Counsel upon the action which he deems advisable by the city government under the circumstances. In accordance with his advice I have prepared the accompanying order, which I submit to your honorable body as the most direct method of concluding the transaction.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

—

City of Boston,
Law Department, May 22, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—I return herewith vote of the Transit Commission awarding $50 for damages to the apartment house No. 33 Beacon street which the city holds in trust.

The top of the arch of the tunnel, that is, the highest point, is 50 feet below the sidewalk of Beacon street at this point, and I think about 45 feet below the bottom of the cellar floor. It goes under a small portion of this estate, part of it being under the next estate, No. 34 Beacon street. The damages are nominal and the award is nominal. It would not pay to fight the matter and I would recommend that the City Council pass a vote authorizing the City Treasurer to accept the award of the Transit Commission for damages to this estate No. 33 Beacon street and to receive the $50 and invest it, the income to he used in accordance with the terms of Mr. Parkman's will.

Yours respectfully,
THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

(Accompanying the communication was the vote of the Transit Commission awarding $50 damages.)

Ordered, That the City Treasurer be, and hereby is, authorized to accept an award of fifty dollars ($50) for damages due to the taking of certain easements and rights in the estate No. 33 Beacon street by the Boston Transit Commission, on October 18, 1910; and to invest said sum, the income to he used in accordance with the terms of Mr. Parkman's will.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ENTERTAINMENT OF CANADIAN REGIMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 25, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order providing that the sum of one thousand two hundred dollars ($1,200) be transferred from the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Mayor, Office Expenses, etc., for the entertainment of the Sixty-second Regiment St. John's Fusiliers, of St. John, N. B., who are to visit Boston June 17, 18 and 19, 1911. A letter from Brigadier General William H. Oakes, retired, M. V. M., chairman of the Reception Committee, which was forwarded to your honorable body at its meeting of May 22, states that this regiment has been granted permission by the State and War Departments of Washington to carry arms and guns and comes in an official capacity as representing the Canadian government. Under the circumstances it seems to me to be entitled to the hospitalities of the city and the sum specified in the order is about equal to the amount appropriated upon a similar occasion last year.

Yours very truly,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the sum of one thousand two hundred dollars ($1,200) from the appropriation for Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Mayor, Office Expenses, etc., for the purpose of entertaining the Sixty-second Regiment St. John's Fusiliers, of St. John, N. B.

LIBRARY NEEDS IN CITY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 25, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit for your information a letter from the president of the Library Trustees, relating to the need of providing suitable buildings for the branch libraries in different sections of the city.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Office of Library Trustees of the
City of Boston,
Copley Square, Boston, Mass.,
May 22, 1911.

To His Honor John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor:

Sir,—In the view of the pending propositions for the construction of municipal buildings in the different parts of the city for the accommodation of courts, gymnasiums, baths and other municipal activities and in which it is also proposed to place branch libraries, the Board of Trustees desire to call your attention and through you the attention of the City Council to the views of the trustees upon this subject. In their report to you for the year ending January 31, 1910, the trustees gave very full information as to the branch library system of the city and said that the work done through the branches had increased to such an extent that the accommodations provided in many of the buildings occupied by them had become most inadequate and inconvenient. We beg to refer specially to pages 9 to 21, inclusive, of that report for full information on this subject. The Board then said and desires now to repeat that:

"The time has passed when the branch libraries can be properly operated in buildings partly devoted to other uses. The scheme of a municipal building devoted to baths, gymnasiums, and other activities, and also providing for the library, while apparently having advantages from the point of view of a neighborhood center, does not properly provide for the work of the library. The work the library is doing is so far educational that it should be treated with the same consideration as to its accommodations as is given to the schools. Branch library buildings ought to be planned especially and solely for library purposes and should be dignified but not expensive or elaborate structures. The other important cities in the United States are providing for their branch libraries independent buildings of modern construction especially adapted to library work. The trustees are of the opinion that the same course should be followed here. It would add to the efficiency of the service, and benefit the people at large as much as any improvement which could be made in our library system."

This statement was approved by the Examining Committee of last year and again set forth in the trustees' report for the year ending January 31, 1911.

The experience of the Board in so managing the branch library system as to be of the most benefit to the people at large in all parts of the city, makes them more and more strong in the opinions above expressed. It should be observed, however, that these remarks apply to branch libraries and not to reading rooms. The branch libraries are independent libraries, all having considerable collections of books, many of them large and quite valuable collections, and are the centers of distribution for books, so that they practically answer the purpose of independent libraries for the different parts of the city in which they are placed, with the additional advantages they provide by connection with the Central Library, which would not be derived from independent libraries not worked as part of the library system.

I address this communication to your Honor in accordance with the unanimous vote of the Board on Friday last.

Respectfully,
J. H. BENTON, President.

Referred to Committee on Branch Libraries.

SUGGESTIONS CONCERNING PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 25, 1911.

To the City Council:

As supplementary to the reports submitted by various departments upon the suggestions presented at the district meetings held in February, forwarded to your honorable body at its meeting of May 15, 1911, I transmit herewith the report of the Commissioner of Public Works upon the requests and suggestions affecting his department.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In accordance with inquiry of Acting Mayor Walter L. Collins, under date of March 2, 1911, I respectfully forward reports of the division engineers relative to requests made at the so-called town meetings held in February and the action which has been taken or which will be taken to comply with them.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Mr. L. K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,—I submit herewith report upon matters affecting the Bridge and Ferry Division, suggested at the district meetings held by his Honor the Mayor in February, 1911.

Respectfully,
FREDERIC H. FAY,
Division Engineer.

New Meridian Street Bridge.

An appropriation of $125,000 is already available for repairs to Meridian Street Bridge. This sum is sufficient to provide for the repairs to the pile bridge and the rebuilding of the draw span with waterways 70 feet in width. The State Harbor and Land Commission have already given authority for the reconstruction of the bridge with 70-foot waterways, but permission for this work has not been obtained from the United States Government authorities, and it is likely that they may insist upon a waterway 100 feet in width, which will necessitate an increase in the appropriation of $63,000. The city cannot proceed with the work until authority has been obtained from the Secretary of War.

New Winthrop Bridge.

It is the opinion of the Corporation Counsel that at the present time neither Boston nor Winthrop is legally responsible for the maintenance or reconstruction of this bridge. The matter of the rebuilding of this structure and the apportionment of the cost thereof between Boston and other communities benefited is included in a bill now pending in the Massachusetts Legislature, and until some act is passed it would appear that the city can take no steps toward the reconstruction of this bridge.

Public Boat Landing at Meridian Street Bridge, East Boston.

A public boat landing can be placed at this bridge on the downstream, East Boston side, at an estimated cost of $3,500. This sum will provide a scow float 60 feet by 30 feet in size and about 4 feet deep, with water-tight compartments, together with stairways 3½ feet wide and the necessary platform. A slight amount of dredging will be necessary to make this location available at all stages of the tide. This dredging can be done at the time of the reconstruction of the bridge.

Public Boat Landing, Wood Island Park, East Boston.

There is no satisfactory location at Wood Island Park for such a landing. The best location is on the southerly side of the point, but considerable dredging will be required or else a long pier must be built to reach the channel, otherwise the landing could not be used at low water. The estimated cost is as follows:

Long pier	$3,000
Scow float, etc.	3,000
Total	$6,000

Public Boat Landing at Harbor View, East Boston.

The most satisfactory location at this point is at the foot of Byron street at Brooks's shipyard. Arrangements could probably be made for the right to use Brooks's shipyard, although extensive repairs will be necessary before the pier can be made safe. The estimated cost of a scow float with necessary runway is $3,000. This sum does not include the cost of right of way and location at Brooks's shipyard.

Public Boat Landing at Jeffries Point, East Boston.

The most available site at this location is at the dock owned by Mr. George C. Fitzpatrick. The estimated cost of a scow float with necessary runway is $3,000. This sum does not include the cost of right of way and location over the Fitzpatrick property. In this connection a letter is submitted from Mr. Fitzpatrick offering to provide a float and to rent same to the city for the sum of $400 per year.

Sidewalks on Ashland Street Bridge, West Roxbury.

There are no sidewalks on this bridge at present. Two sidewalks can be provided at an estimated cost of $4,000.

George C. Fitzpatrick & Co.,
East Boston, March 16, 1911.

Mr. Frederic H. Fay,
Division Engineer,
Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—In regard to a location for a public landing at Jeffries Point, East Boston.

I will install a 90-foot float and runway to the same, and lease sufficient land at my wharf for use of the same and fix up a proper approach to said float from the street. The lease to run for one year from such date as you may name and the price to be $400 per year, payment to be made at such time as you name.

This landing would be used by the public more than all the rest of the landings in Boston, except, perhaps, the one at Marine Park, City Point.

Yours truly,
GEO. C. FITZPATRICK.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department, March 15, 1911.

Mr. Louis K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Sir,—Reporting on the recommendations submitted to his Honor the Mayor at the "neighborhood meetings," the following statement is made:

Roxbury.

Improvement in care of streets; repair some of the old streets. These two are maintenance matters and will be considered when the weather permits.

Noiseless pavement on Orchard park and Ambrose street. Asphalt pavement on these streets would cost $6,000 and $2,500, respectively.

Charlestown.

Repair Medford street. Expect to relay greater part of this street this season.

Brighton.

Improve Western avenue. This is a macadam street, but should be paved with granite blocks. The department has provided a number of paving blocks at Brighton and will have the department force employed at this work.

Dorchester.

Pave Talbot avenue and Washington street with brick. The cost of this work will be $120,000 and $110,500, respectively.

Kilton, Faxon, Harvard avenue and Vaughn streets are private ways. Geneva avenue, between Bowdoin street and Columbia road, will be advertised for bids next month.

Street cleaning is now done by the department force.

Mascot street is a private way.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES H. SULLIVAN,
Division Engineer.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department, May 11, 1911.

L. K. Rourke, Esq.,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,—I submit herewith report upon matters affecting the Sewer and Water Division, suggested in "district meetings" held by his Honor the Mayor February last.

Very respectfully,
F. A. McINNES,
Division Engineer.

Water Service.

1. Ward 8.—High Pressure Water Service in West End.

If the high pressure fire service is referred to, I would say that it is expected this new service will extend in Charles street, from Cambridge street to Allen street; through Allen, Chambers and Green to Pitts street, thence branching in one direction through Pitts street, Portland to Hanover, etc. In another direction through Green, Bulfinch, Howard, etc., with pipes in Chardon, Hawkins and Sudbury streets. Throughout the extent of this pipe hydrants will be placed at frequent intervals, affording efficient fire protection in the neighborhood of the mains.

If high pressure for sprinklers and fire pipes is referred to, I would say that the policy in the past has been to extend this service as the needs of the district require it.

2. East Boston.—Improvement in Water Service.

The water supply in East Boston has been very greatly strengthened by the 30-inch and 24-inch mains laid last winter in Chelsea street, from Chelsea creek to Brooks street. At Chelsea creek this new main connects with a 30-inch main recently laid by the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board under Chelsea creek and through Chelsea, connecting with other mains of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board near the corner of Marginal and Shawmut streets, Chelsea.

3. Complete Work on Geneva Avenue.

The work of the Water Service has been completed on Geneva avenue.

4. Improve Washington Street, Dorchester, Codman Square to Lower Mills.

A contract has been made for the water pipe necessary to extend the existing 30-inch main in Washington street, from Codman street to Sanford street. This work will be done this season, and will greatly improve the water service for Dorchester.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department, May 11, 1911.

Mr. F. A. McInnes,
Division Engineer Sewer and Water Division.

Dear Sir,—In reply to yours of March 8, mentioning improvements asked for by citizens at town meetings since February 1, I beg leave to submit the following statement:

Ward 12.

"Improve the sewerage works of the South End." This had been mentioned at previous town meetings and was fully discussed in my letter of January 27, 1911.

Roxbury.

"Improve drainage around Roxbury Crossing." The trouble here is due to two causes—the flatness with which the whole crossing is graded and the amount of water brought down in the street car tracks in Tremont street, Columbus avenue and Roxbury street. Track basins near the foot of the slope of the above-mentioned streets, and at the low points in Roxbury Crossing itself, are what would seem to be required; a change in the grading of the crossing, giving a greater height in the middle of the square, would also be desirable.

Charlestown.

"Restore old Charlestown sewer yard." The Charlestown sewer yard was abolished on account of the small amount of sewer work in sight in Charlestown, and the maintenance of the district is being attended to from East Boston, and, I believe, satisfactorily. I do not advise the restoration of the old Charlestown sewer yard, as there is considerable fixed charge necessary for the maintenance of any of these yards.

Dorchester.

"Complete work on Geneva avenue." This work has been completed.

West Roxbury.

"Catch-basins should be attended to more regularly in the Forest Hills section." All the basins in and around this section were cleaned recently.

Respectfully,
E. S. Dorr,
Chief Engineer Sewer Service.

Referred to Committee on Finance.

RELEASE OF LAND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 31, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the Commissioner of Public Works, together with communications from the Corporation Counsel and the Division Engineer of the Highway Division and an order providing for the release and conveyance of a strip of land extending from Norfolk avenue to Massachusetts avenue to the trustees of Boston College. In view of the facts recited by the officials named above, I believe that it would be proper for the city to release the land in question, retaining the sewer easement which the city holds therein, and I therefore recommend the adoption of the accompanying order which would permit this to be done.

Respectfully,
John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor.

—

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
City Hall, May 31, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

Re attached letter of May 24 from Rev. Thomas I. Gasson, regarding the Boston College athletic field, I submit various reports regarding the same. The Street Commissioners have no intention, nor do they know any reason why they should construct a street within the limits of this forty-foot strip. I therefore do not see any reason why it should not be released, retaining at the same time, however, the necessary sewer easement. The Corporation Counsel has prepared the attached order for submission to the City Council.

Respectfully,
L. K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

—

City of Boston,
Law Department, May 19, 1911.

Louis K. Rourke, Esq.,
Commissioner of Public Works,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—I return herewith letter of Edward G. Richardson, assessor, and the accompanying plan, in regard to a release to the trustees of the Boston College of the city's rights in lands between Massachusetts and Norfolk avenues. You ask me to inform you with regard to the rights which the city at present has in said land, and what would be a fair compensation for the conveyance of said land to said trustees.

In reply to the first question I would say that on the thirty-first day of October, 1888, Oliver Ames, Oakes A. Ames and Frank M. Ames, the owners of certain lots situated on both sides of Dorchester brook, so called, between Norfolk avenue and East Chester park, now Massachusetts avenue, in consideration of $10,000 and a release of sewer assessments, conveyed to the City of Boston for a highway a strip or parcel of land 20 feet on each side of the center line of the sewer constructed by said city through the land of the grantors, between Norfolk avenue and Massachusetts avenue in said Boston, beginning at the place where said sewer enters the premises of said grantors, and ending where said sewer leaves the premises of the grantors and passes under East Chester park, said strip of land being 40 feet wide and about 1,000 feet long. The grantors by said conveyance gave the City of Boston the right to slope on the abutting lands the filling when required for grading said highway when built at such grade as may be established. This conveyance is recorded in Book 1848, page 517, of the Suffolk Registry of Deeds. Examination of this conveyance shows that the city has a strip of land 40 feet wide and 1,000 feet long extending from Massachusetts avenue to Norfolk avenue. In it it has a sewer and the right to maintain and repair the sewer, the right to build a highway 40 feet wide on this strip and to slope the filling on both sides of the street without paying damages, and that it paid $10,000 for this right.

As to the second question, as to what would be a fair compensation for the conveyance of said land to said trustees, I am not in a position to answer it. I understand that the city has a sewer there and may need another sewer. If so it could not afford for any consideration to give up its rights to maintain the sewer or enter upon the land for the purpose of repairing or reconstructing it. As to the portion of this strip not needed for sewer purposes its value to the city depends upon the probahility of a street heing laid out in this locality. If there seems to you a prohahility that a street will be needed in this locality, hetween Norfolk avenue and Massachusetts avenue, then this 40-foot strip should not be released. If there is no prohahility of a street being laid out in this locality between Norfolk and Massachusetts avenues and our right to maintain, repair and reconstruct the sewer is retained, then the strip is of little value to the city.

Yours truly,
THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

City of Boston,
Assessing Department, May 10, 1911.

Mr. Louis K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Puhlic Works,
Room 66, City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—In reply to a verhal request from your office for an opinion as to what the city should rceeive from the trustees of Boston College for a release of its right of fee in land between Massachusetts and Norfolk avenues, still rctaining an easement of at least 25 feet, I would say at the outset that the values to be fixed must neccssarily he governed by matters that appear to be of a legal nature, and which, in my opinion, should be referred to the Law Department.

A careful perusal of the terms of the original agreement between Oliver Ames et al. and the City of Boston, dated October 31, 1888, shows that in the settlement of the case, which had been pending since August, 1882, it was provided that said Ameses "shall convey to said City of Boston a strip of land 40 feet wide, extending from said land owned by them between Norfolk avenue and East Chester park, for a highway, the center line of which is to he directly over the center line of said sewer; and that said city shall pay to said Ameses the sum of $10,000 in settlement of said claims, and shall not require them to pay any assessment for said sewer or for betterments on account of said highway."

In my opinion, therefore, it is for the Law Deparment to determine whether the original agreement compels the construction of the highway—even though it be at some distant date—or if the change from a fee to an easement would give the city eventually the right to huild a highway and then be able to assess the betterments, which, under the present condition, is ahsolutely impossible.

In arriving at an opinion as to the value, necessarily one of the first things to be considered is the value and character of the property in the immediate vicinity of the land in question.

This is a section that probahly could be developed only for manufacturing or wholesale purposes, and it seems to me that a highway through this land is absolutely necessary for such purposes. If it is only useful for highway purposes it should be known whether the city is ohliged to huild this street, or what value the street would be to the present owners, keeping in mind the fact that it was the evident intention of the city to build the street as implied in the agreement.

Then arises the pertinent question whether, with the city holding an easement, it would he possihle to huild over the sewer, and if so what the restriction would he. To my mind no manufacturing or other concern would find it practical to construct a building over this sewer, being deprived of a basement or first story, or hoth.

This lot appears to have a frontage on Massachusetts avenue of 40 feet and extends through to Norfolk avenue, where it has a frontage of less than 5 feet. In the plan submitted to me it appears that the average depth is 850 feet, which would give a lot 40 by 850, containing 34,000 square feet, through which a sewer runs 25 feet. Such a lot is of little actual value for any purpose except for a highway or passageway. For building purposes only a structure without a basement could be erected on that part of the lot facing Massachusetts avenue. Such a huilding would have to be supported on either side of said sewer, there being, I understand, only about 7½ feet clear on each side, or about 15 feet in all. This would leave the balance of land without means of access, unless an opening was left through the front lot.

Taking into account the dimensions of this lot, development without a highway does not appear to me at all practicahle, although, of course, the lot is worth considerahle to the owners of the adjoining land if used in conjunction with it, as they will need a highway to best develop that property.

In my opinion, therefore, if the city receives $2,000 for said strip I think it would receive fair compensation for the same, and this decision is made provided said land can he used by the city for other purposes than a highway, if not released. If it cannot, the value then is merely nominal.

Yours respectfully,
EDWARD G. RICHARDSON,
Assessor.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor he and he is herehy authorized in the name and behalf of the city and by an instrument satisfactory to the Law Department to release and convey to the trustees of Boston College, in consideration of the sum of two thousand dollars, all the city's right, title and interest in and to a strip of land forty feet wide, extending from Norfolk avenue to Massachusetts avenue through the land of said trustees, being the same parcel of land conveyed to the city for a highway by Oliver Ames and others hy deed dated Octoher 31, 1888, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Lib. 1848, page 517, together with the right to slope the filling of said highway, when huilt, upon the ahutting lands of said trustees; reserving, however, to said city the right to maintain the existing sewerage works in said parcel of land and to enter upon said land at any time for the purpose of maintaining, repairing or reconstructing said sewerage works; and for said consideration the Mayor is also authorized to release to said trustees any rights heretofore granted to the city to lay and maintain water pipes in that portion of said trustees' land which was formerly known as Oak street.

WIDENING MERIDIAN STREET BRIDGE.

The following was received:

Boston Finance Commission,
410-416 Tremont Building,
Boston, Mass., May 27, 1911.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Tbe Finance Commission received from the City Council on May 15, 1911, for investigation and report, letters from the Mayor, the Commissioner of Public Works, and the engineer of the division of bridges and ferries in the Department of Public Works (copies of whicb are hereto annexed), all of said letters being in relation to tbe proposed widening of the Meridian Street Bridge between East Boston and Chelsea.

The commission finds that the original intention of tbe city autborities was to substitute a steel draw span for the present wooden one, leaving the width of the two channels, 59 fect each, unchanged. According to the letter of the engineer of tbe division of bridges and ferries, the War Department agreed with tbis plan of the City Engineer, and tbe Mayor thereafter requested and procured from the City Council an appropriation of $125,000 to carry the plan into effect. Tben, apparently owing to the desire of wbarf owners on Chelsea creek above the bridge for a wider draw, and tbe fact tbat the Boston Elevated Railway Company agreed to pay a portion of the cost of reconstructing the bridge, the city authorities agreed to a plan wbereby tbe channels would be widened to 70 feet. On account of tbe contribution of tbe Elevated Railway Company it was not necessary to increase the appropriation. If, bowever, tbe city applied tbe contribution to the cost of the repairs, originally planned, with channels 59 feet wide, the cost would have been considerably less than under tbe later plan.

It now appears, tbough no formal announcement bas been made, tbat the War Department, wbicb, according to tbe letter of tbe engineer of the division of bridges and ferries previously referred to approved of a draw with two 59-foot channels, may not approve of a draw less tban 100 feet wide. Tbe city autborities seem to bave abandoned the plan for a 70-foot draw and to have acquiesced in tbe plan for a 100-foot draw, and the Mayor, on April 14, 1911, submitted to the City Council a loan order for $63,000 to provide for tbe cbanges made necessary by tbe adoption of the plan for a wider drawbridge. Tbis loan order, unless rejected witbin sixty days by the City Council, becomes operative witbout further action.

The engineer of tbe Finance Commission bas interviewed officials in the office of the War Department Engineers in Boston, and has learned that no formal hearing bas been given on tbe question of increasing the width of tbe draw beyond its present widtb of 59 feet. In bis opinion a draw witb two 70-foot openings would be ample for all the demands of navigation during the life of the proposed temporary bridge, wbich is estimated to be from ten to fifteen years. The proposed plan for one opening 100 feet wide is in some respects inferior to the plan for a draw witb two openings, eacb 70 feet wide. Tbe widest drawbridge span in the City of Boston is now 75 feet; tbe next widest span is 60 feet. (See page 67, Street Department Report of the year 1909.)

If the Mayor and the City Council request a hearing before the United States Engineers at Boston, it will undoubtedly be granted, and the respective merits of.tbe various plans can then be discussed. If tbe Mayor sbould decline to join with the City Council in requesting such a bearing, the City Council could make the request itself, and the United States Engineers would probably, as a matter of courtesy, grant the hearing. Nothing would be lost by such application and $63,000 might be saved without detriment to tbe shipping interests involved or to the commercial interests of the city as a whole. So far no one has made a convincing statement of the necessity of the more expensive plan; and, if the City Council desires to know exactly wbat the reasons are for the increased appropriation, there would seem to be no better way of ascertaining definitely than through the medium of a formal hearing by the United States Engineers. The Finance Commission recommends that unless such bearing can be bad within sixty days from April 14, 1911, the loan order aforesaid be rejected.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Cbairman.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 14, 1911.

To the City Council:

For the reasons set forth in the accompanying communications from the Commissioner of Public Works and the Division Engineer of the Bridge and Ferry Division, it seems to me urgently necessary that the appropriation for the reconstruction of the Meridian Street Bridge should be increased by the sum of sixty-three thousand dollars ($63,000), which is the amount needed, according to the estimates made by the city engineers, for the widening of the draw to a width of 100 feet. I recommend therefore the passage of the appended order which provides this additional sum.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

—

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
City Hall, April 14, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In connection with the Meridian Street Bridge reconstruction, kindly note attached report of Division Engineer Fay upon the matter.

Inasmuch as the United States engineer insists on a channel 100 feet in width and will not approve the reconstruction of the bridge with the channel of less width, I would suggest that you recommend the Honorable City Council to provide an increase of $63,000 to the present appropriation in order to comply with the decision of Colonel Abbot.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

—

City of Boston,
Public Works Department, April 14, 1911.

Mr. L. K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,—On the occasion of the visit of his Honor the Mayor and City Engineer Jackson to Washington in June, 1910, an understanding was reached between the city authorities and the War Department by which the latter would agree to the city's plan for repairing Meridian Street Bridge by the construction of a new steel draw span in place of the existing wooden draw span and by making necessary repairs to the pile structure, leaving the two waterways at their present width, namely, 59 feet each. It was upon this plan that an appropriation of $125,000 for repairs to this bridge was made available last summer. In compliance with the requests of wharf owners on Chelsea creek above the bridge for a wider channelway, the city later agreed to the widening of each channel by 11 feet, and plans were prepared and bids received on February 28, 1911, for the reconstruction of the bridge with channels 70 feet wide. An understanding having been reached between the Superintendent of Streets and officials of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, by which that company would share in the expense of the work, owing to provision being made on the bridge for its heavy cars, it was possible to provide in the reconstruction for wider channels at extra expense without increasing the city's appropriation.

Since the conference between the city officials and those of the War Department last June the situation has changed, owing to the fact that Congress has made an appropriation for the survey of Chelsea creek with a view to dredging that waterway to a depth of 30 feet. It is practically certain that upon the completion of the surveys this fall Congress will at its next session authorize an appropriation for this dredging, and when the work is carried out, that channel will be available for the largest steamers now entering Boston Harbor. In view of this improvement of Chelsea creek a channelway through the bridge wider than 70 feet seems necessary to properly provide for navigation purposes, and the United States engineer officer in Boston, Colonel Frederic V. Abbot, insists upon the need of a channel at least 100 feet in width and will not approve the reconstruction of the bridge with a channel of less width.

Inasmuch as it is necessary to secure the approval of the War Department for any work that can be done, and as the Secretary of War is likely to be guided in his decision by the recommendations of his local officer in Boston, the city will undoubtedly be forced to accept this decision. At present the draw span of this bridge is in such a dilapidated condition that it is unsafe for street car travel and may at times become unsafe for travel of any kind and something should be done at once.

The bridge can be reconstructed with a single channel 100 feet in width, provided the present appropriation be increased by the sum of sixty-three thousand dollars ($63,000).

As the projected improvement of Chelsea creek will add to the taxable valuation of East Boston, and as the bridge as thus reconstructed will provide all facilities needed for navigation for years to come, thereby postponing for some years the building of a permanent bridge on this location, it is recommended that this additional appropriation be made.

Respectfully,
FRENERIC H. FAY,
Division Engineer.

Ordered, That the sum of sixty-three thousand dollars ($63,000) be hereby appropriated, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works in the reconstruction of the Meridian Street Bridge; and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

PROTEST BY NEWSBOYS.

Coun. CURLEY presented the following:

Boston Newsboys' Protective Union,
Boston, Mass., May 27, 1911.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Boston City Council:

Dear Sir,—Inclosed please find copy of resolutions protesting against the passage of an order introduced by Coun. Earnest Smith proposing to turn over to the Boston School Committee the jurisdiction of licensing minors who are over the age of fourteen, now under the authority of the City Clerk of the City of Boston.

We respectfully request that our protest be given a careful consideration when the matter comes before your body for a final decision.

Very respectfully yours,
Boston Newsboys' Protective Union,
B. H. ROBRISH, Secretary.

Whereas, Coun. Smith has introduced an order in the City Council to abolish the present system of licensing newsboys who are over fourteen years of age, which power is now conducted by the City of Boston, and to turn the same over to the School Committee; and

Whereas, This order is another scheme by certain individuals to gain control over all the newsboys in Boston for reasons that would be only beneficial to their personal interests, and which proposition was twice turned down by the Massachusetts Legislature; and

Whereas, The City Council by passing this order would be placing all newsboys in the tyrannical and arbitrary power of the Licensing Department and the Newsboys' Court of the Boston School Committee, whose officers have the sole authority to take away or suspend a newsboy's license without a hearing; and

Whereas, The authority of the School Committee was granted by the Legislature in order to keep the newsboys more attentive to their studies in the schools, and as the newsboys which this order now proposes to turn over to the School Committee are not within the school jurisdiction of the School Committee; and

Whereas, Since the present authority of boys under fourteen years of age has been under the supervision of the school authorities the number of boys brought into court for violations of their license regulations have been greatly increased, consequently placing a court record against a boy for life mainly for mere trivial offences, such as neglect to properly display their bulky badge, or leaving their badge at home for a day, or seen walking home five minutes after the regulated hour which they are allowed to sell their papers, a majority of such cases, in our opinion, being caused by the School Committee placing the authority and jurisdiction over the street conditions of newsboys in the hands of settlement house theorists who have no practical knowledge of the conditions of newsboys; and

Whereas, Heretofore the past system of licensing minors by the City of Boston has been proven successful to both the general public and the newsboys, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the executive board of Boston Newsboys' Protective Union, in meeting assembled, May 25, 1911, emphatically protest against this order introduced by Coun. Smith as an unwarrantable attempt to interfere with the present system of licensing minors in the City of Boston, and a subterfuge to place the control of newsboys, who have no connection whatsoever with the Boston School Committee, in the hands of certain individuals for their personal aggrandizement.

Coun. HALE offered an order—That the City Clerk be authorized to have printed as a city document 1,000 copies of a volume containing the reports submitted in 1908 and 1910 of the commissions appointed to investigate the collection and disposal of refuse, the expense to be charged to the appropriation for City Documents.

The question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would move as an amendment that all propositions submitted relative to the contract now under consideration by the Commissioner of Public Works be included in this document.

Coun. Curley's amendment was adopted, and the order as amended was passed.

A QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege. As chairman of the Committee on Finance I desire to state to the Council the present state of the finances of the city in respect to the borrowing capacity. On February 15 of this year, as estimated by the City Auditor, we had the right to borrow $3,780,983.47. Since that time there have been certain loans authorized, as follows: March 14, new quarters for fireboat crew, Boston side, $3,000; April 12, land and buildings for schools,—taken under the statute which permits the School Board to take each year, until the act is repealed, this amount,—$500,000. The Council also authorized on April 12 a loan for the making of highways, $300,000. That is an annual loan, although it is not compulsory. On the same date, April 12, an order was passed to borrow $250,000 for sewerage works. The city has a right to borrow each year until the act is repealed $1,000,000, but it is not compulsory; and I should have said that chapter 204 of the Acts of 1908 now authorizes the construction of sewers out of current taxes. Nevertheless the Council has authorized a loan of $250,000 this year for sewerage works. On May 15 an order was passed to borrow $120,000 for South Boston municipal building; on the same day to borrow $80,000 for a playground in Ward 5 ; and on the same day $50,000 for a playground in Ward 20. These last three orders have just had their second reading and passage to-day. For street lighting equipment the Council has already passed to its second reading an order for $300,000. For separate systems of drainage—estimated on the basis of one-twentieth of 1 per cent of property valuation, and compulsory by act of the Legislature from 1907 to 1912 inclusive—we have voted to borrow $700,000. I think, strictly speaking, the sum may be a few thousand dollars less, perhaps $696,000, but in round figures the sum is $700,000, and this, as I have already said. is compulsory. The School Committee have the right this year, and no doubt they will exercise it, to appropriate a quarter of a million dollars for the High School of Commerce and the School Administration Building. In 1909 they took $50,000, last year $300,000, and this year, hcing the last year, they will prohahly have $250,000, completing the $600,000 which hy law they were authorized to appropriate. So, with the moneys already appropriated, passed to a second reading or fixed hy statute, we have already used $2,553,000. This sum, subtracted from the full borrowing capacity at the heginning of the fiscal year, leaves a halance of $1,227,983.47. In contemplation we have the Meridian Street Bridge, under an order now pending from the Mayor, $63,000. It is also contemplated that we must borrow for the high pressure service, under a recent statute which was accepted at the last meeting, $150,000. For Chelsea North Bridge, over the Mystic river, or for a temporary bridge, there will have to be borrowed prohahly during this year $250,000. Under an order from the Mayor dated May 15, for North End Pier, building, etc., we may have to borrow $5,000, although I have some question in my mind as to this item. I have not yet finished my examination of the matter, but I am rather inclined to the opinion that it should come out of maintenance. However, the order is pending and it is for $5,000. These four orders which I mention as being in contemplation—Meridian Street Bridge, high pressure service, Chelsea North Bridge, and North End Pier—amount to $468,000, which, suhtracted from the $1,227,-983.47, leaves a balance of $759,983.47. It has been said that $500,000 is none too large a margin of safety for a city of the size of Boston to place in the Reserve Fund. The City Auditor helieves—and in this I think we all agree—that the entire horrowing capacity of the city should not be exhausted in any year, but that a reserve of not less than $500,000 should be maintained for emergencies such as epidemics, conflagrations, bursting of water mains, contingencies of that character. So if we subtract the $500,000 from the balance of $759,-983.47, we have a halance of $259,983.47. Looking forward to the end of the year we may he confronted, and are likely to be confronted with other propositions of a general character. For instance, in connection with the garbage contract, arising out of the question of garhage disposal, we may be called upon to construct incinerators, and I helieve it has heen estimated that $300,000 might he necessary for this purpose. The City Hospital is calling for an extension of its new South Department, for the construction of a huilding for contagious diseases, and says it will require $300,000 for the purpose. At Long Island the trustees tell us that they are going to require some money for the construction of a building that will take the place of the Charlestown almshouse, which I understand is to he discontinued in the very near future,—this summer, about July 1, if I am correctly informed,—and it has been estimated that $200,000 will be required for that project. The South Terminal Station judgment may mature during the year. We have already set apart to meet this liahility $425,000, but at the present time, if the finding of the Auditor should become fixed and the judgment should he entered on his finding, the city would require at least $275,000 to extinguish that judgment. These last four items amount to $1,075,000. If it were possihle for the city to go on horrowing and loans were made to meet these several items, there would be a deficit of $815,016.53. In addition to that I believe we have had a communication from the Mayor calling upon us to horrow $50,000 for the Consumptives' Hospital. Money is required for the construction of a huilding, I am told, at the North End for lihrary purposes. Money is demanded also, or called for, in Ward 7 for the construction of a municipal building; and there are numerous other items which I helieve the Mayor is desirous of having the Council take up. I would like to say that so far as the Committee on Finance is concerned I think we have reached our limit this year. That must he evident to any person who has followed the reading of those figures. There may he some pressing necessities throughout the city which will require the Council to in some way meet the desires of the Mayor and if there are and we feel that they are of sufficient importance to warrant our doing so, I shall not as one member ohject to some moneys being used from taxes to meet these current needs. We have already appropriated this year $800,000 for the construction of an annex to City Hall, and the School Committee has in years past used money raised in taxes to construct school huildings. The statute expressly gives us the right to pay for the construction of sewers out of present taxes. So, as I say, if I am convinced of the neccssity of some items which we can reasonably and fairly meet hy current taxes I do not think I should object to so meeting them at this time. I believe in the policy of paying as we go, as far as we can; I do not believe in the policy of piling up a debt on the city. I would like to see the day come when the piling up of debt is arrested.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, will the gentleman yield for a question?

Coun. KENNY—Certainly.

Coun. CURLEY—I would like to ask Coun. Kenny how he feels about an appropriation of, say, $85,000 to $100,000 for North End Lihrary.

Coun. KENNY—Why, I think out of taxes I should favor it.

Coun. CURLEY—You would not favor it out of loans that are available.

Coun. KENNY—No. I don't think we have the money available.

Coun. CURLEY—You don't know how the other memhers of the Board feel upon the matter?

Coun. KENNY—I haven't any idea; no, sir.

Coun. CURLEY—You are just speaking as an individual in making this report? It is not a report to the Board after conference with any other memhers?

Coun. KENNY—No. I think that concludes all I wish to say on the subject.

PUBLIC LIBRARY, NORTH END.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the sum of eighty-six thousand dollars ($86,000) he appropriated, to he expended under the direction of the Library Trustees for land, building and equipment of a branch public lihrary at the North End, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer he authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, honds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

The order was declared by the President referred to the Committee on Finance.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I move reconsideration of the reference, hoping the same will prevail.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like to ask the councilor from Ward 9 for what purpose he desires to move reconsideration.

Coun. ATTRIDGE.—Mr. President, I as one memher of the Council do not quite agree with the gentleman on the other side that the Committee on Finance has ahout reached its limit in the matter of loans for this year. He desires to know my reason for moving a reconsideration of the reference. One reason is this, and I think it is a very good one. The Library Trustees for two years have called the attention of the city government to the need of a branch puhlic library building in the North End of Boston and no action has heen taken up to this time by the city government to carry out the wishes of the Library Trustees. My second reason is that the Committee on Branch Lihraries was informed by the Library Trustees that they had an option on some property in the North End where it was desired to locate this building; that the offer that the trustees had was a very advantageous one and that the option would expire on the fifteenth of June. That is my second reason, a very important reason why this matter should not he referred to the Committee on Finance this afternoon hut should he acted upon at once. I stated on the floor of this Council a week ago last Monday in regard to the option which the Lihrary Trustees had. The Committee on Branch Public Libraries, of which Coun. Smith and Buckley and myself are memhers, reported the same fact, that this option would expire on the fifteenth of June, and I think it is up to the City Council of Boston to do something towards supplying the needs of the people of that great section of our city. The gentleman says he thinks that the Committee on Finance has about reached its limit in the matter of loans. If his figures are ahsolutely correct as to the financial condition of the city and as to our right to horrow, I ask upon what ground he can justify his three votes here this afternoon for an expenditure of $250,000 in three different sections of our city?

Coun. KENNY—May I interrupt the memher? He asks a question, and I want to answer him.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—I yield for an answer.

Coun. KENNY—I am asked, if my figures are correct, how I can justify my votes here this afternoon? Evidently the member from Ward 9 did not follow the reading of my figures. In my statement I suhtracted those amounts from the sum total.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I have stated two reasons why reference of this order should be reconsidered, why the order should not go to the Committee on Finance. My understanding a week ago Monday was that we would have a meeting of the committee to discuss this matter of the North End Library. I think the councilor himself asked to put the matter over for a week also, in order that he might see the Mayor and find out if the Mayor would get this appropriation. I say that the City Council must do something, and do it now. I have some figures myself. Figures are always interesting things to consider. I have the figures from the Auditor's office under date of May 29, which figures are to the effect that the city had the right to borrow on that date $2,727,983, less the following items that have had one reading, and some of which to-day have had the second reading,—Municipal Building, South Boston, $120,000; Playground, Ward 5, $80,000; Playground, Ward 20, $50,000; Street Lighting Equipment, $300,000, making a total of $550,000. Then there are the items in committee, recommended by the Mayor. There is, for instance, the item of $63,000 for the Meridian Street Bridge, which item may he rejected hy the Committee on Finance. Then there is the item for the North End Park Building, etc., $5,000. Deducting these items that have had one reading and the two items in the committee, recommended hy the Mayor, which make a total of $618,000, we have a halance of $2,109,983. Then there are some prohahle loans, such as for the Separate Systems of Drainage, $696,000. The Mayor says he has hopes of having that amount reduced hy action of the Legislature this year. There are also the items for High Pressure Service, $150,000; for Chelsea North Temporary Bridge, $250,000; for the High School of Commerce, $250,000—which cannot be used this year; and for North End Library, $85,000. Including that item for the North End Lihrary we have a total of $1,431,000, which, with the reserve for a margin of safety of $500,000,—which Coun. Kenny says is a good margin of safety, with which statement I agree,— leaves a balance subject to loan of $178,983. This is considering that we appropriate the money for the Separate Systems of Drainage, for the High Pressure Service, for the Chelsea North Temporary Bridge, for the High School of Commerce, and even including this item for the North End Library. This balance of $178,983 subject to loan may be increased hy $63,000, if this Council sees fit to reject the item of $63,000 for the Meridian Street Bridge, which has been suhmitted to it hy the Mayor and which order will expire on the fourteenth of the coming month. That will leave a total of $241,983 availahle for loans, and then that might he increased by the item for High School of Commerce. Coun. Smith said to me to-day that he believed the School Committee would not ask that that money he appropriated this year. If the proposed amount were not used for the Meridian Street Bridge, that with the $500,000 reserve and the halance of $178,983 suhject to loan would leave a total amount availahle for loan of $741,983; and if the School Committee do not see fit to ask for the $250,000 for the High School of Commerce, there would be a round million dollars there. Then there is the money suhject to appropriation. Last year I served in this Council and the Mayor sent orders to the City Council of last year asking that money for our City Hospital he expended from appropriations. Mr. Mitchell to-day told me that we had the right to appropriate last year $14,668,-415.26.in our appropriation bill, and that the hill included $12,683,926, leaving a balance of $1,984,-489.26. Of that we have already devoted $800,000 to the annex to City Hall, leaving a balance that can he appropriated at the inception of the Mayor of $1,184,489.26—and this does not include, Mr. President, the $492,000 which the city received from the executors of the Shaw estate and which might be used for appropriations. I said to the City Council a week ago Monday that some action should be taken by the City Council to remedy the conditions that ought to be remedied in the North End in the matter of lihrary accommodations, that we should see to it that the children of the North End have a modern, up-to-date library building, which they need, which they demand and which the Library Trustees demand. I hope that the City Council will see fit to reconsider its reference and I trust that to-day this Council will pass this loan order and that the Lihrary Trustees may begin work at once, exercising the right which they have under the option, which expires on the fifteenth day of June. Let us give to this crowded, cosmopolitan section of our city a decent, modern, up-to-date library building.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, if, if, if! That is pretty good financiering! "The School Board may not want the money this year. If they do not, we will have it." "The Legislature in its wisdom may amend that act so that the city may not he called upon to raise $700,000 for the separate systems of drainage." If—it will he all right, if! As I say, Mr. President, that is mighty poor financiering. I think the gentleman ought to point out wherein my figures are wrong hefore he undertakes to criticise them. He takes the Auditor's figures of a month ago, the first of May. Of course those figures are changing all the time. That is the object of issuing monthly reports. The moneys that we have voted this month were not suhtracted on the first of May. But, as I say, let the City Council proceed and vote away the money that it has a right to borrow without any regard to the interests of the citizens. Let them do it if they want to do it. Let the gentleman take the responsihility for his vote; I will take the responsihility for mine in voting against it.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, this is to me a most interesting dehate. Coun. Kenny rose to a point of personal privilege and thereupon stated the condition of the finances of the city in detail,—which we were all very glad to hear. But, of course, we realize Mr. Kenny's personal view of the finances of the City of Boston, and if we wish to get a detailed and accurate report of the city's finances, of course we will do as we have always done,—go to the City Auditor. Following Mr. Kenny's statement of his view of the city's finances, we are brought face to face with an appropriation, or rather a loan, for the much needed lihrary in the North End. It is interesting to go back to Mr. Kenny's figures, which are personal, as I have said, simply to find out how Mr. Kenny accounts for his own votes,—not to criticise the city's finances, but to find out how he accounts for his own votes. According to his figures, if the city goes ahead and does the necessary things which now seem to he in sight, we will be in the hole over $800,000. Yet he has voted for loans of $250,000 to-day for three specific purposes. At the time he did so, as head of the Finance Committee, he did not enlighten the Finance Committee as to the finances of the city. I presume that is why he arose to-day to a question of personal privilege. Otherwise I cannot account for his coming into the Board at this time in this way. Mr. Kenny had not been attacked, I believe, as to the city's finances. He had nothing to vindicate. He simply arose, I suppose, to justify his vote on these three loan items for which he has voted to-day. It is hetter that we have the figures that Mr. Kenny helieves represents the city's financial condition now than not at all, hut it would have been much better to have had them at the time the Finance Committee met. It would also have heen much hetter to have had a discussion as to whether we could afford each one of those three items at that time. It is a fact that one of those three items was not considered at all up to the date of that meeting. In no way was that brought hefore this Board; in no way had it been discussed in the puhlic press or generally. It was sprung in that meeting and it was rushed through that meeting with the evident understanding of certain members there. It was not dehated on its merits in competition with other necessary local improvements.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like to interrupt the member.

Coun. SMITH—I have no douht he would, Mr. President, but I prefer to keep on.

President COLLINS—Does the gentleman yield for a question?

Coun. SMITH—If the memher desires to ask a question. If he simply desires to interrupt me, that is another matter.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I desire to ask a question.

Coun. SMITH—I will yield, gladly.

Coun. KENNY—I would like to ask the member from Ward 11 what agreement or what understanding there was hy the memhers of the Committee on Finance upon the occasion when that money was voted, to which he has reference?

Coun. SMITH—In the first place, there is an error in stating that I am the councilor from Ward 11. That has been made hefore hy the gentleman from South Boston. I am not the councilor from Ward 11.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like to interrupt the member again. May I do so?

Coun. SMITH—Is this another question, or simply an interruption?

Coun. KENNY—I will have to say that it is a slight suggestion, not an interruption.

Coun. SMITH—As one of the younger members of the Board I am glad of any suggestions that Coun. Kenny may offer.

Coun. KENNY—I would like to make one suggestion, and that is that the gentleman is not conforming to parliamentary usage and practice here. He is naming members here by name, which is improper. He has referred to me by name four or five times since he began the meeting, and then he objects because I refer to him as the gentleman from Ward 11. In doing so I am acting in accordance with parliamentary custom and usage.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, to get back to the subject, one of those items which came before the Finance Committee—of which all the members of the Council are members—was $50,000 for a playground in Ward 20. That had not been discussed in competition with other necessary local improvements in the city previous to that meeting, and at that meeting it was only discussed upon Mr. Attridge and myself speaking of the necessary improvement in the North End, the library, and even then it was not considered at length. It strikes me that that matter should have been considered in relation to the other necessary improvements.

President COLLINS—The Chair would advise the councilor that the question before the Council is on reconsideration, moved by Coun. Attridge, of reference to committee of the order contemplating the expenditure of $85,000 for a branch library in the North End. No other matter is before the Council.

Coun. SMITH—And it is on that point that I am speaking, Mr. President. At that time it was generally believed by the members of the committee that the North End Library would be taken up next, that it was a necessary improvement and would be dealt with in the near future. At the meeting two weeks ago Monday I stated that my only reason for voting against the playground was because I believed the North End Library to be a more necessary improvement. At the last meeting of the Council we were told that if we would put off discussion of this subject a meeting of the Finance Committe would be called Monday, and that in the meantime Coun. Kenny would take the matter up with the Mayor.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I rise to a point of order. My point of order is that the gentleman from Ward 11 has no right to name a member during the debate.

President COLLINS—The point of order is well taken. The name of the member himself may not be used without reference to his official position. It should be "Coun. Kenny," not "Mr. Kenny." The gentleman is correct in his point of order.

Coun. SMITH—Am I not correct in saying "Coun. Kenny," Mr. President?

President COLLINS—I understand so.

Coun. SMITH—That is what I thought, Mr. President. That meeting of the Finance Committee has not been called, and we are told now that it will not be called for to-day. It will be interesting in the explanation of the votes I have already referred to if Coun. Kenny will at the same time explain why the Finance Committee is not called for to-day. It strikes me that there is an attempt to block the wishes of the majority of this Council in the matter of having a loan made for the library at the North End. That loan has been very near to my heart. I have perhaps desired it above any other loan. I said so immediately after election. I have said so in this Board and in committee meetings. I have said so to other members of this Council repeatedly. I wish to see that loan made as soon as possible, because of the reason that Coun. Attridge has stated—that the option soon expires, and that it is a very necessary improvement.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I regret as much as anybody in this Board that the member who has just taken his seat should stand here and wilfully express himself to the effect that there was some understanding between the members of the Council or the members of the Committee on Finance, with respect to the appropriation for the Ward 20 Playground. That is absolutely without foundation and is absolutely incorrect. There is not the slightest justification for it. That matter was considered a year ago. The members of the Council, with perhaps one or two exceptions, a year ago visited Mount Ida, and it was the unanimous desire of the members that, just as soon as the money could be had, it be appropriated for the playground in Ward 20. It was a self-evident proposition, as I think I said at the time. Every member here understood it; every member here looked forward to the time when we might have the money to borrow for that playground, feeling that it should be borrowed for that purpose. It was very fully and fairly considered. There has not been a subject before this Council during the year that has had better, deeper or more careful consideration than that very Ward 20 proposition. And now for the gentleman to stand up here in the presence of this Council and insinuate that there was some understanding upon it between the members is, to my mind, worthy of the severest condemnation. The gentleman says, "We are now told that there is to be no meeting of the Committee on Finance to-day." Who told him so? I did suggest to him a while ago, I think, in answer to his question, that I would call a meeting next Monday at two o'clock, which I intend to do,—not because of this matter, however, so don't be mislead in regard to that. I do so because I desire to consider the item that is pending before the Council in respect to high pressure service for the Water Department. That is why I was going to call the meeting for next Monday. Of course at that meeting other matters may be considered. But I hope the Council is not going to stultify itself by voting away the city's money without knowing what the financial conditions of the city is and what the city needs. If the Council is not willing to take my figures it can verify them. But you cannot say that they are not correct without at least attempting to verify them.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it would be interesting, as I said a moment ago, to understand how Coun. Kenny voted $50,000 for the Ward 20 Playground when he shows by his own figures that if we grant the loans asked and needed this year we will be $800,000 in the hole. It would also be interesting to know why a committee meeting that he promised to call last Monday cannot be called before next Monday, when, as the majority of the Council believe, there is a pressing improvement to be passed upon by that committee.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I am going to ask the member a question or two, now. Has he had any understanding with any other member here to-day that he would come in here and force this thing through? He refuses to answer, I take it. Now, I say that he has. I say that he is acting here in violation of the rules of the City Council. I say he is acting as he is here to-day in consequence of an understanding with other members of the Board to vote for this against the rules of the Council,—to take this away from the Committee on Finance and to push it through here. And he is the gentleman who is calling for information. Let him confine himself a little more closely to the facts. Let him examine my statement and he will see how I justify my votes. Let him read what I said two weeks ago, when he attacks my votes for certain orders. I said that I thought the time had arrived when we could use some money for these self-evident propositions. Have I said that we were to spend money for these things contemplated? I have simply stated that there were certain things in contemplation, and nothing more. But I ask the gentleman to take my figures, consider them justly and fairly, and then I shall ask him whether I have taken a fair stand in this matter or not. I ask nothing for myself in the matter.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I desire to say that I propose to vote for this order, and that I have not had any understanding with anybody relative to my position in the matter. If the gentleman from South Boston (Coun. Kenny) and the other members, with the exception of the member from Charlestown and myself, have not had an understanding on this financial proposition, I believe it is the first one upon which there has not been such an understanding in this Council. The lamentable feature of the whole thing with relation to loans is that the members do not arrive at conclusions because of their own ideas or of their own volition. Usually their minds are made up for them by another body—and I believe a good indication of that was furnished at our last meeting, when the Council authorized a loan of $300,000 for the purchase of automatic lighting equipment for the City of Boston. Can it be said that that was more necessary than other public improvements? It is a matter that should have been considered seriously, not only by the Finance Commission but by the members of the City Council, but apparently it was only seriously considered by one hranch of the city government—the Finance Commission. The City Council simply voted. With relation to that proposition I do know this, that I have made some inquiries and have discovered that the payrolls of the United Gas Company—which controls the Welsbach, controls the Rising Sun and all subsidiary companies in the various cities and towns of the country—amounts to something like $8,000,000 annually; and if some automatic device could he invented that would make possible the replacing of hand lighting hy automatic devices it would mean a saving to that company alone of over $4,000,000 a year. They would certainly be the first to adopt a practical automatic device; and yet the City Council, without any apparent consideration of the subject, plunged into the proposition which meant the spending of $300,000 of the city's money for a questionahle lighting device. And still, although this eompany, if there is such a practical device, would he ahle in ten years to save hy it $40,000,000 or more, has not considered the automatic devices sufficiently advanced to warrant their adoption hy them. With relation to this loan, I am very much pleased to have the reform memhers of this hody threshing out their honest differences in this Chamher. This is the proper place to air your honest differences. It is more edifying to the puhlic, gives them a hetter idea of the propositions hefore the body, than can be obtained behind the closed doors of the City Club or any other institution. I want to say that I am prepared to vote for this proposition. I think it is a very necessary loan. I think it is not only for the henefit of the North End, hut for the benefit of the entire city as well: and I sincerely trust that at all future meetings, when propositions of this character are up for consideration, the memhers will stand up and state their views as fairly and completely as they have done to-day, without any fear as to whose feelings are injured.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I don't suppose there has ever heen a loan contemplated, thought of, or suggested, that my friend who has just taken his seat didn't vote for or wouldn't have voted for since he has heen a member of the body. I ask him this question, and I will let him answer it himself: Has he ever voted against any proposition, since he has been a memher of the Council, to horrow money or spend money?

Coun. CURLEY—I cannot state positively now whether I have or have not, but I want to state to the gentleman that I helieve the welfare of any city depends on the amount of money that the city expends for such necessary improvements as will tend to the advancement and development of the city, the enlightenment, peace, comfort and happiness of the people who live in the city.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, in order that I may not he misrepresented or misquoted in connection with this matter, I want to say that I helieve the North End Lihrary proposition is a very fair one. It is true that there is a hranch library in the West End and that it would not be a very great effort for people living in the North End to pass over to the West End and get their books this year. But, be that as it may, I am not against the construction of a library at the North End. I am willing, as a guarantee of my good faith and to show my position here, to give them a lihrary out of taxes for this year. There is a large sum of money unappropriated, which the Mayor may come in hy and hy, along the latter part of July, and ask us to appropriate in order to keep the taxes possihly at a certain point. Why cannot the money which is so much needed, as set forth here to-day, come out of this year's taxes. I will vote for it. But I will not vote to thrust the city into debt any more than I can possibly avoid or help. I would like to say to my friend from Ward 17 (Coun. Curley), who sits here in a dual capacity, that Boston to-day has a deht which is third in the United States, and if we include the metropolitan deht of $35,000,000 or $36,000,000 to-day, Boston has the largest deht of any city in the country per capita. That is why I am trying to hold up this proposition to horrow money. Every member of this Council knows that there has not been a meeting here the past year when I could not have come in with a proposition for a municipal building in South Boston and got it through. They have all said so to me, or practically all. I did not do it hecause I did not see my way clear to do it. To-day the City of Boston is mortgaged for about 77 per cent of its assets. I am not taking this position for the purposes of a record that will have any bearing upon my political position in the immediate present or in the future. I feel, and I think that the interests of the City of Boston demand, that we should stop borrowing money. There are certain propositions for which the interests of every man, woman and child, everybody in Boston, demand that we borrow money, requirements which we must meet and for which we must horrow money.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, will the gentleman yield for a question?

Coun. KENNY—Yes.

Coun. CURLEY—I would ask the gentleman if he does not feel that a lihrary, which is a permanent public improvement, should come out of a loan rather than out of taxes.

Coun. KENNY—Not necessarily.

Coun. CURLEY—One other question. If there were no lihrary huilding in the city and it was the desire of the inhabitants of the city that a lihrary huilding, costing in the vicinity, say, of one million dollars or two million dollars, should he constructed for the henefit of the people of the city, do you believe the money for a structure of that character should come out of the tax levy or he raised in the form of a loan.

Coun. KENNY—Under certain conditions, assuming that the city's finances are in a proper state, I would say that it would not be an unreasonahle proposition to borrow money.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I have no desire to steal the floor from Coun. Kenny, hut I would like a little more direct answer to my original question. Personally, I consider that an appropriation of $85,000 for a lihrary in the North End can he considered in no sense other than as a permanent puhlic improvement, that it is a matter of such a character that the expense should not be borne hy one generation, as the huilding will in all probahility serve many generations. For that reason I question the wisdom of expending the money that might come out of the tax levy for a permanent puhlic improvement of that character,— and I feel that Coun. Kenny agrees with me, if he will say so.

Coun. KENNY— Mr. President, as I have already stated, I am willing to vote this year to pay for the construction of this huilding, the North End Lihrary, out of taxes. We have quite a surplus, money which might he used for matters of that kind especially. We have no other sources from which to get the money. Next year, of course, the city will be entitled to borrow money. We have these general improvements to meet—hridges, the City Hospital, the possibility of something being required on Long Island in connection with the almshouse. All these general propositions have got to he met in one form or another, sooner or later, and I think it is the duty of the government to first provide money for those things that affect the entire people. Much as I should like to see a lihrary constructed in the North End, I still think it is secondary in comparison with propositions that affect the entire citizenship of Boston—such as the matter of proper provisions for the operation of the Fire Department, the construction of hridges and hospitals. It is not my desire to throw any cold water on this proposition at all. As I say, I am willing to take money out of taxes for it. But I am not willing to borrow any more money this year.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it is interesting to note that Coun. Kenny voted for $120,000 for a municipal building, South Boston, $80,000 for a playground for Ward 5 and $50,000 for a playground for Ward 20, three separate local improvements, hefore he was even willing to consider in the Finance Committee the high pressure system for fire service, the $300,000 necessary for the hospital or other general improvements, and it is also interesting to note that he has asked questions——

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I desire to ask the memher on what he hases his statement that I voted for these items hefore I considered the other items?

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I quite agree with Coun. Curley that it is a very good idea for us to discuss these things in open Board. In answering Coun. Kenny I will have to ask him as to what happened in the Finance Committee, and I think after this any discussion I have to enter into on different questions will be made in the open Board. I think I have had occasion five or six times this year to refer to what has heen said in committee. Of course, his memory of those discussions may not be the same as mine, and we have no stenographic reports of those meetings. But the fact is that at that meeting of the Finance Committee, the first meeting of the year, there was no discussion of these general public improvements for which Coun. Kenny has so eloquently talked this afternoon. It therefore would be interesting to know why he voted for these three separate local improvements, and it would be also interesting to know why he voted for them if we are to be $800,000 in the hole, as his figures show.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would like to call the attention of the memher to the fact that he is repeating himself.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, unless the Chair allows it I will not yield to simple interruptions but only to questions.

President COLLINS—The Chair rules that that is something entirely in the discretion of the gentleman who has the floor.

Coun. SMITH—Thank you, Mr. President. Of course, Coun. Kenny has a little befogged the issue by asking other questions without having first answered these two most pertinent questions. He has asked one question of me to which I will very gladly reply. He has asked whether there was an understanding before we came into our meeting in regard to this matter. We might as well have murder out here in open Board. The reason why we have had to do this to-day is because there has not heen a meeting of the Finance Committee up to two weeks ago Monday, in spite of the fact that there is more husiness hefore that committee than any other committee of this body. It would have heen very helpful to the members of this body if we could have had a meeting earlier in the year and discussed the various needed local improvements, in order to compare their merit and value. But we have not had the opportunity. And why? Because it lies in the hands of Coun. Kenny to call a meeting. We have waited patiently up to two weeks ago Monday, and then there was a meeting where three loans were railroaded through in very short order without any general consideration of necessary local improvements. It is for that reason that memhers of this Board who are interested in the North End Library are forced to bring the matter up in this somewhat disagreeable way. If necessary we will be glad to go into further details, but perhaps this will suffice; and it would now he interesting to hear the answer to the two questions which have already heen repeated.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I have nothing further to say to the gentleman from Ward 11.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would like to say just one word upon this matter. In regard to these figures that have heen submitted to us by Coun. Kenny as, I don't know exactly what,—carrying his figures down to the point where he deducted the reserve $500,000, he gets a balance of $259,983. He then gives certain items which he says we will probably pass. They are among that class of loans which the councilor classes as "self evident,"—in other words, loans that appeal to him. For instance, garhage plant, $300,000; City Hospital, $300,000; almshouse, $250,000. I wonder whether the councilor is aware of the fact that from that $250,000 should he deducted, in order to make these figures accurate, the amount which the city is getting for the old hospital, $75,000, and possihly some more from Boston Elevated damages? That is simply one instance of inaccuracy in these figures. It happens to be almost the exact amount which we now hope to get passed to-day for this other proposition, which I think is self evident and a necessity, as do other members of the Council,—the item for the North End lihrary. I wish also to call the attention of the Council to another fact which has heen omitted from the discussion, and that is this: As you all know, we have on hand a certain sum which has heen called the Shaw money, which amounts in round figures to $500,000, which is in addition to the regular money raised by the tax levy. That money is on hand as cash. What hetter reserve can be kept by the city than actual, hard, cold cash in case of emergencies? I consider that it would be perfectly good finance to keep that as a reserve in place of the $500,000 which has heen deducted hy Coun. Kenny, and I am perfectly willing to take my stand anywhere and say that I eonsider cash as good security or as good a reserve fund as a horrowing capacity for the same amount. I don't helieve there is any memher of the Council who will care to deny that. Therefore, hy scratching off reserve $500,000 and substituting the Shaw money for that, we get a balance on hand of $759,000 from which to take these various items mentioned by Coun. Kenny—garbage plant, City Hospital, almshouse, Cove Street Bridge, Consumptives' Hospital, North End library, and Ward 7 huilding. It simply comes down to the question, which two or three of these items the Council considers most important, and I personally, and I think most of the memhers of the Council, consider this item for the North End library the most important of all the various items,—with the possihle exception of the garhage plant,—heginning with the City Hospital and going down through the Ward 7 municipal building. Therefore I am in favor of taking from this fund of $750,000 the amount of $85,000 for the North End lihrary, and I will so vote to-day.

Coun. ATTRIDGE'S motion to reconsider the reference to committee was declared lost. Coun. Attridge douhted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. Reconsideration of the reference prevailed, yeas 6, nays 3:

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Buckley, Curley, Hale, McDonald, Smith—6.

Nays—Coun. Ballantyne, Collins, Kenney—3.

President COLLINS.—The Chair rules that under Rule 16 the order lies over for one week.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I move that the rule he suspended in order that this order may go upon its passage to-day.

The rule was declared suspended. Coun. KENNY douhted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The rule was suspended, yeas 6, nays 3:

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Buckley, Curley, Hale, McDonald, Smith—6.

Nays—Coun. Ballantyne, Collins, Kenny—3.

The question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. BALLANTYNE in the chair.

Coun. COLLINS—Mr. President, at this time I take the floor for the first time this year, for one reason in particular, and I take it because the matter concerning which I am about to speak has not been touched on hy any memher of the Council thus far. It relates to what appeared in all of the Boston papers yesterday concerning what the chief executive of the city would do if the Council did not do thus and so. The memhers of this Council have been invited to luncheon by the chief executive of this city on two occasions. The first time I was one of those who were not present, hecause I could not he. The second time I was present with four others—with you, Mr. President (Coun. Ballantyne), and Coun. Attridge, Curley and Buckley. At that time we discussed with the Mayor certain matters pertaining to the finances of the city. I wish to say at this time that any time when the Mayor of Boston wants to discuss with me questions relating to the finances of the city, I am willing to meet him privately or publicly. I helieve that is the point of view of most, if not all, of the members of this Council, hecause I helieve he has a right to expect, owing to the office he holds, that the legislative memhers of the government shall act in cooperation with him. Our cooperating with the executive of the city is like the directors of a corporation cooperating with the president of the corporation. We are like the directors of a corporation and the Mayor is like the president. In order that all may achieve results and work harmoniously for the best interests of the people of Boston, it is essential that all lay aside their personal differences and work hand in hand, as far as possihle, with the gentleman who holds the position of chief executive of this city. When I helieve he is right, I, for one, shall be with him; if I helieve he is wrong, I shall he against him and will tell him so privately or puhlicly. Last year and at the heginning of this year we had a numher of town meetings. I, with Coun. Smith and occasionally with other members, attended those town meetings, and on more than one occasion—I remember particularly in the Charlestown district—I had occasion to try and defend to the hest of my ahility the Council hecause of its attitude last year in leaving the City of Boston with a million dollars to its credit,—in other words, having at the end of the year a million dollars on hand which it could have spent. I believed the action of the Council was justified at that time. As president of this Council I appointed the chairman of the Committee on Finance. I helieve he has done his work conscientiously and honestly. I yet have confidence in the gentleman who has been appointed chairman of that committee. Accordingly, when this order was offered to-day I referred it to the Committee on Finance. I am opposed, gentlemen, to this hasty legislation which is before us, for this reason, it is creating a dangerous precedent, and that is another reason why I have taken the floor. In all legislative assemblies, when orders are introduced pertaining particularly to the expenditure of a great deal of money, the rule is to refer them to a committee. In this particular case the proper committee was the Committee on Finance. The Council in its wisdom saw fit to reconsider reference to the Committee on Finance of this order. But there is a stronger reason why I have taken the floor, and it is this, that in all the Boston papers day before yesterday it appeared that unless the Council passed certain items which the chief executive of this city wanted, that executive would veto the three orders that the Council has already acted upon to-day. In the papers yesterday—the Post, Herald, Journal, in fact I believe all the morning papers—that rumor was emphasized. Before the people of Boston to-day we are the legislative branch of this government. We are responsible to and hold our commissions from the people as well as does the chief executive of this city, and I believe it is high time for us to stand in our shoes and show our sand by saying that, although the order which is before the Council at this time is a good one, it is unwise and improper for us to be driven into the position of passing it at this juncture without further consideration. Accordingly, I shall not vote in favor of the passage of this order to-day, and I shall not vote against it, because I consider that it is a good proposition—but not at this time.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I realize that there is a great deal of weight in what the president of this body has just said, and yet it seems to me that we are not here to act because of certain newspaper criticisms. We are here to act on the merits of questions that come before us. This question has been up before the city government for two years. It has been up all this year in public debate. I have personally referred to it in the town meetings as a thing that I have very much desired. I spoke on this library from the floor of this Council two weeks ago. I was not in the city and did not read the newspaper criticisms which the president has referred to. I was not invited to the meeting on Monday, contrary to statements which I understand have appeared in the papers, and therefore it cannot be said that I am voting on this because of any reference to the act of the chief executive of this city. It is simply because of the merits of the question. Furthermore, it cannot be said that I am voting on this because of what he has said, because I have to-day voted against one of the three measures which he has threatened to veto, and which it would please me greatly if he did veto. So it seems to me it must be clear that my vote is not influenced by what the President of this Board has brought forward as so weighty an argument.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I would ask the member from Ward 9 (Coun. Attridge) if it is a fact that he has been in conference with the Mayor and that his action to-day arises out of an understanding that he has had with the Mayor?

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I will answer the question. My action to-day does not arise out of any conference I had with the Mayor of Boston. I did see the Mayor of Boston, as I told you, Councilor, that I would see him, and I expected that you would see him, in regard to the North End Branch library. You promised me that you would go yourself personally and alone and see him, and I was willing to accompany you, and told you so. I went to the Mayor's office, but my action to-day is not due to any conference I had with the Mayor of Boston. I don't wear the Mayor's collar around my neck. I stand here elected by the people of Boston. I have respect and honor for the Mayor of Boston because of his official position, and I desired to know what his views were upon this public question. He is the Mayor of the city, and when he invited me, as he invited other members of the City Council, to the two conferences I felt it a duty on my part, as a member of the city government, to be present at the conferences and to talk over the needs of the city—and, yes, the finances of the city—with him. But I say now that anything he has said to me has not had anything to do with my action to-day. I said on the floor of this Chamber, two weeks ago last Monday I believe it was, when these items of a municipal building in South Boston and playgrounds for Wards 5 and 20 were first presented from the Committee on Finance and called to the attention of the Council, that I considered that there was need for immediate action in regard to the North End library building. Anything that the Mayor of Boston may have said to me about vetoing other orders which are before this body, and anything he might have said about the conference at Young's Hotel with those five members whom the President has named as present, had nothing whatever to do with my action to-day. I am voting on this proposition because I believe there is some merit in it and because I believe action is demanded to-day—not because of any newspaper stories about what the Mayor would do or would not do. I take the position I do upon this matter to-day because of the merits of the proposition and because I feel that the City Council should act now, in view of the option which the library trustees have upon this property. I respect the Mayor of the city as long as he is Mayor, and I will confer with him upon matters of public import at any time when I feel it is proper that I should do so. We should all do that. We should all confer with him as members of the City Council. If he is right, it is proper that we should be with him; if he is wrong, we have a right to be against him, as the President of the Council has said. But my action to-day does not in the least depend upon anything he may have said to me personally or to the five members at Young's Hotel, and it does not depend upon any newspaper stories that were printed yesterday. I am in favor of this branch public library building in the North End, because I believe it is a great public necessity and that we should act at once.

President COLLINS in the chair.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I did say to the member from Ward 9 (Coun. Attridge) that I intended calling on the Mayor, and he knew why I was going to call. He should have gone on and finished his remarks in that respect. He knew that I was going to see the Mayor and ask him to take this matter out of taxes. I told him so and I intended telling the Mayor so, until he assumed the prerogative of acting as chairman of the Committee on Finance. He did that, and I now think it is better to let him go on himself. He is doing very well.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I will say that I am not prepared to vote on this order to-day. I consider the library in the North End a very necessary improvement, and I had hoped when the time came to make provisions for it to be ready to vote for it. But under the present condition of the finances of the city I cannot vote to-day to have this amount come out of the money available by loan. I might be able to see my way clear in the course of a week or two. If this matter had been referred to the Committee on Finance, where we could have had a little time to consider it, I should have been very glad to find a way to get the money out of that committee. But I am in favor, as Coun. Kenny of South Boston has said, of taking this amount out of taxes this year. I so stated to the members at that conference referred to at Young's Hotel, Monday last. I stated to the Mayor that if he would present to this body to-day an appropriation order of $85,000 for a library at the North End I should be very glad to vote for it. I shall be very glad to vote for it to-day, next Monday or any day that order comes in. There are other reasons why I am not prepared to vote for this order to-day. I cannot vote against it, because I think it is a very meritorious matter. For that reason I shall refuse to vote either for or against it.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I listened to your remarks about the newspaper articles with a great deal of attention. I think there was a good deal of force in them. I think unquestionably if we pass this order to-day it may add a little bit to the glory of the Mayor. I have no doubt some of our newspaper friends here may have cartoons in the papers to-morrow showing the Mayor snapping a whip and us falling into line. But it seems to me in a matter like this we ought to throw aside our personal feelings, our ideas of personal prestige, making that sacrifice rather than putting off the righteous needs and demands of the people of the North End. For that reason I, for one, am willing to run a chance of having a little less political prestige than I had before, and voting for this, even if the Mayor gains a little glory from it. My brother Ballantyne has stated his position in regard to taking this amount from taxes. I would like to state what my views are, and I cannot state them any better than Coun. Curley put them a while ago. I absolutely agree with his statement that money should be borrowed for permanent improvements and that current improvements should be taken care of out of the tax levy. I cannot emphasize strongly enough the fact that it is just as bad finance to pay out of the tax levy money which should come from loan as to borrow money for current expenses. We have got to decide here how long an improvement is going to last, on the question of whether it is a permanent improvement. If it is a permanent improvement, if we take it out of this year's tax levy we are doing a serious injustice to the taxpayers of this year. If, on the other hand, we horrow money for a current expense, we are causing serious injustice to the taxpayers of years to come. I want to enter right here and now my vigorous protest against spending raised hy tax levy for permanent improvements, for which the money should be horrowed.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I heartily agree with Coun. Hale as to horrowing money for maintenance or for current expenses. I believe that in almost every case a permanent improvement ought to be provided for hy loan. But there are times when the city cannot afford to have those permanent improvements provided for in that way, and if the condition of the city will permit of having those taken from taxes, and still keep the tax rate at a reasonahle amount, I helieve the time has come when we should do it. I want to call Coun. Hale's attention to a little loan order we passed last year. He objects to making loans for current expenses. We had a building destroyed by fire last year, and I think almost every member of this Council agreed that a building destroyed by fire, where the city hecame its own insurer, should he restored out of the tax levy. That huilding was burned after the tax levy was made up last year, and for that reason we could not take the necessary amount out of appropriation. I, although I thought differently, agreed with other memhers of the Council last year in regard to a loan for that improvement, which ought to have come out of taxes. So I think this thing ought to work both ways. The time sometimes comes when the city's finances will not allow of money heing raised for a thing by a loan, and where we can afford to take the amount out of the taxes and still keep the tax rate at a reasonahle figure.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, if ten million dollars in city buildings should go up in smoke some night, do you believe the money to replace those buildings should come out of the tax levy?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Not a great while ago a man, not worth ten million dollars, owned a house and its contents. He was foolish enough to carry no insurance, and when the house was hurned up he went out of husiness. So long as the City of Boston continues to be foolish enough not to make an appropriation for contingencies of that kind, I say that the citizens of Boston living at the time ought to hear the burden.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, that is an answer worthy of a Solomon. I was as wise before I asked the question as after I have received the answer. I wish to say that I was present at the dinner at Young's Hotel. I feel on the question of finances that Coun. Kenny has given us an honest expression of his feelings in the matter. He has honestly expressed his own views. While I do not agree with him,—and prohahly never will,—I helieve what he says is an honest expression of his own views and feelings in this matter and other matters relating to finance. But I want to say, so far as the Mayor swinging a club over the Council is concerned,—and I believe the Chair will recall it,—that that proposition was called to the attention of the Mayor, and the Mayor said he had no such intention. It was simply his desire to hring the matter forcibly to the attention of the members of the Council. He did state, however, that he helieved the Mayor of the city was entitled to at least receive a declination of the members of the Council who could not attend the meeting called for such a purpose by himself, that in the event of their inahility to he present he should be notified of that fact. I helieve, personally, that he was absolutely right in that, and I helieve the Chair and other memhers of the City Council agree with him. A man in the position of Mayor of this city is entitled to that consideration at the hands of the men associated with him in the conduct of the government. So far as the newspaper stories are concerned, I don't know whether he is responsible for them or not, but even if he were it would not affect my attitude on this proposition, hecause I helieve it is a thoroughly meritorious one,—and I believe we have the votes.

The order was given its first reading and passage, yeas 6, nay 1.

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Buckley, Curley, Hale, McDonald, Smith—6. Nay—Coun. Kenny—1.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING, WARD 7.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars he appropriated, to he expended under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Buildings, for land, huilding and equipment for a municipal huilding in Ward 7, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer he authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

MONEY FOR NORTH END LIBRARY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 31, 1911.

To the City Council:

I have just heen in communication with Mr. Benton, president of the Lihrary Trustees, who informs me that the option held by the Lihrary Trustees on the property now occupied hy the Church of St. John the Baptist, on North Bennet street, expires June 15, 1911. The trustees have made an exhaustive study of the conditions existing in the North End section with regard to lihrary facilities and they have embodied their findings in a communication which was transmitted hy me to your honorable body under date of April 1, 1911.

This, in my judgment, is one of the most important matters confronting the city government and I would earnestly recommend the immediate appropriation of the sum of eighty-five thousand dollars ($85,000) from the revenue received from the estate of the late Quincy A. Shaw, as suggested hy the Library Trustees.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of eighty-five thousand dollars ($85,000) he appropriated from the revenue received from the estate of the late Quincy A. Shaw, to be expended under the direction of the Library Trustees, for the purchase of land and the erection of a hranch lihrary on North Bennet street.

Referred to the Committee on Branch Libraries.

SALARY OF PROBATION OFFICER, ROXBURY.

Coun. CURLEY, for the Committee on County Accounts, submitted a report on communication from Justice Williams of the Municipal Court of the Roxbury District of the City of Boston (referred April 24) relative to salary of probation officer—recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That the salary of the male assistant prohation officer of the Municipal Court of the Roxhury District, determined by the justice of said court, at the rate of $1,800 per annum, to begin April 20, 1911, be and the same is herehy approved, the amount so paid to be charged to the appropriation for the County of Suffolk, Municipal Court of the Roxbury District of the City of Boston.

Report accepted; order passed.

FIRE PROTECTION, PARKER HILL.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor he requested to inform the City Council what progress has heen made toward providing suitable fire protection for the Parker Hill section.

Passed.

AUCTION PRICE, CHARLESTOWN CITY HALL.

Coun. ATTRIDGE offered an order—That the city real estate expert be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to inform the Couneil what price, in his opinion, the old Charlestown City Hall huilding would hring if sold at puhlic auction.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I think this order comes in here to-day in rather poor taste. With $30,000 appropriated for a lihrary in Charlestown, and after the declaration we had at Young's Hotel the other day, where the Mayor agreed to recommend any reasonable amount to complete the library building for Charlestown, it seems to me that this matter might very well have laid over, or else that one of the members from the Charlestown district could have introduced it. They have had this $30,000 for several years in Charlestown. While I voted for the North End Library, still the library trustees have not made one step to bring the much needed library to that section of the city, although they have had a good nucleus to start with. As soon as they begin their operations on the new library building in that section of the city the courthouse and the station house in Charlestown can be amply provided for in the present building, which is better constructed than any building they are putting up in these days. There is much of interest in that building to the people of Charlestown, and I don't know that we want to sell it. It was owned by Charlestown when it was a city. It was the old City Hall over there. It is a valuable piece of property, and the best piece of property that the City of Boston could own for certain municipal purposes, and why the city should contemplate or should think of selling it is more than I can understand. It is the ideal spot for a courthouse and station house. I hope the order will not pass. It seems to me, in any event, that it should have been offered by a Charlestown member.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

INVITATION FOR CITY PLANNING CONFERENCE.

Coun. HALE called up No. 6, special assignment, viz.:

6. Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested, in the name and behalf of the City of Boston, to extend an invitation for the holding of the City Planning Conference for the year 1912 in the City of Boston.

The question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, in accordance with my suggestion at the last meeting I undertook to inquire just what the financial end of this might mean, and with that in view I addressed a letter to the city of Philadelphia. I have the reply from the mayor's office, saying that my communication has been referred to one of the departments and that I will hear in due course of time. The further reply has not yet reached me. But I have heard—not officially, it is merely the opinion of one of the recent visitors there—that the expenses of the city of Philadelphia in connection with the holding of that City Planning Convention must be in the neighborhood of $25,000 or $30,000. The matter of the convention itself, as to where it shall be held, is still in the hands of the committee and is being considered. I do not feel like voting for this order at present. I did all I could to inform myself as to what the cost of the convention to the City of Boston is likely to be, and at the present time I am not prepared to vote upon the matter. I hope it will lie over for another week.

Coun. HALE—Can you tell me how far the committee has gone along, and when they will probably decide on the city?

Coun. KENNY—I cannot answer that question.

Coun. HALE—I shall be glad to have the matter assigned for a week, if the councilor would like that assignment.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it may be interesting to know that this exhibit is still going on, in spite of rumors circulated to the contrary last week. It is not concluded until the 15th of June. So possibly one week may not be too long a time to put it over. It will be impossible to tell what the cost will be until it is concluded. That is possibly why Coun. Kenny's letter was referred and why a definite answer has been delayed.

On motion of Coun. HALE the matter was further assigned to the meeting a week from Tuesday.

SIDEWALK, GAYLORD STREET.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along the southerly side of Gaylord street, between Washington and Chamberlain streets, Ward 20, in front of the estates bordering thereon; said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 437 of the Acts of 1893.

Passed.

PAYMENT TO LORENZO D. PERKINS.

President COLLINS called up special assignment No. 5, viz.:

5. Ordered, That there be allowed and paid to Lorenzo D. Perkins the sum of five hundred dollars for expenses incurred in suit against him for act as officer at the House of Correction, Deer Island, said sum to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, Penal Institutions Department, House of Correction.

The order was passed.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted, at 4.56 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by the President at 6.27 o'clock p. m.

TRANSFER OF LAND.

Coun. SMITH, for the Committee on Public Lands, submitted a report on order (referred May 1) that strip of tree-planted land lying on the east side of Elm Hill avenue, between Schuyler and Seaver streets, Ward 21, be transferred from the Public Works Department to the Superintendent of Public Grounds—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted, the order was read a second time, and the question came on its passage.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I am a member of the Committee on Public Lands, and this is the first I have heard of the order. The committee may have had a meeting, but I knew nothing of it. So I move that this matter be laid over to the next meeting.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I spoke to Coun. Buckley about this during the intermission, in the executive meeting, and understood that he gave his consent. I regret that he did not understand just what I referred to.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I would like to know when Coun. Ballantyne introduced the order, and what the order was.

(The Clerk read the order, introduced May 1, 1911.)

On motion of Coun. BUCKLEY the order was laid over to the next meeting of tbe Council.

REMOVAL OF CITY DEPARTMENTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I heg to recommend the passage of the accom-panying order, providing for the transfer of seven-teen thousand eight hundred and ten dollars ($17,810) from the Reserve Fund to the appro-priation for Public Buildings Department. This expenditure is rendered necessary on account of the need of removing the city departments now located in the Old Court House to temporary quarters. The accompanying letter of the Superintendent of Puhlic Buildings gives the items in detail and I indorse his suggestion that the matter should receive immediate attention from your honorahle hody, in order that there may he no delay in the progress of the work.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

—

Office of Public Buildings Department,
June 10, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Regarding the matter of providing quarters for and moving the several departments of the city which are now located in the Old Court House huilding preparatory to erection of the new annex to City Hall, I wish to advise you that I estimate that the sum of seventeen thousand eight hundred ten dollars ($17,810) will he required for this purpose and respectfully request that the City Council provide the said sum, the same to he added to the present appropriation of this department.

The items of amount, as estimated, are as follows:

Rental of new quarters from July 1 to January 1	$9,000 00

BRANCH LIBRARY, DORCHESTER.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 3, 1911.

To the City Council:

In reply to an order passed at the meeting of May 1, 1911, requesting the Library Trustees to consider the expediency of locating a branch library and reading room in the vicinity of Savin Hill avenue and Sydney street, Dorchester, and to submit an estimate of the cost, I beg to transmit a communication from the president of the Library Trustees under date of June 1, 1911.

City of Boston,
Public Library, June 1, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Sir,—To the order of the City Council, under date of May 1, 1911, requesting the Library Trustees, through your Honor, "to consider the expediency of locating a branch library and reading room in the vicinity of Savin Hill avenue and Sydney street, Dorchester, and to submit to the City Council, at their earliest convenience, an estimate of the cost of the same," the trustees of the Public Library reply as follows:

The matter was referred to the librarian for examination and report thereupon to the trustees, and the Board has considered his report and the entire subject fully.

Citizens of the vicinity have before applied to the Board for the establishment of a library station as contemplated by this order, and the application is one of a number made by citizens in different parts of the city, some of which appear to have at least equal merit with this. The trustees have examined all of these applications with care, but have not seen their way clear to recommend at present the establishment of any new stations, in view of the expense of fitting up and maintaining them, and the need of further improving the service given to the public at the reading rooms which already exist.

The expense of opening a new reading room station as proposed in the order would be from $2,500 to $3,000 for fittings and books, and the annual cost of maintenance would be approximately $2,000.

Respectfully,
The Trustees of the Public Library
of the City of Boston,
by J. H. BENTON, President.

Referred to Committee on Branch Libraries.

ANNUITY FOR MRS. COYNE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 2, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, which accepts and renders operative chapter 475 of the Acts of 1911, a copy of which is inclosed herewith, authorizing the city to pay an annuity not exceeding three hundred dollars ($300) for a period not exceeding ten years to the widow and children of Michael J. Coyne, who died from injuries received in the performance of his duties as an employee of the Sewer Department. This case is one of peculiar hardship in that the deceased left a large family of young children who will be unable to contribute to their own support or that of their mother for many years to come. He bore an excellent reputation and it seems to be the duty of the City Council to confirm the act of the Legislature authorizing this small measure of relief to the unfortunate widow and children.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

To the City Council:

I heg to recommend the accompanying order authorizing the release of certain easements and restrictions upon the lots therein specified on Boylston and Providence streets. SOIL RENOVATION, BOSTON COMMON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 12, 1911.

To the City Council:

I heg to suggest that the Parkman Fund Committee investigate the present conditions on Boston Common, with a view to providing an appropriation for the continuance of the work of soil renovation which is now in progress there. While other parks should not be neglected the Common has a peculiar claim upon those who are entrusted with the expenditure of this fund, on account of the attachment which Mr. Parkman felt toward it and exhihited hy his long residence in the vicinity of that historic spot. I helieve that the sum of forty thousand dollars ($40,000) is the least that can he expended to advantage on this work and trust that the Parkman Fund Committee will recommend the appropriation of this amount.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

ADDITIONAL BUILDINGS, CITY HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 12, 1911.

To the City Council:

In forwarding the accompanying communication from the president of the Board of Hospital Trustees, setting forth the urgent need of greater accommodations for the South Department, and asking for an appropriation of two hundred ninety-seven thousand eight hundred dollars ($297,800), I can add little to what was said in my letter of Fehruary 17, 1911. The purchase of the Paine property logically involves the erection of additional buildings upon it, and the plan outlined in the letter of the president of the Hospital Trustees is prohably as satisfactory as any that could he made. I invite your earnest attention to this subject and helieve that the question is one of the most important that are now before your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

—

The Boston City Hospital,
Boston, June 9, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston,
and the Honorable City Council:

Gentlemen,—On Decemher 2, 1910, I addressed a communication to your Honor (of which the inclosed is a copy) setting forth the increasing need of greater accommodations for the South Department, and asking for an appropriation of $297,800 for new buildings, changes and additions, as itemized therein, to which I again respectfully refer. Since that time the demand for accommodations for the care of patients ill with infectious diseases has heen constantly increasing, and we have reached a point where this department is practically filled to its utmost capacity, and further accommodations are immediately needed.

If we compare foreign cities with Boston, we shall find that in London, in Glasgow and in continental cities there are accommodations for patients ill with infectious discases, giving each patient 1,500 cuhic feet of air space for 9 out of every 10,000 of the population. In Boston there are accommodations for only 3 out of every 10,000 of the population. The importance of this air space cannot be overestimated. The number of cases of cross infection is very much increased when a hospital is crowded. Aside from that, patients with limited space do not do as well as where they have an abundant supply of air space. Additional accommodations are therefore greatly needed for the care of scarlet fever patients.

Anyone familiar with the history of infectious diseases in Boston for the past fifteen years must be convinced of the wonderful amount of good accomplished by the South Department during that time. For example, the death rate at the Boston City Hospital previous to the days of antitoxin for cases of laryngeal diphtheria was about 85 per cent.

In all cases of diphtheria the percentage of mortality from 1895 to 1909 has been 10.70, as compared with 43.20 before the opening of the South Department. In 1894, 18 people out of every 10,000 in Boston died from diphtheria; in 1910, two and a fraction.

It is well to bear in mind that the average ratio of mortality per 10,000 of the population in Boston from scarlet fever previous to the opening of the South Department was 2.87. The average ratio of mortality from 1895 to 1909, inclusive, was 1.61, a diminution of nearly one-half. If every patient who applied for treatment could have been promptly taken into the hospital, the ratio of mortality and ratio of morbidity would have been very much reduced.

In the new building at the South Department it is intended to have a roof garden, in order that the children may have the benefit of open-air treatment. It is also intended to have open-air wards in the buildings already erected, which is covered by the items refeiring to changes in the east and west pavilions.

The accommodations for laundry work at the South Department must he increased, and therefore an additional story must be added to the laundry building, as the laundry, heing of an infectious nature, must be done on the premises.

The alterations to the Paine Buildings, the connecting corridors, pipes and tunnels and the yard wall are all items that become necessary with the additional buildings and enlargements.

A second and very important reason why additional buildings should be erected is the fact that the accommodations for nurses are inadequate. It is also important that there should be separate dining rooms for nurses who have the care of the different infectious diseases. In foreign hospitals and in the new hospital just erected in Philadelphia these provisions have been made.

The treatment of infectious diseases is not a charity, in the common acceptance of the word, hut it is an element of public safety, and it is as much demanded by the public as a fire department or a police department. It is a disgrace to any municipality to have an epidemic of an infectious disease. Boston should be able to control any epidemic of the three principal infectious diseases namely, diphtheria, scarlet fever and measles.

Within the past two or three years the City of Boston has paid to other hospitals for the treatment of patients ill with infectious diseases about $33,000. The average price of board at these hospitals is ahout $10 a week, whereas at the South Department the past year, deducting money received from paying patients and from cities and towns, it has been $3.94.

In conclusion, the trustees, realizing the great responsibilities that rest upon them and upon the city government, most earnestly call the attention of your Honor and the honorable City Council to the crying need of these new buildings, and urgently request the earliest consideration of this loan appropriation.

I have the honor to remain, on behalf of the trustees,

Very respectfully yours,
A. SHUMAN,
President Board of Trustees.

The Boston City Hospital,
Boston, December 2, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the Board of Trustees to-day the matter of an appropriation for the construction of buildings on the ground lately purchased from the Robert Treat Paine estate was considered.

The constant increase in the population of the City of Boston necessarily increases the number of infectious diseases. During the past three years the city has suffered so much from these vexatious diseases that the South Department has been overcrowded for a portion of each yeai. Its normal capacity is 250 patients, but the stress has been so great that at times this number has been increased to 400 to the detriment of the welfare of the patients. In addition to this the city has been ohliged to board out a great many patients at the Haines Hospital and other institutions during the time mentioned, which is not only detrimental to the public health but adds materially to the expense of caring for the patients over the cost to the hospital management within its sphere.

It is therefore of the utmost importance that adequate provision should be made for the treatment of this class of diseases, and to properly take care of all applicants ill with diphtheria, scarlet fever and measles.

It is a source of satisfaction to the trustees that Boston was the first city to establish a separate hospital for infectious diseases. Your Honor may possibly remember that about three years ago, during your former administration, an appeal was made to you for a measles pavilion. You generously and with a full appreciation of the importance of this ward recommended the necessary sum for its erection. This measles pavilion has accomplished a great deal of good and has filled a long-felt want, for until its erection there was no place to send a patient ill with measles.

The trustees feel, therefore, that your Honor as well as the honorable City Council will recognize the importance of enlarging the accommodations at the South Department at the earliest possible moment. After carefully considering the matter and going over several plans that have been submitted for their inspection, the trustees most respectfully ask your Honor to recommend a loan appropriation of $297,800 for new buildings, changes and additions at the South Department, approximated as follows:

Changes in east pavilion	$6,000 00
Changes in west pavilion	6,000 00
Additional story to laundry building	14,800 00
New six-story ward building	196,000 00
Alterations to Paine buildings	33,000 00
Connecting corridors and pipes and tunnels	20,000 00
Yard wall	8,000 00
Contingent and administrative expenses	14,000 00
	$297,800 00

The trustees, fully appreciating your Honor's great interest in the hospital and your co-operation for the welfare and alleviation of the sick, and especially for those unfortunately stricken with contagion, ask you kindly to recommend to the honorable Council the appropriation of the above mentioned sum.

I have the honor to remain, on behalf of the trustees,

Respectfully yours,
A. SHUMAN,
President Board of Trustees.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

DISPOSITION OF REFUSE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the secretary of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by a report of the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, containing certain recommendations for the disposition of refuse and garbage in this city.

Boston Chamber of Commerce, June 5, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Sir,— I inclose herewith a report of the Committee on Municipal and Metropolitan Affairs in reference to the proposals for the disposal of the city's garbage and refuse, recommending that the present proposals be rejected and that new bids be asked for on the basis of specifications to he drawn up by the Commissioner of Public Works. If this is done it will enable the Commissioner of Public Works to make a fair comparison of the various bids submitted, as they will all have to conform to definite specifications, as is customary in awarding any large contract.

Yours very truly,
JAMES A. McKIBBEN, Secretary.

June 2, 1911.

To the Executive Committee and Board of Directors:

The Committee on Municipal and Metropolitan Affairs has carefully examined the various proposals recently submitted to the City of Boston for the disposal of the city's refuse and garbage. As these bids were not based on any official specifications, your committee has obtained an expert analysis of the actual cost which would be laid upon the city under each of the schemes of disposal submitted, and, besides considering the statements from several of the bidders, has conferred with Commissioner Rourke upon the merits and defects of the different plans from the standpoint of his office.

The committee recommends that the Chamber urge the Commissioner of Public Works not to approve any of the proposals submitted, and suggests that he obtain authority to call for new proposals, based upon a definite set of specifications to be drafted by the commissioner. It is the opinion of your committee that these specifications should be accompanied by a complete form of the contract which the successful bidder would be required to sign; and the specifications should be so framed as to allow separate contracts for the disposal of garbage and of refuse. After conferring with Commissioner Rourke upon the various phases of the situation, your committee has come to the conclusion that the specifications should stipulate for the city's ownership both of the reduction plant at which the garbage is utilized and of the various collecting stations, wherever these may be placed throughout the city.

Your committee has reason to believe that if new proposals are called for along the lines above indicated, several propositions more favorable to the city than those now at hand will be forthcoming.

Respectfully submitted.

REPLACEMENT OF STEAMER "VIGILANT."

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit two letters from the division engineer of the Bridge and Ferry Division of the Department of Public Works, setting forth the need of an appropriation for the replacement of the steamer "Vigilant," now in use by the Health Department, and furnishing an estimate of the cost of a steamer adequate to perform the work of that boat. In accordance with the recommendations of the division engineer I have drafted and recommend for passage the accompanying order, which provides for an appropriation of forty-eight thousand dollars ($48,000) for a new boat in the service of the Health Department.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

—

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
Bridge and Ferry Division,
May 27, 1911.

Mr. Louis K. Rourke,
Commissioner Public Works:

Dear Sir,—By direction of his Honor the Mayor, I made an examination on May 26 of the Health Department steamer "Vigilant," which at the time was hauled out at a marine railway at the Atlantic Works, East Boston. As a result of the examination I beg to submit the following report:

The "Vigilant" is a wooden boat which has been in service twenty-five years. The frame of the hull is sheathed with plank on the inside, and the hull timbers can be seen only by removing this sheathing or the outer hull planking. At the time of my visit, certain outer planks had been removed from different parts of the hull just below the water line, thus permitting an examination to be made of a considerable number of frame timbers, as well as of portions of the hull planking.

Every timber which I could examine of the hull framework was found to be rotten. In some cases the decay has not yet become serious; in others the timbers are so badly decayed that the planking cannot be fastened to them. The planking itself is somewhat decayed on the inside, next the timbers. It is reasonable to suppose that the condition of the parts of the hull thus exposed is typical of the whole hull.

It is my opinion (1) that the wooden hull of the boat has been seriously weakened by decay; (2), that the boat in its present condition is liable to severe damage by collision such as might occur in a rough sea between the "Vigilant" and another steamer which the health officers were attempting to board, and (3), that the boat can be put into strong condition suitable for several years' service only by practically rebuilding the entire hull, an expense which I consider unwarranted in this case.

I recommend (1), that only such repairs to hull and machinery be made as are absolutely necessary to permit the boat to be continued in service for such period as will be required for the building of a new boat (about six or seven months); (2), that after these repairs are made the boat be used only within the limits of the harbor, and (3), that the "Vigilant" be replaced by another boat as soon as practicable.

Respectfully,
FREDERIC H. FAY,
Division Engineer.

—

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
Bridge and Ferry Division,
June 5, 1911.

Mr. L. K. Rourke,
Commissioner Public Works:

Dear Sir,—In case the Health Department steamer "Vigilant" is to be replaced by a new boat I recommend that an appropriation of forty-eight thousand ($48,000) dollars be made for this purpose. This sum I consider sufficient to provide a plain and well built boat of moderate speed having the same length and a slightly greater beam than the "Vigilant"; a boat such as will best meet the needs of the Health Department.

Respectfully,
FREDERIC H. FAY,
Division Engineer.

Ordered, That the sum of forty-eight thousand dollars ($48,000) be and hereby is appropriated, to be expended by the Board of Health in the construction of a new steamer to take the place of the steamer "Vigilant," and that the City Treasurer be authorized, with the approval of the Mayor, to issue bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Office of the Mayor, June 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

In connection with the letter forwarded to your honorable body, under date of May 22, from W. T. A. Fitzgerald, Esq., Register of Deeds, requesting an appropriation of one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars ($1,250) for hot water service in the new Registry of Deeds, I have drafted and recommend for passage the accompanying order authorizing the City Auditor to transfer this amount from the Reserve Fund.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars ($1,250) be transferred from the appropriation for Reserve Fund to the appropriation for County of Suffolk County Buildings, to be expended for hot water apparatus in the Registry of Deeds.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

TRANSFER OF APPROPRIATION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, transferring the sum of five hundred and sixty-four dollars and seventy-one cents from the appropriation for Reserve Fund to the special appropriation for Northern avenue and Sleeper street. A letter from the Commissioner of Public Works, explaining the necessity of this transfer, is appended hereto.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
City Hall, June 3, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

There is due the contractor for laying asphalt sidewalks on Northern Avenue Bridge, $564 71. This work was completed November 30, 1908, but payment has never been made because the late City Engineer was not satisfied with the quality of the work. It has now been decided to make final payment as the interests of the city are sufficiently protected by a ten-year maintenance guarantee bond. The entire work was done under a special appropriation for Northern avenue and Sleeper street, and I respectfully suggest that provision be made for transfer to the amount of $564.71 to cover the deficit.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer the sum of five hundred and sixty-four dollars from the appropriation for Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Northern avenue and Sleeper street.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

USE OF GOVERNOR'S ISLAND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit the accompanying letter from Maj. Gen. F. D. Grant, commanding the Department of the East. The previous communication under date of February 8, referred to in General Grant's letter, was forwarded to your honorable body at its meeting of February 20 and referred to the Executive Committee, which appears not to have made any report upon the subject. General Grant's request that information asked for in his earlier letter be furnished without delay seems to be one that should be honored with immediate compliance, and I beg to recommend that the City Council take such action as may enable me to supply him with the data which he needs for the carrying out of the instructions of the War Department.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Headquarters Department of the East,
Inspector General's Office,
Governor's Island, New York City,
June 3, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor of Boston, Mass.:

Sir,—With reference to letter from these headquarters of February 8, 1911, addressed to you, quoting an extract from a report of an inspection of Fort Winthrop, Governor's Island, Boston, Mass., made November 1, 1910, by Maj. Gordon G. Heiner, Coast Artillery Corps, Acting Inspector General, with extract from an indorsement by the Chief of Engineers, U. S. Army, on said report, and an inclosure thereto, in which request was made that these headquarters be informed whether or not the City of Boston intended to take advantage of the permission given in a joint resolution, approved June 5, 1902, quoted in the letter, to improve and beautify Governor's Island, Boston Harbor, in connection with other works therein authorized, I have the honor to inform you that certain papers are held at these headquarters pending the receipt of your reply, which the War Department desires returned at the earliest practicable date. As it is impracticable to comply with these instructions until you are heard from in the premises, it is requested that the information asked for in my letter of February 8, 1911, mentioned above, be furnished without further delay, or that, if impracticable to do this, I be notified accordingly.

Very respectfully,
F. D. GRANT,
Major General Commanding.

Referred to the Committee on Governor's Island.

TRANSFER TO DOVER STREET BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—For the reasons given in the appended communications from the Commissioner of Public Works and the division engineer of the Bridge and Ferry Division, I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order authorizing the City Auditor to transfer the use of $2,000 from the appropriation of Neponset Bridge Rebuilding to the appropriation for Dover Street Bridge.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Public Works Department,
June 13, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In accordance with inclosed request of Division Engineer Fay of the Bridge and Ferry Division, I respectfully recommend a transfer of the sum of $2,000 from the appropriation for Neponset Bridge to the appropriation for Dover Street Bridge.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Public Works Department,
Bridge and Ferry Division, June 10, 1911.

Mr. L. K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,—Because of the cost of repairs for damage caused by fire at Dover Street Bridge last fall and of the necessity of rebuilding eleven dangerously corroded floor beams near the draw landing, whose condition could not be determined until the bridge floor was removed, the appropriation for repairs at this bridge will not be sufficient to cover the cost of work which should be done, I therefore recommend that the sum of $2,000 be transferred from the appropriation for Neponset Bridge to Dover Street Bridge appropriation. The balance on hand June 1, 1911 of the Neponset Bridge appropriation was $8,953.32. The cost of rebuilding the fender piers at Neponset Bridge for which a contract has been made, including engineering and inspection, will not exceed $6,500. A transfer of $2,000 can therefore be safely made and still leave sufficient amount for all work needed at Neponset Bridge.

Respectfully,
FRENERIC H. FAY,
Division Engineer.

Ordered, That the City Auditor be authorized to transfer the sum of $2,000 from the appropriation for Neponset Bridge Rebuilding to the appropriation for Dover Street Bridge.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

LOAN FOR SYSTEM OF DRAINAGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

Among the bills presented on my petition to the General Court during the present session was one designed to limit the amount of the loan made mandatory under chapter 485 of the Acts of 1907, for a separate system of drainage within the water shed of the Charles River Basin. Under the provisions of that act it was necessary for the city to horrow ahout seven hundred thousand dollars ($700,000) this year, hut the engineers of the Department of Puhlic Works have estimated that the sum of four hundred thousand dollars ($400,000) was about all that could he expended to advantage and that it would he preferahle to use the borrowing capacity of the city for an increase of the regular sewerage loan. The hill, which is House Bill No. 1295, has not yet heen passed and rather than permit any delay, which I am assured by the Commissioner of Public Works is extremely detrimental to the efficiency of the work itself, I desire to recommend the immediate passage of the accompanying order, which provides for a loan to the amount of four hundred thousand dollars ($400,000), which is the limit set in the hill.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of four hundred thousand ($400,000) be appropriated for the construction of sewerage works within the water shed of the Charles River Basin, heing a portion of the amount required in chapter 485 of the Acts of 1907; and that the City Treasurer he authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, honds of the City of Boston to said amount for said purpose.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

REVENUE FROM SHAW ESTATE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 31, 1911.

To the City Council:

I heg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order which appropriates the revenue received from the Quincy A. Shaw estate as a part of the Reserve Fund.

Respectfully,
JOHN F FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the revenue rceeived from the estate of the late Quincy A. Shaw be appropriated as a part of, and added to, the Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 12, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, providing that the sum of thirteen thousand dollars ($13,000) he appropriated from the Reserve Fund, to he expended under the direction of the Superintendent of Puhlic Buildings, for the purpose of carrying out a program for the extended use of school buildings, suggested by the Boston Home and School Association and Boston–1915.

A request for this expenditure was addressed to me under date of March 25 by the executive director of Boston–1915, who also acted as chairman of the committee on the Further Use of School Buildings of the Boston Home and School Association. Suhsequent letters dated April 8 and June 6 have reiterated his sense of the importance of an appropriation which should render possihle the opening of school buildings in different parts of the city after the regular school sessions. Various civic organizations have endorsed the proposition and there is no douht of the very extensive popular demand for a fuller utilization of our splendid school plant, which is valued by the assessors at twenty million dollars.

While my sympathies were enlisted in this movement at an early date it seemed to me that the proper department to take up this work was the School Committee rather than any of the departments under the direct control of the Mayor and City Council. Acting under this conviction I forwarded the letter of Mr. Munroe to the Boston Finance Commission with the request that that body report whether the experiment was advisahle and if so, what department of the city in their opinion should hear the expense. The Finance Commission expressed itself as favorahle to the plan but referred to the School Committee the question of cost and of the terms and conditions under which such use should be permitted. The School Committee reported directly to the Mayor and stated that it was unahle to proceed further in the direction suggested without additional revenue. As this question was hound up with the general issue of school finances, upon an investigation of which the Finance Commission had heen engaged for ahout a year, I forwarded the reply of the School Committee to the Finance Commission, requesting it to report specifically upon this point and to state whether it agreed with the opinion of the School Board that there were no funds availahle in the appropriation and revenue of that body for this purpose. My communication was acknowledged but no further reply has been made, although two months have elapsed since that date.

Under the circumstances, I am still of the opinion that this is properly within the province of the School Committee and believe that incidentally it would henefit the school system itself since it would tend to familiarize parents with the interior arrangement and atmosphere of the school huildings and to awaken their interest in the school work. The disinclination of that Board, however, to provide for this interesting extension of its work, and the failure of the Finance Commission to furnish the advice which might properly he expected from it, seem to make it necessary for the City Council to appropriate additional money for the purpose. I believe that this form of adult education, which has already been established in other cities with great success, is sure to develop in Boston and I trust that your honorahle hody will, by prompt action upon the accompanying order, attach to itself the credit of having initiated a new chapter in the educational progress of our city.

The entire correspondence with the Finance Commission and the School Committee, together with the letters from the representatives of the Boston Home and School Association and Boston–1915, and various resolutions endorsing their program, sent in hy civie organizations, are appended hereto.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

(Annexed was correspondence referred to.)

Ordered, That in accordance with the provisions of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893, the City Auditor be and herehy is authorized, with the approval of the Mayor, to transfer the sum of thirteen thousand dollars ($13,000) from the appropriation for Reserve Fund to an appropriation for Extended Use of School Buildings, to he expended under the control of the Superintendent of Puhlie Buildings.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

FIRE PROTECTION, PARKER HILL.

The following was received:

City of Boston.
Office of the Mayor, June 13, 1911

To the City Council:

In compliance with the request contained in an order passed hy your honorable hody at its meeting of May 31, to the effect "that his Honor the Mayor be requested to inform the City Council what progress has heen made toward providing suitahle fire protection for the Parker Hill section," I beg to transmit communications from the Fire Commissioner, the secretary of the Street Laying-Out Department, and the Commissioner of Puhlie Works, showing that the city has taken steps to provide a road free from excessive grades upon the northern slope of the hill, to install an automohile chemical and hose wagon in the quarters of Engine 37, and to lay a separate water main under Parker Hill avenue in front of the hospital property situated thereon.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Headquarters Fire Department,
June 5, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your communication of June 3, directing that I furnish you with information as to the work done hy this department to provide suitable fire protection for the Parker Hill section and the cost thereof.

Under date of February 17 I forwarded to your office a letter recommending certain measures to be taken to better the fire protection of the Parker Hill district. These measures were:

First. A road free from excessive grades upon the northern slope of the hill.

Second. The installation of an automobile chemical hose wagon in the quarters of Engine 37.

Third. The installation of a separate water main along Parker Hill avenue in front of the hospital property thereon and connecting with a stationary pump in the quarters of the Robert B. Brigham Hospital.

A copy of this letter is inclosed herewith.

The following action has resulted from these recommendations:

First. The road on the northern slope of the hill is in process of construction

Second. This office, under date of February 17, forwarded to your office requests for permission to enter into a contract with the American La France Fire Engine Company for the purchase of an automobile chemical hose wagon to be installed in the quarters of Engine 37.

Third. The Department of Public Works is in consultation with the trustees of the Robert B. Brigham Hospital with the idea of adjusting the necessary details with respect to the installation of a pump and water main on the top of the hill.

I am informed by the Public Works Department that the cost of the pipe and necessary hydrants for the separate water main will probably be about $4,000. The cost of the automobile chemical hose wagon to be placed in the quarters of Engine 37, temporarily, will be $5,500. I am not informed as to the cost of the road up the hill.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES D. DALY,
Fire Commissioner.

—

City of Boston,
Headquarters Fire Department,
February 17, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Sir,— I have the honor to forward the following recommendations with respect to fire protection on Parker Hill:

First. That a first-class macadam road be built on the northern slope of the hill, in the construction of which excessive grades be avoided.

Second. That an automobile chemical hose wagon be installed in the quarters of Engine Company 37. I inclose herewith requests for permission to enter into contract for the purchase of this automobile.

Third. That the Department of Public Works consult with the trustees of the Robert B. Brigham Hospital with the idea of preparing plans for a separate water main from the power station of the Robert B. Brigham Hospital to Parker Hill avenue and along Parker Hill avenue to the end of the hospital property thereon.

In connection with this recommendation I desire to state that I have consulted the authorities in charge of this hospital, and I have been informed unofficially that they probably would be very glad to co-operate in the installation of this system.

They state that they could provide the necessary room for such a pump and could give it the constant attention demanded in connection with the regular management of their own power plant. They suggest that the matter should be taken up immediately as it is proposed to complete the plans for the hospital in the immediate future.

I beg to point out that this would constitute very effective fire service for this badly exposed situation, without any heavy expenditure of money.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES D. DALY,
Fire Commissioner.

City of Boston,
Street Laying-Out Department,

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor:

Dear Sir,—Replying to your letter of the 3d instant, in which you inquire as to the work done by this department toward providing suitable protection against fire for the Parker Hill section and the cost thereof, the Board of Street Commissioners has to say that it has, with your approval, ordered the extension of Sachem street to Parker Hill avenue. This extension was agreed upon by all the parties in interest on the top of Parker Hill as affording the best grade to reach the top of the hill. The Board understands that the Commissioner of Public Works is about to enter upon the construction of the street, which will probably be completed during the summer. It is estimated that the cost of constructing this street will be about $45,000.

Very truly yours,
J. J. O'CALLAGHAN, Secretary.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
City Hall, June 13, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In answer to your letter of June 3, inclosing order of City Council relative to fire protection for Parker Hill section, kindly note attached reports of the division engineer in charge of the Sewer and Water Division.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

—

Public Works Department,
Sewer and Water Division,
Boston, March 7, 1911.

L. K. Rourke, Esq.,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,— In answer to letter from William A. Leahy, secretary to his Honor the Mayor, of the 20th ultimo, regarding fire protection at Parker Hill, I beg to say that a complete estimate and report cannot be made at the present time, for neither the New England Trust Company, who under court order are erecting the building as trustees, nor Shepley, Rutan & Coolidge, the architects, are in a position at the present time to talk over the details of their power plant. It will cost about $4,000 to install the necessary mains and hydrants to protect the Brigham, Baptist, Cushing and Women's Hospitals. The pipe would extend from the proposed power station of the Brigham Hospital near Fisher avenue and Hayden street, through the land of the Brigham Hospital to Parker Hill avenue, and thence along Parker Hill avenue to the Women's Hospital; about 1,450 feet of 10-inch pipe will be needed with six hydrants. It will manifestly be desirable that the pump or pumps to be installed by the hospital authorities for their own service be suited as well for this proposed fire service.

Very respectfully,
F. A. MCINNES,
Division Engineer

Public Works Department,
Sewer and Water Division,
Boston, May 24, 1911.

L. K. Rourke, Esq.,
Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,— In the matter of fire protection for Parker Hill, I respectfully suggest that a letter be addressed to J. R. Hooper, chairman trustees of Robert Brigham Hospital, setting forth just what is desired from the trustees in the matter of fire protection. I am informed the Fire Commissioner has already written Mr. Hooper asking that a space not less than 15 by 10 by 10 be provided for a pump in the power station of the hospital; a further necessity would be the right to lay and maintain a pipe in a strip of land along the westerly line of the Brigham lot, between Fisher avenue and Parker Hill avenue. This right of way it has been customary to make 8 feet wide. I inclose a sketch showing by red line the location of the right of way required. I make the above suggestion after having been informed by Mr. Hooper that he would like to have a definite proposition in writing.

Very respectfully,
F. A. MCINNES,
Division Engineer.

COST OF ISSUING MINORS' LICENSES.

The following was received:

June 5, 1911.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—In reply to your request, dated May 3, 1911, the Finance Commission respectfully submits the following report on the comparative cost of issuing and regulating minors' licenses by the School Committee through the Supervisor of Licensed Minors attached to the office of the Superintendent of Schools, and by the City Council through the Superintendent of Licensed Minors attached to the office of the City Clerk.

Up to about one year ago the total cost to the School Committee of performing this work, as well as the cost per license, was much less than the cost of similar service then performed through the office of the Clerk of Committees of the City Council. Thus, the average cost to the School Committee for issuing about 2,500 licenses was about $2,100 a year, and the cost to the Clerk of Committees Department for issuing about 2,000 licenses was about $6,000 a year. Several changes affecting the cost in both these departments have taken place in the past year.

Since the office of Clerk of Committees was abolished by the Charter Amendments of 1909 (chapter 486, section 1), the work has been done by the City Council with the aid of the Superintendent of Licensed Minors who, as already stated, is attached to the office of the City Clerk, and of other employees of the City Clerk's office. Two employees of the Clerk of Committees Department who formerly assisted in this work, and whose annual salaries aggregated $2,400, have been transferred to the Street Laying-Out Department and given other duties, and the salary of the superintendent has been reduced from $2,000 to $1,500 a year, thus reducing the total cost of the work $2,900 a year. The cost per license has been correspondingly reduced.

Meanwhile the total cost to the School Committee has remained substantially the same, as, unlike the Clerk of Committees, the School Committee had no superfluous employees to eliminate, nor any unnecessarily high salaries to reduce. The cost per license has increased, however, owing to the changes the School Committee has made in the system of issuing the licenses. Thus, the licenses which were formerly issued annually are now issued for a period which ends when the minor attains the age of fourteen years, and consequently the term of the license has increased from one year to an average of about three years. This change operates in two ways to increase the per license cost to the School Committee. It reduces the total number of licenses issued annually, thereby increasing the gross cost per license, as the total expense of the work remains substantially the same as when a larger number of licenses were issued. It also increases the net cost of the work as the School Committee bought and still buys licensed minors' badges for 8⅓ cents apiece and charges 25 cents apiece for them, and the profits have been diminished in proportion to the reduction in the total number of licenses issued each year.

It should he noted that the increased cost per license issued through the School Committee is a bookkeeping increase merely, and that there has been no substantial increase in the total expense of the work, nor any diminution in efficiency as the result of issuing longer term licenses. On the contrary, the change has relieved the schoolmasters of much useless routine work that was performed under the old system without reducing the amount of supervision exercised over the licensed minors. On the other hand, the supervision exercised by the Superintendent of Licensed Minors attached to the City Clerk Department has been in some degree diminished by the elimination of the two employees who, as already stated, have been transferred to the Street Laying-Out Department.

The commission has made the foregoing explanation in order that the City Council may know the reasons for the present greater cost per license to the School Committee than the cost when it issued the licenses annually, as well as the cause of the present greater cost to the School Committee than the present cost of issuing licenses through the City Council.

The comparative costs at the present time are as follows:

	City Council.	School Committee.
Salary of superintendent or supervisor	$1,500 00	$1,400 00
Clerical and office assistants,	205 00	625 00
Printing	48 00	12 00
Postage	4 00	42 00
Car tickets	.....	42 50
Other supplies	22 00	4 00
Telephone	.....	20 00
		$2,145 50
Less profit on 850 badges		141 66
Total	$1,779 00	$2,003 84
Per license cost:
School Committee... 850		$2 35
City Council..... 1,700	$1 04

These figures represent the approximate, not the actual costs, as all the items of expense cannot be ascertained with absolute accuracy. For example, in the issue of these licenses the full time of a clerk is not required either by the City Council or by the School Committee, and the proportion of clerical assistance is therefore given in each case only as an estimate. So, also, such stationery and supplies as are needed in connection with the licenses are taken from the general supplies of the School and City Clerk Departments, and there is no means of determining their exact cost to each department. Nor is there any satisfactory means of apportioning and therefore of comparing rent, light and heat charges.

The School Committee will pay approximately between $100 and $125 annually for the expenses of the Newsboys' Court, which was established last fall. The City Council has no corresponding expense, and consequently no corresponding assistance in controlling its licensees.

As previously stated, the School Committee pays 8⅓ cents for badges and charges 25 cents, but the badges used in connection with licenses issued by the City Council cost 25 cents and are sold for the same sum, though the latter badge is not so good for the required purpose as the former. There is no apparent reason why the city should continue to waste 16⅔ cents on each badge given with licenses issued by the City Council.

The commission has confined itself in this report to the question of comparative costs and the reasons therefor, as the request of the City Council is limited to this particular question and as there is no inquiry relating to the present efficiency of the two departments with respect to the supervision of minors who receive licenses.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS.

President COLLINS called up unfinished business, No. 1, viz.:

On May 22 the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

On motion of Coun. KENNY it was voted that the order lie on the table, and Coun. KENNY presently moved that it be taken from the table.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I trust that Coun. Kenny will withdraw that motion.

President COLLINS—The Chair will advise the Council that debate is not in order on a motion to take from the table.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I merely wish to make a suggestion, if permitted, that Coun. Buckley has a case in the Probate Court and will be here at 4.15, and he may possibly desire to vote upon this order.

Coun. KENNY withdrew his motion to take the order from the table.

FINANCE.

Coun. KENNY, for the Committee on Finance, submitted the following

(1) Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred May 15) for loan of $5,000 for North End pier buildings—that the order ought not to pass.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, the Committee on Finance are of the opinion that this is a matter which should be taken up by the Executive Committee and charged to maintenance, rather than to negotiate a loan. Therefore they make that report.

(2) Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred April 14) for a loan of $63,000 for bridge at Meridian street, East Boston, —that the order ought not to pass (without prejudice).

Report accepted; order rejected.

TRANSFER OF CITY LAND.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the piece of land adjoining the William Eustis Playground in Ward 17, owned hy the City of Boston, containing 14,225 square feet, situated on Shirley street, he transferred to the custody of the Park Commissioners, and laid out and maintained hy the commission as a children's playground.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would say in this connection that the Ward 17 Playground, which contains in the vicinity of 240,000 square feet, is not of sufficient size to permit of a portion heing designated for the use of the smaller children; that there is a piece of land adjoining the playground, containing in excess of 14,000 feet, that has not heen used for any purpose hy the city since its taking a great many years ago, and which would serve the city admirahly provided sand boxes, swings, and so forth, are placed there. I sincerely trust that the Park Commission will see the wisdom of granting this reasonahle request.

The order was referred to the Committee on Puhlic Lands.

INVESTIGATION OF BAR ASSOCIATION CLAIMS.

Coun. CURLEY offered the following:

Order to Investigate Certain Claims of the Bar Association of the City of Boston on File in the City Auditor's Office Since 1885.

The President declared the preambles and order referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I was going to suggest to the Chair that, since this is a county matter, it be referred to the Committee on County Accounts, and I move reconsideration of reference to the Executive Committee as declared hy the Chair.

Reconsideration of the reference prevailed by a rising vote, 6 to 2, and Coun. CURLEY moved reference of the matter to the Committee on County Accounts.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, as an amendment to that motion I move that the resolutions be assigned to the second meeting from and after this meeting of the Council.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, if I were actuated hy a desire to place in an unfavorable light the Bar Association I would certainly favor the motion made hy Coun. Kenny, but heing actuated solely with a desire that the hest interests of the city be concerned and that the Bar Association he freed from the charges that indirectly are contained in these resolutions, I move that the matter he referred to the Committee on County Accounts. I feel that Coun. Kenny will see the wisdom of such a course.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I was merely wondering if the member who sits opposite had fully covered the situation. I thought it was a matter that ought to he read over hy the members of the Council and digested hefore we had it referred. I think before it is referred and before we vote upon it it ought to appear in the minutes, so that we may understand it thoroughly. Therefore, I move as an amendment that the matter lie on the table.

The motion to lay on the tahle was declared carried. Coun. CURLEY douhted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays.

The motion to lay on the tahle prevailed, yeas 6, nays 2.

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Buckley, Collins, Kenny, McDonald—6.
Nays—Coun. Hale, Smith—2.
Coun. HALE—Mr. President, there has been a great deal of talking upon a very small matter. I would like simply to move reconsideration of the laying of this order upon the tahle. As Coun. Curley has well said, this is a matter that involves serious charges. I think they ought to he investigated, hut I don't think they should he spread around in puhlic any more than is necessary until the investigation has heen made. This particular motion to lay on the tahle is the hest method of airing it hefore the puhlic that we could possihly find, hecause it appears on each of our calendars each week.
President COLLINS—The Chair would advise the Council that the only motion the Chair can entertain is the motion to take from the tahle, which is not dehatahle. Does the councilor make that motion?
Coun. HALE—I make that motion.
The motion to take from the tahle was lost hy a rising vote, 3 to 4, and President COLLINS offered an order.
Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I douht the vote.
President COLLINS—Other business having intervened, the douht is out of order.

DUTIES OF MR. ERNST.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Finance Commission be requested to inform the City Council, at its earliest convenience, as to the duties of Mr. George A. O. Ernst, one of its employees, and for what legitimate reason or reasons he draws money from the City of Boston.
Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, in connection with this order I desire to state that the Bureau of Research was estahlished about a year ago for the purpose of placing upon a husiness hasis the various departments of the city, and some $5,000 was appropriated by vote of the City Council for an investigation into the conduct of the School Department. His Excellency the Governor recently vetoed an order calling for certain increases in salary and retirements, desired hy teachers in the Boston puhlic schools. I feel that there would have been no occasion for any person's going to the Legislature and seeking the enactment of special legislation of the character set forth in that particular hill, provided Mr. Ernst and his Bureau of Research and the Finance Commission had made the thorough investigation that everybody hoped they would make into the conduct of the School Department. I have no desire to charge the School Department or any of the city departments with heing reckless in the expenditure of their appropriations, hut the fact stands forth significantly that the School Department this year, with seventy-one less pupils than there were during the last fiscal year, has heen spending $304,000 more for the maintenance and conduct of the department than was expended in the previous year. Business Agent Keough, in a report, states, under date of Tuesday, June 6, in the Boston Post, "That the annual appropriation for the schools for 1911–12 was $4,392,000. The expenditures for the first five months of 1911–12 were $1,666,550.64, an increase over the same period last year of $48,–432.61. The halance unexpended is $2,725,449.36." Doctor Leen suggested that an inventory of all school property should be taken. It had never heen done, he helieved. "There must he leaks that should be stopped up," he said. "How are we to know where they are? I think that the memhers of the Board of Apportionment do not know their husiness," said Doctor Leen, "except, perhaps, Mr. Keough or Mr. Porter." Doctor Leen is a gentleman whose reputation in this city and whose interest in our puhlic school affairs is as great as or greater than that of any memher of the School Committee, and if, as Doctor Leen points out, there are leaks in the School Department, I would like to have Mr. Ernst, through the Finance Commission, inform the City Council for what purpose he receives $5,000 per year, what service he renders the city for that $5,000 per year which he receives; and after he has answered those questions I should like to have the Finance Commission inform this hody in what manner the $5,000 appropriated by the City Council for an investigation into the conduct of the School Department was expended. If the result of their lahor, after an expenditure of $5,000 for investigation and after an expenditure of $5,000 additional for the salary of Mr. Ernst, results in an addition to the expenditures of the School Department of $304,000 during the last year, with seventy-one pupils less than in the preceding year, I should like to know what good service, what valuable service, is rendered the city hy Mr. Ernst, and I should like to ask Mr. Ernst, in all sincerity and in all friendship, if he does not honestly helieve that he is receiving his money under false pretences. Business Agent Keough stated that the task of making an inventory would he something colossal. There would he 3,000 schools to report upon, and in the Girls' High School alone there was a library of 25,000 volumes. Chairman Ellis said the teachers might be instructed to send in reports from each school. Chairman Ellis said he thought the idea of Doctor Leen a good one. He asked Doctor Leen to later on present a definite plan for having the work done. I should like to ask why Doctor Leen should he called upon to present a definite plan with relation to this particular work in view of the fact that the Finance Commission has heen investigating the School Department for pretty nearly a year, that $5,000 has been expended on that work of investigation, and that in addition $5,000 is paid annually to Mr. Ernst as chairman of the Bureau of Research. I would like to ask what real work they have accomplished, what benefits, what results have heen achieved in the matter of the conduct of the School Department. We have received no reports as to how that $5,000 was expended; we have received no reports from Mr. Ernst, except what leaks out occasionally,—such information as that Mr. Ernst is now in charge of the Finance Commission, and that Mr. Sullivan since his illness has been relegated to the background, that Mr. Sullivan is simply acting chairman and that Mr. Ernst is not only chairman of the Bureau of Research, but is chairman of the Finance Commission as well. If he is chairman of the Bureau of Research I would like to ask why business methods have not been applied in all the city departments, and I should like to ask in what particular city departments business methods have been applied since the Bureau of Research was estahlished? We have received no reports—at least I have not—from the Bureau of Research relative to their work. I understand that the Press have received no reports and I know of no citizen to whom they have reported. They certainly are answerable to somebody other than the Finance Commission. Reports should be submitted to the City Council of what they have done, what they propose doing, and what they think should he accomplished for the hest interests of the city. If Mr. Ernst is not attending strictly to his duties as chairman of the Bureau of Research, I helieve he owes it to himself as a reputable citizen of this community to resign his position as chairman of that bureau; and if Mr. John A. Sullivan is no longer really chairman of the Finance Commission I believe he should no longer draw the salary of $5.000, hut should surrender the position to Mr. Ernst. The fact remains that $5,000 was appropriated for an investigation of the conduct of the School Department, which it was thought would be of henefit to the city and would tend to a reduction in the running expenses of the School Department; that $5,000 has been paid to Mr. Ernst as chairman of the Bureau of Research, and that no report has come from the Bureau of Research relative to improvement in the conduct of any of the city departments. I helieve these questions should he answered hy the Finance Commission or hy Mr. Ernst, and if Mr. Ernst is a reputable citizen,—as some people in this community believe him to he,—I helieve he will resign his position as chairman of the Bureau of Research.
Coun. HALE—Mr. President, this order that Coun. Curley has suhmitted reads, as you will probably remember: "Ordered, That the Finance Commission be requested to inform the City Council, at its earliest convenience, as to the duties of Mr. George A. O. Ernst, one of its employees, and for what legitimate reason or reasons he draws money from the City of Boston."

Of course, there are two possible interpretations of that order. One is the interpretation that my Brother Curley has put on it, namely, that we have no confidence in Mr. Ernst or in his Bureau of Municipal Research. The other and the more liheral interpretation is simply that we are requesting information from the Finance Commission as to the progress of this new Bureau which we asked them to create a year ago. I, for one, think that the Bureau has been doing good work. I say that not from any knowledge I have, hut simply from my confidence in Mr. Ernst as a man.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, if I might he permitted, I would like to ask Coun. Hale, in view of the fact that he says they have done good work, to name ten specific recommendations that have heen made hy the Bureau of Research.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I shall he very glad to answer that question. I don't know of any specific recommendations that have been made to the City Council or the Mayor by the Bureau of Municipal Research. That hureau was created a year ago by the Finance Commission as a suhordinate hranch of the Finance Commission, and the hureau would he exceeding the scope of its authority if it made reports to anybody but its immediate head, the Finance Commission. It would he a good deal as if Mr. Leary or Mr. Dever should report to some outside person in regard to husiness they do for us or any thing connected with that business. The Bureau of Municipal Research and Mr. Ernst are suhordinate to the Finance Commission, and it is to the Finance Commission alone that they should report. I have no idea how many recommendations Mr. Ernst has made to the Finance Commission and I don't helieve anybody here has. I have no doubt the Finance Commission would he very glad to give the information requested hy this order; but I wish it distinctly understood that in recording my vote as in favor of the passage of this order I am simply putting my own interpretation upon it — that we wish information as to how this new hureau is progressing and that we are not in any way criticising Mr. Ernst or the new Bureau of Research.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would simply say to Coun. Hale that the order as drafted recognizes the fact that the Bureau of Research is subordinate to the Finance Commission and works under the commission. The order as drafted asks the Finance Commission for the information. Now there is one specific fact that is a matter of common knowledge in this city, and that is that while $5,000 was expended for the investigation of the School Department and while $5,000 is given to Mr. Ernst for his work in connection with the Bureau, the School Department shows an increase of $304,000 in expenditures more than a year ago, with seventy-one less pupils, and that there is no recommendation in regard to the matter from the Bureau of Research or the Finance Commission. It seems to me that is something that should he answered hy either the Bureau of Research or the Finance Commission, and I trust that the order will pass.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, just one more word on this question of the School Committee, I am sorry to say that I have not been ahle to find the record, but my recollection is that the $5,000 we appropriated for the investigation of the School Committee was in no way connected with the order for the establishment of the Bureau of Municipal Research. They were distinct matters. One was that $5,000 should he expended by the Finance Commission. I understand the reason why more progress has not been made in the school investigation is hecause one of the memhers is sick — and nohody understands hetter than Coun. Curley how sickness lays you up. But I understand that the investigation is under way and will he completed, although I don't know when. I do understand that they are using due diligence to get the thing done. I don't see that that has anything to do with the Bureau of Municipal Research hecause it was not understood, I think, that this Bureau of Municipal Research should have anything to do with the School Department.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, it seems to me rather unfair for Coun. Curley to come in and ask for information for himself personally. If the rest of us needed the information we would he glad to support the order, hut personally some of the rest of us do not see fit to ask what suhordinates are doing and what they are drawing their salaries for, I see no more reason why such questions should be asked in this case than in any other case. Mr. Curley can very easily get that information hy going personally and asking for it. If he wishes to find out what Mr. Ernst's duties are he can find out at the office of the commission, and there is no reason why he should hother us with these matters in open meeting. I sincerely hope the order will not pass. We have just as much right to inquire what any suhordinate's duties are and why he should draw his salary in the case of subordinates of any other department as in the case of Mr. Ernst.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I move to strike out the words "and for what legitimate reason or reasons he draws money from the City of Boston," so that the order will read: "Ordered, That the Finance Commission be requested to inform the City Council at its earliest convenience as to the duties of Mr. George A. O. Ernst, one of its employees."

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I sympathize with a sick investigator. I realize how unfortunate it is for any person in authority in any of the city departments that this gentleman should have heen taken sick. It is a very unfortunate circumstance, and in all prohahility if he continues to he ill for the next five years the report will he delayed. But in that case is there any need of Mr. Ernst drawing his $5,000 a year? I regret sincerely that my distinguished friend from the Back Bay should question my right as a member of the Council to ask for information. I would remind him that I was elected a memher of the City Council at large in this city, elected to represent the entire city, the nearly 700,000 men, women and children of the city. They are interested in the schools. Everyone is interested in our schools. The just pride of Boston is in her educational opportunities and in her institutions of learning. Certainly we are interested, and interested vitally, in all that pertains to the welfare of the children who attend those schools. I do not feel that this is an unreasonahle request to make. I ask why it is that $304,000 more money is required to run the schools of the city with seventy-one less pupils than in the preceding year. That seems to be a reasonahle request. I appreciate the position that Mr. Smith takes in questioning my right to discuss that particular proposition.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, may I ask Coun. Curley whether he is suggesting an amendment to his original order?

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, if I felt that order was improperly drawn I would have drawn it differently. But having drawn it to my own satisfaction I cannot conceive of any good reason why it should be amended,—and apparently up to the present time my distinguished colleague on the other side of the Chamber has not seen any good reason himself why it should he amended. However, the light may hreak on him before we get through discussing the proposition, and he may suggest many amendments. There is, however, but one amendment hefore us at the present time, and I propose to discuss that amendment. With relation to the amendment suhmitted by the gentleman on the other side of the Chamber (Coun. Kenny) I don't feel that those words should he stricken out. I suppose if I approved of striking out those words the order would he passed as originally presented, hut I don't feel, in justice to myself, that I should permit the occasion to go hy without discussing this particular amendment as presented by the gentleman on the other side of the Chamher. I contend that there can he no legitimate reason for any man receiving a salary of $5,000 a year from the City of Boston—and it is a fairly suhstantial salary—unless he achieves results in his particular department. If it had heen possible to conduct the School Department, in consequence of the work of the Finance Commission and of the Bureau of Research, for $304,000 less in the last fiscal year than in the preceding year, with less pupils or even with more pupils, I should say that Mr. Ernst was entitled to many times more than $5,000. But the fact remains that it has cost $304,000 more to conduct the schools during the last year, after an investigation covering nearly a year, in spite of the sickness of one of the investigators, and $5,000 during that interval has heen paid to Mr. Ernst as chairman of this particular department, the Bureau of Research, and $5,000 has heen expended directly by the Finance Commission in addition to such other expenditures as they might make, in consequence of that research. The only thing they have been able to accomplish is that we find a deficit of $304,000 in that department, that $304,000 more has heen expended in the School Department in the last year with less pupils than was expended in the preceding year. Now, my idea of a Bureau of Research may differ from that of Mr. Ernst and from that of many other distinguished reformers in the community. I helieve such a bureau should devote its energies to big things. I do not believe they are justified, like the gound hog, in chasing mole hills, but that they should go after things of importance, that affect the city. Investigations might he made of some of the city departments that would show where, without discharging employees, they might save many thousands of dollars to the city. Then, we have a $9,000 official whose office is at the top of this building, and there is the question of permitting him to conduct his own department without heing called hefore the investigating department and told that he can go home at a certain hour hut must be hack at work the next morning. Perhaps the hardest working public hody in this city at the present time is our Chamher of Commerce, and we all rejoice in the work they are doing. It is a good work and a necessary work and is going to be fruitful of results. Now, on account of the attitude of the Finance Commission, the Commissioner of Puhlie Works, who receives $9,000 a year for accepting the advice of the Finance Commission, the memhers of the City Council, the 1915 Association and the various other municipal bodies, who is not permitted to devote the amount of time and energy that he should devote——

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I rise to a point of order. What has the Boston Chamher of Commerce got to do with Mr. Ernst?

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I shall lead up to that presently.

President COLLINS—The Chair would advise the Council that the only motion before the Counеil is Coun. Kenny's motion to amend.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I appreciate that, and I am trying to adhere to the proposition hefore us. The Finance Commission makes a recommendation to Mr. Rourke that he remain at home, instead of going to Europe, although as a consequence of his going to Europe, desiring to take with him the engineer of the Finance Commission for research work, the same work that Mr. Ernst is engaged in, we might find out what would be the hest method of spending two and one-half million dollars for sanitary improvements in connection with the incineration, destruction or disposal of refuse, garbage, etc.; and it might have some hearing on the expenditure recently made hy the City of Boston of $300,000 for lighting purposes. I contend that Mr. Ernst and the Finance Commission might he hetter employed than in advising a gentleman of reputation as an engineer, whom we have gone down to Panama to get to come here hecause of his great reputation. In spite of that reputation and in spite of the large salary we pay him we do not permit him to run his own department. We allow the Finance Commission to advise him and allow the research hodies to advise him,—and even the female organization, together with the several other organizations whose membership is furnished largely from out of town. In consequence of all this advice he has not a chance to perform his duty as he would like to do. My point is this, that Mr. Ernst has not accomplished results as chairman of the Bureau of Research. If he has not accomplished results, then the expenditure for his salary has not heen hased upon any legitimate reason. He has not received a salary for any legitimate reason, hecause he has not accomplished results. If, as my friend Hale suggests, he has reported directly to the Finance Commission, it is not unreasonahle to suppose that the Finance Commission would submit the report of the Research Bureau to this Council. But we have not received any such report or reports. Consequently, all we know is that we are appropriating a certain sum of money each year for a research hureau, which is supposed to be for the purpose of collecting certain information, and we get no information, no eommunication. No communication and no information in regard to any matter of inquiry is heing received from Mr. Ernst. I helieve a proper work for a research hureau that has a reason for existence, and has a legitimate right to draw its salary regularly, is the examination into the business methods in city departments that will result in such economy as will hring ahout a reduction in the tax rate and in the debt of the city. In consequence of the research work that has heen done we have not had a reduction in our tax rate or in the net debt of the city, hut have had an increase of $304,000 for the conduct of one department. If that is the situation, then I am opposed to the amendment as suhmitted hy Coun. Kenny.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, of course I shall be glad to vote for an order calling for a statement as to an expenditure of an increased amount of money by the School Committee. But that, of course, is in no way contained in the present order. All discussion of that is out of point. Coming hack to the original order, I can see no reason why we should investigate one employee of one city department any more than we should any other employee of any other city department. Therefore I hope this amendment will not he adopted, as this information can he found by any person wishing it from the proper department. But to take up the time of the Council investigating the duties of one employee of one department is, it seems to me, entirely out of place.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I regret greatly that my friend Smith on the other side of the Chamher regards the expenditure of an additional $304,000 of the city's money in the same light that the average citizen might regard thirteen cents of Chinese money. It is something that I personally would like some information ahout. Every citizen of Boston wants to know ahout that $304,000 increase in the conduct of the School Department, and they are entitled to have the information. They pay taxes for the conduct of the School Department, for its running expenses, and they are entitled to information in regard to that increase. After an investigation covering a year no information has been sent broadcast to the citizens as to the reason for the increase.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, again I should like to ask Coun. Curley whether he is suggesting an amendment to this order in addition to the inquiry about Mr. Ernst,— making, in addition, an inquiry as to the expenditures of money hy the School Department. If he is not, of course his arguments on this suhject are not in point.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it seems to me the Congressman from the Tenth District should have reserved his criticism until after he had ohtained this information . He offers a very severe criticism of the incumbent of the office and then calls for information. I propose to vote in favor of my amendment, hecause if the order is going to pass this Council I should like to see it pass in proper form. But when the order, after the adoption of the amendment,— if the amendment is adopted,— comes hefore the Council, I shall vote against the order as well.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would say in answer to Coun. Kenny that my criticism is in no sense so severe as the criticism of Doctor Leen himself. Doctor Leen says that an inventory of all school property should he taken, and it has not heen done. He said, "There must he leaks that should he stopped up." Why, if there are leaks, does not the Research Bureau stop those leaks? Why, in face of such an investigation, should it have cost $304,000 more to run the School Department this year than last year? That is the whole story.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it seems to me if my friend from Ward 17 desires to inquire into this matter he should do so. He is reading from a newspaper report, which may or may not he true. We are not passing on that. I should think he would himself go and make his own investigation and then, if he wishes, offer his resolution,— perhaps something similar to the resolution he offered a while ago in regard to the Bar Association. Let the matter he investigated, let him investigate it himself. Let him refer it to some committee of which he is chairman. It seems to me that this is not offered in good faith, that this is merely an attempt to give the member of Congress from the Tenth District a chance to air his sarcasm at the expense of one of the hoards of the government. I do not helieve the order is offered in good faith, so I shall vote ultimately against it. But I shall vote first for my amendment.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I do not feel— and I say it in all sincerity— that Coun. Kenny questions the veracity of an article that appeared six days ago relating to Boston citizens, in a reputahle newspaper like the Boston Post, and that has not since been denied. I do not feel that he questions in any degree the veracity of any statement contained therein. I do not helieve he does. The fact remains that the particular work, so far as I have heen ahle to ascertain, of the Bureau of Research is to find out in regard to such questions as whether a teamster was driving a team or doing lahoring work. It has not heen its practice to look into large operations which should he matters of research, and the investigation into which might result in material benefit to the city.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I do not even now see how anything is going to he gained along the lines just indicated hy passing this resolution. The memher from Ward 17 refers to an interview with Doctor Leen, which sets forth Doctor Leen's strictures on somehody else. But as I understand the purport of the resolution it is to ascertain what the duties are of one of the incumbents of an office under the Finance Commission. I do not quite see the eonnection. If the member desires some inquiry made into the subject matter which Doctor Leen is discussing, that is one thing. But he does not. He is merely now throwing out some insinuations that some one is not earning his salary. I don't quite see what that has to do with Doctor Leen's charges. Therefore, as I have stated, I trust that ultimately the resolution will he defeated.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I have no desire to prolong the discussion, hut I have stated specifically from the start my position in regard to this matter, and Coun. Kenny persistently—and I do not question his sincerity at all— refuses to see my position. I have stated that $5,000 was expended for an investigation of the School Department; that $5,000 additional was expended for the maintenance of the Bureau of Research; that no report has been submitted to the City Council or to any other hody, as far as we are aware, and certainly no report relative to a change in administration that would result in a reduction of the running expenses of the School Department; that, on the contrary, they have increased their expenses in that department some $304,000 in the last year over the preceding year, with seventy-one fewer pupils; further, that Doctor Leen, a memher of the School Committee, said, in a puhlic interview, that there are leaks in the School Department and that they should he stopped. Now, my contention has been that we should look into this matter and that we have a right to know something about it. I suppose if the Superintendent of Public Buildings were given an appropriation of $10,000 to put an addition onto some one of the city's huildings and did not put it on, the Finance Commission would speedily investigate to find out what had become of that $10,000. Now, then, if $10,000 was appropriated and spent for an investigation of the administration of the School Department, and in consequence of that expenditure the cost of maintenance of the School Department has increased $304,000 in one year, instead of being reduced, certainly we want to know what became of that $10,000, and we are justified in asking the question. I think it is a perfectly legitimate and proper request.

Coun. KENNY'S amendment, to strike out the words "and for what legitimate reason or reasons he draws money from the City of Boston" was defeated by a rising vote, 4 to 4.

The question came on the passage of the order as offered by Coun. Curley, and Coun. BALLANTYNE called for the yeas and nays.

The order was rejected, yeas 3, nays 6.

Yeas—Coun. Buckley, Curley, Hale—3.

Nays—Coun. Attridge, Ballantyne, Collins, Kenny, McDonald, Smith—6.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I move a reconsideration of the vote just taken, hoping the same will prevail. On the question of reconsideration I desire to say that I believe it is the duty of some of the members who have voted against this order to present some order that probably will be couched in language less offensive to the reform element in the community, but that may be the means of securing for the puhlic of Boston the information to which they are entitled. On the question of reconsideration, there is very little I can add to what has been said. The fact remains——

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, may I ask the councilor a question?

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, it is useless to attempt to answer questions asked hy the gentleman. I shall not yield. The fact remains that the public are entitled to this information. There has been $304,000 increase in the expenses of the conduct of one city department. If $30,000 increase took place in the Collector's office every man in the office would be on the grill and would have to testify under oath before the Finance Commission. If there were an increase of $30,000 for the lahorers in any hranch of the Street Department, every suhforeman, foreman, inspector and timekeeper would he on the grill before the Finance Commission and would be compelled to answer under oath. But this is one of the sacred institutions where the increase has occurred—the School Department—and it should not he investigated! Now, if $304,000 has been squandered in the School Department, with seventy-one pupils less than in the preceding year, it is a reasonahle assumption, based on the position of the memhers of this Board this afternoon, that there is collusion hetween Mr. Ernst, the Finance Commission and those in charge of the School Department, and that they will not brook investigation and do not dare to invite investigation. On the question of reconsideration I want to say that the puhlic of Boston are entitled to this information. They should have it. If there has heen any irregularity in the conduct of the School Department, it should become puhlic property. We have heard rumors and we hear them every day ahout collusion in the matter of purchase of school furniture, in the matter of the purchase of school furnishings, and of everything else connected with the conduct of the schools, and an investigation covering a period of a year has not disclosed a single irregularity. Why? If there were an investigation of the Collector's office covering a period of one week, every newspaper in Boston on Sunday morning would receive advance copies of the report of the Finance Commission—even hefore the City Council, a hody that would be expected to receive such reports, had received them. The same would be the case if there were an investigation made of a branch of the Street Department. But this is the School Committee! It does not matter whether they spend half a million dollars or a million dollars more. They are a sacred institution; they are a part of the great Good Government organization; they are a part of the Public School Association. We must protect them, and they are protected hy the votes of this Board.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I fail to see yet what this is all ahout. The School Department is a separate hranch of the government. It is made so hy statute. The administration of the schools of Boston is in the hands of the Boston School Committee, elected hy the people of Boston. What right has the City Council of Boston to investigate the School Committee?

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, if the gentleman will yield——

Coun. KENNY—Certainly.

Coun. CURLEY—I have not asked that the City Council investigate the School Department. The gentleman is an attorney. He should realize the language in which the order is couched. It does not ask for any investigation of the School Department. It simply asks information from the Finance Commission, and if the City Council had not appropriated $5,000 for this particular investigation perhaps we would not he justified in asking.

President COLLINS—The gentleman is yielding for a question.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, the gentleman arose in his place and addressed the Council and made a very severe attack upon the administration of the schools. That was the purport of the reason he advanced for offering the order, and that was my understanding of his argument—that he was attacking the administration of the schools and the expenditure of the school money. Now, it is true that at one time it was suggested that the appropriation for the Finance Commission be increased in order that they might select some official to make some inquiry, some investigation into the school administration, and, so far as I am advised, they have done so. It is the right of the memher from Ward 17 to go to the Finance Commission and satisfy himself as to what was done in consequence of that order passed by the City Council appropriating money and creating the bureau itself. Now he comes in here and is criticising a particular official. I don't think that that criticism was intended in good faith. As I have already said, it was first preceded hy a very severe attack hy the speaker upon a certain individual. Then he, with more enthusiasm than I have seen him show since he returned to us, entered into a very severe attack upon the conduct of the schools. I say again that it is not the duty of the Boston City Council to attack the Boston School Board of the administration of the schools. That department is a separate branch of the government, created under statute, and entitled to a certain portion of the tax levy, regardless of what our feelings may be in the matter. I don't think really the gentleman has helped his order any by his last effort.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I have too much respect for the understanding of Coun. Kenny and his training as an attorney to think he is sincere in what he has just said. If he is sincere he must he exceedingly dense, and I don't think he is. I have not called for an investigation hy the City Council of the Boston School Department. But if I did introduce such an order I would be acting perfectly within my rights. The money expended for the conduct of the School Department is raised by taxation. It is the money of the Boston taxpayers. We are here as their representatives, acting as members of the City Council. If this $304,000 that was expended was my personal money, then I would be justified in going to the Finance Commission and asking that information for my personal benefit. But it is not my money alone. It is the money of every taxpayer of Boston. They are entitled to that information, and unless you honestly believe there is not something rotten in Denmark you cannot deny them that information.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, the City Council of Boston has no more right to investigate the Boston School Committee than the Boston School Committee has to investigate the City Council. Under authority of law they have an equal standing with us.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, if the gentleman will yield, I was going to ask Mr. Kenny to define under what section of the charter the City Council waives any of its rights with relation to the expenditure of the city's money by any city department?

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I was going on to say that by operation of law the Boston School Board is entitled to a certain portion of the tax levy of the City of Boston, and the City Council cannot by its action deprive the School Committee of the right to appropriate and spend that money. It is a portion of the tax levy. They have the same right, when it is determined how much money shall be set apart for school purposes and when that money is set apart, to appropriate money for school purposes that we have to appropriate money on requisition of the Mayor. Therefore, I say again, although the gentleman's order does not call for an investigation of the schools,—I am well aware of that,—that his argument this afternoon is a criticism of the conduct of the schools; and I say again that this body has no right to inquire into the administration of the Boston schools.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, of course we are now talking of reconsidering our action and are really not debating the Boston school situation. While it is always a pleasure in this patient body to listen to the oratory of Coun. Curley—especially during a thunder storm, when all the elements yield their quota as a background—nevertheless, would it not answer his purposes just as well if his remarks were written out and given to the papers? Personally we can all find out about Mr. Ernst's duties if we wish to do so. But I would remind the gentleman that we were to give a railway hearing here, which we have advertised, at four o'clock, that it is now five o'clock, and that people interested in that hearing are waiting to be heard. While we are all spellbound by the oratory of the gentleman, still we would like to have him cut it short.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I shall vote for Coun. Curley's motion to reconsider for the same reason that I voted for the original order. It is merely a request for information with regard to this particular bureau which we asked the Finance Commission to create a year ago. Necessarily there is no implication that we have no confidence in Mr. Ernst. If the order had simply gone through without anything being said, I do not feel that there would be any implication of that kind. Certainly there is no such implication in my mind in voting for the order. We can have a reply from the Finance Commission. Personally I believe the Bureau of Municipal Research has done good work, and if we get a reply to that effect and it appears in the records, probably everybody will be satisfied. For that reason I shall vote for reconsideration now.

The motion to reconsider was lost by a rising vote, 3 to 5.

PURCHASE OF LIGHTING EQUIPMENT.

President COLLINS called up special assignment, viz.:

5. Resolved, That in the opinion of the City Council the city's interests require the prompt purchase and installation of the gas lamps provided for by the loan order for $300,000; and the purchase and installation of suitable automatic lighting and extinguishing devices as rapidly as experience with said devices shall warrant.

Passed.

LAND TRANSFER, WARD 21.

President COLLINS called up past assignment, viz.:

6. Ordered, That the care and custody of that strip of tree-planted land lying on the east side of Elm Hill avenue, between Schuyler street and Seaver street, Ward 21, be transferred from the Public Works Department to the Superintendent of Public Grounds.

Passed.

CITY PLANNING.

Coun. HALE called up special assignment, viz.:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested, in the name and behalf of the City of Boston, to extend an invitation for the holding of the City Planning Conference for the year 1912 in the City of Boston.

Passed.

BOSTON PLANNING COMMISSION.

Coun. HALE offered the following:

City of Boston.

In the year Nineteen Hundred and Eleven.

An Ordinance establishing a Boston Planning Commission.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1. That there shall be appointed by the Mayor a commission or board to consist of five persons selected as follows: one from three proposed by Boston–1915; one from three proposed by the Boston Chamber of Commerce; one from three proposed by the Boston Society of Architects; one from three proposed by the United Improvement Association; and one who shall be the chairman of said commission from three proposed by the foregoing four members of the commission. The commissioners so appointed shall constitute a commission for the purposes hereinafter stated, which shall be known as the Boston Planning Commission. At its first meeting said commission, with the exception of the chairman, shall by any method it deems fit, divide itself into two groups, the first of which groups shall go out of office at the end of three years and the second at the end of four years. The chairman shall go out of office at the end of five years. Thereafter the terms of all the commissioners shall be five years. Appointments shall be made to vacancies in the commission in the same manner as was made the appointment of the commission whose place becomes vacant. The persons appointed as commissioners shall be fitted either by professional education, or by training, or by experience in the conduct of business, to exercise sound judgment in the matters intrusted to them, and to give to the Mayor and City Council competent advice as to the proper order and cost of public improvements and the expenditures of public funds thereon. The chairman shall receive a salary of $5,000 per year; the other members shall serve without compensation. The commissioners shall have authority to employ recognized experts in city planning at such compensation within the limits of the budget approved by the Mayor and Council as the commission may deem proper. The commission shall have authority to employ such assistance as it deems necessary in the making of maps, plans, and estimates of costs hereinafter provided.

Sect. 2. The subjects which said commission is to consider and upon which it shall from time to time give advice and information accompanied by such maps, plans, and estimates of cost, as it deems necessary, shall be as follows: Such developments and improvements in the City of Boston as have to do with the structural and sanitary safety of buildings and kindred matters usually included under the head of building laws; the prevention and relief of congestion of population and traffic; the control of fire hazard; the proper distribution of buildings for purposes of residence, manufacturing, trade and transportation; the beautification of the city, the preservation of its natural and historic features; the extension of water supply and of sewerage disposal; the preservation, development and management of lands and buildings for public uses; the co-ordination of transportation, whether of passengers or freight, and whether by railroads, railways, highways, or water; the development of the water front; and the distribution of telephone, gas, electric light and other public utilities, and such other matters as may properly be understood to come within the scope of city planning. In considering these subjects, special attention shall be paid to such improvements as require the expenditure of money by the Mayor and City Council, such as for example the erection of public buildings of all kinds; the purchase of new parks and playgrounds; the improvement of old parks and playgrounds; the development of a sewer system; the construction of new streets; the rearrangement of old streets; the development of a high pressure fire system; and the destruction or reduction of waste. This enumeration shall not be construed to exclude the consideration of other matters properly within the jurisdiction of the commission. The commissioners shall consider these various subjects in co-operation, when necessary, with similar bodies in other cities and towns in the metropolitan district, and in the metropolitan district itself, and shall also take into consideration plans proposed by private individuals and business organizations in the city.

Sect. 3. The commission shall annually on or before the third Wednesday of October in each year make a report to the Mayor and City Council of its proceedings up to and including the thirtieth day of September preceding embodying therein specific recommendations for improvements to be made during the ensuing year with estimates of the cost of the same, and with such plans and maps as may be needed for the proper presentation of its conclusions. In making these specific recommendations the commission shall take into consideration the amount of money available within the debt limit for the particular year; shall recommend the methods of executing and paying for such improvements as it may suggest; and shall state which, if any, of its recommendations shall involve an expenditure of money outside the debt limit. The commission may issue from time to time such other reports as it may deem advisable.

Sect. 4. The salaries and expenses of said Boston Planning Commission shall be paid by the City of Boston.

Sect. 5. This ordinance shall take effect upon its passage.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I would like to say just a word in regard to this ordinance. My purpose in introducing it is substantially to provide for a commission that shall make plans for the development of the city. We shall thereby have a chance to make a broad, systematic plan of development and will be able to spend the city's money for the development of the city along intelligent lines. We spend a great deal of money in a haphazard way,—and in saying this I am not referring to this Council but to past city governments which have done that more particularly. Much of the money that has been spent has really been wasted. My purpose is to get a commission that will formulate a broad plan which can be followed. This bill provides for a combination of experts in city planning with representatives of popular bodies like the Chamber of Commerce, so that we will not get on one hand the report of experts who do not understand local conditions and will not get on the other hand the opinion alone of men who do understand local conditions but who do not understand about city planning. My second purpose is to combine the preparation of these plans with the work of experts and boards having the spending power. Heretofore we have had in Boston commissions who have made recommendations and reports which have simply been filed away and that has been the end of them. They have been in libraries but nobody has read them or has known anything about them, and so far as practical results are concerned they have been deadwood. This ordinance provides that each year this commission shall make special recommendations to the spending power, the Mayor and City Council, with reference to certain definite improvements to be made in the ensuing year, some idea of the probable cost of those improvements being given and the reasons why the work should be done and the money should be spent. In this way I think we will get rid of a lot of deadwood reports and will combine the work of men who understand the situation and who know what should be done with the work of the bodies having the spending power. I think the time will come, if this ordinance is passed, when it will mean a great advance for the city.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

In connection with the above, Coun. KENNY submitted the following letter which he had received, and on his motion it was ordered placed on the records:

Office of the City Solicitor,
Philadelphia, June 2, 1911.

Thomas J. Kenny, Esq.,
28 State Street, Boston, Mass.:

My dear Sir,—I have your letter of May 24 in regard to the holding of the conference on city planning in Philadelphia.

Two organizations of individuals, namely, the City Parks Association and the Fairmount Park Art Association, invited the conference to Philadelphia and agreed to appropriate $250 each for its expenses. Thereafter Mayor Reyburn formally invited the conference in the name of the city of Philadelphia to meet here. The conference accepted these invitations, and thereupon Mayor Reyburn secured an appropriation to hold an exhibition of city planning at the same time that the conference met. This exhibition was altogether a city affair with which the conference as an organization had nothing whatever to do. Of course, the fact that many members of the conference are men who have been doing city planning work enabled the assembling of the material for the exhibition easier than it otherwise would have been. The Mayor also agreed to secure the expenses of some individuals from abroad whom it was desired to have attend the conference. Two of them accepted his invitation and they were paid $250 each toward their expenses.

The cost of the exhibition so far has been in the neighborhood of $12,000, but, as you know, the City of Boston itself expended $1,500 in sending its own exhibition and the city of Chicago has spent as much in addition to the sum paid toward the exhibition of that exhibit by the city. Owing to the city planning exhibition that is being held in Dresden now, and will be held all summer, it was impossible to get as much of the foreign city planning as we would liked to have had. This would probably have added upwards of $10,000 if we could have gotten it.

The Mayor appointed a number of the city officials as hosts of the conference, and he also asked a number of organizations to act as hosts and to appoint their president and one other as their representatives. This was done. I inclose herewith a description of the tour, which gives the names of these different officials and organizations. Four or five organizations, such as the University of Pennsylvania, Society of Colonial Dames, etc., gave receptions to the conference, the cost of which was of course borne by the particular organization.

If you wish any further information please command me.

Very truly yours,
ANDREW WRIGHT CRAWFORN,
Assistant City Solicitor.

SYSTEM OF ASSESSING NEW YORK CITY.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the Finance Commission be requested to investigate and report to the City Council, at its earliest convenience, as to the system of assessing in the city of New York.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, my reason for introducing this order is because some time ago I asked the Finance Commission to investigate the Somers system, so called, under which Cleveland, Columbus, Denver, East St. Louis, Springfield, Illinois and Joliet are now assessed. I have found since then that the system of assessing in the city of New York is much the same as the Somers system. The matter has been discussed informally by men interested in municipal affairs here in town, and has been taken up now by the Boston Common. It seems to me a report by the Finance Commission on one of these systems without also taking into account the other would be only a partial report. The two systems are very much alike, except that one is a little more elastic than the other. Either system would do away in large measure with the faultfinding that now exists with regard to assessments here. For that reason I think an investigation into this system can very well be joined with an inquiry into the Somers system by the Finance Commission.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, there are so few members present at this time that I move reference of the order to the Executive Committee.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

ROPING OFF OF PLAYGROUND.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the City Messenger be authorized to rope off the Perkins Street Playground, Ward 22, for athletic games by the Acme Athletic Club, on Saturday, June 17, 1911, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 12 o'clock noon; the expense attending the same to be charged to the appropriation for Mayor, Public Celebrations, June Seventeenth.

Passed.

PRINTING OF RAILWAY LEASES.

Coun. SMITH offered an order—That the various leases made hy the City of Boston to the Boston Elevated Railway Company and now in force be printed in a separate city document, expense attending same to he charged to the appropriation for city documents.
Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, my reason for offering this order is hecause there is hefore the Legislature now a measure to extend the leases of the Boston Elevated Railway. This is perhaps one of the most important measures that will come before us this year, as there is a referendum on the bill, referring the matter to the City Council. It is for that reason that I have asked that these leases be printed in a city document for our hetter information. It seems to me we cannot prepare ourselves on this matter any too soon.
The order was passed.

REMOVAL OF TREES.

Coun. BUCKLEY offered an order—That the Board of Street Commissioners he requested to remove tree in front of estate No. 1658 Dorchester avenue, Ward 24, as location of said tree in sidewalk hinders building operations.
Passed.
President COLLINS offered an order—That the Board of Street Commissioners he requested to remove a tree in front of the estate No. 147 Pleasant street, Ward 20, as the same is in a very unsafe condition.
Passed.

RECESS.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. KENNY, at 5.21 p. m., to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair.
The members reassembled in the Chamber and were called to order hy President COLLINS at 6.56 p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Executive Committee, suhmitted the following:
